CHERRY: Five dollars a year.

COURIER: Whom should interested persons call?

CHERRY: Sandy Pitcher, Clarence Peters or Caroline Zniziki.

COURIER: When do you meet?

CHERRY: Our next meeting will be Thursday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the lounge at La Croft. Everyone is invited.

COURIER: What do you need besides members?

CHERRY: We especially need costumes from all periods.

COURIER: How did you become interested in theatrical groups?

CHERRY: Well, I majored in broadcasting and business at Central Michigan University, and worked at the campus radio station there. Now I work for station WVOY here in Charlevoix and do a little production, a little writing and a little of everything. My title is Traffic Department Director, which involves scheduling and setting up daily programs. Radio work is fun. I meet a lot of interesting people.

COURIER: Are you a native of Charlevoix?

CHERRY: No, I grew up in East Jordan but live in Charlevoix now.

Photographer Tells About New Book

Bob Miles will be the featured speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix Historical Society on Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

Discussion will center on the forthcoming publication by the Society of the book, "Bob Miles' Charlevoix – a Century in Pictures". One of the picture stories in the book concerns the burning of the steamer "Champlain" in 1887 as it approached the Charlevoix harbor. Miles will tell how he assembled pictures and news items relating to this chapter of local history.

The March meeting of the Society was cancelled due to snow and ice so Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff's talk on the Old Dixie Highway was not given but will be scheduled at a later date. Mrs. Wexstaff welcomes anecdotes from those who may have traveled this pioneer highway which extended from Mackinaw City to Miami, Florida.

Looking for a New Job?

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) has published a new brochure, "How to Find a Job," a comprehensive guide on job hunting.

"How to Find a Job" provides detailed information in such areas as:

"Taking Stock" – a review of your assets and abilities in work experience, aptitudes, education, personal traits, physical capabilities, leisure activities and vocational goals.

"Playing the Field" – ideas for choosing a career, including how to obtain vocational information and how to critique your assets against job requirements in each occupation.

"Where the Jobs Are" – sources for finding potential jobs, including MESC's Job Service offices, newspaper ads, unions, directories and professional associations.

"Papers and Applications" – a guide to preparing effective resumes, completing application forms and writing effective letters of application.

"The Interview" – hints on selling yourself at an employment interview, with tips on preparing for the interview, presenting yourself and talking to the employer.

"You've Got the Job" – suggestions for keeping and advancing yourself on the job.

The brochure is available at the library and take-home copies may be obtained from the MESC Job Service office in Petoskey.

Sleeping Bear Has Jobs

The National Park Service will hire 28 young men and women this spring to work improving Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore.

All young people ages 15 through 18 are eligible for employment without regard to social, economic, racial or ethnic backgrounds. They must have no history of serious criminal or other antisocial behavior; be physically qualified to participate fully in the various work and training projects of the Youth Conservation Corps program; have or be able to obtain a work permit as required under the laws of the State; and have a social security number.

The Sleeping Bear Dunes work shop will function as a five day residential camp. The week of activities will consist of five eight-hour days. Enrollees will be paid for 30 hours each week and 10 hours will be devoted to environmental awareness activities. Enrollees must return home on weekends when the camp is not operating. The camp will be in session from June 21 to August 13.

Applications for jobs may be obtained from Ron Smith, Information Officer, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926, or from Superintendent, Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore, 400½ Main Street, Frankfort, Michigan 49635.

Closing date for receipt of applications is April 9.

Some of you have asked me what I know about the yarns that have been reported contaminated with Anthrax. The following information is from Virginia Knauer's Consumer News letter.

"Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), in cooperation with Center for Disease Control (CDC), has issued a warning to home weavers that certain skeins or balls of yarn containing animal wool or hair may be contaminated with anthrax spores. Anthrax is an acute bacterial disease that can be fatal to humans if untreated. consumers can bet the disease by touching a product that has antrax spores or by breathing in the spores or swallowing spores by drinking from a product contaminated with anthrax.

According to CPSC officials, the contaminated yarn includes camel hair, goat hair or sheepswool in varying combinations. Yarn is coarse & thick, may be natural in color (white, gray, tan or red) or dyed. Imported by Tahki Imports Ltd., Teaneck, NJ & Creative Handweavers Inc. Los Angeles, CA, from Pakistan, the skeins were distributed nationwide. They are commonly sold in plastic bags & are most often used to make handicrafts, such as wall hangings & macrame objects. Yarn retails for between $4 and $7 a ball. The balls imported by Tahki have a label which says: "Tahki Imports, Ltd., imported from Pakistan"; those imported by Creative bear no label.

What to do: If you bought any yarn imported from Pakistan – or a product made from this yarn–you should seal it in an airtight double plastic bag & call your local or state health department for disposal instructions. CPSC warns not to try to sterilize the product, burn it or throw it away because of the risk of spreading the spores to yourself or to others. Further, CPSC says that consumers turning in yarn or items made from the yarn to health departments should get a receipt with the following information: name of yarn owner; date product was turned in; description of product; & name of health department. Receipt should be taken to the place of purchase for a refund.

For further information about the contaminated yarn, contact CPSC's toll free hotline at 800-638-2666 (Maryland consumers should call 800-492-2937)."

Charlevoix Couple Exchange Wedding Vows Recently

Mr. and Mrs. Skeel

The Assembly of God church was the scene Saturday, March 20, of the wedding of Della Wolgamott and Paul D. Skeel.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wolgamott and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Skeel.

The Rev. Donald Schorsch officiated at the candlelight service in the presence of more than 150 guests. Mrs. Dawson Way, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride, following a family tradition, chose to wear her mother's wedding gown which had been worn earlier by her sisters. Made of ivory lace and satin, it featured a fitted bodice, long sleeves and a full skirt with an overshirt of sheer nylon. Her lace trimmed mantilla was made by her mother. She carried a bridal bouquet of orchids and baby's breath.

Her sister, Mrs. David Kimble, served as her matron of honor. She wore a full length gown of blue and ivory striped cotton styled with short sleeves. Her bouquet was of mums in various shades of blue.

Stacy Skeel, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl wore an ivory and blue striped dress and carried a miniature bouquet of blue mums. Tony Wolgamott was ringbearer. John Telgenhof of East Jordan was the candle lighter.

Phillip Skeel assisted his brother as best man. David Kimble and Robert Dwyer seated the guests.

Mrs. Wolgamott selected a floor length gown of blue double knit for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Skeel, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green double knit gown.

A reception followed at the Fellowship Hall of the church with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Drost as master and mistress of ceremonies. Ralph Shonk of Massilon, Ohio, cousin of the bride, sang two solos and Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Milligan and Dale Martin presented special selections. Mrs. Marvin Telgenhof of East Jordan served the cake; Mrs. Phillip Skeel the coffee and punch and Mrs. Gordon Skeel and Lori Skeel assisted with the gifts.

After a brief wedding trip, the couple is at home at 112½ Clinton St.

Both are 1975 graduates of the Charlevoix high school. The bride is employed at the Charlevoix Elementary School. The bridegroom is employed at Lexalite Corp.

Wedding guests were present from Ohio and Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Skeel hosted a rehearsal dinner at Bouke's Steak and Stein on Friday evening.

Debra Williams Marries Don Cunningham

IRONTON–Debra Williams and Donald Cunningham exchanged their wedding vows at a double ring service solemnized at the Ironton Congregational church Saturday evening.

The Rev. James W. Larsen of Boyne City and Harold Kruse of Eastport officiated at the ceremony in the presence of 150 guests. Arrangements of white carnations and snapdragons graced the altar for the service. Mrs. Wayne Saunders, at the organ, played a program of traditional music including the theme from "The Godfather", "Sunrise, Sunset" and the theme from "Love Story".

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Williams and Mrs. Arthur C. Cunningham and the late Mr. Cunningham.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Grecian gown of white muslin made by the bridegroom's mother for her wedding. She wore a circlet of white rosebuds and baby's breath in her hair.

Mrs. Terry Cummings assisted her sister as matron of honor and Michelle Janisse was bridesmaid. Mrs. Cummings wore a yellow caftan and Miss Janisse a blue caftan. They carried cascade bouquets of carnations dyed to match their gowns, fern and ivy.

Glenn Cunningham was his brother's best man. Henry Wagner was groomsman.

Mrs. Williams chose a full length gown of blue muslin for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Cunningham, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of flowered turquoise and yellow chiffon.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the church dining room.

The couple, who are planning an April wedding trip to Florida, will live at RR 3, Charlevoix.

Wedding guests were present from Canada, flint, Mt. Clemens and Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams hosted a rehearsal dinner at their home Friday evening.

Humane Society Plans Benefit

The Charlevoix County Humane Society is sponsoring a benefit Pancake Supper Thursday evening, April 8, from 5 o'clock to 7:30 at the American Legion Hall in East Jordan.

Tickets may be bought from any Society representative or at the Animal Shelter Office in Charlevoix, adjacent to the Sheriff's Department.

Another fund-raising project is a Canned Goods Raffle, for which tickets are also available from the above sources.

The Society will start a Dog Obedience Class. Registration will be held Tuesday, April 20, at 7 o'clock in the Animal Shelter building. Further information may be obtained by calling the Shelter, 547-9711, afternoons Monday through Friday.

Obituary

Charles Krulik

Funeral services for a former resident, Charles J. Krulik, 67, who died Thursday in Lansing, were held at the Gorsline-Runciman Funeral Home in Lansing on Monday. Interment was in Mount Hope cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix in September 1909, Mr. Krulik attended the Charlevoix school. He was a commercial fisherman and carpenter until serving with the U.S. Army during World War II. Later he was employed at the Fruehauf Corp. in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Oldsmobile Corp. in Lansing.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty Robeson whom he married July 8, 1949; a son, Charles J. of Lansing; two sisters, Mrs. Lottie King of Dearborn and Valasta Krulik of Charlevoix and two brothers, Kenneth and Spid of Charlevoix.

Engaged

The engagement of Debra M. Marme and Thomas L. Tuck has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Marme.

The prospective bridgroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tuck of Fremond, Ohio.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the Charlevoix High School and North Central Michigan College School of Nursing with an R.N. degree. Mr. Tuck is graduate of Fremont High School and Ohio State University with a B.A. degree in English. Both are employed at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital in Petoskey.

The wedding will be an event of June 26 at St. Mary's church here.

Credit Union Offers Checks

The Charlevoix Federal Credit Union will offer Savings Draft Accounts service beginning April 15.

Kate Brady, treasurer-manager of the local Credit Union, says that Savings Drafts are forms, like checks, that the depositor fills out authorizing a specified amount of money to be withdrawn from his special Credit Union Savings Draft Account and paid to whomever he requests.

There is no charge for Savings Draft service and there is no minimum balance requirement. In addition, the Credit Union pays interest on the balance in the Savings Draft account.

The Charlevoix Federal Credit Union is the second Credit Union in Northern Michigan to offer this service. According to Mrs. Brady, the Straits Area Credit Union in Cheboygan has been offering it since November, 1975 and "it has been a great success".

Democrats Hear Law Condidate

Charlevoix County Democrats met recently at the Charlevoix County Building.

Mrs. Jean Rosewig reported on the Democratic mini-retreat held at Gaylord. Mrs. William Dietrich described the delegate selection process.

Mrs. Rosewig, Clement J. Wagner and Robert J. Wasoski were named to a committee to plan the economic program for the year.

Democrats were reminded that they must purchase 1976 memberships no later than April 5 in order to participate in June 5 membership meeting.

Democrats are asked to attend a Community Forum program April 19 at the Boyne City High School. Mrs. Martha Drake will speak on the subject of nucelar power plants.

The annual Jeff-Jack dinner will be held at Cobo Hall in Detroit on April 10. Several presidential candidates will attend.

George Lasater, announced candidate for the office of sheriff, attended the meeting and spoke on his chief concerns regarding the Sheriff's Department. He said he hoped to increase the service offered by the department without added cost to the public; to better the cooperation among law enforcement agencies; to offer better service to the residents in the eastern end of the county by establishing a sub-station in the area; to professionalize the department; establish a rank system within the department and training of staff and auxiliary and begin a rehabilitation program at the county jail through an educational program, mental health services and job placement.

20 Earn Wrestling Letters

Twenty Charlevoix high school wrestlers were presented with letters Friday by their coach, Norm Probert.

Heading the list was Terry Drew, only four year veteran, who ended the season with an 8-7 record despite injuries during the season and 53 victories during the four years.

Three year lettermen were Tim DeYoung, 54-25-2; Rob Hilton, conference and all-state champion who has 50 wins to his credit; Dane Whitley, 53 victories; Chris Wimmer, two year veteran, and Kirk Lieberman, John Cinnamon and Hideki Yamazaki, all one-year veterans and all seniors.

Others are juniors Gary Probert and Don Trost, three year veterans and Jeff Skelton and Mike Snizik, two year veterans.

Sophomores include Ron Hilton, Mike Kiteley and Craig Golovich, two year veterans and Mark Byard and Greg Loper who had earned their first letters.

Dave Golovich, Ande Keller and Dennis Whitley earned letters as freshmen. Keller became the first freshman to win a match in state competition.

Numeral winners were Rich Borths, Dan Bruce, Gary Charbeneau, Lee DeMitchell, Curt Dixon, Tom Jones, Ed Mann, Gene Morrison, Norbert Scharenbroch, Swain Smith, Brad Snizik and Brian Wimmer.

Chris Wimmer with a 25-10 record was voted the most valuable wrestler; Dane Whitley with a 26-14 record who wrestled most of the season in the 185 pound class though he weighed only 160 pounds at the beginning of the season, the most determined wrestler and Mark Byard, a sophomore with a 26-13 record with a district title, the most improved wrestler.

Other awards were presented at a dinner at the Argonne honoring Coach and Mrs. Probert, John Ozga and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carland and hosted by the team.

The Rayders concluded the season with a 7-4-2 record in dual competition; a District Class C title; a third in Michigan-Huron Shores league competition and tenth in regional competition. In addition, the team won the Kalkaska Invitational for the second year; placed second in the Charlevoix Holiday Invitational; third in the Benzie and fourth in the Soo Invitational.

Credit Union Takes Tournament

Credit Union and Russell Shell went into a play-off game last week after Russell's had handed the Credit Union its first defeat in the tournament, a 49-44 loss in what was expected to be the finals Thursday night.

A scrappy Russell Shell outfit went into the game determined to upset the Credit Union quintet. Jumping to a 16-7 first period lead, the Russell cagers never faltered as they led Credit Union 24-18 at halftime and 34-30 going into the final eight minutes.

Dave Norton had 15 points, Mike Crain 13 and Larry Brock 12 for the victors. Gary Novotny came through with 20 points, Joe Renner with 11 and Dean Ginther with 10 for Credit Union.

Shell had dumped Kenney Excavating 85-67 on Wednesday to go into the finals against the Credit Union five.

In this game, Shell was in control all the way as they led the Diggers 26-10; 44-32 and 59-53 by quarters. Norton paced the game with 28 points assisted by Brock with 22; Mike Crain with 18 and Leroy Buchanan, with 16. Joel Donaldson had 18 points for Kenney's, Rick VanStedum 14, Jack Danbert 12 and Dale Shooks 10 points.

In making their way to the finals in the loser's bracket of the Jimmy Bogart tournament, Russell Shell stopped County State Bank 89-78 and Kenney Excavating downed First State Bank 75-62.

County State jumped to a 22-21 first period lead before Russell's went ahead 39-34 and held on to a 58-52 margin at the three quarter mark. Brock had 30 points, Norton 22, Buchanan 20 and Mike Crain 12 for the victors. Larry Skippergosh came through with 22 points, Kelvin Johnecheck with 18 and Dennis Rickertson with 12 for County State.

In the second quarter-final game, Kenney Excavating was in the lead from the opening whistle to the final horn by margins of 20-10; 38-28 and 50-38. VanStedum with 18 points; Terry DeVries with 16 and Max Bolser with 12 paced the win. Gary Stutzman had 20 points, Rob Castelein had 17, Roger Gowell 11 and Jim Wyns 10 for First State.

The entire City recreation program has been under the direction of Dwight Boss.

Russell Shell Tops Bogart Tourney

Russell Shell copped the Jimmy Bogart B League tournament title last week with a 57-53 victory over the runner-up, Credit Union.

Russell Shell had come into the finals via the loser's bracket to down the winner in the winner's bracket, Credit Union, for the second time in the tournament.

In Monday's meeting Russell Shell took an early lead for a four-point 15-11 advantage at the quarter before Credit Union trimmed the lead to three points, 29-26 at halftime.

As the second half got underway, Russell's pulled away to a 47-38 margin as the game went into the final period. With the title at stake, Credit Union overcame the deficit to knot the score 51-51 with 70 seconds remaining on the clock. Russell's however, dumped in three quick buckets to one for Credit Union as time ran out.

Leroy Buchanan poured in 22 points to pace the victory. Dave Norton added 13 points.

Mike Hamilton had 16 points, Gary Novotny 14 and Dean Ginther 12 for Russell's.

Middle School Wrestlers Split in Triple Dual Meet

The Charlevoix Middle School (7th and 8th grade) wrestling team participated in a triple dual meet with Grayling and Rudyard recently.

The locals won over Rudyard 48-33 but lost to Grayling 51-21. The Viking also defeated Rudyard 63-24 to take the meet.

Double winners were Joe Byard (87), Phil Morrison (108), Fred Sonnenberg (136) and Jerry Sladek (heavyweight).

Winning one match were Don Mol, Jay Stevens, Scott Golovich, Joe Sladek, Mike Umlor, Ken Wojan, while others include Ray Weisler, Kevin Whitley, Larry Nunnemaker and Mike Bartz.

This wrapped up the regular season though some are talking of entering the free style wrestling in a meet at Traverse City next month, Coach Probert said.

The Charlevoix sixth grade wrestling team was in Grayling recently for a meet.

Mike Loper was the top winner in his class followed by second place winners Chuck Welsler and Matt McClunaghan. Tony Starr, Brendon Rainey Kevin Mort and Greg Umlor placed third and Greg Whitley and Bob Clark, fourth.

The fifth annual Charlevoix Middle School wrestling tournament found four former champions winning again this year in a combined freestyle and collegiate style wrestling program created by Coach Norm Probert.

The defending champions were Joe Byard, Scott Golovich, Phil Morrison and Jerry Sladek.

Upsets were in the making when two-time winner, Mark Drenth, lost two closely-fought battles to Joe Sladek by 6-4 and 7-4 decisions. Fred Sonnenberg supplied other upsets by defeating defending champions Ken Wojan and Jay Stevens. Phil Morrison became a two-time winner by winning this year and while in the sixth grade.

Thomas Gets Two New Salesmen

Brian Seymour

Brian Seymour has joined Thomas Real Estate as a sales associate.

Seymour was formerly manager of The Lodge and has spent considerable time in the real estate business. He is a native of Charlevoix and he and his wife and daughter live in Norwood.

Jim Thomas of Thomas Real Estate says, "Brian brings to the firm a wealth of knowledge of the local area."

Mrs. Raney

Mrs. Pat Raney is the newest member of the sales staff of Thomas Real Estate.

A native of Northern Michigan, Mrs. Raney, her husband, Howard, and their three boys live in Ironton.

In making the announcement, Jim Thomas says, "She is a welcome addition to our staff with her experience in real estate and her knowledge of the area."

Slo-Pitch Organizes April 6

An organizational meeting for the 1976 Charlevoix Slo-Pitch season has been called for 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 6, by Dwight Boss, City Recreational Director.

The meeting will be held at the Recreation Department office in the city hall for managers and officers of the Slo-Pitch Commission for the purpose of making plans for the forthcoming season scheduled to begin in May.

Jack Gantner

An automatic, or self-wind watch, as opposed to a regular manual wind watch actually stays newer for a longer period of time. This results because of the less handling an automatic watch needs. Not having to be wound keeps the crown and case looking like new, as well as saving wear on the stem and certain internal winding parts.

Another advantage for not having to be wound is that the crown gasket on water-resistant models has little wear, and therefore functions properly much longer than a similar gasket on the manual wind model; thus insuring the water-resistant characteristics.

For your selection of fine quality watches, including the popular automatic models, visit Rausch Jewelry.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Charlevoix County Road Commission will receive sealed proposals at their offices at 1051 E. Division, Boyne City, Michigan 49712, until 10:00 A.M. Monday, April 19, 1976, for furnishing the following new equipment:

- 1 Truck, ¾ Ton Pickup
- 2 Trucks, ½ Ton Pickup
- 1 Brush Chipper
- 1 Sign Face Applicator

Further information and specifications may be obtained at the Road Commission offices.

All proposals must be in sealed envelopes, plainly marked as to the item bid upon and the name of the bidder.

The Charlevoix County Road Commission reserves the right to waive the irregularity of any bid, or to reject any or all bids or to split the award by items, or to make the award in whole or in part, as may be deemed to be in its own interest.

Obituary

James Luther

James H. Luther of Alpena and Cross Village, a former teacher in the Charlevoix schools, died March 20 at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital in Petoskey.

He was born in Coopersville, Michigan November 14, 1911 and received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Michigan State University and married the former Emma Jean Holland of Pensacola, Florida in 1948.

Luther taught school in Ludington and Alpena as well as Charlevoix and recently had been employed part time at Gately's Housefurnishing Company in Petoskey. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Alpena, the Elks Petoskey Lodge and the Charlevoix Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Jean (Mrs. Frank) Heffern of Houston, Texas; Nancy (Mrs. James) Arundel of Charlotte, N.C.; one son, S/Sgt. James H. Luther stationed at Fort Hood, Texas, and four grandchildren. Also surviving are two sisters, Alice Luther of Grand Rapids and Margaret (Mrs. Carl) Hagata of La Jolla, Calif.

Family memorial services were held in Cross Village with the Rev. Father George Phillip, OFM officiating. The family requests that anyone wishing to honor the memory of the deceased make a donation to the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Gustav Young

Funeral services for Mrs. Gustav A. Young, 86, former resident who died Saturday at a Howell Hospital where she had been a patient for one day, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Tuesday. Harold Kruse of East port will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside cemetery.

Mrs. Young, the former Eline M. Lund, was born in Trondheim, Norway, July 28, 1889, and came to Iron River at the age of 19 years. In 1911 she was married to Mr. Young in Chicago where they lived for a short time before returning to Iron River. In 1918 they moved to Detroit where they resided until coming to Charlevoix in 1946. Mr. Young preceded her in death March 13, 1961. In recent years she had lived in the Detroit area and for the past three years was a patient at Greenbrier Convalescent Center.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Ted (Irene) Gladwell of Roseville, Mrs. Earl (Ethel) Kroll of Charlevoix, Mrs. Alden (Rita) Olson of Troy and Mrs. Ralph Northhelfer of Rochester; two sons, Harold E. of Colorado Springs, Colo., and S. Albert of Birmingham; 26 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Gertrue Fessenden

Mrs. Gertrude (Billington) Fessenden, former Charlevoix resident, died March 4 in Battle Creek at the age of 98.

She was the widow of Sampson Fessenden and is survived by a sister, nine stepgrandchildren and several step-great-grandchildren.

GI News

Navy Boatswain's Mate Ricky L. Sawtelle, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sawtelle and husband of Brenda C. Sawtelle, all of Charlevoix, Mich., has reported for duty to the U.S. Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

A 1969 graduate of Charlevoix High School, he joined the Navy in December 1968.

how much Conrail would want in state and federal subsidy.

Campbell's quiet takeover of the trackage has drawn little attention with the exception of industrialists in Petoskey who were hoping the Chessie System might continue to stay in the area if Penn Central went out of business.

The Chessie System has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) to abandon its trackage between Manistee and Petoskey, but many observers had anticipated that C&O withdraw its petition with the demise of the Penn Central.

While some are skeptical over Campbell's future success, the small company president claims he'll have no problem increasing the size of his business during the next few years.

GOD IS AN INEXHAUSTIBLE SOURCE OF POWER

We have been constantly hearing about the "energy crisis", which has resulted in the desperate search for new sources of power, both natural and artificial. Whatever the source, the goal is the continuation of our good life and the further achievements of progress in every aspect of it. Human beings also need a continuing supply of power in order to accomplish their own personal goals, whatever they may be. God is a never-ending source of the power you need, so go to your Church and learn about this unlimited resource that is always available to you.

Judge Holds Hearing in Antrim Shooting Death

A preliminary hearing for a 15-year-old juvenile involved in the shooting death of a rural Ellsworth resident, Mrs. Bonnie Lou Chew, 38, at her home Sunday evening was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Probate Judge John T. Murphy of the Charlevoix-Emmet Probate Court will preside at the hearing to be held at the courthouse in Bellaire. The course of action to be taken in the case will be determined following the hearing. Probate Judge Murphy is hearing the case in the absence of Antrim County Probate Judge Harry Cook from the county.

Mrs. Chew was shot in the abdomen with a .30-.30 rifle in the presence of her husband f. Henry Chew, and the juvenile, shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday evening at the family home on Slough Road one-half mile east of Ellsworth in Banks Township.

Her husband and son, Lennie R. Slack, rushed her to the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. James Geis.

Chew and the juvenile were then taken into custody as material witnesses to the shooting. After being questioned at length Monday by Antrim County Prosecutor, James G. Young, and Antrim County law enforcement officers, Chew was released and the juvenile held until the preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Following an autopsy at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey, the body of the victim was taken to the Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City where services are pending.

Following the shooting Sunday evening, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department was advised of the incident in a telephone call at 7:14 p.m. Officers left at once to investigate. At approximately 8:30 p.m. it was found that the Chew home was located in Antrim county on the last lot at the county line. Antrim County officials were then called to the scene where Charlevoix County officials turned their findings over to them.

Mrs. Chew, the former Bonnie Lou Simons, was born April 20, 1937, at Boyne City. She had been employed in the laundry of the Grandvue Medical Care Facility near East Jordan since 1970.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Cindy Coon of East Jordan; two sons, Ronnie Slack and Lennie Slack, both at home; two grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Lennie (Clara) Simons of Boyne City; six brothers and six sisters.

Thank you for printing the article I wrote for "Hot Line" which appeared in the March 17 issue.

However, in addition to my own name, I wanted my wife's name to appear also as her family was well known and respected here since 1917. She is known here by many friends and business people as Georgia (Billie Messinger) and I would appreciate your quoting this in a forthcoming issue as it will have more bearing and impact on the message I tried to impart and convey. Please give this your usual and courteous attention. L.M. Picard.

Time Waster

Mr. Tom Duke, at the last city council meeting wasted everyone's time and by using the first fifteen minutes of his spiel to defend himself against a letter that was written to the Courier some time ago. I think that to save time and keep the order of city council meetings going that such ridiculous outbursts should be kept out. There is no place in the council chamber for such ridiculous and trivial matters such as Mr. Duke used councils time to voice. Too many people come to meetings to get business done and the reaction of the crowd was that Mr. Duke was taking too long and I just think that whoever he thinks he is that he should cool himself a little bit and have some consideration for others. because we don't care what anybody says about him in the paper. He should know better than to use a city meeting to take up such trivial matters. Thank you.

Council Approves City Salary Hikes

Newly elected city officials will find an unexpected surprise when they take office this month.

Charlevoix City Council approved pay hikes Monday night for both the mayor and city councilmen.

Under the new yearly salary schedule, the mayor will get $2,400 and $25 for each special meeting, while councilmen will earn $1,200 a year with $10 paid for each special meeting.

After the first year, a $120 raise will automatically be given for continuous service.

Previously, the mayor earned $450 a year and $10 a meeting up 26 a year, while councilman got $140 a year and $7.50 a meeting.

The move, which will only affect officials elected Monday, drew support from several attending Monday's meeting.

Dale Boss, a Charlevoix businessman, said that the pay hikes have long been overdue.

He said county commissioners presently earn $1,650 a year, while some township supervisors earn between $3,000 and $5,000 a year.

"I don't know the public requires anyone to work for nothing any more," Boss continued.

"I think we are past those days."

In other business, council:

–Granted a request from Wanda Scheff to continue her mobile home permit.

–Agreed to pursue funding on Mt. McSauba's recreation program from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

–Decided to continue the summer garden plot project.

–Approved John Northrup Contractors of East Park as the official developer for the senior citizen housing project.

–Reappointed Robert Cook to the Senior Citizens Housing Commission.

–Approved new salaries for the fire and ambulance workers.

–Established May 4, 5, and 6 for First Ward trash pick up, May 10, 11 and 12 for second ward trash pick up and May 17 and 18 for third ward pick up.

–Decided that city parking meters would go up April 19.

Editor Named Finalist

WASHINGTON--Ken Winter, editor of the Charlevoix Courier, has been named a national finalist in the 1976-77 White House Fellowship competition, the White House announced Monday.

The 25-year-old editor was one of the 30 across the United States who will go to Washington on May 21-23 to be interviewed by the President's Commission on White House Fellowships.

"The meeting will provide the Commission members the opportunity to meet and become acquainted with the National Finalists, before recommending to the President which of the finalists he should appoint," the spokesman said.

The fellowship program is intended to be a one-year sabbatical in government for people between the ages of 25 and 35 years to gain a first-hand knowledge of the federal government.

Winter became the editor of the Courier in the spring of 1974, after previously serving as a reporter for the Petoskey News-Review and The State Journal in Lansing.

He is a 1972 journalism graduate of Michigan State University.

General Election Draws No Interest

In an uneventful General Election held here Monday all candidates whose names appeared on the ballot were elected with less then 300 voters casting ballots for city-wide officers.

Not even a write-in campaign, conducted by Harold Smith who was a Democrat candidate for the second ward created much interest. He received an unofficial total of 20 write-in ballots on the machine and another 20 absentee ballots for a total of 40.

Mrs. Jeannine Wallace, whose name appeared on the ballot, received a total of 84 votes including 51 at the polls and 33 absent voter's ballot to win the post.

Others who were elected without opposition were Edward P. Hansen, mayor, who received 274 votes; Lyle S. King, clerk, 279 votes; Annabelle Cunningham, treasurer, 285 votes; Susan Erber, first ward council woman, 63 votes; Joseph Morris, Jr., third ward alderman, 94 votes.

All totals are unofficial until approved by the Board of Canvassers.

Police Plan Benefit Game

Nine members of the Detroit Lions football team will be in Charlevoix Friday, April 16, to take on the Charlevoix All-Star basketball team – in basketball, not football.

The game, which is being sponsored by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputies, will benefit the Big Brothers / Big Sisters organization and the Charlevoix High School Band.

Lions team members making the trip will be Bob Kowalkowski, Charlie Sanders, Herb Orvis, Levi Jackson, Jim Laslavic, Ray Jarvis, Jim Thrower, Larry Hand and Lem Barney.

They will test their skills against the 15-member All-Star team consisting of Dave Strawbridge, Stewart Coleman, Topper Carey, Dan McKenzie, Kevin Swanson, Dave Swanson, Joe Beaudoin, Bruce Meggison, Roger Crain, Dave Moyer, Bill Cousineau, Ike Boss, Tim Doan, Dave Novotny, and Leroy Buchanan.

Tickets for the game, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium, are available from all members of Big Brothers / Big Sisters, the high school band, at King's, Juilleret's and Left's restaurants, and at the Harbor Barber Shop.

Hey Kids! Coloring Contest

It's time for Charlevoix area children to get out their crayons and coloring pencils for the Courier's annual Easter Coloring Contest.

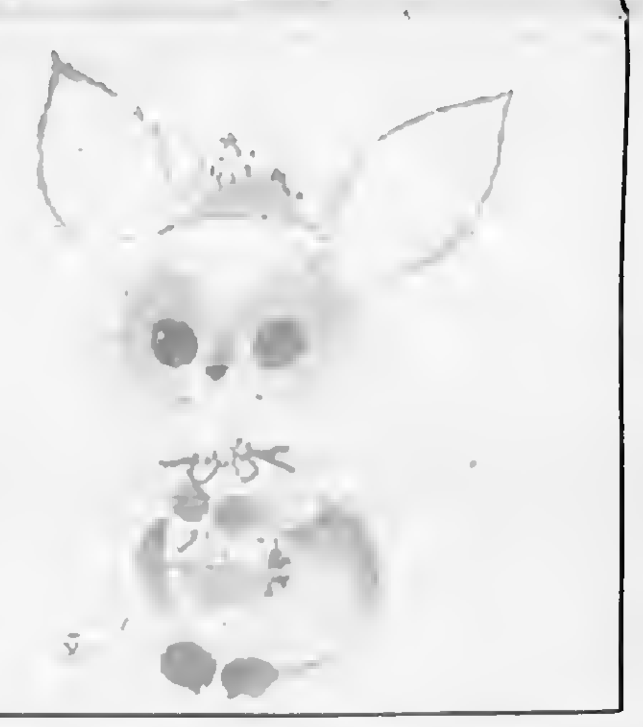
Pictures for coloring appear in this week's Courier and will be repeated next week.

All children ages 12 and under, except children of employees of this newspaper, are eligible to enter as many times as they want.

Prizes of $10, $7.50 and $5 will be awarded to the best entries selected by the judges. A "Special Merit Award" of $5 will be given to the child under eight years of age whose entry is judged most outstanding but which doesn't quite qualify for one of the top three prizes.

Prize-winning entries in past years have included shadow boxes, Easter baskets, houses and cut-outs mounted on cardboard.

Entries must be received in the Courier office by noon Good Friday, April 16, and winners will be announced in the April 21 issue.



Teacher's Courtroom Battle May Affect Control of Charlevoix County State Bank

By KEN WINTER

A Charlevoix piano teacher's quiet courtroom battle may determine who controls a $20.1 million bank.

Up for grabs is 300 shares of capital stock of the Charlevoix County State Bank, which, depending upon how the court rules, may determine who manages the bank located at the corner of Bridge and Clinton Streets.

The ongoing struggle for control of the bank officially began last summer when Mrs. Gwendolen Wexstaff filed suit against retired Charlevoix banker E. D. "Pat" Hawley.

In her suit, Mrs. Wexstaff claims that Hawley, as bank president in 1971, misled her into signing a written agreement granting Hawley a 15-year right for first refusal to purchase.

Mrs. Wexstaff, the wife of Charlevoix's city administrator, owns 300 shares, or approximately two percent, of the total capital stock of the bank.

The Charlevoix piano teacher, who according to her attorney inherited the stock from her mother, claims that Hawley had made the offer to her to preserve the stock value.

Two Banks

However, Mrs. Wexstaff alleges in her suit that Hawley failed to inform her about certain conditions of the bank that might have made her decide differently about entering into an agreement with Hawley.

One of these conditions was that on August 4, 1970, Gail Duke had purchased 45 percent of the outstanding shares of the County State Bank from a former bank employee.

Mrs. Duke of Charlevoix is the wife of Thomas Duke, who is chairman of the board and majority stockholder of Charlevoix's only other and competing bank, First State Bank of Charlevoix.

According to pleadings filed with the court there has been an ongoing contest for control of the County State Bank between Mrs. Duke and those presently holding controlling interest since June 21, 1971.

The contest began when some 1,080 shares of the bank's stock came on the market due to the death of Fred G. Levinson, a former stockholder.

The acquisition of the stock could have either given Mrs. Duke absolute control of the bank or insured that the present management led by board chairman Hawley, remain on control.

But rather than enter into a bidding contest for the stock, court documents indicate that the two groups split the stock, each purchasing 540 shares and placing the total number of shares in a voting trust.

Mrs. Wexstaff claims that negotiations for the Levinson stock were still in progress at the time she signed an agreement with Hawley. She alleges that Hawley was aware that Mrs. Duke was interested in purchasing additional stock and that if Mrs. Duke had purchased Mrs. Wexstaff's stock it would be possible to eventually gain control of the bank.

Gain Stock

Mrs. Wexstaff claims that Mrs. Duke would have been willing to pay many times more than her agreement with Hawley for the stock to gain control.

Mrs. Wexstaff is asking the court to nullify her present agreement with Hawley, as well as $100,000 for damages.

Hawley, in his answers filed with the court, denies the allegations and in fact, claims that Mrs. Wexstaff along with her husband and both Dukes had met on several occasions to formulate an agreement whereby Mrs. Wexstaff would sell her 300 shares to Thomas Duke for $100,000. Hawley claims this agreement was made after earlier making one with him.

Hawley also claims that Mrs. Wexstaff, after agreeing to sell to Mrs. Duke in March 1975, never obtained his written consent to sell the shares to Mrs. Duke or any other person.

Hawley is asking the court not to take action on Mrs. Wexstaff's suit, as well as have her pay for all court costs.

Those holding controlling interest of the bank argue that Thomas Duke, not his wife, would actually be holding controlling interest of the bank.

It is their contention that Duke would be violating both state and federal banking laws by controlling competing banks in the same community.

Joseph Brennan, Mrs. Wexstaff's attorney and a shareholder of the First State Bank, contends that there are no restrictions barring Mrs. Duke from having interest in a bank competing against her husband's bank.

Those having interest in the Charlevoix County State Bank, besides Mrs. Wexstaff, Mrs. Duke and Hawley, are Darrell Dinwiddie, Karl Erber, Maurice Foster, Esther Hawley, James Hiller, Mildred Hiller, Charlotte Saltonstall, Gilbert Saltonstall, Gordon Wellman, Robert Winchester, all of Charlevoix, and Dayton Mudd of St. Louis. They have also named co-defendants in the suit.

Also recently named as individual plaintiffs in the suit were Tom and Gail Duke.

Area Townships Discuss County Road Problems

By FRAN MARTIN

Townships in the Charlevoix area held their annual meetings Saturday reporting to the residents of each unit the accomplishments of last year and making plans for the 1976-77 year.

Among the major items on the agenda was the subject of roads. Funds for proposed construction and repairs also make up a major part of each budget. However, only a limited amount of work is possible during the coming summer.

The residents of Norwood Township voted at their meeting to go to the polls to ask for additional millage to be used for roads. A special election to be held at the time of the Presidential Primary Election on May 18 will find a ballot asking for two mills for two years to underwrite the cost of proposed road construction in the township.

A proposed budget of $35,070 was approved. This will be financed by $17,277 in anticipated receipts plus funds derived from the two mill levy.

Of the total budget, $25,000 is earmarked for road construction and repair. Revenue sharing monies, sales tax and other related funds are also funneled into the road fund.

Another $100 was earmarked for the cemetery at Norwood. Also included in the budget are funds for fire protection and ambulance service.

Eveline

Eveline Township approved a proposed budget of $61,383 to be financed by allocated millage, revenue sharing and funds from other sources.

Major expenditure planned is $29,200 for roads. Work is planned for approximately one mile on Ridge Road, on Washington St. in Ironton and on Advance Road.

Eveline Township, located as it is on both sides of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, has fire contracts with the departments in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix. A total of $6,500 has been planned for this service. Only other major expenditure will be $10,300 for salaries.

Walter Kemp, township clerk, said the township now has 660 registered voters.

Marion

Fire protection and the collection of school taxes during the summer were discussed at length at the annual meeting in Marion Township.

A petition asking that the township continue to receive its fire protection from the city was presented at the meeting.

Following the discussion, those present voted to continue to receive fire protection from the city. They also rejected the proposed collection of school taxes during the summer. The school district had asked for the summer collection in order to do away with borrowing monies until school taxes are collected in December.

A proposed budget of $34,000 was approved. This is $8,000 less than the 1975-76 budget. Largest single item in the budget is $14,000 for roads. Other earmarked funds include $2,350 for fire protection or $150 less than last year; $5,850 for salaries; $2,500 for the township park on Nowland Lake where a boat launching ramp will be constructed and $1,000 for the Marion Center cemetery. The major part of the latter will be used to purchase fencing.

Hayes

Hayes Township approved a proposed budget of $103,450 with anticipated receipts from allocated millage, revenue sharing monies and other sources plus funds on hand going to balance the budget.

Of the total, $50,000 is set aside for roads. However, a large portion of this is money set aside last year for this purpose and not used because the Charlevoix County Road Commission was unable to fulfill its road building commitments. Another $15,000 has been earmarked for fire protection and ambulance service.

A request for a flasher light at Burgess Road and the C & O railroad tracks and some assistance in keeping unwanted hunters off posted property were discussed, but no action was taken until further information regarding the issues is obtained.

Charlevoix

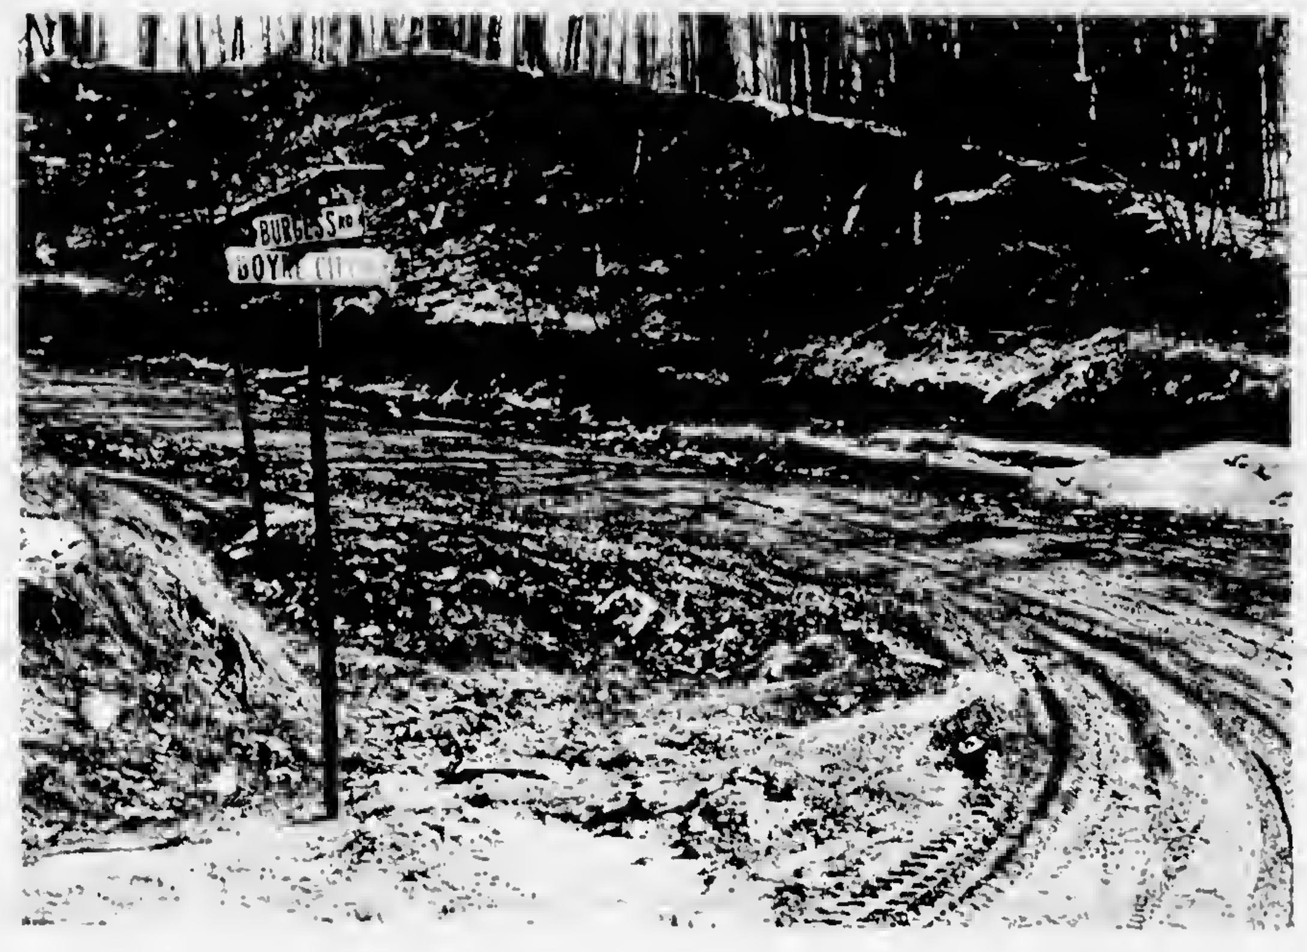
The major issue discussed at the Charlevoix Township meeting was the extension of the township's water lines to that area of the township which lies south of the city. Wells have already been driven and water piped to the various areas of the township north of the city.

Of the proposed budget of $145,000 based on a 1.5 mill tax allocation, $60,000 has been earmarked for wells and water line south of the city. Of the total, $22,000 is already owned for work done by the contractor while lines were being laid last year.

The wells for the south side water system will be drilled on property on US 31 South at the site of the township's fire barn.

Several township residents asked that funds be made available for gas lines to areas of the township which do not have natural gas lines. However, Oscar Stroud, township supervisor, advised that township funds could not be used for this purpose.

It was reported that delivery is expected on the township's new fire truck in June.



WINTER THAWS bring one of the biggest headaches that the Charlevoix County Road Commission gets every year. It also causes a lot of unhappy feelings with area residents.

Ick...It's Spring Again

By PEG OHLE And KEN WINTER

Irvin H. Sturm, engineer-director of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, doesn't care much for this time of year.

Nor does 32-year-old appliance repairman Dove Heckman of Walloon Lake.

While most other people are welcoming the coming of spring, Sturm is beset by thawing snow and oozing frost that has turned many of the County's 480 miles of unpaved roads into giant mud puddles.

Heckman, his wife and eight-year-old son live at the end of one of those mud puddles and have trouble even getting a four-wheel vehicle out of their driveway.

For both Sturm and Heckman, it is especially bad when heavy rains come while the ground is frozen, as happened recently. The ditches become rivers and the running water erodes road beds.

What can be done about it?

Heckman calls the road commission office several times and eventually gets Sturm out of bed on a Saturday morning to let him know what he thinks about it. But it doesn't seem to do much, except relieve Heckman's frustration and probably make Sturm wonder why he is in the road commission business.

Grading and scraping helps, Sturm says. The wet sand and gravel are spread around and hopefully there will be enough wind to dry the surface. However, sometimes bringing in heavy road equipment does more damage than good.

Then there are the culverts that are plugged and damaged so the water overflows onto roads, paved and unpaved.

"The only thing we can do is keep working on the problem areas," Sturm says, adding, "Paving would decrease our problems."

But the Road Commission is in financial difficulty and there's less money for road maintenance, let alone paving.

Receipts from Motor Vehicle Highway funds (gasoline taxes and license fees) were down two percent the last quarter compared to a year ago. The cost of some road maintenance materials are up 18 percent and total road-building costs have doubled since 1967.

Over-time work by Road Commission employees has been decreased as much as possible. They are called out only on an emergency basis and that means time-and-a-half after eight hours of work and on Saturdays and double time on Sundays.

Sturm says the Commission has not yet had to lay off any employees because of decreasing funds but that it has not replaced five employees who retired, died, are on sick leave, a leave of absence or were transferred.

Kiwanians Collect Tree Sap

By PEG OHLE

It's maple syrup time in Charlevoix again and members of the Kiwanis Club are busy collecting and processing the sweep sap of the maple trees.

The Kiwanis Club uses the proceeds from the sale of its syrup for its Youth Fund projects, and many young people are helping empty the hundreds of buckets around town into the Club's tank truck for transportation to the "sugar house" for boiling and bottling.

The "sugar house" contains complete professional equipment, consisting of tanks and sap pans to handle the product from sap to syrup. It's a simple but scientific process, using a thermometer calibrated to one-eighth of a degree.

Edward K. Shanahan, the Kiwanis Club syrup master, explains that the syrup is brought to a boiling temperature of 218 and one-fourth degrees, which produces "legal" syrup weighing 11 pounds to the gallon, three pounds of water and eight pounds of sugar.

Throughout the boiling process, the syrup is consistantly skimmed to remove foam and sedimentation. From the boiling pans it is strained through a nylon felt fabric into milk cans for storage until it is bottled. Before bottling, it is heated and strained again.

There are over 1,200 Kiwanis Club sap buckets hanging on maple trees in Charlevoix, mostly two to a tree. From these trees each year enough sap is usually collected to make 500 gallons of syrup. Since it takes about 30 gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup, that means a run of 15,000 gallons of sap.

The amount of sap does vary from year to year, however. Last year, due to weather conditions, enough sap was collected to make only 208 gallons of syrup. This year should be a good year, the syrup experts say, because of the early combination of cold nights and warm days. The run is expected to last through April.

The Kiwanis Club maple syrup project goes back to 1958, when the idea of tapping the city's maple trees was brought before the City Council. Some feared that constant tapping might injure the trees, but after a Michigan State University representative told the council that a tree on the campus had been tapped each year for over 100 years without harm, permission for the project was granted the Kiwanians.

They started out in a small way with 650 five-quart buckets and $650 advanced by seven members of the Club. The "sugar house" was built in 1962 on land donated by the late Kit Carson and more than $6,000 was spent for equipment. This year one of the evaporating pans was replaced at a cost of $2,350.

In making maple syrup, the Kiwanians are carrying on an art known to the American Indians, but in a more scientific way.

One old timer in his eighties remembers his father telling him how the Indians collected the sap and made syrup. Instead of drilling holes, they cut wedges in the trees and under the wedges placed hewn-out logs which served as troughs for the sap to flow into other hewn-out logs.

The sap was "boiled" with hot rocks poured into it.

Kiwanis Club maple syrup is sold throughout the area in pints, quarts, half gallons and gallon tins as well as three-quarter pint bottles.

PNR Offers Carnegie Course

In connection with the Dale Carnegie Course soon to begin in Petoskey, the Petoskey News-Review is publishing a series of feature articles by Mike Rothenberger, staff representative of Dale Carnegie and Associates, Inc., New York.

The series is entitled "I Will Prepare Myself."

"We are bringing the course to our community because we feel it is in the interest of public service," Kirk Schaller, general manager of the News-Review, said about the course.

The organization of the class will be under the direction of Bill Ballard, representing Michael J. Hnndley and Associates of Saginaw, who offer the course in this area.

"The Dale Carnegie Course for more than 65 years has been helping men and women to live happier, richer or more successful lives through the discovery and development of their hidden talents and potential abilities, Ballard says.

The Dale Carnegie Course has graduated over two million men and women and is now offered in over 50 foreign countries.

Further information about the course may be obtained by writing or phoning the Petoskey News-Review, 347-2544.

School System Needs Support

The election may be over, but Charlevoix Public Schools' building problem is far from being solved.

By a slim 27-vote margin, voters last month turned down a $2.8 million bond issue to finance a remodeling and rennovation project at the Charlevoix High and Middle Schools.

The question now is, what should the Charlevoix Board of Education do?

For the last couple of years, the board has offered nearly a half dozen alternatives of all sorts and sizes, only to find them defeated at the polls.

When the board proposed a new building program for a high school, with the present high school being used as a middle school–voters turned thumbs down.

Then this year, the board came back with a rennovation project which would only remodel the 1927-vintage middle school and expand the existing high school, and residents said "no" again.

We've heard every excuse imaginable for not supporting a school building program.

When the board was proposing a new high school, the arguments were that it wasn't that long ago that Charlevoix had built a new facility and people were told it would be adequate for years to come.

Replacing the existing middle school brought comments that the building was good enough for me when I went to school, so why isn't it good enough for my children?

Then were heard reactions that the economy was bad and no one could predict what the gasoline and auto-crunch would do to Northern Michigan's economy.

So, after hearing these and a host of other negative reactions, school board members again began scratching their heads to decide what the public might find acceptable.

While working at the drawing boards, schoolrooms continue to bulge, forcing some middle school students to be shipped to the elementary school with others being put wherever space can be found.

And, besides overcrowding, the middle school situation is not improving with age.

But alas, the school board comes up with another proposal.

This time they suggest that we only rennovate our middle school and add several classrooms to the high school.

And again the proposal goes down in defeat with the same kind of reactions echoed a year ago. It sounds like a broken record.

Frankly, we don't know what the school board is going to do now. Obviously classrooms won't be as comfortable as they could be with several new ones.

Teachers are also going to find continued rough going with inadequate facilities to teach specialized programs such as chemistry, physics and home economics.

As we have said in previous editorials, we're embarrassed that our local school board and educators have to spend the time they do every year trying to convince local residents that better facilities are needed.

Because they are the concerned and devoted educators they are, we can expect them to come back with another proposal shortly. And they will probably come again and again until something passes.

There's only one problem in that situation. It's the problem that we are finding and hearing about more and more. What is government going to do about it?

We don't feel our educators were hired or elected to become building salesmen. Yet, school boards across the state are finding themselves becoming burdened with that task.

Going in a sheltered voting booth and marking "no" is very easy to do. It requires very little effort, not even one-tenth the effort it requires educators to figure out what they should do with your children.

Our overcrowded schools, our inadequate facilities are not really the problem of local schools or government, they are the problem of every resident within this school district.

Maybe the district will be able to limp along for another few years without an improved middle school facility or added high school classroom space.

But there is going to come a time when limping along will no longer suffice and the district will have to revert to action recently taken by our neighboring Twin Valley School District, which is now having split day sessions.

When you compare public education to what it costs to send a child to a private institution of higher learning, there is no comparison. Public education is a bargain

We almost hate to encourage the local school district to begin another massive campaign for improved facilities until the prevailing negative attitude of many residents in this community is somehow miraculously reversed.

When that time will come, we are not able to judge. But until that time comes, education in our local schools will not be what it should or could be.

Help Fish

March 31, 1976

Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Mi.

FISH of Charlevoix County, Inc., is a non-profit organization of individuals working together to perform services, often emergency, for their fellow men.

The name is derived from the early Christians and from the words of Jesus when he came upon two fishermen, brothers, Peter and Andrew, and said "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men."

We maintain a small supply of sick-room items such as canes, crutches, commodes, a walker and obtain wheel chairs when necessary. These are loaned out at no cost.

We also try to furnish transportation to clinics, doctors and hospitals, check on shut-ins, assist people stranded and many other services that require immediate attentions whenever within the realm of possibility.

Through the wonderful assistance of Rev. Walls of the Presbyterian Church in Boyne City we have a telephone answering service 24 hours every day, thus by calling the FISH number 582-7997, the name and number of the volunteer of the day is obtained and who will arrange for assistance whenever possible.

Volunteers donate their time and services. However, we do require some funds for telephone costs, postage and supplies for mailing out volunteer lists and any donation mailed to FISH at P.O. Box 112, Charlevoix will be appreciated.

We are in dire need of volunteers and desire to hear from any person who can spare a day a month or a few hours. We will have a meeting at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix Tuesday, April 13 at 8 p.m. or you may call Bill Miller at 547-2725, Charlevoix anytime.

Grantsmanship

In the Courier issue a week or two ago I read that Bill Mercer of the County Planning Commission is suggesting that the County hire another individual at $15,000. or so, who would understand "grantmanship", the art of knowing how to get more money out of the federal government.

Mr. Mercer's thought is, I believe, that the County would, through this person's effort, come up with a few hundred thousand dollars for "improvements" which might otherwise not be possible - done with "free" money.

Doesn't Mr. Mercer know that even if we do get additional grants, that a percentage of any project costs must be paid by the local government - i.e. local taxes would have to be raised? The money is not "free".

Doesn't Mr. Mercer know that the federal grants also must come out of taxes - i.e. federal taxes or equal?

William P. Byrnes writes to the Chicago Tribune in the VOICE OF THE PEOPLE: "Are we in such a headlong pursuit to spend and tax....?"

The Planning Commission should, I believe, spend a little less time in planning how to spend more of other peoples' "free" money, but instead try to help our inflation problem by planning effectively how to spend a little less money, possibly lower taxes for the people of Charlevoix County.

Stewart Boal,
Rt. 3., Charlevoix

Thanks

TO THE EDITOR:

The men battling all kinds of weather to get our telephone service back into operation following the ice storm early this month were more welcome than words can express. But we do want them to know we appreciate their help.

We understand that among those who converged here from your area was Barry Matthews. We thought your readers might like to know what a great job your fellow townsman is doing.

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

U.S. Steel executives keep busy these days congratulating the U.S. Coast Guard on keeping the northern Great Lakes open to shippers for the second consecutive winter.

And the Guard certainly deserves credit if anyone does. The job of keeping the shipping lanes ice-free in January, February and March is not to be sniffed at.

But congratulations may be a little premature.

The past two winters can't even begin to compare with the real blingers of only a few short years ago. We haven't even had a single bonafide blizzard for two winters. And we have missed long stretches of arctic cold – the kind that makes ice and stops ships.

I guess what bothers me most about year-'round navigation on the lakes is the cost, both monitarily and the potential cost in human life.

Some spring I wish the U.S. Coast Guard would calculate just how much it cost in terms of fuel consumption, manpower and damaged equipment to keep the upper Great Lakes navigable for essentially only one customer – U.S. Steel.

Although I understand the steel company bears some of the financial burden, the lion's share comes from your pocket and mine in hard-earned tax dollars.

The net result is a federal government subsidy to one of the nation's richest industries.

You can be sure if U.S. Steel had to foot the bill itself — build the ice breakers and man them — year-'round navigation on the upper Great Lakes would appear a lot less attractive. It may not even be feasible from an economic standpoint if private capital must bear the expense.

In the past, the steel industry survived by shipping and stockpiling as much iron ore and taconite as possible during the traditional shipping season from April through December. There is no reason it couldn't do the same again.

The movement of ice breakers and ore carriers on the Upper Lakes during the winter also has served to disrupt the routine of island dwellers in the St. Marys River and elsewhere. No longer is it possible to pack the wife and kids into the family jalopy and scoot across the frozen river to the mainland for an afternoon of shopping or an evening's entertainment. Channels cut by the ice breakers scarcely have time to freeze before another ship hoves into view. Travel on the frozen rivers has become too risky with lakers coming and going night and day.

I am beginning to suspect that year-'round navigation is one of the blessings of the 70's we really don't need.

It is strange how our highly competitive communities in northern Michigan were united as one behind the Harbor Springs Rams during the state basketball tournaments in Ann Arbor.

Suddenly the Rams were "our team" regardless of where you lived and colorful Rams posters appeared in shop windows from Charlevoix to the Straits.

And there probably were very few radios and TV sets in northern Michigan which weren't tuned in to the action in Ann Arbor the night of the big game.

I suspect the area support would have been the same if the team had been the Petoskey Northmen, the Boyne City Ramblers, the East Jordan Red Devils, the Ellsworth Lancers or the Charlevoix Red Rayders.

Of course, we were disappointed when the Rams did not come home with the title, but the team certainly deserves a thank-you for giving us "our" place in the sun on that memorable Saturday.

It is still early in the new season, but songbirds have returned in force. Just step out on the front porch at dawn some day and listen to the chorus of robins, chickadees, cardinals, and, yes, grackles and starlings.

Since the ban on DDT went into effect, our bird population has been growing every year. It is frightening, isn't it, how close we came to the "Silent Spring" predicted by the late Rachel Carson? But now the danger seems over.

Erma Bombeck

The other night on "Starsky and Hutch," we watched the two detectives drive their car down a one-way street, tear up two tires on a U-turn, side-swipe a semi truck, drive through a barrier and sail through the air before coming to rest on a ferry boat that had left the dock five minutes earlier. The hood sprung into mid-air and there was smoke pouring from the engine.

Did you ever wonder who buys those cars when they're finished with them? We do.

They just paint a racing stripe around each one and our kids stand there with the egg money in their hands and beg to let them tow it out of the lot.

When our children reached the driving age, we made a mistake. We said, "We are not going to buy your cars for you. Save your money and when you have enough for a car you can afford, buy it."

Some men have paid more for a necktie than our kids have paid for their cars.

We have one that was owned by a little old lady from Long Beach who only drove it when she hit a bank and drove the car non-stop to Orlando with only one oil change.

We bought another that was touted as a second car, driven only by the wife of a dealer. She just happened to be a stunt driver for a demolition derby every Friday night at the racetrack.

I used to think that when a child–especially a boy–reached the age of Clearasil, he automatically became interested in cars–what made them run, what made them stop running, how you could add little goodies under the hood for pennies a serving, and how to pick up bargains off a used-car lot.

Well, our boys never made the transition.

The other day one of them drove home a real "doggie." It was bright red with a black racing stripe along the side and twin exhausts. The paint was wet to the touch.

"How many miles does this car have on it?" asked my husband suspiciously.

"137,000. Whatya think?"

"I think they tampered with the mileage. This car is older than that. The headlights have a place for wicks."

"Somehow," said my husband, "it looks familiar."

"It should," said our son. "Remember the car that scaled a mountain? Tested its suspension on 136 miles of railroad track? Stopped on a wet road? Had its battery light up a football field? Submerged in a lake to test its airtight body? Get ripped to shreds on the Baja? And crashed through a paper hoop with Platformate? This is the little baby that did it!"

Cool Like the Fonze

The Fonze, jumping his motorcycle over 13 garbage cans, reminded me of Somerset Maugham. That's cool.

As most of the nation knows, "The Fonze" is what Arthur Fonzereili likes to call himself. He thinks it's cool. He's the star of a TV show which invades my home once a week, against my will. But I have a teenage son, The Nerd, who thinks it cool to watch The Fonze.

My son doesn't call himself The Nerd. That's what his sister calls him. He calls her The Ferd. it's all cool.

What's cool?

My father has been dead many years. During the few years of his retirement, he did some gardening. For this task he wore an old gray scraggly jacket somehow left over from his teenage years, before the first World War. This jacket always hung in the garage, on a greasy nail, because my mother would not allow it in the house.

That jacket was accidentally part of my heritage from my father. It found its way into my home wrapped around some bottles of rare booze, to prevent breakage. In the excitement of the unwrapping, the jacket was carelessly dropped into a musty cellar corner and forgotten. My son was an infant then.

But he is now 17 and he wears my father's jacket to wedding receptions. Why? It's cool.

What's cool?

I'll attempt a couple of definitions:

To be cool is to be oblivious of the reactions caused by your presence. A walking streaker.

To be cool is to have grace under pressure. While all around you are flipping their lids, you are slouched nonchalantly against the bar, humming softly into you beer, ignoring the juke box which just exploded, shellacking 4 dancers to death.

I remember Aug. 13, 1945. A huge ocean liner was docking at New York City, helped along by several tug boats. The liner contained thousands of soldiers returning from the war in Europe which had ended 3 months earlier. By coincidence, they were arriving home on the same day the war ended in Japan.

So there were serveral reasons for wild celebration. Heroes were returning from defeating the Nazi scourge. The atom bomb had ended the yellow peril and peace was complete. Many of the soldiers aboard ship were scheduled to go to Japan after furloughs at home. Now they wouldn't have to go.

The soldiers were cheering and waving and jumping up and down. On shore, the awaiting civilians were doing the same. Several bands were playing, flags were flying and beer was pouring. There were pretty girls on the tugboats, gesturing seductively. A few of the bravest soldiers jumped overboard, into the Hudson River, so they could be rescued by one of those tugboats.

It was hilarious madness. But through it all there sat a 19-year-old soldier, high on a cabin roof, oblivious of all the loud joy around him. It was me. I was reading a book and barely looked up.

Even as the soldiers began filing down the gangplank, and the celebrating grew more raucous, I sat there a read. Finally I was spotted by 2 Red Cross women, armed with donuts. They were incredulous at this one corner of calm in a world gone mad.

They asked me how I could be so cool.

I explained the book was from the ship's library and I had to finish it before going ashore. It was "The Razor's Edge" by Somerset Maugham.

So when The Fonze reminded me of Somerset, I told my son this tale of his cool dad at the end of World War 2.

"What a Nerd," he said.

Meet Charlevoix

Bob Miles

Bob Miles has lived in Charlevoix since early childhood. He loves the city and its history and as a commercial photographer collected hundreds of old pictures of its early days and took many more himself.

Some 385 of these pictures, complete with captions and other explanatory material, are contained in the book "Bob Miles' Charlevoix". This book is being published by the Charlevoix Historical Association as a fund-raising project for a Charlevoix Historical Museum.

Here he tells the Courier a little about his collection, how it started and what it contains.

COURIER: How did you happen to become a photographer?

MILES: Even as a child I was a photography buff. I used to sit on the bank of the river that ran between Round Lake and Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix) and watch the swans. I took many pictures of the flock, including the two which were brought here originally and which are the forebearers of all the swans in the area. I took many other pictures just for the fun of it. Then, in 1930, I went to the New York Institute of Photography. The first commercial pictures I ever took was 42 years ago when the old Fessenden Drug Store burned down. I used an old box camera and stood out in 22-below-zero weather to get them.

COURIER: How did you get all the very old pictures of Charlevoix that you have?

MILES: It started in 1957, Charlevoix' centennial year, when I let it be known I would copy and display in my shop window any old pictures brought in to me. The project snow-balled – so many contributed that I can't begin to remember who they were. Some people just tucked them in my door without leaving their names. Also, Bob and Pete Burns gave me a box of 40 or 50 glass plates they found in the old Ernest Peaslee farm on the Boyne City Road. Peaslee was one of the early photographers in the area.

COURIER: Are the old pictures of good quality?

MILES: They are of amazingly good quality. Even in the old days they had good photography equipment.

COURIER: What period of time do the pictures in the book span?

MILES: The oldest one was taken some time in the 1870's and the latest one in 1935.

COURIER: What is the subject matter of the pictures?

MILES: Just about everything pertaining to the history of Charlevoix – schooners and ships, buildings, streets, resorts, old settlers. There is one interesting picture of ground breaking for cottages in the Belvedere Club.

COURIER: How are the pictures arranged in the book?

MILES: Most of them are in chronological order. Sometimes it takes a little detective work to date a picture. I have one picture that I couldn't date but I noticed, through a magnifying glass, a little printing on it. By blowing it up a couple of times I found the words "Blaine and Logan" painted on the building. They were running for office. Do you know what year that was? 1884 – that's when the picture was taken.

COURIER: That's an interesting way to date a picture. There's a lot of history in your collection and everyone with any interest in Charlevoix should be happy you are making the pictures available in the historical Society book.

MILES: I was more than glad to do it – I wanted to share them.

COURIER: The book and the Museum Building Fund were announced only two or three weeks ago. How are the orders and money coming in?

MILES: Ed Beutner, president of the Historical Society, says they now have orders for over 130 books, have received 26 life memberships at $100 each and a special $1,000 contribution. All of the money received for books beyond the cost of publishing and distributing and all money for life memberships and other contributions goes into the Museum Building Fund.

COURIER: How much is the book selling for?

MILES: The pre-publication price (until June 15) is $20. After that it will cost $25. All persons who take out life memberships in the Society receive a copy of the book free.

COURIER: What is the address of the Charlevoix Historical Society, for those wanting to take out a life membership, buy a book or make a contribution?

MILES: P.O. Box 525, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720. Checks should be made payable to the Charlevoix Historical Society and marked "Museum Building Fund."

By now most of us have been exposed to the world of Rubber Ducks and Smokey the Bear. If we didn't have first hand knowledge before, certainly, C.W. McCall and his big hit "Convoy" has contributed to our awareness of the Citizens' Band (CB) radios.

Uncle Charley has some concerns, however, about the growing number of Rubber Ducks. Uncle Charley is the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and he has some tips for CB'ers and potential CB'ers.

Citizen Band radio equipment has become one of the fastest selling items in the radio / electronics market. CB equipment sales are expected to hit the billion dollar market in 1976. There is an estimated 11 million CB transmitters in operation. The FCC says it is not receiving license applications equal to the amount of equipment being sold. There are Federal regulations requiring any person transmitting on a citizen band radio to have a license.

The concern is not so much with the growing number of CB users, but with the growing number of unlicensed CB users. In March 1975, the FCC lowered the CB licensing fee from $20 to $4 to tempt people to register. In spite of this there are still several thousand operators transmitting without a license. There are other illegal uses of CBs that concern the FCC. When CB'ers use nicknames such as Rubber Duck and NightOwl instead of their assigned call letters, it poses a difficulty for local law enforcement officials to track the illegal use of the radios in burglaries, narcotics trafficking and transportation of stolen goods.

Misuse of CBs will eventually force new policies which may impose unwanted restrictions on users.

Licensed violators breaking CB rules may be fined up to $200 or have their license revoked or both. Those operating without a license may be fined up to $10,000 or be sentenced to one year in prison for the first offense or both.

Meanwhile here are some Uncle Charley to Rubber Duck tips for you.

-Operators must not transmit "Mayday" or other distress signals. distress signals.

-Transmission must not be used for any purpose that is prohibited by Federal, state or local regulations.

-Operators must not transmit obscene language.

-Messages must be submitted in plain language.

-Operators must not intentionally interfere with commercial radio transmissions, re-transmit programs, or use band for advertising.

-Transmissions are restricted to 150 miles and limited to 5 minutes.

-Operator must observe a one minute silence between transmissions.

-CB equipment must be low powered and must have FCC approval; sale and use of linear amplifiers is strictly prohibited.

Watching The Watch Industry
An agency of the United States Government, the Federal Trade Commission, keeps light reins on certain claims made by all watch companies (foreign and domestic) who sell watches in the U.S.
Before a watch can be sold as shock resistant, it must be proven that it can withstand a fall of 40 inches with no damage and no change in the daily rate of time keeping, except for one minute either faster or slower.
In order for a watch to be called water-resistant, it must, (as long as crown, crystal, and back remain intact) be able to stay submerged in water for 5 minutes at 15 pounds pressure and 5 minutes at 50 pounds of pressure, without admitting any water. All watch companies guarantee these claims on their models.

Area Industry Suffers from Accidents

What kind of a safety record have residents of Charlevoix County been compiling for themselves? How does it compare with the record in other communities?

On the basis of the last three annual reports, released by the U.S. Public Health Service, the local accident rate has been running somewhat higher than in most areas.

Local residents have been averaging 9 fatal accidents per year, the official figures show, with motor vehicles being the cause of 5 of them.

All types of accidents were included in the reports, whether they took place at home, on the job or while driving, swimming, boating or hunting.

All accidents involving local residents, wherever they may have taken place, are counted in the tabulation. Excluded are local accidents that affected only non-residents.

In general, according to the National Safety Council, for every fatal accident there are nearly 100 others that do not result in death but do necessitate medical attention and restricted activity.

From the standpoint of population, Charlevoix County's toll was above average during the three-year period. It was equivalent to a rate of 53 fatal accidents per 100,000 population per year.

By way of comparison, the rate throughout the rest of the East North Central States was 51 per 100,000. It averaged 50 in the State of Michigan.

The National Safety Council was highly gratified by the gains made in the past year. The total number of accidental deaths decreased by nearly 11,000, the final total being approximately 105,000.

The biggest reduction was in traffic fatalities – 17 percent below the previous year. Lower driving speeds were the single most important factor in the saving of lives, it finds.

According to the Council's figures, in addition to the 105,000 killed in accidents, another 11 million sustained disabling injuries. The economic loss this represents is placed at $43.3 billion and includes wage losses of $13.2 billion, $7.4 billion in insurance, and $6.5 billion in property damage, among others.

Charlevoix County's share of this bill, assuming that the average cost per accident applies locally, amounts to nearly $2,349,000.

CMU Offers Workshop

A teacher effectiveness workshop will be offered by Central Michigan University's Off Campus Education this spring in Petoskey. Elementary Education 508: "Workshop: Teacher Effectiveness Training" will be offered for two semester hours credit.

WVOY radio station played host to Charlevoix Elementary third graders recently. The elementary students, taught by Miss Joan Baumer, toured the Charlevoix studio.

Big Bite on Paychecks

Charlevoix Spends $19.3 Million in Taxes

How much will Charlevoix County residents be turning over to Uncle Sam next month in the form of income taxes?

With the deadline for filing, April 15th, just around the corner, local taxpayers are getting a painful inkling, as they prepare their reports, of just how much their payments will amount to.

According to the government's predictions, they will be more than last year, when approximately $18,099,000 was collected from area residents in personal income and employment taxes.

That is the estimated amount they contributed then, as determined by an unofficial breakdown of the returns received from the State of Michigan as a whole, which came to $12,066,000,000, according to the Treasury Department.

The local share it is calculated, represented some 0.15 percent of this total.

Those who were fully employed throughout 1975 and were, in most instances, earning more than they had the year before, will probably have bigger tax bills next month than they had previously. Little or nothing is expected from those who worked only part of the year or not at all.

Nationally, according to the Administration's budget, submitted to Congress in January, it is anticipated that individual income and employment taxes will be about $14.1 billion more than they were last April, an increase of 6.9 percent.

It counts on a total of around $217.0 billion from such taxes, as compared with last year's $202.9 billion.

Residents of the local area will be bearing their proportionate share of the increase. It will bring their payments next month close to $19,348,000, it is estimated.

The President's budget for the following fiscal year, which will end September 30, 1977, instead of July 30, 1977, projects income and expenditures covering a 15-month period, rather than the usual 12 months.

For Charlevoix County residents to be able to carry their current portion of the tax load and maintain their present standard of living, their income this year will have to be considerably higher than in 1975, assuming the tax rate remains the same.

Cellist to Play In Local Concert

Yehuda Hanani, Israeli cellist, will be featured at the final concert of the season of the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association this Thursday evening in the Petoskey Middle School Auditorium.

Hanani was born in Jerusalem and began his musical studies on the violin at the age of 6, then chose the cello three years later. He came to the United States at the age of 20 on a full scholarship from the America-Israel Cultural Foundation and the Juilliard School of Music.

Charlevoix Pharmacists Say Ozone Fight Forcing Alternative Product Packaging

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

Whether or not freon propellants in spray cans destroy the ozone layer of our atmosphere, Charlevoix pharmacists agree more and more products are available in alternative packaging.

Pharmacists Jim Williams, Dockside Pharmacy, and G Franklin Ochs, Central Drugs, say that more products such as deodorants, hair sprays and disinfectants now come in roll-on or pump dispensers as well as the spray variety. Both pharmacists also agree that there is a tendency among their consumers to buy non-aerosal packaging.

The manufacturers' switch in packaging is just good merchandizing practice, Tom Walenta, Petoskey pharmacist observes.

The debate about environmental damage that may be caused by the release of freon propellants into the atmosphere is behind an unilateral effort to have Michigan ban the use of aerosol spray containers using freon.

House Bill 4340, sponsored by Representative Perry Bullard (D. Ann Arbor), has been brought from the Public Health Committee of the Michigan House to the full house, where it is now being held for final debate until April 8th.

The bill has been delayed to allow legislators to receive the results of a study conducted by the American Academy of Science, due in April.

The American Academy of Sciences' report, it is hoped, will lend some scientific clarity to the question of whether or not the release of freon into the atmosphere does contribute to the destruction of the ozone layer and thus increase our exposure to ultra-violet radiation, which in turn would cause an increase in skin cancer.

Dangerous Freon

In an interview with the Courier, Representative Bullard stated that not only is the freon environmentally dangerous, but the aerosal cans are an economic "rip-off". Bullard says that "65 percent of the contents are propellant and not the useful product."

On that theme, Charlevoix Hospital Administrator, Richard Krueger reports that for reasons of economy, the hospital has switched from aerosal to different forms of dispensing, such as pump devices, when alternatives are available.

Little Traverse Hospital-Burns Clinic has stopped purchasing any spray cans which use freon, for reasons of ecology, according to Mrs. Virginia Hegeberg, Housekeeping Supervisor. She reports that staff pathologists began the anti-freon campaign about three years ago. A prohibition on the use of freon became policy at the hospital more than six months ago.

The total ban on spray cans using freon propellants would become state law if Bullard's bill passes in April.

Opponents, whose main lobbyist is the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, argue that if Michigan alone bans freon the effect on the ozone layer would be non-existant.

Opponents also say all the evidence is not in. Whether or not freon destroys the ozone layer is not specifically proven, they emphasize.

Chamber Opposition

Speaker for the State Chamber of Commerce, Craig Halverson told the Courier, that the arguments against the House Bill are "The answers to the scientific question are not in; and Michigan's actions won't have any effect, it would take world wide action."

All sides agree that Michigan's ban on freon will not save the ozone layer. They agree that it would take a world-wide ban.

Halverson says, "Freon released in Japan has just as much effect on the ozone layer over Michigan as freon released in Michigan."

Representative Bullard argues, "Michigan action would be a spur to national action.

"Michigan reacted against DDT before there was a national ban. Frequently states must be the leaders in this sort of action."

Bullard says that Michigan, with a population of nine million, consumes fiva percent of the spray cans in the U.S. He continues that other states, specifically Oregon and New York, have passed law banning freon propellants.

The proposed Michigan law, like the laws in other states would allow for a switch-over period from spray to other packaging or the use of other propellants.

State Attorney General Frank J. Kelley filed a joint petition with the Natural Resources Defense Council in 1975 urging the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to ban the use of freon at the national level. To date there has been no national action.

Arguing against a Michigan ban, Halverson told the Courier that it would involve $82 ½ million in retail sales.

Then in seeming contradiction, he conceded that the switch-over time period would minimize any lost revenues.

Wrestling A Family Affair

Wrestling is fast becoming a family affair in Charlevoix, Coach Norm Probert discovered during the annual Middle School Intramural Wrestling program held every spring.

Among the young wrestlers were those with familiar names such as Whitley, Sladek, Morrison, Loper, Byard and Golovich.

The confusion, however, started when 38 boys turned out for the Varsity squad.

It wasn't long before Coach Probert found he could no longer call out a command to a wrestler, using his surname....not when he found he had eight sets of brothers. This followed through in the Middle School where he found even younger brothers out for the sport.

Among the families involved have been the Whitleys, Dane and Dennis; Golovich, Craig and Dave; Hilton, Rob and Ron; Snizik, Mike and Brad; Trost, Don and Bill; Wimmer, Chris and Brian and Morrison, Gene and Tom. Then there's Probert, the coach and son, Gary, and Byard, Mark and younger brother, Joe, team manager.

Though this is a comparatively young sport, this year's Varsity had three members, Rich Borths, Tim DeYoung and Tom Jones, whose older brothers were former Varsity wrestlers.

Coach Probert said the thing he likes the best about the sport is what it offers the little guy. He named Mark Byard, who, as an 85 pound freshman had a one win-seven loss-one tie record but the following year came back as a 98-pounder who finished the past season with a 26-13 loss record including 16 pins and a district championship. "It is easy to see how this sport develops self confidence, motivation and self discipline as well as opportunities to share a sport with others and to make many new friends throughout the state" Coach Probert said.

Mapped Lakes Available From MUCC

Maps of many Michigan inland lakes no longer are available from the Department of Natural Resources, but can be ordered from the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, P.O. Box 2235, Lansing 48911, at 75 cents each. The equipment necessary for manufacturing the maps is no longer being used by the DNR.

Although scale and detail vary, the maps generally show lake outline, depth contours, weed beds, and shoreline features such as inlets, outlets and channels.

An MUCC publication entitled "Michigan Mapped Lakes" lists the lakes for which maps are available, and contains map order blanks. This 80 page booklet, priced at $1, also includes handy reference sections on Michigan campgrounds, boat launching sites and canoe trails, plus a host of other useful outdoor information.

8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm, and Wood. Absent: Alderman Selph.

The Minutes of the March 8, 1976 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Mayor Hansen recessed the Council to a Board of Appeals.

Board of Appeals convened with Aldermen McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm, and Wood Present: Absent: Alderman Selph.

A request for a use Variance on the Julius Gilbert property and the Northwest corner of Petoskey Ave. and Burns Street was the only item on the agenda, and after a lengthy discussion of this use, the Variance request was tabled by the Council.

Motion was offered to table the Variance by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Whitley.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm, and Wood. Absent: Alderman Selph.

Mayor Hansen adjourned the Board of Appeals to reconvene in the Common Council meeting.

Roll call was again taken with Alderman Selph being the only one absent.

Motion was offered by Alderman Whitley and supported by Alderman McRae to reconsider the rezoning action of February 23, 1976 taken by the Council on the request for rezoning of the property owned by Julius Gilbert whereby it was turned down. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm, and Wood. Absent: Alderman Selph.

Motion was offered by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Wood, that the property on the Northwest corner of Petoskey Ave. and Burns Street, known as the Julius Gilbert property being 173 feet North and South and comprising of three lots on Petoskey Ave. that it be rezoned from R-2 to Restricted Office and Professional. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm and Wood. Absent: Alderman Selph.

A lengthy discussion on the proposed Zoning Ordinance was conducted, and no action was taken on the Ordinance until further discussion and hearing were held.

All other items on the agenda were held over until the next regular meeting as there was not time for discussion of the items.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $71,628.93 find them correct and recommended the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wood that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Whitley, Timms, Plumm, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Selph.

Council adjourned.

Boulder Park retreat...

For the privacy seeker. This three bedroom one and a half bath home offers all the advantages of one of Charlevoix's most unique areas. Close to Lake Michigan (2 blocks) and close to the city. Maximum privacy on this heavily wooded lot with it's own stream.

Convenient in all aspects

Convenient to shopping (1 block). Convenient to move in (partially furnished). Convenient to maintain (a cozy two bedroom home). Convenient to purchase (priced at only $22,000).

House of........

Opportunity for rental income (2 apartments presently rented) Or opportunity for large home–7 rooms plus 3 baths. And/or opportunity for business location–66 ft. on S. Bridge St. in Charlevoix zoned C-1.

For a larger family....

Located in a quiet residential area, this lovely older home contains the indelible touch of Earl Young. Built in the early 1900's this attractive home includes a stone fireplace built by Mr. Young himself, with a second fireplace in the living room. This home has five bedrooms, 2½ baths, and to add to its flexibility it is zoned C-1. Price recently reduced to $36,500.

On Park Avenue....

Charming older Charlevoix home–This is a home with potential. Yes, it does need some of the handy man's touch as many homes in the same vintage do. It offers a superior location and 11 rooms; including 6 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and fireplace. Price recently reduced to sell.

Retiring or starting out?

This cozy two bedroom home located in one of Charlevoix's most attractive residential areas is close to the city and year 'round recreation. Use of private tennis courts and park area available. Priced to sell at $25,750, your choice of cash or land contract terms.

Two homes for the price of one. Use both for rental income or live in one and use the second home to assist with mortgage payments. Buy it today for $19,900.

A desirable package this two bedroom mobile home on attractive landscaped 3 acre site is an ideal starter or retirement home.

A Good Buy! Close to Charlevoix High School–3 bedrooms–large lot (132 x 132), new roof and many extras at $28,500. Call for details.

IN CHARLEVOIX - Cozy one-story ranch starting home in very good condition. Remodeled inside and out. Three bedrooms, 1 bath, and separate dining room. Priced for you at $23,900.

Land Parcels

1. Spring Brook Hills–Ideal building site, close to all skiing, central water system, paved roads. Your choice of cash or land contract terms at $7,750.00.

2. Walloon Lake Building site....100' of lake frontage over ¾ of an acre. Cash or terms.

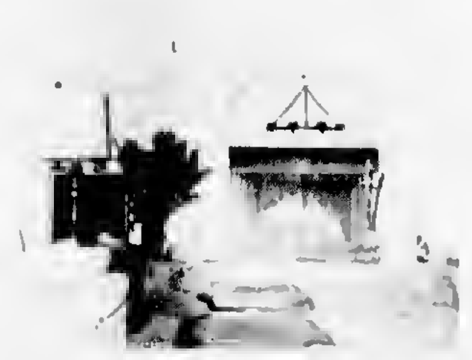
3. Close to Charlevoix–(4 miles) a one acre building site on blacktop road. Only $5,000 cash or land contract terms.

4. Enjoy the countryside...2 ten acre parcels in Hayes Township $8,500 each, cash or terms.

5. Sportsmen and fishermen–325' on the Jordan River, over 2 acres, an ideal private location for a recreation home. Cash or terms.

A VERY unique property–3000' of Lake Michigan frontage 110 acres. Owner will sell all or in parcels.

Built for a builder is this attractive home. Conveniently located close to Charlevoix (across from the historic Castle Farms) with 2 court yard gardens. Large (24 x 20) concrete patio. Family room with fireplace, 3 bedrooms, 2 full baths, 2 car finished garage. Priced to sell at $48,000.



Panoramic view of Lake Michigan and Islands from this 4 year old home with approximately 2200 sq. ft. of living space. 3 large bedrooms, 2 full baths, family room, 2 fireplaces. Located in the desirable Island View Subdivision. Call for your personal showing.

Get out of town! Everyone loves the country and this is the time to move into this Chalet with 5 acres, Heavily wooded, with trout pond and large deck overlooking countryside.

A touch of elegance....

in the serene village of Norwood describes this lovely home including living room with fireplace, dining room, family room, 4 bedrooms, new efficient kitchen (includes all appliances), sun porch, 2 car garage and many more extras on a large (132 x 198) attractively landscaped lot surrounded by a wood fence.

Serenity near Charlevoix....

is the only way to describe this captivating home. It has 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, fireplace, large family room, 2 car garage, your own green house and air conditioning. Located on a beautiful wooded lot with 155' of sandy Lake Michigan beach, 2 miles from Charlevoix.

House of Distinction....

on Charlevoix's north side, over 2700 square feet of living space including 4 bedrooms, (5 possibly) 3 baths, recreation room, family room (with stone fireplace), large living room. All this and many more attractive features on a ½ acre lot. This one you must see.

151 In Memoriams

IN LOVING MEMORY of our beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mabel Supernaw, who passed away three years ago March 28, 1973. Your memory, dear Mother, will never grow old. It's locked in our hearts in letters of gold. A cluster of memories, sprinkled with tears, wishing God could have spared you a few more years. Sadly missed by your husband, children, and grandchildren.

Obituary

Mrs. Lena Swanson

Funeral services for Mrs. Lena M. Swanson, 90, who died Tuesday at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Center where she had been a patient for six weeks, were held Friday at the Winchester Funeral Home.

The Rev. Raymond Giffin of the First Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born near Big Rapids May 18, 1885, the former Lena M. LaVallie was married to Edward W. Swanson at Grand Rapids in 1901. They came here from Mecosta county in 1906. Mr. Swanson preceded her in death in 1936. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and its Margaret Parker Circle.

She is survived by four sons, Edward C., Lawrence O., Ronald R., and John D., all of Charlevoix; three daughters, Mrs. George (Thelma) Booth of Mio, Mrs. Ralph (Rosemary) Bantwell of Kasota, Minn., and Mrs. Robert (Arloa) Ferguson of Charlevoix; 21 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren; a brother, George LaVallie of Paris, Michigan, and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Simmons of Lansing, Mrs. Florence Bowen of Drayton Plains, Mrs. Rose Wright and Mrs. Gladys Wright, both of Bitely.

William P. Woods

News of the death of a former resident, William P. Woods, 73, at Lake Bluff, Ill., last week has been received here.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at St. Mary's Church, Lake Bluff, Ill. Interment was Thursday, at a Mancelona cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix March 10, 1903, Mr. Woods enlisted in the U.S. Coast Guard in 1923 and served at stations along Lake Michigan before retiring as a Chief in 1949. He had resided in Lake Bluff, Ill., since then.

Surviving are his wife, the former Edla Westman whom he married at Mancelona; two daughters; two sons; several grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Clifford Colley of Petoskey and Mrs. James Payne and Mrs. Louis Reed of Detroit.

The family address is 702 N. Oak St., Lake Bluff, Ill., 60044.

Mrs. Forest Crook

Funeral services for Mrs. Furrest W. (Beryl B.) Crook, 68, who died Thursday at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital in Petoskey, where she had been a patient for two months, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Raymond Giffin officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

The former Beryl B. Bennett was born at Alba March 10, 1908, was graduated from school there and from the Kalamazoo Normal College. She was an elementary teacher in the Detroit and East Detroit School Systems for many years. She was married to Mr. Crook at Angola, Ind., in 1936. They resided in Detroit for 28 years until moving to Black Lake near Onaway where they lived for five years before coming here to make their home in 1973. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and its women's circle and the National Retired Teachers Association.

Surviving are her husband; one son, Edwin of Charlevoix; one grandchild; a brother, Rolla Bennett of Pompano Beach, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Wayne Riffenberg of Muskegon.

Campus Players Coming To Charlevoix Church

The Campus Players of Huntington College will present the play "The People Versus Christ" at the Charlevoix Community Church of God Thursday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m.

"The People Versus Christ" is set in the framework of a trial in a modern courtroom. The star witness in the case is a girl named Mary. Under the probing of a prosecutor, she is compelled to tell about a recurring dream which is considered relevant to the case.

The dream is played out as she tells it, with members of the cast taking a variety of roles. The scenes are incidents in the life of Christ which are especially memorable to Mary, His mother.

The public is invited to attend the performance.

BIDS WANTED

Sealed bids for furnishing materials and erection of one 32' x 36' x 12' pole type, metal siding and roof, storage building, will be received at the Charlevoix Township Fire Station and Pumphouse located at the intersection of Waller Road and Martin Road in the Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, until 8 PM E.S.T. Tuesday, April 27, 1976, at which time bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Medusa Cement Gets Clean Health Bill

State pollution control experts say Medusa Cement of Charlevoix has one of the cleanest operations in the state.

"They are probably the best controlled," says John Shaffer, engineer for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources' Air Pollution Control Division.

Shaffer recently completed a pollution sample test of Medusa's cement kiln that showed Medusa far better than state requirements.

State tests showed that particulate emission was .04 pounds per thousand pounds of gas. State codes allow .25 pounds per thousand, while the Charlevoix Township code allows .20 pounds per thousand.

Shaffer said there were no visible emissions during the study. He said it was the first conducted since 1971, and was part of an ongoing policing action conducted by the state agency.

The state tests came after residents complained last fall that a foul smell apparently was coming from the plant located just outside Charlevoix.

The state plans to conduct stack testing this summer in order to measure sulfur dioxide emissions and stack gas odor.

The tests are paid in Michigan through State Emission Fees levied upon industry.

"Charlevoix Township was one of the leaders in establishing emission fees paid by industry to cover the cost of inspection and regulation of industries rather than utilizing general tax funds," said a township official.

Youth Benefit Game Friday

There are still tickets left for Friday's benefit basketball game between the Detroit Lions football team and Charlevoix All-Stars.

The game, which is being sponsored by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputies, will benefit the Big Brothers / Big Sisters organization and the Charlevoix High School Band.

Lions team members making the trip will be Bob Kowalkowski, Charlie Sanders, Herb Orvis, Levi Jackson, Ray Jarvis, Jim Thrower and Larry Ball.

They will test their skills against the 15-member All-Star team consisting of Dave Strawbridge, Stewart Coleman, Topper Carey, Dan McKenzie, Kevin Swanson, Dave Swanson, Joe Beaudoin, Bruce Meggison, Roger Crain, Dave Moyer, Bill Cousineau, Ike Boss, Tim Doan, Dave Novotny, and Leroy Buchanan.

Tickets for the game, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the high school gymnasium, are available from all members of Big Brothers / Big Sisters, the high school band, at King's, Juilleret's and Left's restaurants, and at the Harbor Barber Shop.

School Officials Pay Additional Postage Bill Rather than Appeal Case to Washington

By FRAN MARTIN

School officials decided Monday to pay additional postage and permit costs for recent school campaign material rather than appeal its case to Washington.

The school board heard a report Monday that they could have been charged the bulk rate for mailing the controversial "Donaldson letter" prior to the March 22, election had it been mailed in the school's envelopes.

However, since the letters were mailed without such an address, the letters cost 7.7 cents (instead of 1.877 cents) plus a mailing permit, according to postal officials.

The school was given an option to appeal its case to Washington, but decided to pay the cost which totaled $188 for postage and permit. The cost was underwritten by the board and school superintendent.

The letter had been offered to the board by Dick Donaldson of Charlevoix to promote the passage of millage for building programs at the Middle and High School.

Since the letter was of a promotional nature, the superintendent said he and the board shared the costs of reproducing the letter on school stationery and postage under the bulk rate.

However, after the letter had been processed by the Charlevoix Post Office, postal officials discovered that the mailing actually was a personal letter signed by Donaldson to school district residents and should not have been mailed under the low cost, non-profit rate.

The Charlevoix Board of Education also voted to borrow $720,000 from July 2, 1976, until March 15, 1977, Monday in anticipation of taxes to underwrite operational costs until tax monies come in next year.

In answer to the questions of why the borrowing was necessary this early in the year, it was explained that the Michigan Finance Commission advises borrowing early to get a better interest rate.

At the present time, short term notes can be obtained at interest rates as low as 4.4 percent, but are expected to increase later.

It was necessary to borrow only $480,000 last year due to the summer tax collection in the city and one township. This was down from $683,000 the year before.

This was the major item on the agenda which included a variety of issues. Among them was the authorization of Max Novak, board president, Kenneth Boss, secretary, and Claire C. Martin, treasurer to approve the 1976 proposed budget with the Tax Allocation Board which is scheduled to meet Monday. The proposed budget, which is not complete at this time, is expected to require .1 of a mill more than the school district received last year or 9.2 mills.

The board established the sale price of the Building Trades house in Hampton Village at $42,000 which will include a $1400 carpet allowance, payment of the sewer assessment in the amount of $1142 and $1000 sales commission. The board's next action was to approve the sale of the tri-level 3 bedroom home to Carl L. Anderson, Jr., of Dallas, Tex., for that amount in cash. Kenneth Boss, secretary, was named to represent the school district in the transaction.

Approval was also given the recommendation that the school purchase Lot No. 1 in Hampton Village from John Yaroch for a price of $6500 plus $972.50 sewer assessment. This was the same price Yaroch paid for the property. The school district now owns three lots in Hampton Village as possible building sites for Building Trade houses.

A request for an early graduation and attendance at North Central Michigan College made by Julie Geer was approved.

A recommendation to initiate and conduct a summer baseball program for the 1976 season was tabled until the board has an opportunity to evaluate existing sports programs in the school and find funds to support such a program.

This decision followed a contested issue regarding the hiring of a girls' assistant track coach. This proposal was finally approved by a vote of 4-1 with two members absent. The first proposal which did not limit the hiring of an assistant coach to any given number of years had resulted in a 2-2 tie which could not be broken with the chairman, Charles Elzinga, voting because a four vote margin was needed. The proposed hiring was then

HUD Rejects Funds

A $300,000 request for federal funding to do several city projects has been turned down by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mayor Ed Hansen said Charlevoix had requested the Community Development Block Grant funding to buy land and pay for initial development costs for Charlevoix's proposed senior citizen housing project, as well as improve city hall.

"We didn't qualify because we aren't poor enough," he said about the HUD rejection.

The Charlevoix mayor said the program apparently was designed to upgrade substandard housing in urban areas.

He said one of the problems was that Charlevoix's condominiums were included in the total number of housing units available in the city.

The mayor said HUD's rejection would have no bearing on Charlevoix's senior citizen housing project. The HUD request had only been designed to supplement funds being requested for the senior citizen project.

HUD officials said over 160 preapplications requesting over 30 million dollars were filed by Michigan localities. Only $5,379,000 was available for funding all requests from non-metropolitan areas in Michigan.

Inflation

Inflation! It is not just going to go away. The labor unions are creating the vicious circle. Every time they strike, prices go up. The truckers just sent prices up ten percent. There will be other strikes very soon, unless we stop it. How? There is one way, and that is to freeze everybody's wages. Right now, this is the only way to stop the vicious circle.

Heartworm Disease

Heartworms produce a serious disease in dogs. The disease, caused by large, white worms that fill the animals heart, is often fatal if left unchecked. Heartworms are transmitted by mosquitoes and the increase in incidence of heartworms is becoming a major problem in the United States. The disease in Northern Michigan, although nowhere near epidemic proportions has been on the increase each year. Many local dogs have been diagnosed as having heartworms.

Severe heartworm infestations cause damage to a dog's heart and other organs before visible clinical signs occur. Your veterinarian can diagnose the presence of adult heartworms through a blood test. If caught early, before clinical signs occur, many dogs can be treated successfully through a carefully planned treatment program. If the test shows that a dog is free of heartworms, he or she may be put on a preventative medication which is given daily through mosquito season.

This medication is given from May 1st until Dec. 1st or until two months after mosquito season ends. A dog must be negative on the heartworm test each year before you can start giving the preventative tablets or liquid. Northern Michigan is a vulnerable area for increased incidence in heartworm disease since many of the tourists from higher incident areas travel with their dogs in Northern Michigan during the summer months.

Sheriff Sumner Announces Re-Election Plans

Philo E. Sumner, Charlevoix County Sheriff for the past 10 years, has announced his candidacy for reelection to the office in the forthcoming election.

Sheriff Sumner, dean of law enforcement officers in Charlevoix County, has been associated with this field for the past 25 years.

He first joined the Boyne City Police Department in 1950 and left that department to become associated with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department under Sheriff Glenn E. Rose in April 1956. After eight years, he returned to the Boyne City Police Department where he put in a year before re-joining the Sheriff's Department in November 1965.

Following the resignation of Sheriff Rose the following spring, he was appointed to the office, effective June 1, 1966. Two years later he sought nomination to the office and in November 1968 was elected to a four year term. In 1972 he was re-elected without opposition.

In becoming a candidate for the third time in an election that is expected to attract several other candidates, Sheriff Sumner points to his record as sheriff and to the growth of the department under his administration to reflect his qualifications for the post of chief law enforcement office in the county.

When Sheriff Sumner assumed his duties as sheriff in 1966, the staff was composed of two deputies, a matron, a dog warden and night man who was in charge of security at the jail.

Today, the department has 18½ employees not including a full-time cook resulting from increased demands on the department, mainly because of the increase in the county's year-around population as well as summer population. Today there is an under sheriff, a part-time matron, 9½ full-time deputies including Marine, Snowmobile, Animal Control officer and a part-time deputy on Beaver Island; six full-time security officers who man the office and radio room and a janitor. Among these are four CETA employees, one a certified officer and three certified security officers.

In 1971, the department moved from its former location on Antrim st. to the present new building on Grant st. The transition was made with a minimum of confusion, Sheriff Sumner points out.

Regulations for operating the department and the qualifications for personnel have changed radically. He has seen that his employees have attended the necessary schools and, in some instances, has hosted special training sessions at the jail here to keep his people abreast of regulations. At the present time, employees have more than 120 certificates among them, all earned by study on their part.

The introduction of a union also had its impact on the department but even this was done with a minimum of confusion, Sheriff Sumner states.

In conclusion, Sheriff Sumner said: "I am proud of the Sheriff's Department and the people associated with it. We have made great strides in the 10 years I have served as sheriff. I feel we have been through the greatest growth period we will know. I think my record during these trying years speaks for itself and my qualifications to continue in the office".

PCB: State Fish Biologists Track Chemical Effect on Fish

By Tom Dammaan

The two-year-old mystery surrounding the mortality of Atlantic Salmon in the Boyne River is gradually clearing, with scientists pointing the finger at PCB (polychlorinated biphenyal) contamination as the cause.

The conclusions are ominous in the eyes of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) fish biologists.

"After what I have seen in the Atlantic Salmon, I am reluctant to eat any quantity of fish from the Great Lakes. What are we doing to our world?" laments John G. Hnath, DNR pathologist at the Wolf Lake Hatchery.

Hnath wrote the above in a letter covering a preliminary report by a Canadian specialist, Dr. Ron A. Sonstegaard, who is a world renowned expert on the affects of pollution on Great Lakes fish.

An endocrine system researcher at the University of Guelph in Ontario, who has been studying cancer in Great Lakes fish, Dr. Sonstegard came to the Boyne River last summer to perform autopsies on a number of Atlantics seined from the river by DNR personnel.

In a preliminary report released by Stephen C. Swan, DNR biologist in charge of the Boyne River, Atlantic Salmon Program, Dr. Sonstegard says that though the results of all tests are not yet in, symptoms "Seem to suggest a physiological and/or toxological problem."

He says that gonadal development of the Atlantic is unique in that it is a stress factor in the fish. If other stress is added the combination will be more than the fish can tolerate.

PCB Residues

He says that "the lepis depots" (concentrations of fatty tissue) "are known sites of deposition of a number of environmental factors, in particular the polychlorinated hydrocarbons, i.e. PCB and DDT."

In sending a copy of Sonstegard's preliminary findings to Jock R. Hammond, who is in charge of the DNR's hatchery management section, Hnath stressed the conjectural nature of the report, but added that Canadian scientist's "hypothesis of PCB problems certainly seems logical to me."

He then quoted Nathaniel P. Reed, Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Fish, Wildlife and Parks.

"The omnipresence of PCB residues in our environment looms as a very dark cloud casting an ominous shadow upon all of our fish and wildlife resource programs, which depend on environmental quality and healthy habitats," Reed said in a speech at a conference on PCB held in Chicago last November.

"The Department cannot justify a salmon restoration program in any northeastern river system where fish will be subjected to PCB residues.

"The irony of our position today is that our left hand is spending millions of dollars and thousands of man years to establish a crucial resource, while our right hand renders each new growth of this resource malignant. Our new resource will not only self-destruct but can place the human population in mortal danger," Reed concluded.

The Atlantic Salmon have been planted in the Boyne below Kircher Dam each spring since 1972. They swim downstream into Lake Charlevoix and then into Lake Michigan. The summer of 1974 was the first year they were mature enough to return to the Boyne River to spawn, but all that did died.

However, last summer, Swan and his crew were able to get 15,000 eggs from four females before they died. Nine thousand fry hatched from these in the Wolf Lake Hatchery, and died later. Results of laboratory tests on 1500 of these are not yet available.

The fact that there is no mortality problem with the brood stock at Wolf Lake further convinces the specialists that the contaminant is in Lakes Charlevoix and Michigan.

At the PCB conference scientists revealed that all Lake Michigan lake trout and salmon tested in 1974 were contaminated with PCB and unfit for human consumption.

Because the Atlantic Salmon "is a great sports fish," Swan urges the continuation of the program in "an all out effort to find the cause and cure for the mortality."

Legislation outlawing PCB in Michigan was signed into law by the governor March 26 and takes affect July 1.

American Bicentennial Honors Charlevoix's Cherry Pie Day

Charlevoix's world's largest-ever cherry pie to be baked next month got another distinguished honor bestowed upon it this week.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Administration has recognized the project as one of the top official events taking place in May.

The monstrous pie to be baked at Medusa Cement Company on Saturday, May 15, was one of three Michigan events being recognized in Michigan by the Administration.

The other two are the Holland Tulip Time Festival in Holland and the German Festival in Sturgis.

The pie will weigh close to ten tons, according to Dave Phillips, proprietor of the Grey Gables Restaurant, who is heading up the project.

A combination Bicentennial celebration and inauguration of Michigan Week 1976, it is hoped that hundreds of special education students from around the state will accept invitations to watch the historic proceedings.

Enjoy the Spring Season But, Watch for Bicycles

Spring is slowly creeping into Charlevoix and signs of the gentle season can be seen everywhere—especially from bicycles.

The first green leaves of the crocus are pushing their way through the half-frozen earth of area gardens, the first kites have already become tangled in city trees and power lines and bicyclists have hit the roads.

Another, and not so welcome, sign of spring will also soon appear in the city—bicycle accidents.

To make this spring as safe as possible, Charlevoix area policemen have offered some safety tips to residents driving the two-wheeled, people-powered vehicles.

"One of the main causes of bicycle accidents is that the riders don't yield the right-of-way like they should," Deputy Tom Sumner of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, said.

"Bicyclists must use the same caution that cars do," he emphasized.

Sumner said he has often seen cyclists in the Charlevoix area run through stop signs and red lights. The deputy said drivers of cars and trucks coming the other way expect the cyclists to stop like cars would. When the cyclists don't stop it causes an accident, Sumner said.

Use Heads

"What it boils down to is that bicycle riders aren't using their heads when they don't obey the traffic laws," Sumner said.

The deputy also reminded cyclists to drive their bikes on the right side of the road.

"Many cyclists ride on the left side of the road," Sumner said. "This is dangerous and another cause of many accidents."

The deputy sheriff said bicyclists have the same rights to the road as car drivers do, but they have to follow the same rules, too. Sumner said so far the sheriff's department has not been ticketing bicycle riders when they disobey traffic laws, but he said many communities are starting to ticket careless bicycle riders.

"Many cities downstate have special ordinances which allow them to give citations to bicycle riders who break traffic laws," he explained. "The people have to appear before the magistrate and pay fines when they get the citations."

Stay Alert

Sgt. Harold Scholten of the State Police also warned bicyclists to stay alert and watch where they are going when they ride their two-wheeled vehicles.

"Many accidents are caused by people not looking where they are going and they dart out in front of a car," Sgt. Scholten said. "It's hard to avoid hitting a cyclist that has pulled out right in front of you."

Both officers also suggested that bicycle enthusiasts look for signs marking bicycle routes through cities and along county roads and follow them. The bicycle routes generally go through areas that do not have as much automobile traffic and are safer for bicycle traffic, they said.

Many of the green and white signs can be seen on Charlevoix streets.

Sumner said this year the Charlevoix Sheriff's Department also had registration cards available to help safeguard bicycle owners from theft.

"All the owners have to do is come down to the sheriff's office and fill out a card with the description of their bike and the serial number," he said.

Good Friday Services

The traditional Union Good Friday service of worship will be held at the United Methodist church at 104 State-st from 1 p.m. until 2:50 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

The theme of the service will be centered around the traditional seven last words of Jesus as He hung dying on the Cross.

Participating pastors will include the Rev. William P. Seibert of the Community Church of God, the Rev. Raymond Giffin of the First Congregational Church, the Rev. Keith Simon of the Church of the Nazarene, the Rev. Hugh Cowan of the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Donald Schorsch of the Assembly of God, the Rev. Austin Regier of the host church.

Mrs. Robert Tollas will present a solo. Mrs. Arden McGeorge will be at the organ.

Members of all denominations are invited to attend the service.

Mail Service Needs To Look Again At its Performance

Pastmaster General Benjamin Bailar recently said in Washington that the American public will have to make a decision on the kind of postal service it wants.

And, he said, that decision will have to be made soon.

Speaking before the National Newspaper Association, Bailar said that if the public--and the U.S. business community--wants to maintain the present level of postal service--the price tag will be steep.

To maintain that present level, he told newspaper publishers from across the United States that either postage rates will have to be increased, or a large, new infusion of taxpayer dollars must be added to the system.

While we can't argue that the cost of providing a postal service is probably skyrocketing, we wonder if the post office is taking the right approach.

Bailar has warned that the Postal Service is headed for potential disaster. Some critics of Postal Service management have argued that this has already happened.

A look at the Postal Service's performance since reorganization indicates that Bailar--and perhaps his critics--is right.

When the old Post Office Department was reorganized, the primary calculation considered that would lead the Postal Service to self-sufficiency was an increasing mail volume. This has been a big miscalculation.

Mail volume declined last year--only the third time in this century that is has done so--to 89 billion pieces. According to the Postal Service, mail volume will continue to decline until, by 1981, it will reach only 83.5 billion pieces.

With the decline in volume--especially in first class, which is the financial backbone of the USPS--has come rising costs of operating the mail system.

Clearly 85 percent of the Postal Service's annual $14.2 billion budget goes for labor. Another 5 percent or more of the budget goes for fuel for the service's 220,000 cars and trucks.

In an effort to keep itself floating--and reduce its daily operating deficit of $3 million--the Postal Service has taken the only option open to it--cutting costs.

Bailar says the service has done several things in this area, according to a story appearing in a newspaper trade publication called Publishers' Auxiliary.

One, he said, has been stepped-up efforts to identify nonessential jobs. Two others have been a virtual ban on outside hiring and the reassigning of excess employees to places where they're needed.

USPS has also imposed a prohibition on overtime--except where it's needed to move the mail--and it has deferred capital spending.

Most obvious--and a move that has stirred violent reaction around the nation and in Congress-- is the move by the Postal Service to close rural post offices.

But according to Bailar, "These economy measures cannot come close to solving our immediate financial problems."

To meet the problem, Bailar has requested that the public service subsidy of $920 million provided by Congress be doubled. He has asked that the subsidy be extended for two or three years, until, as he told newspaper publishers, "some solution to our long-range problems can be found."

As a major user of the postal system, we find the subsidy somewhat hard to swallow.

Before running to Congress with more demands for money, we wonder if Bailar has properly assessed the postal dilemma.

For example, rather than discontinuing rural post office service wouldn't it be more advantageous and economical to discontinue rural home delivery and require people to go to central collection points to get their mail?

Even in the cities, we wonder if it would be better to have a mini-station serving several blocks, where people could walk to pick up their mail.

We also question whether a closer look should be taken at increasing third and fourth class rates instead of sticking it to those who mail first class.

Dependable mail service is vital, we only question how vital it is for everyone to receive daily home delivery if the cost for the service is going to be so high.

TV Problems

Dear Sir,

In the event there may be one or more TV viewers and newspaper readers who have not been able to sift out the truth concerning the current Presidential Primaries, I submit the following observations.

In the Florida primary, as a typical example, Mr. Reagan lost to Mr. Ford by about 3 percent of the total Republican vote. At the same sideshow, Governor Wallace lost to Mr. Carter by the same 3 percent of the total Democrat vote. Mr. Reagan's deficit was about 26,000 votes while Wallace's approached 40,000 votes.

Now do you suppose there is anyone who would believe that if Mr. Reagan was not in the race, at least 3 percent of his supporters won't switch to Wallace, creating at least a tie with Carter? And conversely, that if Wallace was absent, that Reagan won't get enough votes to swamp Ford?

Of course, either "conservative" candidate running unopposed (Wallace or Reagan) would probably sweep the field and win their party's nomination on the first ballot. Obviously that isn't the game plan of the powers that run this particular charade.

It took an assassin's bullet to stop Wallace in 1972. A new tactic is being employed this year—enter Ronald Reagan. Without his help, Carter, Jackson and all the rest of the Judas Goats in this particular show would already be on the sidelines, forcing the early unveiling of the party bosses true choice for the nomination - the international socialist, Hubert Humphrey, or TEDDY BARE; you take your pick.

But let's take George Wallace out of the cast of characters and now Ford would be so far behind Reagan he would probably resign from the race, if not the Presidency itself, if Nelson told him to.

But we are forced to observe the "fight" day after day primary after primary with the only real losers the American people who are attempting by the hundreds of thousands (count them) to vote for a constitutional conservative as their nominee for President of the United States. This is indeed not a comedy but a Greek tragedy being staged for all the world to see.

To make sure that Americanism dies an early and unnatural death, the coup de grace is being applied within states such as our own. To make sure Wallace doesn't stage a repeat of his 1972 Michigan performance, the state Democrats are not allowing their supporters to select their nominee for President this year. No free and open election this year, oh no. This time only card carrying, dues paying Democrat party club members can help select the "peoples" choice, and that in closed caucus. How about that, liberty loving Jacksonian Democrats? They want your money and your vote but not your opinion.

And if Milliken's darling, Bobby Davis, our erstwhile Senator, has his way, you Republican's will be getting the same medicine. Bob is working frantically to have your open delegate election of men and women from around the state to choose the Republican Presidential standard bearer set aside also. But only for this year and to save us the cost of the Primary Election—again only this year. It's absolutely terrible that all you folks, Republicans and Democrats, force your leaders to such extremes to get what is best for you.

But don't despair, for the top executive of the United States is not a total dictator yet, and he isn't likely to be until Nelson engineers himself into the top spot. The real opportunity to make your vote count for a continuation of our republican form of government rests with your vote for the United States Representative to Congress. With almost unbelievable wisdom, our founding fathers put the control of the ultimate source of power - money and how, if and when it will be spent - in the hands of congressional representatives. Look past the two ring sideshow being staged to keep your attention away from the real source of governmental power. Focus instead your attention on the terrible voting record of your present congressman, and let'a get together and replace him with someone who will keep his oath of office.

If enough Americans will do that this year, it matters not who is President - even Rockefeller - because a congress beholden to no one but rather to its promise to protect and preserve the United States Constitution is all the protection your liberty, your property and your life requires.

Sincerely,
Malcolm W. Dale

Poor Jimmy Carter! He should have left the question of "ethnic purity" with old Adolph Hitler and picked a better phrase.

As you probably know unless you live in a cave, Carter got into hot water Tuesday when he said there is nothing wrong with a community "trying to maintain the ethnic purity of its neighborhoods."

Of course, the ethnic purists, whoever they are, were immensely pleased and opined that Jimmy Carter would make a damn fine president.

The rest of us were a little surprised, since we don't make it a practice of contemplating our own ethnic purity all that much. In the first place, it's not all that pure and I'm not even sure it's ethnic.

At last count, I have six different nationality blood strains coursing through my veins from the last three generations alone. Judy has about the same number, but they're mostly different. Which means that our poor little kids are the repositories of blood lines from at least a dozen different lands — and probably many more.

But I don't think we're unique. Most young Americans today are a blending of many different cultures over the past few generations. And I think this is what America is all about. We are developing a new strain of people which certainly will be no "better" than the traditional lines, but hopefully will produce a happy blend of physical and psychological characteristics that will help our progency cope with the complexities of their world.

Now back to Jimmy Carter.

Racists, of course, assumed Jimmy Carter was in their camp with his "ethnic purity" comments. Although Carter hails from the deep South, his record on race issues is impeccable. Furthermore, he already has won wide support among blacks the country over. It doesn't seem possible that the "ethnic purity" crack was racially motivated.

Carter was so upset by the remark that he ended up apologizing rather than explaining, but I think I have an idea what he had in mind. In fact, everyone in Michigan should be familiar with our system of ethnic enclaves, since they occur from one end of the state to the other.

People of one nationality background are more comfortable living in a neighborhood with others with similar backgrounds. It's as simple as that.

When I was a kid, we lived in a neighborhood in Detroit which was largely Scotch-Irish. A block away began a black neighborhood. Six blocks out, Dexter-ave. a Jewish neighborhood began. Poles inhabited Hamtramck, over on the East Side. There was a sizeable German community near John R. and 6 Mile-Rd. Greeks lived downtown in the vicinity of Monroe-st. Chinatown was over on Third-st. near Lafayette.

Each nationality group had its own little section of the city, but we traveled freely between them, running out to Dexter-ave. for pumpernickle bread or down to Third-st. for a Chinese dinner.

The same thing has occurred throughout Michigan, with Norwegians, Swedes and Finns populating the Upper Peninsula, Poles settling the northern half of the Lower Peninsula, Dutchmen colonizing the dune country around Grand Rapids and Germans staking out huge sections of Monroe County and the Thumb area.

And, like Carter, I don't see anything wrong with such "ethnically pure" neighborhoods where newcomers to this land can establish roots under the shelter and encouragement of kindred souls.

In fact, the America we know today was cradled in such ethnically pure neighborhoods. Some of them have continued into the 1970's. Others have disappeared. Still others have become home for other ethnic groups.

Regardless of what Carter's critics say, ethnically pure neighborhoods are totally American in concept and function.

Erma Bombeck

As a grandmother, I intend to be an absolute bore about my grandchildren. I intend to travel with a projector, a screen and 200 lifelike slides showing them chewing on clothespins and standing on their heads. I will produce from my handbag (with or without request) recent urine samples, a tape of them gargling milk at the dinner table and clever sayings that will put Art Linkletter out of business.

As a mother, however, I refuse to inflict my children on anyone. (God knew what he was doing when he gave them a dictator.)

Consequently, I often find myself at the mercy of women with Super Children. Super Children are unmitigated joy. They can always be counted on to do and say the right thing. They always make the team, have fewer cavities, skin acne, know what they want to be in the third grade, have their paper displayed at Open House, and always remember to bring home the Mother's Day card from art class.

I have made a study of Super Children and have come to the conclusion that the only difference between Super Children and Normal kids is in the interpretation. For example:

Normal Kids	Super Children
Forgetful	Preoccupied
Fat	Healthy
Sloppy beasts	Academically geared
Weirdo who won't get a haircut	Nonconformist
Lazy bum	Deep thinker
Flunked out	Victim of poor teacher
TV adict	TV critic
Cut from the team	Saved from a prejudice coach
Forgot me on Mother's Day	Is saving his money for my operation
Oversleeps in the morning	A recessive gene

I recently decided to test my theory on two mothers of Super Children with kids away at college. I ambled over to one and said, "Does Martha write home much from school?"

"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."

"Too bad," she sighed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."

I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"

"Oh, yes," she said. "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said, "I'd worry to have a child so dependent."

I get the feeling I lose the minute I open my mouth.

This Alumnus Isn't Bleeding

Sorry, MSU, but I didn't feel a thing.

Maybe I'm an uncommon alumnus, but I don't think so. I think Michigan State University is regularly spewing out thousands of graduates who don't really give a d— if they never see the place again.

MSU has been making lots of news lately, all of it exceedingly educational if you're an ape. The football staff got caught overpaying some players, so the head coach and several others got the boot. The basketball coach, a Greek named Ganakas, was fired because he was too sweet a guy to make his black players behave. A special committee has been assigned to hire Telly Savalas.

Jack Breslin, the man in charge of the entire athletic program, was forced to step down. To make his humiliation complete, he will soon be named to replace Clifton Wharton as MSU president. Wharton will be promoted to cheerleader for the soccer team.

In the wake of his carnage, Detroit Free Press sports editor Joe Falls wrote: "It is particularly sad that so many innocent people have been hurt: the students, the alumni...While the violators are being punished, it is these people who will be made to suffer for many years to come."

One of the reasons Joe is such a good sports columnist is he never wasted time going to college. He learned on the job, which is always the best way, although sometimes awkward for budding brain surgeons. But Joe did miss learning one thing by skipping classes. He didn't learn that most of the students and alumni of the huge jock universities don't suffer a bit when their hired gladiators break a leg.

Some of us don't even care if our gladiators have sinned so grievously they are banned from TV. This prevents a national audience from hearing a sidelines interview with a coach who won't say anything because he has his own show on another network.

There are many reasons for attending one of the giant universities which have sprung up along the edges of stadia parking lots. It was a good way to keep out of Vietnam. Some kids go for beer and sex. Many go because Dad is paying and it's more fun than working. And there are students who actually study. You'll find them in the library, fighting over the college book.

But almost no one picks a university because the football team had a 9-0 record last year. Not even the players. They pick the school that will pay them the most. Which is my point.

The students know the athletes are professionals, paid to do a job, the same way the teachers are paid. Call it salary, tuition, plane tickets home or a job carrying scruples for the coaching staff. It's still pay for play. Only a dummy believes any phony baloney about dedicated amateurs doing and dying for the alma mater. Only Ronald Reagan will win one for the Gipper.

When the students become alumni, they don't leave their smarts at the campus malt shop. Oh, many of them buy tweed hats and return on Saturdays to cheer and get drunk in old familiar places. But they still recognize a rancid pompon when it turns their gut. They know big-college football is a professional sport and the team that recruits the best players is the team that wins. They know the better the recruit, the higher his pay.

So the students and alumni are not shocked when the recruiters are caught cheating. We are not hurt. We don't feel our innocence has been violated. We always knew it was a dirty business.

Besides, next time they might catch Ohio State.

Meet Charlevoix

Edith Gilbert

Edith Gilbert, well-known Charlevoix author, has recently published her book on Charlevoix's summer resort life between World War I and II.

The Courier this week talks with Mrs. Gilbert about her writing career and the book, "Summer Resort Life: Tango Teas and All!"

COURIER: When did you first come to Charlevoix to live?

GILBERT: We started summering here in 1940, but we've been living in Charlevoix year 'round since 1962. The Porker moving truck arrived at our front door step the day Kennedy was shot.

COURIER: Why did you move to Charlevoix?

GILBERT: It was my husband's decision. He has always loved Charlevoix.

COURIER: Are you originally from Detroit?

GILBERT: No. I was born in New York and traveled all over during my childhood because my father was in the export business. I graduated from high school in California and then attended U.C.L.A.

COURIER: When did you start your writing career?

GILBERT: I started getting rejection slips until 1962, when United Features Syndicate Service ran a series of my features on entertaining. Jim Doherty, editor of the Petoskey News-Review, was very helpful in pointing me that way. He gave me names and places I should write to get my material published—one of them was United Features.

COURIER: What were your features about?

GILBERT: They were on how to entertain, how to be a good holiday host and the art of conversation. Those stories kind of got me started. I then got all my syndicated stories together and had them published in a book called, "All About Parties," published by Hearthside Press of New York. The book also included some kitchen-tested recipes and is still available at the Park Place in Charlevoix.

COURIER: What happened after you published your first book?

GILBERT: I began self-publishing, which is when you actually start publishing your own books. You would be surprised how many well-established authors have published their own books, either because they didn't want to become censored or wanted more freedom in how their work should be published. I decided to begin publishing my own books because I had a unique idea and wanted to have complete control of my own idea rather than be subjected to other people's ideas. In order to publish your own books, you must make sure you have a definite market.

COURIER: Have you written any other books?

GILBERT: Besides the one just completed, I published "Let's Set the Table" in 1972, and "Tabletop: The Right Way" last month. "Tabletop" is more of a trade book for the Syracuse China Corporation and has particular interest for restaurant owners and other professionals.

COURIER: How did you become interested in your new book about Charlevoix's summer resorts?

GILBERT: The four Detroit Free Press magazines I wrote had become so appealing to people in the area, I decided that they might make a good book. The subject matter was interlocking and I felt the impact of reading this at one sitting would be much greater than having the articles printed every so often in a newspaper. Plus, I had also come across a lot of other related material that was interesting.

COURIER: When did you start on the book?

GILBERT: I started in September, and spent hundreds of hours editing the material I had gathered.

COURIER: What did you like most about the book? Were there any special features you enjoyed over others?

GILBERT: I loved every page. I enjoyed having the control of making choices and making decisions. I loved choosing the type, paper, photos and cover. It turned out exactly how I wanted it to. I am very pleased.

COURIER: How did you finance publishing the book?

GILBERT: I received a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts with the help of the Crooked Tree Arts Council for $450. I also received some generous contributions from several others who wanted to see the project done. The money from this edition will go to the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

COURIER: Where can you purchase the book?

GILBERT: You can buy the book for $4.95 from any book store or mail $4.95 plus $1.00 for postage and handling to the Crooked Tree Arts Council, North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

A unique summer estate near Lake Charlevoix, 4 bedrooms, large stone fireplace, completely furnished with valuable antiques. Large beautiful lot with view of Lake Charlevoix. Separate antique shop. Well worth $43,500 with terms.

"The ability to motivate people and earn their support and loyalty—and Dale Carnegie training develops this ability—is an essential ingredient of the executive career."
Lee S. Bickmore, President & Chief Executive Officer National Biscuit Company

"I rate a person's confidence in his ability to express himself and work with all types of people as a top priority for success. Dale Carnegie training gives you this confidence."
Lawrence L. Perhin Vice-Pres. of Manufacturing Beech Aircraft Corp., Wichita

"Dale Carnegie training develops dynamic leadership abilities, self-confidence, the ability to inspire cooperation. Men who add these to their job skills earn high priority for promotion."
M. G. O'Neil, President General Tire & Rubber Co. Akron, Ohio

CAN THE DALE CARNEGIE COURSE MAKE A MANAGERS — SUPERVISORS JOB EASIER AND MORE PRODUCTIVE?

These men testify that this training effectively works for organizations large and small.

For years companies have been using various forms of external motivation—titles, bonuses, salary increase, better working conditions, education, etc. These work temporarily effecting different people in different ways for varying lengths of time. None are permanent. A 100 percent increase in the above will not bring a 5 percent increase in production.

Complex systems of controls, dep't changes, methods for efficiency have been devised to organize and make the supervisor more effective. These fail, too, at solving the problem permanently. The reason for disappointing results is that in these areas of motivation, effective communication and human relations, schools, and businesses are treating the effects not the cause of the problem.

Management recognizes the major problems to be overcome are:
+Relating better in difficult human situations
+Effective communication
+Motivating self and others
+Lack of self-confidence

Millions are spent trying to solve these costly and frustrating problem areas.

These areas are the most important ones for a company to develop in their employees. 15 percent of a person's success is their knowledge of the job and 85 percent is their personal ability to use this knowledge.

Thousands of companies are using the Dale Carnegie training because of the uniqueprogram that has proved it's effectiveness in developing a person's ability to speak better, deal with difficult human situations, maintain confident attitudes and accept the responsibility of his decisions, so that he is a more effective person.

Nearly everyone has a natural potential in personal abilities. Many allow their development to lag under pressure of day to day job requirements. If the company expects to use the full capacity of the individual to move ahead; it cannot afford to neglect training in personal abilities.

Management knows successful supervisors seek ways to be even better, there is always room for improvement.

SOLUTION: The Dale Carnegie organization offers free incompany explanation meetings and individual counseling to companies large and small. Take advantage of these services call the Petoskey News-Review 347-2544.

Charlevoix High Scores First Division Honors In Music Competition

Two soloists and two ensembles were awarded first division ratings at the recent MSBOA Solo and Ensemble Festival at Sault Ste. Marie.

Soloists receiving I rating were Mark Gallagher on the clarinet and Lisa Fiedler on the flute.

Both also participated in Proficiency II on their respective instruments and received I ratings in this division. Mark received a 93 out of a possible 100 and thus became eligible to play in the symphonic orchestra at the Michigan Week Youth Arts Festival at Central Michigan University in May. Lisa received a I rating with her performance which rated an 85.

The same pair, Mark and Lisa, were awarded a I rating for their clarinet-flute duet.

A saxophone quartet composed of Kerry Speer, David Taylor, Gary Pettis and Donna Jones was also awarded a I rating for its performance.

Receiving II ratings for their performances were Kathy Cook for her alto saxophone solo; a saxophone quartet composed of Kathy Cook, Laurie Gibbs, Chris Hinkel and Lisa Fowler; a brass duet composed of Carol Bergmann and Jean Lenhart; a saxophone quintet of Kerry Speer, David Taylor, Chris Hinkel, Gary Pettis and Laura Johnson and a brass sextet of Kay Currey, Bob Newton, Jeff Thuss, Kevin Kroll and Greg Loper.

A woodwind quintet composed of Lynne DeMour, Jeannine Boal, Debbie Garten, Shari Mol all freshmen and Lisa Fiedler received a III.

Mark Gallagher Earns First

Mark Gallagher, Charlevoix High School clarinetist, was named an outstanding soloist at the recent State Solo and Ensemble Festival held at Sault Ste. Marie under the sponsorship of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

He was selected for this honor from amont more than 3,000 entries from throughout the state.

Mark received a I rating as a clarinet soloist and a rating of 93 out of a possible 100 in Proficiency II at the festival. By virtue of his rating, he will become a member of the 100 piece symphonic orchestra that will perform at the Michigan Week Yooth Arts Festival at Central Michigan University. He also is eligible to audition for five solo positions in the orchestra.

A Junior, Mark has played with the high school symphonic band for two years and has participated in the band program since the sixth grade. He is the son of Mrs. James W. (Barbara) Gallagher and the late Mr. Gallagher. He plans to continue his education and major in music following graduation.

The Youth Arts Festival is an annual showcase of Michigan's finest artistic talent. It is held at Central Michigan University during Michigan Week. Events will begin at noon on Saturday, May 22, and continue until 5 p.m.

All events are free and the public is invited to attend.

Competition Begins Tuesday

Girls Track Team Prepares for First Meet

The Charlevoix girls' track team, coached by Mrs. Marie Osterberg, will open its season Tuesday when Rogers City and Cheboygan join the Rayderettes for a triangular meet at Kipke field.

The Charlevoix team, which finished second in Michigan-Huron Shores league standings behind the loop champions, Rogers City, has 13 letter winners around whom to build this year's team Mrs. Osterberg said.

For the first time, the throwing of the discus is being introduced in the list of events open to girls, Mrs. Osterberg said. Among the candidates for this event are Jodi Alger, Terri Hulford, Sandra Hodge and Kathy Sladek.

Among the letter winners and the events in which they will likely participate Jodi Alger, hurdles and sprints plus the discus; Maureen Cudd, 440 yd. record holder and mile relay; Denise Boss, mid-distances and long jump; Kay Currey, hurdles, sprints and high jump; Terri Hulfurd, mile and discus; Tina Klama, 440 yd. dash and mid-distances; Audrey Kleiber and Patty Sneathen, two mile; Teri Novotny, sprints, 220 yd. dash and 440 relay, Carole Osterberg, sprints and mid-distances; Amy Putter, sprints, mid-distances and high jump; Jerilyn Goss, sprint and mid-distances; Tummy Mitchell, sprinter.

Three other experiences runners who missed winning letters by a few points are also out and working hard to earn starting assignments. They are Tami Mann, sprints and Corinne Ranger and Ginny Eby, sprints and hurdles.

Other candidates who have had limited experience and who are vieing for starting pods are Debby Leonard, Kathy Sladek, Karen Sell, Louise Caldwell, Mary LaVassuer, Ann Marie Watson, Anna Mothews, Ginger Smith, Sandra Hodge, Kim Jones, Chris Pidek

Upper classmen out for the first time are Theresa Hamlin, Barb Lamoreaux, Heidi Dove, Beth Newton and Shellee Jameson.

Freshmen who are working hard and show promise include Chris Lehman, Kris Fiedler, Andy Brown, Lisa Flower, Laurie Gibbs, Laura Dziedzic, Sherri Selissen, Kathy McMillan, Stacy Watsun, Dawn Bartlett, Janeen Bool, Becky Allard, Danya Rothenberger, Pam Hilton, Debbie Potter.

Chris Lehman and Kathy Sladek are certified trainers for the team.

THE GIRLS Track team prepares for its first seasonal meet next Tuesday.

Slo-Pitch Organizes

With the Slo-Pitch season scheduled to begin a month from now, Dwight Boss, City Recreation Director, has called a meeting of both Men and Women's Slo-Pitch leagues at the Recreation Department office in the City Hall at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Purpose of the meeting will be to elect a president, set player and team fees and decide on the number of teams in the leagues.

Tennis Team Defends Regional Title

The Charlevoix High School tennis team, defending Class C-D regional champion, will open its 1976 season at Grayling on Monday, according to Coach Chuck Wright.

Coach Wright has seven letter winners around which to build this year's squad. They are Erik Lundteigen, defending regional singles champion, John Greene, Lisa Weimer, Marc Malpeli, Mark Hosmer, Dan Engstrom and Eric Slone.

Others among the 28 candidates for the team are Steve Berlage, Terri Bradley, Jeff Cockfield, Lynne DeMoore, Mark Cockfield, Ed Engstrom, Debby Fochtman, Kip Greene, Tim Hoffman, Peggy Hosmer, Donna Jones, Kim King, Mark Lignell, Tom McNamara, Dave Morgridge, Gail Powell, Tracy Sell, Dave Taylor, Debby Tollas, Sue Winchester, and Chip Wood. Winchester, and Chip Wood.

Coach Wright said that there will be a vigorous competition for the top spots on the 1976 team. There is a growing interest in the sport which is open to both boys and girls and we are attracting more and more candidates which results in lots of competition, Wright said.

The team has a full schedule which will begin with Monday's game at Grayling. During the week the team will be at Boyne City on Thursday, at Petoskey on Friday and at East Jordan the following Monday, April 26.

In preparation for this busy schedule, the team is practicing daily from 3:45 until 5:15 p.m. at the public courts off Elm st. on the north side.

In commenting on the team, Wright said he expects this team to be strong. He went on to say that they will likelky receive their strongest competition from Petoskey with Alpena and Boyne City being greatly improved.

The Charlevoix team has 13 matches scheduled in addition to the Michigan-Huron Shores conference match and the C-D regional match.

Courier Sports

Featuring

- Standing Round of Beef
- Baked Virginia Ham
- Country Style Chicken

RECIPE: To Prepare:
For servings from two to twenty, all you need do is gather together your family or friends sometime between 11:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M. on Sunday. Reserve a nice table in our beautiful old stone building in Charlevoix. Discard your calorie counters and, with healthy appetites, leisurely blend together the following ingredients....

Slices of fresh cantaloupe and honeydew melons; goblets of orange and tomato juice; tablespoons of multi-flavored jellos and aspics; dishes of cottage cheese, potato salad, bean salad, vegetable salad, and cole slaw; generous helpings of country beef pie, chicken grand gourmet, and smoked fish; scoops of western-style baked beans and skillet-fried hash browns; a variety of carrots, radishes, tomatoes, dill pickles, chives, and green scallions; platters of rye, pumpernickel, banana bread, and sweet rolls; pieces of bacon, sausage, ham, turkey, and bratwurst; wedges of swiss, American and cheddar cheese; hot fruit crepes, french toast, blintzes with sour cream, and eggs benedict; add a few cups of steamed black coffee or hot chocolate.....

Garnish the mixture with a bevy of fun waitresses, the aroma of wood-burning fireplaces, and changing scenes of waterfront activity, and lots of happy conversation!

Sound good? Well, you couldn't duplicate this recipe in your own home at $4.95 for grownups and $2.95 for kids....so why be bothered. Join us for fantastic food, friends, and fun. Sunday...at the Weathervane!

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

WHEREAS, Glenn D. Harris and Patricia J. Harris, his wife, of Route No. 3, Pine Point, Charlevoix, Michigan, Mortgagors, made and executed a mortgage bearing date of the 23rd day of May, 1975, to the First State Bank of Charlevoix, a Michigan Banking Corporation, of Charlevoix, Michigan, Mortgagee, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan, in Liber 142 on page 141; and

WHEREAS, said Mortgagors also made and executed a second mortgage bearing date of the 23rd day of May, 1975, to the said Mortgagee, recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan, in Liber 142 on page 145; and

WHEREAS, the amount claimed to be due on said first mortgage and said second mortgage on the date hereof for principal and interest is in the sums of $33,030.11 and $1,337.04, respectively, for a total sum of $34,367.15, and also an additional sum of $75.00 statutory attorney fees as provided for in said mortgages, and no suit or proceedings have been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt secured thereby or any part thereof; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the conditions of both said mortgages in the payments on principal and interest when the same were due and payable; and

WHEREAS, the same have remained unpaid for a period of more than thirty (30) days, whereby on account whereof in pursuance to the provisions of said mortgages, the said mortgagee elects to and hereby does declare the principal sums, together with all arrearages in interest due and payable forthwith; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgages whereby the power of sale contained in both said mortgages has become operative.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of said powers of sale, in pursuance thereof, and under the statute in such case made and provided, both said mortgages will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises at public vendue to the highest bidder at the front door of the easterly or State Street entrance to the County Building in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in said County, on Wednesday, May 5, 1976, at 10:00 in the forenoon of said day, the description of said premises contained in both said mortgages, and which will be sold as aforesaid, is as follows:

In the Township of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, being Lots 10 & 11 of Block 6 of the Plat of Pine Point, according to the plat recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Charlevoix County, Michigan, including rights, if any, in the vacated alley adjacent to said Lot 10.

The period of redemption is six (6) months from date of sale.

Anthony Pintarich

Funeral services for Anthony J. Pintarich, 67, who died Monday at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City where he had been a patient for two weeks, were held Thursday, April 8, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Pintarich was born in Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 8, 1909, and lived in Detroit until coming to Cheboygan in 1956 as a supervisor at the Cheboygan Manufacturing Co. Following his retirement two years ago, he moved here to live. In 1963 he was married to the former Helen M. Miller at Charlevoix.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Mary) Gustafson of Huntington Woods, Mrs. Jack (Rose) Ring of Clawson and Mrs. Albert (Antoinette) Brani of Warren; 17 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a half-brother, Steven Macek of Hamet, Calif.

Obituary

Mrs. Ruby McCartney

Funeral services for Mrs. Ruby McCartney, 86, who died Thursday at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Center in Petoskey where she had been a patient since December 1973, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Remy Stiglitz, O.F.M. of St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at Atwood Sept. 3, 1889, the former Ruby Yettaw was married to George McCartney. They made their home in this area following their marriage. Following his death in the 1920's she moved to Munising where she lived until returning here in recent years.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Celia Denafre of Chicago; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Bernard W. VerMett

Funeral services for Bernard W. VerMett, 71, who died Wednesday at Little Traverse Hospital where he had been a patient for three days, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Albert F. Mansen officiated. Committal services at Brookside cemetery will be under the auspices of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.

Born at North Branch April 24, 1904, Mr. VerMett was a dry cleaning equipment dealer in Flint for many years prior to coming to Charlevoix in 1975. He operated an antique shop on West Garfield ave. here. He was a member of Fenton Lodge No. 109 F. & A.M., Bay City Consistory, Elf Khura Fah Shrine and Rod of Aaron Degree Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Helen R. Ladi whom he married in Indiana in 1965; a son, Charles of Denver, Colo., one daughter, Mrs. Leonard (Mary Ann) Wilkinson of Bellaire; three grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Iva Keyport of Flint and Mrs. Viva Sorg of Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Mary Dean

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary L (Yant) Dean, 88, who died Thursday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for week, were held Saturday at the Brown Funeral Home in Flint. The Rev. Wayne Helper of the Oak Street Free Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Bristol Cemetery.

The former Mary L. Yant was born in Larwill, Ind., Aug. 8, 1887, and lived in Flint for many years. In 1966 she was married to Ray H. Dean who died in 1967. She came here at that time from Sunfield to make her home. She was a member of the Oak Street Free Methodist Church in Flint, attended the United Methodist church here and was a member of Senior Citizens.

She is survived by several nieces and nephews including I. Lee Moerland of Charlevoix; a step-daughter, Mrs. Donald Carpenter of Sunfield and four step-sons, Duane, Loyal and Franklin Dean of Lansing and Lawrence Dean of Marietta, Ohio.

Brenda Bass Takes Runner-up Spot

Charlevoix's Brenda Boss was the runner-up in the first annual Baton Twirling contest held at the Charlevoix High School recently.

Jennifer Keiser of Petoskey was the Hi-Point Championship Trophy winner in the event which attracted 48 baton twirlers from throughout the area.

Charlevoix winners in the various categories follow:

Solo twirl: 0-5 years, Heather Dietrich, first, and Carla Hoffman, second; 6-8 years, Lee Ann Campbell, first; 9-11 years, Lisa Hoffman, first; 12 and over, Brenda Boss, first.

Basic Strut: 6-8 years, Cindy Boss, first; 9-11 years, Tammy Boggs, first; 12 years and over, Sherry Jensen, first, and Carole Wolff, third.

Thirty second hand pass: 9-11 years, Lisa Hoffman, third; 12 years and over, Brenda Ross, first, and Sherry Jensen, third; 30 second thumb toss: 12- years and over, Brenda Boss, second; Aerials, 12 years and older, Brenda Boss, first.

Charlevoix swept the Miss Personality category, taking all but one place. The results follow: 0-8, Heather Dietrich, Cindy Boss and Carla Hoffman placed one, two and three in this age group; 9-11, Lisa Hoffman, Tammy Boggs and Nancy Louiselle, one, two and three; 12 years and over, Brenda Boss, first and Carole Wolff, second.

Darla Ward of Mt. Pleasant was the certified U.S. Twirling Association judge. Joanne Petitt of Petoskey judged the Miss Personality category and the basic twirls.

The event was sponsored by the Sharyn Mariage School of Baton Twirlers.

limited to this track season and the issue passed with Martin, Elzinga, Boss and Robert Cook voting for it. Ms. Ardeth Wieland vetoed the proposal. Nuvak and Don Brown were absent.

Mrs. Wieland, in voting against the proposal, said that there were many items the school needed more though she was in favor of the sport. She asked for a study of the coaching situation at the school before any other commitments are made.

The expansion of the Special Education program in the high school to 1½ teachers was approved. This was OK'd after Plas Presnell presented a comprehensive report on the present program in the high school which showed that it was increasing in scope and that more students were receiving special help in order to have a marketable skill upon graduation from high school.

COMMISSION

The citizens of Charlevoix, Michigan will cast their vote sometime in 1976 on whether or not they accept the charter proposed to them by their representatives on the Charter Commission. It will require a majority approval of those casting ballots. For this very reason the Commissioners have been ever conscious of putting together an organization of the charter which will be acceptable to the greatest number of people.

In proposing the formation of the Council-manager form of government, it was the major concern that the physical operation of the city (and not the policy decisions) be placed under the responsibility of a professional manager. To make this an effective staff it is considered most prudent to place the administrative personnel under the City Manager's supervision. This includes the record keeping faculties of the City Clerk's office and the accounting faculties of the City Treasurer's office.

Under this proposal the present City Clerk's elective position will be retained, however most of the burdensome duties will be shifted to the responsibility of the City Manager's office. The City Clerk will fulfill the duties of "Clerk of the Council and shall, with the Mayor, sign all ordinances. The City Clerk shall keep a permanent journal of all Council proceedings and ordinances. In addition, the City Clerk shall perform all other duties prescribed by law, this Charter and the Council." As much of the present work of the City Clerk will be relieved the position will be an official one as indicated, but on a part time basis much as the council members serve and with a salary based on this service.

The office of City Comptroller will be established with the specific duties of "assisting the City Manager in the preparation of the Annual Operating Budget and Capital Program. The Comptroller shall maintain a system of accounts in accordance with the State laws. The Comptroller shall be the chief financial officer of the City." He or she shall be answerable to the Manager for fulfilling those duties. This position will be filled by a person appointed by the City Manager with the approval of the City Council. The Comptroller's (treasurer's) capabilities and requirements are established by State law.

Bit by bit the new charter is taking form to provide us with an organization of government which will be, through efficiency, conscious of our tax dollar and, through our elected council and Mayor, responsive to our community needs.

Thinclads Prepare for Rogers City Contest

Charlevoix Rayder thinclads have been practicing diligently in preparation for their opening meet at Rogers City with the Hurons and Cheboygan.

Coach Dave Moyer has more than 60 aspiring candidates for this year's squad including 12 lettermen along with a number of underclassmen from whom he is expected a great deal of help.

Among the lettermen are Bob Alger, Matt Doan and Terry Drew, hurdlers; Ed Mann and Kevin Speer, sprinters; Ed Bourke, Ed Russell, Chuck Towsley, Mike Way and Brian Williams, middle distance runners; Wally Drenth, distance runner and Kirk Lieberman, shot put and discus.

Underclassmen on whom Coach Moyer is counting are Kip Cinnamon, Bud Klooster and Ned Dziedzic, high jump; Steve Schuch, Nate Klooster, Lee Begrow, Greg Krueger and Dziedzic, sprints; Tom Jones and Barry Potter, shot; Ken Paul, Todd Williams and Mark Bussell, distance and Kevin Kratt, hurdler.

The Charlevoix Rayders are the defending title holders in the Michigan-Huron Conference, Class C regionals and the Petoskey Relays and Class C runners-up in the state.

The Charlevoix Camera Club will present the black and white movie, Daybooks of Edward Weston, in which his philosophies, doubts, certainties, constant growth are reflected.

The meeting will be held at the Community Room of the City Hall where the movie will be presented 7:30 p.m. Monday without charge.

Quotes from his daybooks are used to explain Weston's inner feelings as the viewer examines photos from his soft focus portrait period, abstract motifs and work done in Mexico.

EASTER REVEALS THE TRIUMPH OF LIFE OVER DEATH

The beautiful story of Easter contains many messages of hope that have enriched the lives of all those who observe it. The dramatic events of the most memorable weekend in all history portray the victory of right over wrong and joy over sorrow, as well as the forgiveness of a deed so terrible that even the ruling magistrate would claim no responsibility for it. It is a time for reflection as well as rejoicing; and if the Son of God died to atone for our sins and to provide proof of immortality, the least we can do is try to be worthy of that sacrifice by improving our lives and by attending the Church of our choice; not only on Easter, but every Sunday throughout the year.

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."
–John 3·16

...In those holy fields
Over whose acres walked those blessed feet
Which fourteen hundred years ago were nail'd
For our advantage on the bitter cross
–William Shakespeare

Council Agrees To Tax Switch

Charlevoix City Council agreed Monday to continue collecting 50 percent of local school taxes in the summer despite some opposition.

The 3 to 2 decision came after Charlevoix School Supt. James McKimmy told councilmen his district could save some $10,000 in interest with an early tax collection.

Schools normally have to wait until winter to collect their taxes and find themselves having to borrow money against anticipated revenue to make it through the fall.

Last year, Council agreed to collect half the taxes in summer on a trial basis. Under the tax switch residents will pay 13.725 mills July 1.

The council said it hopes neighboring townships will follow Charlevoix's lead.

Both Councilmen Joe Morris and Jeannine Wallace said the move will benefit local taxpayers, while Councilmen George Plumm and Ivan Whitley said they are against the switch.

"I think its unfair," Plumm said about townships not willing to go along with the tax switch leaving only the city collecting school taxes in the summer.

"Last year, they had one township doing it and this year they don't have any."

One Charlevoix resident indicated he supported the switch because fewer tax dollars would be collected at one time.

In other business, the council heard a proposal from Gary Stutzman, Charlevoix High School band director, to complete the band shell in East Park.

Ever since the band stage was completed in the early 1950's, Stutzman said there has been discussion to finish the project by putting a cover over it.

"If you happen to be playing a concert and the wind blows, the music disperses all over," he said.

Stutzman said there is presently $799 in the City Park Stage Fund, with several hundred more expected to be added from Mardi Gras funds earned last winter.

He said the least expensive shell would cost about $2,000, for a wood A-frame. However, he recommended council consider several other alternatives for between $3,500 to $5,000. The matter was referred to committee.

In other business, council:

–Approved Standard Oil's Bid for gasoline and fuel oil. Gasoline would cost 41.4 cents a gallon for premium and 39.1 for regular.

–Increased salaries for the Election Board from $2.50 to $3 per hour.

–Appointed Ralph McRae to Housing Commission to replace Stanley Hammond, who resigned.

–Announced the city would exchange mayors with Lathrup Village on May 17 in connection with Michigan week.

Charlevoix Museum

Just a thought on the proposed Charlevoix Museum. Some time ago a sketch in the Courier showed me a rather homely modernistic structure to which and into which I would not be tempted to donate anything. Now, why can't one of the large old resort homes be purchased for a museum? This, I believe, would be far less expensive to me than to build what to me looks like a monstrosity, which a few years from now could become another local eyesore, and which would release more revenue to purchase precious antiquities both of surrounding country and in town. However, don't let my remarks here put a damper on someone's thoughts or the building of the museum. If you want antiquities in a super modern building then that's it. O.K.

Judkins Named Board Head

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board met at the County Building annex Monday for its annual organizational meeting.

Rex Judkins of Boyne City was elected chairman of the board. Lee Moerland was named vice chairman.

All budgets with the exception of those from the Boyne Falls and Ellsworth school districts and Melrose Township were accepted for review and copies were made for members.

Clarence Rabach, clerk of the board, Oscar Stroud representing the governmental units, James Shepard representing the schools and Mrs. Joan Blanchard, Equalization director were named to a committee to verify and audit budgets as submitted. They will report at the next meeting.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Anah Potter, Mr. Moerland, Stroud, Charles Crosser, representing the Char-Em Intermediate School District, Phillip Gregg, Moerland and Judkins. Harry Watson of East Jordan and Ralph Hamilton were absent.

The next meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. May 17. At that time the tentative tax rate will be set.

In 1975 the county was allocated 4.7 mills, townships, 1.0 mill, Char-Em Intermediate School District, 0.2 and schools, 9.1 mills by the County Tax Allocation Board.

Charlevoix County Budget Held Down to 7.5% Hike

A tentative budget for 1977, approximately 7.5 percent above the 1976 tentative budget was approved by the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners before recessing its annual April meeting Wednesday.

The budget was in the amount of $1,759,471 and is $296,642 over the 1976 budget approved a year ago.

A breakdown of the areas to which the funds are earmarked include $42,400 for the Board of Commissioners; $194,490, Judicial; $543,143, general county government; $327,875, public safety; $137,444, Health; $212,471, Welfare; $3,050, libraries; $17,500, recreation; $277,098, other special areas including a contingency fund.

Revenue to support the budget will be derived from the following sources: Revenue Sharing, $325,300; current property taxes, $1,034,646; miscellaneous tax receipts, $16,050; Licenses and permits, $5,100; CETA reimbursements, $97,825; State reimbursement, $29,100; State Revenue Sharing, $110,000; Small Business Tax, $48,250; Fines and penalties, $44,500; Service fees, $83,100; Land Transfer tax, $19,000; Abstracts, $5,000; Interest on Money Management, $12,000 and reimbursements and refunds, $10,600 or a total of $1,755,471.

The Small Business Tax is the only new source of income. This is to compensate for the loss of the taxes formerly levied on inventories as a part of personal property.

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will meet at the county building annex at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 27, to receive the Equalization Report.

Woman Remains in Bad Condition

Mrs. Adam (Wilma) Kroll, 49, of Concordville, Pa., remains in critical condition at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor where she was flown Saturday for treatment of a fractured skull and other injuries suffered when she fell from a bicycle she was riding.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 p.m. Saturday on M-66 near the Sequanota Rd. approximately four miles southwest of here, according to Sheriff's officers who investigated.

Mrs. Kroll, her husband, Adam, 58, and his daughter, Jeri Kroll, 26, of East Jordan, were riding bicycles toward Charlevoix when a motor home driven by Maurice M. Taylor of Ellsworth approached them from the rear officers reported. As he neared them, Taylor said he sounded his horn prior to passing them.

Mrs. Kroll apparently fell from her bicycle as the motor home passed her, striking her head on the highway.

Deputies said there was no evidence that she was struck by the motorhome.

Kroll and his daughter, who were ahead of her told officers they heard the horn sound.

She was taken via ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital for emergency treatment and later flown to southern Michigan.

The accident remains under investigation.

The Krolls were visiting relatives at East Jordan at the time of the accident.

A second cyclist, Donald Post, 22, stationed here with the U.S. Coast Guard, suffered a fractured arm, lacerations and abrasions when the motorcycle he was riding went out of control on the Horton Bay road near the Boyne City intersection and left the highway.

He was taken to the Charlevoix Area Hospital via ambulance, treated and released. The accident happened at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Historic Ironton Ferry Begins Another Year

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

> 'The ferry's fame has been spread by publicity ranging from Ripley's Believe It or Not, local papers to travel magazines'

Since 1876, in one form or another, a ferry has been plying the 586-foot passage between Ironton and the peninsula.

In celebration of the ferry's Centennial and the nation's Bicentennial, the operators painted the vessel red, white and blue.

Built in 1926 in Ferrysburg, Mich. (near Ludington), the present ferry is celebrating its "Demi-centennial."

Visitors from around the state and country go out of their way to visit the unique diesel powered, cable-guided barge.

George Lee, a businessman from Muskegon took a ride last week, "because I have read so much about the Ironton Ferry."

The ferry's fame has been spread by publicity ranging from Ripley's Believe It or Not, local papers, to travel magazines.

The past few years' high water levels caused the most recent spate of news stories, as the Charlevoix County Road Commission tried to solve the problem of bringing the ferry and its passengers together.

The new ramps with electronic hoists and screw jacks, adjustable up or down, were installed to meet the fluxuating water problems.

Yearly the COURIER carries advertising for an operator, as old timers like Turk Jarvis and Pete Bennett retire.

Retiring

Turk Jarvis has been retiring for three years.

Last seen Jarvis was on board, lending a licensed presence, as required by the Coast Guard, while new operator Jerry Birdsall (Boyne City) breaks in. Birdsall is studying for his Coast Guard licensing examination, which he'll take in St. Ignace this May. Licenses are good for five years.

The ferry is rated by the Coast Guard as a 50 ton vessel.

By law, despite its limited travel the ferry must carry all equipment required of any 50 ton vessel operating on the Lakes. This includes anchors, whistles, life preservers and a licensed operator.

The operator must pass a reputedly tough written examination, testing his knowledge of navigatioan laws as well as his ability to navigate. Once licensed the ferry operator can legally captain any Great Lakes vessel up to 50 tons.

Jarvis remarked, "I suppose if you were really well prepared you could do the exam in two hours, but they allow all day."

Rules

"Rules of the road" – basically what vessel has the right-of-way under what conditions – are the most applicable part of the exam to the ferry operators.

But most boaters know that the ferry has no maneuverability and are aware of the guiding cables rising off the bow and stern. Even sailboats, which technically have right-of-way haven't taken the ferry on in a game of chicken.

Close shaves have, however, damaged some speedboat props.

Mearle Scott, of Ironton, who fills in, between his trout fishing charters, advises boaters to "pass our stern if the ferry is half way across.

"I've picked up the stern of a few boats, with the cables. Scares the devil out of the poor guy."

Scott vividly remembers the dilemma presented when a boater passed so close he became entrapped between the rising cables off the ferry's bow.

"It was a frightening experience. The ferry had to stop and back up, of course."

Operators are not much less leery of their passengers.

Already this year the boat is dinged and scraped from disembarking cars which didn't compensate for the engine house corner.

Collision Twice

Only twice has there been a serious collision. Once an approaching car's brakes failed. Luckily the ferry had just reached the same side and the car came to stop on board.

Some 25 years ago another driver suffered a black-out. Again the ferry was at the dock, on the peninsula side. The car finally stopped, after bouncing through the gates onto the boat, with its front end on the deck house. Jarvis said the only thing to do was pull the emergency whistle, and speed to the Ironton side.

On-lookers called an ambulance, and within minutes of the ferry's dock it was on the scene.

To residents on the peninsula and people such as The Rev. Hewitt Johnston, of Charlevoix, who makes frequent calls on the peninsula and East Jordan, the ferry represents a saving of six or seven miles driving – as much as twenty minutes.

And as The Rev. Johnston laughs, "Nothing takes the place of the thrill of the ride." A comment at which Jarvis knowingly winked.

Most of the regulars and operators appear to have established a good humored teasing relationship.

Vine Joins Erber Auto

Dick Vine has returned to Charlevoix after some 28 years to become a salesman for Erber Auto Company of Charlevoix.

Born in Charlevoix, Vine graduated from Boyne City High School.

After high school, Vine joined the Marine Corps and retired in 1968, after having served in both Korea and Viet Nam.

He then worked for Montgomery Words and eventually became the western area sales manager for Radio Shack. He set up associated dealerships in California, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Arizona.

Always wanting to return to Charlevoix, Vine returned this month with his wife, Gabriele, and son, Steve.

He is the son of the Mary (Hebert) Gleason and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hebert, all of Charlevoix.

Round-up April 23

It's Kindergarten Round-up Time!

That means that all children who will be eligible to attend Kindergarten in September 1976 must be registered on Friday, April 23, according to Ralph W. Raymer, Charlevoix Elementary School principal.

To be eligible to attend Kindergarten at that time, a child must be five years of age by Dec. 1, 1978.

Parents of the pre-school children will register their children at the Elementary school Friday. Parents of children whose last name begins with any letter from "A" through "Z" are ask to register their child between 9 and 11 a.m. on that date. Those parents whose last name begins from "L" through "Z" should register their children between 1 and 3 p.m. on Friday.

Raymer, in his announcement urges all parents to register their children at the designated times.

At the time of registration, Mrs. Margaret Davenport, the school nurse, will be present to begin the child's health record. In addition, she will explain the requirements of the State of Michigan relating to the health record of each child. Each parent will also be given a date to return the information to the school to qualify the child for entrance into Kindergarten.

Parents are asked to bring the school only the child to be enrolled in kindergarten and a copy of the child's birth certificate.

There will be school on Friday for present Kindergarten students, Raymer added.

Charlevoix House---- A Home of Expectation

By PAULA HOLMES

Expectations – that's what the Charlevoix House is all about.

Charlevoix House is a licensed group home which provides individualized living with the support of adult foster care for six mentally impaired adults. The group home, an unobtrusive green house nestled part way down Belvedere Avenue, is run by Kathy and Pat Hynes with the help of aide Debbie Kimble.

While the Charlevoix House may appear no different from the other houses on the block, it's a stepping stone to independent living and normalization for the four women and two men living there as they strive to meet the expectations of the Hynes and Mrs. Kimble. And the home is a far cry from the institutional living most mentally impaired people have been relegated to.

"We do a lot of things at the Charlevoix House, but most of what we do is expect," Kathy Hynes recently told members of the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC).

"We expect things from our people that you would expect from anyone," Mrs. Hynes continued.

"We expect them to keep clean, to keep their rooms clean and picked up, and to pay their phone bills on time," she said. "It's those normal, mundane things that we expect them to do–things they would have to do if they lived on their own. Things they may have never done for themselves before.

Expect More

"And sometimes we expect even more," she said.

The Hynes and Mrs. Kimble, who serves in a double capacity as bookkeeper and recreation director, work closely with several agencies in the Charlevoix area and with their clients' parents preparing individualized program plans for each person. Together, they and representatives of the Bergman Center, the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, the Department of Social Services, the Community Mental Health Board, the Health Department and the Mental Health Clinic, draw up a list of qualities and skills they would like to see the clients achieve and then begin working toward the goal.

After several months, the various people meet again to review the program plans and the progress that has been made.

"They have a right to fail just like we do," Pat Hynes said explaining why some of the expectations in the program plans are quite high. "They should not be so protected that they can't experience the feeling of failure–or of success."

Hynes, who also serves as minister for the Light House Christian Center in East Jordan, said his clients are very capable people and that it is amazing what they can learn to do if they are given a chance.

"It's too easy for parents to do things for their kids instead of letting them do it themselves," he said. "Here we let them learn to do things for themselves."

"We spend a lot of time teaching them how to do little things–like how to sew buttons on or how to crack a egg in a frying pan," Mrs. Hynes explained. "These things only take a few minutes to learn, but the people living in the house have never had a chance to do them.

"We try to do what doesn't come naturally when we work with our clients," she continued. "It would be easy to baby them and do things for them, but it's much more fun and a better learning experience for everyone, if we let them do things for themselves."

And it's evident from the glow on their faces as they talk about the progress of each resident, that the Hynes and Mrs. Kimble get as much satisfaction out of the residents' accomplishments as the residents do.

Independence

The Hynes stress that their goal is to help their clients obtain the maximum amount of independence that they can achieve. Some of their clients may eventually live in the community on their own and others may always stay in a group home.

The young couple operates the home in the same manner as any home would operate without the six additional people.

"All of the same things go on at the Charlevoix House as go on in a normal house," Mrs. Hynes said.

Everyone gets up at approximately the same time in the morning and comes downstairs to fix their own breakfasts. Then the gang leaves for work–one woman goes to Grandvue Medical Care Facility, one goes to school at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and four others go to the Bergman Center.

When they return home at night, each person has certain chores that they must do around the house.

"Each person has a weekly task, like setting the table, which rotates so that one person gets vacation each week," Mrs. Hynes explained. "And just like anyone else, they are always trying to bribe me to be the one that gets vacation that week."

After dinner, the house residents attend school two nights a week and one goes to Boy Scout meetings. On other evenings, the people work on hobbies or watch television.

"Listening to country-western music is a big activity," Mrs. Hynes said grimacing.

"They all have stereos," Hynes added. "And they're great critics of the stuff."

The Hynes are not new to group home living, or to working with mentally impaired people. The young couple operated one of the first homes of the Charlevoix House-type in the state while they were finishing their schooling at Michigan State University.

Graduation

Following their graduation–Pat in psychology and Kathy in education–and one year working with the group home in Lansing, the couple moved to East Jordan where Pat had a job with ITT Thompson Industries, Inc.

"When we left the group home in Lansing, we thought we would never be able to run a home again," Mrs. Hynes recalled.

The couple said they fell into their first position as house parents of a group home for mentally impaired people.

"We had some friends that worked with mentally impaired people, so we were interested in the field," Mrs. Hynes explained. "And then when the house was organized, our friends suggested that we apply to run it, which we did."

The sandy-haired, all-American looking couple, doesn't profess to have the patience of Job when dealing with their clients. They said they get frustrated, too. But the rewards and satisfaction they receive as each client accomplishes something new, more than makes up for the frustrations, they said.

"And we are always learning something, too," they said.

They strongly support the group home concept because of the additional learning experience it provides to the clients over the experiences they would receive in an institution.

"It costs less for the clients to live in a group home than in an institution, too," Hynes pointed out. "Group homes operate at about one-fifth the cost of institutions. "Institutions cost about $50 a day per patient and group homes cost about $10 a day to operate per client," he said.

"We enjoyed the experience and liked the people, but it takes a lot out of you."

"I think we hold the track record among house parents in the state," Hynes added

'Good Morning Everyone'

Charlevoix's Bill Supernaw gets up at 4 a.m. to get you to work by 8 a.m.

"You can count on one hand how many times I've enjoyed getting up at 4 a.m.," joked the WJML radio disc jockey as he cued up another record.

It was 6:30 a.m. Wednesday morning. And the big, husky DJ, who looks like he could play tackle for the Detroit Lions, had already been through half of his "Morning Wake Up Show."

Every weekday morning, Supernaw cranks himself out of bed and makes his sleepy sojourn from Charlevoix to WJML's studio located in the Bear River Valley outside Petoskey. He's been doing it since 1964.

"That was a big hit for Helen Reddy," Supernaw blurted into his silver microphone as he juggled a few papers in front of him preparing to tell his readers what kind of weather they could expect for the day.

"It's 42 degrees in Petoskey at 7 a.m. It's 32 at Pellston with partly cloudy skies and a slight chance of rain.

Wearing a red turtle neck, Supernaw sat couched in front of the microphone wearing a head set and adjusting the knobs on the control board in front of him. The control booth he was broadcasting out of looked something like NASA's space control center with walls filled with controls and record albums.

"We're going to Phoenix tomorrow for vacation and its been raining there for three days," Supernaw said grimly as he was waiting for the next record to end.

Supernaw says he's never had much luck with the weather. He quit telling his listeners what the day looked like to him a couple of years ago.

"If you tell people its going to rain and it doesn't they don't get too upset," he said.

"But if you tell them it isn't going to rain and it does, well..."

"I just don't predict the weather anymore."

Weather brings other headaches, especially in the winter. When there's a big snow storm, he says kids flood the station with calls asking him if they have to go to school.

Supernaw has a sense of humor that can even get you laughing at 7 a.m.

"There's a tendency for record to last 4 to 5 minutes now," he continued.

"They used to be only 2 to 3 minutes.

"It cuts your workload in half."

But records really aren't his primary concern, the life-long Charlevoix resident says his morning show is more oriented towards getting information people want to know before going to work – things like sports, weather and news.

Supernaw says he likes radio work, especially up here, because he likes getting the North moving.

"I guess the experience has been good for me," he said.

"The job seems to get easier as the station gets bigger."

And even getting up at 4 a.m. isn't that bad, Supernaw says, when he starts thinking about being over with work by noon.

"There's so much going on in the morning, it's 9 a.m. before you know it," he continued.

After working the early hour shift at the station, Supernaw retreats to Charlevoix in the afternoon to handle the 60 customers who buy space on the radio station.

Supernaw picked up his radio experience from the "school of hard knocks."

The 32-year-old bachelor started 13 years ago, working for Midwest Broadcasting in Gaylord and then worked for three years at WMBM. He started working for WJML in 1965.

The Charlevoix resident has handled everything from live game sportscasting to hosting his morning show.

"It's a job just like anyone elses," he said.

"People I run around with don't think I'm different than anyone else."

NEXT WEEK: WVOY's "Moore in the Morning."

Shade Commission Needs Council Support

It was only four months ago that we found ourselves patting the Charlevoix City Council on the back for doing a job well done with the newly formed Shade Tree Commission.

At that time, we recognized the City Council for their then immediate action taken on the commission's request for funding.

Council agreed at that time to earmark some $17,897 for the Commission's projects already in full swing. But we find some of that support eroding.

Although Council clearly indicated at last week's informal committee-of-the-whole meeting that it was not pulling out from its support of the commission's activities, it did indicate it disfavored placing trees along Bridge Street in the downtown area.

Those against the planting in that particular location, said they were glad to see the trees in East Park, but didn't want to see them along the sidewalks downtown

The Council's major argument was that the trees would cause a serious handicap for snow removal in the winter months, when even the parking meters are taken down to make removal easier.

Although we can't completely argue with the council's thinking, we do take issue. We feel that the trees would be a definite attribute to the downtown area and would be worth the extra effort during the winter months.

However, what concerns us more is the manner in which the decision was made. Since only advance notice was given to councilmen, attending what is normally a "discussion only" committee meeting, the majority of councilmen, charged ahead making a decision that had none or little opportunity for public input.

We are not entirely sure what motivated the tree question to be placed on the committee's agenda, instead of the regular council agenda so the public would have an opportunity to discuss the matter. But never-the-less, the item was discussed in committee with little input coming from those who might have an interest.

We are not attempting to discourage Council from holding committee meetings to discuss certain matters. We are simply asking that they make sure the public is not left out.

The Shade Tree Commission is serving a vital role in the future of Charlevoix, by ensuring that our trees are maintained and protected for years to come.

Those making up the membership of the commission have donated many volunteer hours on the project that will eventually benefit the entire community.

Besides planting trees up and down Bridge Street, the Commission is developing a tree nursery that will become a source for replacement trees throughout the entire city.

In addition to the present planting and nursery programs, the commission will be using the allocated funds to hire a private tree company to work with and train city crews to maintain shade trees in Charlevoix.

As we had said in earlier accounts, the Shade Tree Commission has pointed out that our trees are in sorry shape and that if something isn't done quickly we will be losing them.

Under the proposed programs, Charlevoix will be able to replace dying trees, as well as maintain the ones that are in direct need of care.

As we said in a December editorial, Charlevoix Councilmen have demonstrated to us that they understand the importance of the program with their quick action in allocating the funds to carry out the Commission's mission.

As always, we appreciate the Council's interest. It is an interest that city residents will be able to realize in years to come.

At the same time, we hope last week's decision is not an indication that the Council is changing its mind about supporting the program.

We do not like these matters to be brought up in a manner that prevents public input.

May we suggest that in the future, these types of matters be discussed in public meetings and not informal sessions where the public normally doesn't attend.

Both the Council and Charlevoix's Shade Tree Commission deserve all the support we can offer in protecting one of this city's most valuable assets--trees.

Cherry Pie

The unique beauty and charm of the upper Jordan River was manifest last Sunday. The clear, cold, sunny sky was reflected in those dancing waters carrying the eternal promise of spring away from a beginning in the shadow of Deadmon's Hill. A mere country creek flowing across a grassy, open wood, it is joined consistently by springs and small trickles. It is dammed by beaver, four tile and then five tile creeks join in and suddenly this sparkling among the tamaracks and high sandy hills had assumed breadth and taken on its most charming form; a clear sandy stream flowing around countless cedar stumps and moss covered logs strewn across its bed forming small islands, diversions, deep mysterious pools and swift short ripples. Every inch of the stream now is a poem shimmering its individuality under the cold spring sunshine. It is a poem littered with all too familiar cans.

As I sat there saddened by this, I thought of the "World's Largest Cherry Pie" project. I had been searching for some form of expression that would counterpoint "the pie", the ultimate absurdity in commercial conspiracy.

As a script for a soap opera, it lacks credibility, even Mary Hartman would find something "better" to worry over.

The finale is the benevolent feeding of "special education" children a piece of the world's largest cherry pie as they shuffle in obsequious appreciation. It may seem natural to some to bring these captive children from around the state and deposit them next to a cement plant and feed them pie while hundreds of Charlevites cavort about to amuse themselves. Perhaps they too would rather appreciate the serenities of the upper Jordan.

It occurred to me that any sly, young man wandering aimlessly through the crowd murmuring that he had slipped vast quantities of "Ex-Lax" into the erstwhile pie could stir up some genuine human motivation.

All this is merely an appeal to those who may understand; Bring your garbage bags to the upper Jordan on May 15 and we'll remove the offending litter. Fritz Dodge.

Clockwise

Although it has taken a full 30 years, respect for the literary works of W. Somerset Maugham is back where it was in the early 1940's. However, thanks to Public Broadcasting Service, Maugham's audience probably has grown many times from the days when, if you wanted to meet Sadie Thompson, you had to sit down and read "Rain." Or, if you preferred Rosie Gann, you had to read "Cakes and Ale."

The weekend just past was a particularly rich one for Maugham's fans. Saturday night, via PBS, we saw again his "Trio". And Sunday night we were treated to the last installment of "Cakes and Ale." Since the folks at PBS know about Maugham, you can be sure other of his classics will appear from time to time.

I was introduced to Maugham in 1942 when my sister came back from her first day at Wayne State University lugging an enormous tome entitled "Of Human Boundage." It was required reading for all first year English students, since Maugham was generally considered a giant among British writers of his day.

So my sister read "Of Human Bondage." Then my mother read it. And, although I was only a freshman in high school, I was allowed to read it. I was amazed that I knew all the words of a book my big sister had read in college. Furthermore, I liked the way Maugham told a story — sort of chatty-like, with intimate little details that really didn't effect main action, but made the story come alive for the reader.

Before I left school, I think I had read most of Maugham, and when the army sent me to Japan in the early 1950's I was happy at last to be in a land that was high on Maugham's list of places to visit and write about. The Grand Hotel in Yokohama and the cocktail lounge of the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo had figured in two of his short stories and I spent hours in each establishment, nursing dry martinis and trying to puzzle out where Maugham had sat to see thus-and-so happen.

But while I was admiring Maugham's works and his style, a subtle change was taking place in critical thought. By the mid-1950's the dean of English letters had been thoroughly discredited as a writer. His work was considered trivial. His perception shallow. His style preposterous. And his morals atrocious.

It is interesting to note that about the same time, allowing for some overlapping, similar critical changes were taking part in the fields of popular music and popular art. The "Moonlight Bay" school of music which I had grown up with and loved was gradually overpowered by the raucus thump of rock guitars. Representational art, in which a butterfly looked like a butterfly and a rose looked like a rose, was being obliterated by abstractionists who decorated their canvasses with splashes of formless color and mindless doodling.

In the three artistic mediums — music, art and literature–"form" was held in low regard through most of the 50's and 60's. "Musicians" who had never had a music lesson banked fantastic fortunes as rock stars; "artists" who had trouble drawing recognizable stick-figures won critical acclaim with their abstract paintings; and "writers" totally unfamiliar with the artistic disciplines of the trade tried to stun us with four-letter words and scrap-of-life portraits of the world around us.

However, there are signs that that long and painful era of permissiveness in the arts may be ending.

With every passing day, hard rock music seems to occupy fewer and fewer hours of radio time. Old scores are coming back and some newer music which adheres to the old disciplines is actually pleasurable to listen to, even if rock undertones remain.

Abstract art also is on the wane. Ten years ago, 90 percent of the exhibits at Charlevoix's Waterfront Fair were from the abstract school. This year you could have counted the abstractionists on one hand.

And now it appears that traditional values in literature may return, if the Maugham revival on PBS means anything. Wouldn't it be nice if short stories and novels actually grew "endings" again? And if the characters in them breathed and talked and moved like relatively normal human beings?

I don't give graduation speeches, but if I did I'd want to address the graduates who don't show up. It would sound something like this.

"Good evening to the no-class of 1976, honored no parents, no friends, no members of the board, and others not present.

"This is an important no-occasion for you. It marks the beginning of a time when you are mature enough to make your own decisions about what you will do and what you will not do.

"I have noted that each year the class of no-graduates gets larger and larger, illustrating the need for young people to make a firm stand against tradition. I'm sure that all of you have thoroughly examined its ramifications and have come to the same conclusions:

"1. 'Pomp and Circumstance' can put your teeth to sleep.

"2. It's a long way to walk for a blank diploma that you have to turn in Tuesday for one with your name on it.

"3. Mortarboards make you look like parking meters.

"4. Commencement speakers are Xeroxed and have bionic tongues that say the same thing for three hours.

"Who cares?

"I wish to address my no-remarks to the final question, 'Who cares?'

"I am reminded of a story of a graduate 32 years ago. The grandmother who had partially raised the graduate bought a dress, hat and shoes 'on time' for which she paid 50 cents a week long after the graduation had been forgotten.

"The uncle of the graduate who had not worked in his 24 years actually got a job to buy a piece of luggage for the honoree. The sister of the graduate who had not had contact with the family for awhile returned on that day with tears and the gift of a briefcase to be used for college.

"The parents of the graduate borrowed a box camera, outfitted themselves in new clothes and planned a family reception.

"The entire group presented itself at the auditorium two hours before the ceremony and had to be unseated as they were sitting in the section on the side of the stage reserved for the band.

"It was the first time in the history of the family anyone had graduated from high school. I didn't have to show up, but would have faced great pain if I hadn't–the pain of depriving these beautiful people of their 'hour of pride.'

"If you have anyone who sacrificed, anyone who shared in this moment, anyone who deserves 'one hour of pride,' you don't belong at this no-class speech. Get measured for your cap and gown."

Save the fruit fly

Too many people were not sanguine about Sanguine, so the name was changed to Seafarer. And if that doesn't work, the Pentagon can always threaten to dismantle the Mackinac Bridge and use the steel to build ricochet rockets that can be aimed at Angola but will explode in Havana.

Seafarer, formerly Sanguine, is the submarine communications system which the Navy wants to bury somewhere, maybe under 2,700 square miles of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Seafarer is needed to prevent any rotten Russian from enjoying the ashes of New Jersey.

The problem is simple. If the Russians push the big button first, they might wipe out the entire U.S. before we could push back. Our only survivors would be our submarines but they'd be so far underwater they wouldn't know what the dirty Russians had done. The question is how to notify the subs so they can push their nuclear buttons and destroy Russia. Thus 2 nations would be razed for urban renewal. Planned Parenthood chapters could cancel all meetings, the world would be safe for Democracy.

The Seafarer system could alert our subs in time to assure what every peaceful nation wants – total revenge. But the Pentagon is having trouble with citizens who don't want the Seafarer antenna grid buried in their neighborhood. Tests have shown that Seafarer waves cause mutations in fruit flies. No humane person wants hunchbacked fruit flies buzzing around his bananas.

Wisconsin refused the honor several years ago. When the underground network was then suggested for the Upper Peninsula, there was great protest from citizens who didn't want to scar their ecology and endanger their fruit flies. That was back in 1974 when the system was called "Sanguine" which is a tricky word.

One dictionary definition is that sanguine means to be "eagerly optimistic; cheerful." But it also means "the color of blood."

Obviously, some Pentagon admiral stumbled across a dictionary somewhere, probably while on leave. He decided people weren't being optimistic and cheerful about Operation Sanguine because of its bloody connotation. It sounded like a movie starring Vincent Price. When the chicken civilians heard the word "Sanguine" they didn't become cheerful about their nation's nuclear capability, they became doleful about their fruit flies' capability to stand up straight.

So the admiral ordered the name changed to Seafarer which, according to the same dictionary, simply means "a sailor or mariner." After all, the push-the-button message would be beamed to submarines, so why shouldn't it be carried by a sailor? And what decent American could be disturbed by anything named Seafarer? The word has a great swashbuckle to it. Errol Flynn instead of Vincent Price.

Also, Seafarer starts with S, the same as Sanguine, so it wasn't necessary to change the gold initial engraved on the adding machines of the Pentagon body counters who will have important work to do once Seafarer sends the signal. These counters have been unhappily idle since the U.S. pulled out of Vietnam, and it would be a shame to delay their return to action further simply to change the engraving on their equipment. These past few years have been tough on the body counters whose only relief from tedium is on holiday weekends when the Pentagon loans them to the Auto Club.

But even with the name change, there are still some ecology nuts and fruit-fly bleeding hearts who don't want Seafarer buried in the Upper Peninsula, So, in a totally unrelated action, of course, the Pentagon has announced that one Air Force base in the U.P. may be closed because of budget cuts. This would cost the area thousands of jobs.

But the Pentagon further revealed that the U.P.'s 2nd Air Force base would likely serve as the nerve center for Seafarer, should it be buried there. Of course, if Seafarer is banned...

You don't have to be a submarine to get the message. If I were a fruit fly living in the Upper Peninsula, I'd start packing.

Meet Charlevoix

....Jeannine Wallace

Jeannine Wallace, owner of the Shop of the Gulls, is one of three newly elected Charlevoix City Councilmen. This week the Courier discusses a variety of city issues with her.

Mrs. Wallace and her husband, Larry, have two daughters–Murphy, an Alma College senior, and Becca, a 7-year-old Charlevoix elementary student. She has summered in Charlevoix all her life and has been a permanent resident since adulthood.

COURIER: How do you view your next two years on the council?

WALLACE: I expect we will continue to be busy with a lot of meetings. Since I have already served two years on the council, I'm hoping my previous experience will be of value and that I will have a lot to offer during my term. I am especially interested in seeing that the work of the parking commission is continued now that the first phase of new parking at waterfront is nearly completed. We need parking desperately, so I would like to see us continue with other phases for more downtown parking.

COURIER: Are there any other projects that you would like to see continued with or worked on?

WALLACE: I hope Charlevoix residents continue with their interests in beautification projects. Charlevoix is fortunate to have the many natural resources it has. I'm glad there are so many residents in town who want to see them preserved for the next generation. I'm particularly excited about the work the Shade Tree Commission is doing. Hopefully, when the project is completed Charlevoix will have replaced all of its diseased trees, as well as establish a regular tree maintenance program. The commission is also seeing that a nursery be established so that the city can maintain its own new tree supply.

COURIER: Do you feel being a woman places any unusual restraints on you being on the city council?

WALLACE: No. The only time it seems funny is when someone comes up to address the council and catches themselves saying city fathers. I, of course, am a city mother. I personally think it's great for any interested person, male or female, to be involved with city leadership. I think people in Charlevoix are more interested in having a qualified person on council and how good of a job they will do, rather than what sex they are.

COURIER: As a mother of two children, one of them still in the local school system, what do you think about the recent bond proposal defeat?

WALLACE: I was very disappointed with the results, I felt the school board had offered a reasonable proposal that would have solved our overcrowded conditions, as well as improve the old, drab, middle school. Something is going to have to be done. I think the school board has offered our community a variety of alternatives and now we are going to have to pick one. I'm quite concerned about the building situation.

COURIER: Now that Charlevoix no longer has a regional planning commission with Charlevoix Township, do you think the city will establish its own?

WALLACE: I hope so. I think we need a planning commission to update our zoning ordinance so that it is agreeable with everyone in the city and will protect property owners. The planning commission could serve as an advisory board and lay out long range plans for growth and development in Charlevoix.

COURIER: Do you think Charlevoix will eventually get a new city zoning ordinance?

WALLACE: I'm hopeful we will have a new zoning ordinance with some of the objectives to the proposed one worked out. Property owners need a new ordinance to protect their property. Too often, people look at zoning as taking away their rights, but actually it merely guarantees them.

COURIER: In a recent article appearing in the Courier, the City Charter Commission indicated it would support a city manager form of government. What is your feeling about this type of government?

WALLACE: I agree with them totally. We need a qualified and experienced manager to operate our city. The council is only a group of lay people, who need someone's professional experience to rely upon. If I was going to hire someone to run my business, believe me I would want someone that has experience with everything from buying to bookkeeping.

Lions Elect New Officers

The Charlevoix Lions Club held its annual election recently and named officers who will be installed in June to serve for the 1976-77 club year which begins July 1.

Those elected were: president, Walter Hufford; 1st V.P., George Duke; 2nd V.P., Sam Kaufman; 3rd V.P., Norman Works; treasurer, Edward Kurth; secretary, Joe Morris; Tail Twister, Vince Olach; Lion Tamer, Dave Phillips, and board members, Gene Steele and Ray Wood. Bill Supernaw and Tom LaBlance have been named to make plans for the installation in June.

Tillen Expresses Concern With Grandvue Facility

Richard Tillen, director of the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services, presented th Grandvue Medical Care Facility financial report at the regular April session of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and voiced some of the concerns he has about the facility.

The facility received receipts totaling $828,688 in 1975 including $66,984 on hand Jan. 1, 1975. Disbursements totaled $801,861 leaving a balance on hand on Jan. 1 of this year of only $26,827.

Also included in the report were the various sources of revenue and the manner in which the funds were spent.

The facility has 73 beds for patients needing skilled care and has a 97.8 per cent occupancy record. Mrs. Hilda Watkins, superintendent, said that the facility is always full and has a waiting list. The 1.2 per cent below full occupancy is the result of a patient leaving, perhaps over a weekend, when it is impossible to complete the necessary papers or when a doctor cannot be reached to sign papers for admittance.

Fifty-three patients were admitted; 22 discharged and 29 expired resulting in 26,069 patient days care. 101,237 meals were served at an average cost of $1.10 per meal with 36 per cent of this for raw foods.

The per diem cost in 1975 was $27.53. The net cost to the county per patient day was $2.03.

Tillen said he was concerned about having only $26,827 on hand at the beginning of the year. State and federal funds are often slow in coming in but our expenses go on regardless of this he told the Board of Commissioners. Added to that, he said, is the fact that promises of additional funds do not always become a reality. He cited the promise of a seven percent increase in Medicaid which was given briefly and then decreased to the original amount. The largest single source of income, he added, is from Medicaid. He went on to say that with the state in its present financial bind he doesn't know what might be turned over to the county.

He also mentioned the need for an addition for supervised residential care. This would be utilized for people needing limited care less than skilled care. Skilled care includes supervised nursing care.

He said it did not look as though any grants would be available for this type of construction and suggested to the Commissioners that possibly a millage levy might be the way to go if the addition is to be built.

Ira L. Davis said he was certain funds could be found.

The board took no action on the matter chosing to attempt to obtain a grant.

Land Annexation Request Stalled

The Charlevoix Board of Commissioners tabled the issue relating to the City of Charlevoix's request to annex property in Charlevoix Township which is contiguous with land annexed earlier.

The property in question is located adjacent to the third hole at the Municipal Golf Course and opposite the southern perimeter of the city in the area of Brookside cementery and the airport.

The exact location of some of the property which was not clearly outlined on a map provided by the city was one of the major reasons why the request was not approved.

Donald Berlage, city attorney, appeared before the board at its April session to request the annexation which had been discussed at length at City Council meetings. The Board of Commissioners and interested residents of Charlevoix township questioned the boundaries of the property as shown on the map used by Berlage.

Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix township supervisor, said he wanted the property clearly outlined. "I don't mind the annexation but I want to know exactly what we are losing to the city. This map is not right. I want it down in black and white so at some future date someone in the city can't say I'm sorry but that was part of the property we annexed".

Mrs. Edward Lewand, a resident of the township who lives a North Point, was particularly intersted in the piece of property located near the golf course. She asked that it be surveyed and stakes placed so one could see where it is located. "You can't tell by just looking at a map" she said.

The pieces of property on the southern edge of the city caused the greatest controversy. Clayton Smith, County Commissioner who presents Charlevoix and Hayes township on the board, agreed that the map did not clearly indicate the exact location of the property and asked that better descriptions be provided.

Before is was tabled, Stroud said that he felt the Commissioners should know exactly what they were voting on before they were asked to vote. He went on to say that Berlage had nine descriptions but they were in technical language and did not spell out the exact locations of the land in question.

Berlage advised the board he would return later with more information regarding the annexation.

Later in the day, many of the commissioners visited some of the sites included in the proposed annexation plan.

Services Can't Find a Home

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services, which was served an eviction notice earlier this year, still hasn't found a new home, Richard Tillen, director of the department told his landlords, the County Board of Commissioners, last week.

Tillen said efforts had been made to find office space for his department but as yet none has been found.

He said he did not know what the final solution would be, that that was the problem of Robert Zuver of the Bureau of Budget and Management of the State office, but added that the only solution might be to have someone construct an office building and lease it to the Department of Social Services.

In the meantime, he said, he had been advised that his department could continue to occupy its present space in the county building until the problem is solved.

The Department of Social Services has occupied offices in the county building since the new county building was opened in 1958.

The need for additional space for county offices and the need for more space by the social services department is the reason for the eviction notice.

Museum Book Sales Climbing

Over 200 pre-publication orders for the Charlevoix Historical Society's volume of "Bob Miles' Charlevoix" have been made, says Ed Buetner, society president.

He says 36 of those orders include $100 contributions for the historical museum building fund.

The society is planning to publish Miles' historical photo collection of Charlevoix as a fund raising project to build a local museum. Miles, a long-time local photographer, has been collecting old-time Charlevoix photographs for years.

"While over half of these orders came from the local area, others originated from Southern Michigan and 14 other states," Miles reports.

"This indicates there is a lot of interest from summer residents and visitors, as well as from others who have family connections or formerly lived in the area."

At the April 6 historical society meeting, Miles recounted some of the history relating to one of the picture stories in the book. The account was about the burning of the Steamship Champlain in 1887, as it was enroute to the Charlevoix harbor.

"Bob Miles' Charlevoix" may be ordered from the Charlevoix Historical Society, Box 525, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, at the pre-publication price of $20 until June 15. After that date, the cost will be $25.

Those contributing $100 or more to the Museum Building Fund will receive a free copy of the book.

Lutz Wins 6th Place

Jeff Lutz, Charlevoix High School junior, won a sixth place award in state competition at the recent annual Michigan Industrial Education exhibit held at Port Huron.

Jeff's award was one of two given in the state for copper tooled pictures. His entry was a pair of Spanish Explorers, tooled in copper, antiqued and mounted in frames he had made.

The entries along with others entered by Charlevoix High School students were taken to Port Huron by his instructor, James Jinsky.

At last year's state program, Charlevoix students won the only two awards given in this type of program.

Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lutz.

The food fad racket costs Americans $500 million a year. The consumer is constantly faced with new ways to lose weight, vitamin cures, and a multitude of other claims made by food faddists.

If all these claims were true, we would be a nation of svelte, healthy, gorgeous Americans. Common sense has to prevail in order to distinguish nutritional sense from nonsense.

To many people, vitamins have become a supernatural thing, and there is a tendency among some to overuse vitamins in search of good nutrition. Although vitamins are essential to human life, many other nutrients such as proteins, fats, carbohydrates, minerals and water are also needed.

Healthy individuals who select a varied diet based on meats, milk, fruits, vegetables, enriched breads and cereals will obtain all the vitamins they need for optimal growth and health maintenance.

Buying mail-order or over-the counter vitamins on a whim or on a friends' recommendation can be harmful and expensive. Check first with a qualified physician or nutritionist.

Greater nutritional bargains with more of all the needed nutrients can be obtained from food.

Vitamins, like minerals, do not provide calories for energy. But they are necessary for reactions that release energy from carbohydrates, fats and proteins.

As a group, vitamins function in very small amounts to maintain life, promote growth and aid in reproduction. Individual vitamins are needed for specific metabolic reactions in the cell.

Some vitamins are classified as fat-soluble. Vitamins A and D are fat-soluble and can be stored in the body. Overdoses of these two vitamins can be harmful.

So, remember, vitamin supplements may have their place, but they are no substitute for a good balanced diet.

Board Approves Appointments

Several appointments made by Clyde Cunningham, chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners recently were approved.

Martin Paul was named the delegate and Don Meggison alternate to the Michigan Northern Counties Association which the board voted to join at the same meeting.

Ralph S. Richardson was named to represent the Board of Commissioners at the forthcoming meetings of the Charlevoix County Tax Allocation board.

Mrs. Joan Y. Blanchard, director of the county's Equalization Department, Delbert Ingalls, Clayton Smith and Cunningham were named to represent the local equalization department at the meeting of the State Board of Equalization of the State Tax Commission.

Richard McKinnon who succeeds Mrs. Thora Kotowich, an appointee, as a Commissioner from East Jordan following his recent election to the post, was named to fill Mrs. Kotowich's committee commitments.

Free Gardens in Charlevoix!

The city of Charlevoix is again providing free garden plots for city residents interested in raising their own vegetable gardens. The city provides you with a plowed section of land - all you need are seeds and a little time to work your garden. It is highly discouraged that anyone capitalize on their produce. We are interested that the people in Charlevoix enjoy the pleasure of their fresh vegetables and their own garden.

To reserve your garden clip out this coupon and send to the Courier 301 Michigan Ave. Charlevoix 49720

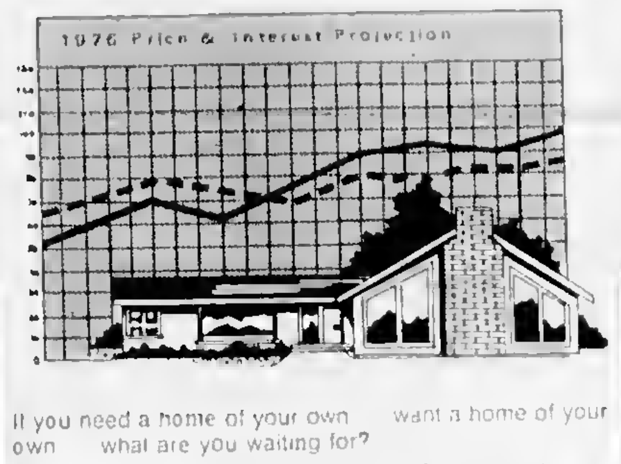
There's a lot to appreciate



If you need a home of your own ... want a home of your own ... what are you waiting for?

PRICES TO GO DOWN? They won't. Right now, homes are as reasonable as they will ever be. And according to the statistics, a house increases in value about 10% each year. Which means that next year your home will be worth more — or cost more. You decide which.

MORTGAGE MONEY TO BECOME AVAILABLE? It is. Right now, thrift institutions have the funds you need. And it's easier to qualify for a loan because the incomes of both husband and wife can be counted.

INTEREST RATES TO COME DOWN? Not likely. You can understand why when you look at the higher interest you're earning on your own savings.

Buying a home now makes a lot of sense. Your REALTOR® can show you how to take advantage of today's favorable conditions to own the home you want.

It surely is nice having spring arrive and our friends and neighbors return from the sunny south and other vacation places.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Myner returned home Saturday from spending several weeks in Tampa, Florida.

Mrs. Effie Arthur has returned from visiting friends in California and also Las Vegas.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cross spent six weeks visiting interesting places in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrison spent the winter in California and Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison returned home last week from vacationing in Florida and with relatives in Detroit.

Friends and relatives has the sincere sympathy of our community on the death of Datus Dean this Wednesday at Grandvue Medical Center. He lived here many years and attended our local church.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Snyder of Saginaw are spending the Easter weekend holiday in their local home on Washington Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams are at home after spending the winter in Holiday, Florida.

LEVI JOHNSON of the Detroit Lions makes a jump shot while Dan McKenzie (12) just stands there and watches.

Wrestlers Go to T.C.

Eight local wrestlers were in Trovese City Saturday to participate in a U.S. Wrestling Federation Free Style tournament.

Gary Probert, who has recovered from knee surgery in January, placed first on the 178 pound junior division with Ed Mann taking a third in the same weight class. Don Trost took a fourth in the 123 pound class and Mike Snizik won matches but did not place. Others who participated were Brad Snizik, Mike Kiteley, Ande Keller and John Sheets, the latter in the kids' class.

In all 372 boys competed in the three divisions. The categories ranged in age from five to 43 years.

In taking a first, Probert won by a 6-4 decision over Pat Clark of Belding; by a fall in 5:59 over Bob Higgins of Durand; by default over Curt Bondarenko of Bridgeport and by a fall in 1:27 over Ed Mann, also of Charlevoix.

Carey Named 'Player of the Year'

For the second year in a row the Harvard University basketball team has selected Bill Carey of Charlevoix their most valuable player.

Bill had been elected captain of the '75-'76 team at the start of the season and led the team in both total points scored—385 and in rebounds—223. He averaged 14.8 points a game as Harvard suffered through a losing season, winning just 8 of 26 games.

Though Harvard finished last in the Ivy League, Bill won the league rebounding championship.

Other season highlights were his being chosen on All Tournament teams at both the IPTAY Tip Off Tournament at Clemson, S.C. in November and the Kodak Basketball Classic at Rochester, N.Y. in January.

Bill scored in double figures in 21 of Harvard's 26 games and had season highs of 30 points against Brandeis University and 28 points versus Columbia from his forward position.

4-H Help On the Way

Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service will have a full-time 4-H assistant beginning July 1 as the result of action taken last week by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The salary of the person who will join the office at Boyne City July 1 will be shared by the county and Michigan State University.

The board appropriated $1,800 as its share of the cost for 1976 and voted to appropriate $3,000 as its share for 1977. The cost of fringe benefits as charged back to the MSU Cooperative Extension service.

Start with a sound structure

This house in Springfield, Illinois, was the only home Abraham Lincoln ever owned. Nevertheless, he equated the strength of the home with the strength of the government when he declared "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

From here Lincoln emerged from local politics to be counted among the most memorable of presidents. In 1844, this house cost Lincoln $1,500—a year's earnings. Still, it was considered a good buy . only five years old, with a 50 x 152 foot lot, cistern, well, privy, 30 x 13 foot barn, 18 x 20 foot carriage house and many good neighbors. "To this place and the kindness of these people," he said, "I owe everything."

Owning your own home can make a profound difference in your future and your family's. It can mean better jobs . . . better education . . . better health and recreation facilities. A REALTOR® can help you find the best place to live. His Code of Ethics guarantees you the fairest treatment and best advice available.

ST. JAMES TOWNSHIP TOWNSHIP

ORDINANCE NO. 12

TOWNSHIP PARKS ORDINANCE

It is the purpose of this Ordinance to promote the safe and healthful use of parks and recreation facilities located in St. James Township. Pursuant to this purpose, the following rules are made and ordained by the St. James Township Board:

1. No person or persons shall erect a camp, or camp within any park without first obtaining written permission therefor from the Supervisor of St. James Township, or a representative authorized to issue such permission. Such permission shall not be issued for a period of time to exceed twenty (20) days. Such camp or camps shall only be permitted within the area of the park designated as the "Camping Area."

2. No person or persons shall erect or place any camping equipment, such as a trailer, camper, tent or similar material without first attaching a campground registration tag on the designated camp site marker post, or, if a marker post is not available, on the campsite in a prominent and identifiable location.

3. No person or persons shall leave a campsite unoccupied during the first twenty-four (24) hours after establishing camp.

4. It shall be unlawful for more than one camp to occupy a designated site.

5. A fee for camping shall be charged for each camping unit. The St. James Township Board will determine the amount of such fee and the date on which such fee shall be instituted. A camping unit shall consist of either one family or a group up to and including eight (8) persons.

6. It shall be unlawful to leave or place any refuse, rubbish, tin cans, bottles, or garbage in any place within township parks except in garbage cans provided for such purposes.

7. No person or persons shall deposit refuse or waste material which has originated outside of the campground in receptacles provided for campground users; to set fire to the contents of a refuse basket, barrel or trash container; or to place or burn garbage in a fire ring or stove.

8. It shall be unlawful to build fires except in the places provided for them, or to leave any fire unattended.

9. It shall be unlawful to store or leave a boat or other property for more than forty-eight (48) hours without written permission.

This provision shall not apply to registered campers using campground facilities.

10. It shall be unlawful to remove, destroy or deface any notices, signs or markers, or to mutilate, cut pick or destroy any trees, shrubs or wildflowers; or to hunt, corral or destroy any wild animals or birds within township parks.

11. It shall be unlawful to post, place or erect any sign or advertising material within township parks; or to erect a fence or barrier within township parks.

12. It shall be unlawful to discharge firearms, airguns, gas guns, spring loaded guns or sling shots within township parks.

13. No person or persons shall engage in any violent, abusive, loud, boisterous, vulgar, lewd, wanton, obscene or otherwise disorderly conduct; or to disturb or annoy other persons; or lounge, sit or lie upon walks, paths or roads obstructing the free passage of other persons.

14. It shall be unlawful to use a loud speaker, public address system or sound amplifying equipment of any kind without written permission.

15. It shall be unlawful to operate an off-the-road motor driven vehicle, such as a mini-bike, motorcycle, dune buggy, snowmobile, amphibious vehicle or other motorized device, except for entrance to and departure from a township park.

16. No person or persons shall have a dog or other animal, unless said animal is under immediate control on a leash not more than 6 feet long.

17. It shall be unlawful to camp under the pavillion, or to place more than two (2) tables, benches, chairs or other camping equipment under said pavillion and leave some for more than six (6) hours. The pavillion is to be shared with any and all registered campers.

PENALTY CLAUSE: Any person who shall violate any of the above rules and regulations shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not to exceed one hundred (100) dollars and costs, or imprisonment of not more than thirty (30) days or both, at the discretion of the Court.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This Ordinance shall be given immediate effect.

Obituary

Mrs. Anna Henry

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Henry, 90, who died Friday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for a week, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Dan Minor of the East Jordan United Methodist church and the Rev. Hugh Cowan of the First Baptist church officiated. Interment was in the Atwood cemetery.

Mrs. Henry, the former Anna Groenink was born at Alba March 28, 1886, and was married to Maurice Henry of Bellaire in 1913 and resided on a farm near Atwood. Mr. Henry preceded her in death in 1942. At that time she went to Muskegon to live, returning here in 1950. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Rosemae) Holecheck of Charlevoix; one grandchild; three great-grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Dessie Farrell of Ellsworth, Mrs. Barbara DeVries of Muskegon and Mrs. Rose Bearss of Ellenton, Fla.

Mrs. Vern Jones

Funeral services for Mrs. Vern Jones, 78, former resident who died unexpectedly Thursday at her home at Elm Point, East Jordan, were held Monday at the Watson Funeral Home in East Jordan. The Rev. William P. Seibert of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

The former Edna Marie Webster was born at Norwood July 23, 1899, and was married to Mr. Jones at Charlevoix on April 14, 1919. They resided here until 1945 when they moved to East Jordan where he was caretaker at Elm Point. He preceded her in death in February 1975. She was a member of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix and the Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton post of the American Legion.

She is survived by a son, John of Columbus, Ohio; two granddaughters; four great-grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. George Sarasin and Mrs. Archie Balch, both of Charlevoix.

Abraham VerWys

Funeral services for Abraham "Abe" VerWys, 82, who died Wednesday at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility where he had been a patient for four months, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Services were under the auspices of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Grand Rapids Feb. 8, 1894, Mr. VerWys was married to the former Olive L. (Polly) Simpson of Kalamazoo in 1932. He was a veteran of World War I. He was construction worker by trade and came to Charlevoix in 1947 at the time the present highway bridge was built here. He was a life member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, George A. of Vestal, N.Y., James S. of Buena Park, Calif., and Stuart F. of Hobbs, N.M.; three daughters, Mrs. Edward (MaudeLaine) Huhta of Warren, Mrs. David (Mary Lou) Ikens of Rogers City and Dena K. of Charlevoix; 10 grandchildren and a sister, Miss Cora VerWys of Grand Rapids.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor Mr. VerWys' memory contribute in his name to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Memorial Fund.

Datus Dean

Funeral services for Datus S. Dean, 87, who died Wednesday at Grandvue Medical Care Facility where he had been a patient for a week, were held Friday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regeir of the United Methodist church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Dean was born in Banks township Oct. 5, 1888, and later made his home in Eveline township where he operated a farm until retiring and moving to Marion township. He was married to the former Elizabeth Pearl Chandler who preceded him in death in 1958. In 1959 he was married to the former Mrs. Coral M. (Chandler) Holmes who died in 1966. He was a member of the United Methodist Church.

Surviving are a son, Stanley Dean of Mt. Clemens; a stepson, Harold Chew of Champaign, Ill.; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Harold (Ernestine) Hunt of Manchester, Iowa, and Mrs. Carlton (Marguerite) Ikens of Charlevoix; nine stepgrandchildren and five step great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Jessie Knudsen

Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie E. Knudsen, 84, who died Wednesday at her home here, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. William Harmon of Cheboygan, former pastor of the Ironton Congregational church, officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

The former Jessie E. Hunter was born in Bellaire July 25, 1891, and was married to John E. Knudsen in Eveline township April 10, 1912. Mr. Knudsen preceded her in death in July 1954. A year later she moved from their Eveline township farm to her present home in Charlevoix. She was a life member of the Ironton Congregational church, the Rock Elm Grange and the Ironton Grange.

She is survived by two sons, Douglas G. of East Jordan and Karl K. of Milwaukee, Wis.; four daughters, Mrs. Carl (Edna) Anderson of Charlevoix, Mrs. Joseph (Mildred) Shores of Port Washington, Wis., Mrs. Roy (Marjorie) Plum of Stanton and Mrs. Calvin (Rena) Plum of Long Lake, Minn; 15 grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Clare (Mabel) Haff of Grand Rapids.

CRISTEN O'DELL, seven-year old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Sundberg of 1306 Bridge, won this year's Courier Easter Coloring Contest. Cristen, who lives in Jackson, says she wants to buy a puppy with her prize money. Kimberly Russell of 407 W. Hurlbut took second place honors, while Craig VanTielen of Ellsworth won third. Kerby Nowland of Fairfax, Virginia won the special "Award of Merit," prize for children under eight.

Ferry

Scott says, "Many stories about that are unprintable."

The opening of the ferry for Lewis Hunt, owner of Big Pine Resort means the beginning of his best season, even though he is open year round.

Like all vessels of the high seas, the ferry has its yarns.

One, no doubt embellished by time, concerns an operator who took time off for a pint and bass run, mid-way between the tow docks.

Good Fishing

As the line of irrate passengers grew, he altered casting and drinking. The bass run was good. That coupled with his annoyance at the honking horns from each side, contributed to his remaining mid-stream until he was satiated.

Jarvis confirmed this, commenting, "That was his last trip."

Tradition and economy insure the ferry's future.

Proposals to bridge the South Arm, raised during the highwater, where resolved by the prohibitive cost of building either a draw bridge or a bridge high enough to permit sailboats and yachts to pass.

Since the early days of a row-boat carrying passengers, followed by the first cable controlled barge, hand-cranked across, to modern gas and diesel powered vessels the Ironton Ferry has been etching its niche in local lore.

As far as anyone knows, the Ironton Ferry is the only cable guided ferry in Michigan, and one of very few remaining in the country.—

Cubs Hold Pinewood Derby Race

Charlevoix will host the Northern District Cub Scout and Weblo Pinewood district Derby Saturday with local winners from throughout the northern district of the Scenic Trails Council competing for the district title.

The event will begin at 10 a.m. at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

The district derby will find Cub Scouts and Webelos racing their five-ounce pinewood entries which won in local competition.

The event is open to the public and should prove an exciting experience as more than 100 young Scouts vie for the title.

Each entry is made by its owner according to specifications. Each, however, carries the individual stamp of its maker through its paint job.

Last Wednesday two boys raced their cars in the local competition in which the following winners were presented with trophies: Cub Scouts: first place, Peter Plagge; 2nd, Gary Louiselle; 3rd, Jim Young and 4th, Tom Graf.

In the Webelo division David Hendrickson placed first; Pat Mitchell, second; Dudley Stevens, third and Robert Charbeneau, fourth. Hendrickson was named the overall winner.

Music Festival

The Charlevoix Instrumental Music Department will kick off its annual Spring Festival of Music with a concert at the high school gymnasium at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Featured in the concert will be five bands including the sixth, seventh and eighth grade bands of the Middle School appearing under the direction of Ms. Evelyn Peters and the High School Concert and Symphony bands under the direction of Gary Stutzman.

smiling. "Most people don't last a year in that position."

The Hynes said less than a year had gone by after they moved North when they wanted to be involved again helping mentally impaired people.

At about the same time, plans began for the establishment of the Charlevoix House. The Hynes were contacted and asked if they would serve on the advisory board for the new home.

"We agreed to help," Mrs. Hynes recalled. "And then we said to ourselves, why just be on the board, why don't we apply to be house parents."

So they did. And following interviews with all of the many applicants for the job, the couple along with their two-year-old daughter and six-month-old baby, was chosen to operate the house.

And now, a year later, the four Hynes and the six clients of the Charlevoix House live together as one big happy family—with many of the same joys and heartbreaks. The Hynes contend the family situation has a lot of advantages.

"The women—and the men, too—have learned a lot about taking care of babies and children—and a dog, a bird, cats and tropical fish," Mrs. Hynes said ticking off a list of all the things living in the home with a broad smile.

"And we've learned so much about what normal is," she added. "And we've seen some beautiful, touching things happen."

FRIENDSHIP THROUGH FAITH SPANS INTERNATIONAL BORDERS

With the celebration of Canada-United States Goodwill Week, designed to promote better understanding between two countries, we are reminded that there is no finer example in all the world of international trust, respect and harmony than our three thousand miles of unguarded boundary line. No matter which side of the border you live on, you have the heart-warming assurance that your neighbors across the way are friends who wish you well and would help you in any way they could. This is the spirit of peace and brotherhood that is taught by every faith and recurs in many forms throughout the Bible. Learning to love your neighbor is the first lesson you receive when you attend the Church of your choice on the Sabbath.

"(God)...hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation."
--Acts 17:26

Three thousand miles of border line—
nor fort nor armed host
On all this frontier neighbor-ground, from east to western coast...
God speed that surely dawning day—
that coming hour divine—
When all the nations of the earth shall boast such border line.

Charlevoix Contributes $2.9 Million to Social Security

How healthy is the Social Security trust fund, on which many Charlevoix County residents depend for current or future retirement benefits?

By virtue of their contributions to Social Security over the years, via payroll taxes, how large is their interest in the fund?

They have been worried lately over reports emanating from Washington that the fund is in trouble. In testimony before Congress recently, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, David Mathews warned that the outgo from the pension fund is exceeding its income by some 10 percent at the present time.

The reserves are now down to approximately $44 billion, which is enough to carry only for about six years, several years less than usual. It will be exhausted at that time unless something is done to boost revenues. Plans to do so are now before Congress.

According to calculations, based upon the latest annual report of the Social Security Administration, Michigan State residents have an estimated interest of $2,035,000,000 in the $44 billion in reserves currently on hand.

The stake of the Charlevoix County population amounts to approximately $2,997,000.

That is more than in many communities of its size. Bigger earnings locally have meant bigger contributions to the fund.

The situation has led President Ford to propose an increase in payroll taxes, effective next year. Congress opposes such a solution.

It feels that raising taxes at a time when millions of people are out of work and the nation is just emerging from a deep recession is not advisable.

Its attitude is that the loss of assets from the fund will be reversed in the near future as the economy improves and more people return to work and resume their payments.

Other ways of handling the situation, rather than raising taxes, will be considered if necessary. One of them would be to use general tax revenues as a partial source of financing.

For retired people and those contemplating retirement at some future time, assurance is given that they need have of ear that their interest in Social Security will be jeopardized.

Cherry Pie Project Nears May Deadline

By TOM DAMMANN

For most people the May 15 baking of the World's Largest Cherry Pie (ten tons, give or take a ton or two) at Medusa Cement Co. would be an horrendous nightmare, not to mention headache requiring endless bottles of aspirin.

But not for Dave Phillips, proprietor of the Grey Gables Restaurant, chef extraordinaire, about to become circus-producer-impresario.

"It's orderly nightmare," he said, after a meeting with key participant-helpers last Wednesday.

On the nightmare side of the ledger are some details as: an expected attendance of a minimum 5,000 people; parking, entertainment during the three to four hour period required for cooking and cooling the pie; how, when and where to open the cans containing 12,000 pounds of cherries, what to do with inquisitive news reporters, TV cameramen, assorted kibitzers and keep-appointed quarterbacks; how to make sure the pie is thoroughly cooked through; what to do with leftovers and the like.

But at last week's meeting, answers to most of those problems and others were forthcoming.

Among those present were: Police Chief Jack Mol, who also spoke for Sheriff Philo Sumner who could not be present; Larry Levengood, from the Health Department; representative from Coca Cola, who are supplying their beverage free of charge; Donald C. Ziegler, East Jordan stunt flyer; Mrs. Dorothy Walkmeyer, manager of the Traverse City Cherry Festival; Elbert Kaiser, Medusa cement planner; Charles F. Kratt, vice president and Douglas G. Knudson, general foreman of Will-Flow Incorporated; Jim Shepard, Superintendent Char-Em Intermediate Schools; and Mrs. Jacqui Merta, Executive Director, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Mol Expects

Chief Mol said there will be parking for about 300 vehicles in areas immediately adjacent to the cement plant and that plans for surplus parking at Bells Bay and along U.S. 31 are currently under discussion.

He emphasized that parking along highways must be off the blacktop to provide space for moving traffic and emergency vehicles.

Phillips said he is negotiating with a bus company to provide shuttle service from the highway to the scene of activity for a modest charge.

Phillips outlined the program, scheduled to start at 9 a.m. when the crust, cherry mix and filling will be prepared, using such non-culinary tools as dump trucks, shovels, cement mixers, lawn rollers and a crane for lifting the 14 ft. diameter pie tin, being built by Will-Flow into the especially constructed brick oven.

"Everything will be properly sanitized," he said.

This activity will toke place in Medusa main parking area.

At noon, when all the preparations should have been completed the Mackinaw And Charlevoix High School Bands, accompanied by color guards (one from the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew) will enter the parking area to play the National Anthem.

An entertainment program will fill the next four hours during which the pie will be baked and then cooled. This will consist of music and skits performed by area talent under the direction of Al "Breezy" Breeze.

A feature of the program will be on air show with Donald Ziegler piloting his single plane bi-plane (which he built in 1962) through a series of aerobatics over Lake Michigan between 2 and 3 p.m.

Pie Cutting

The pie will be officially cut at 4 p.m. Any unserved pie will be given to area schools and institutions.

Phillips says that to assure smooth running on the big day, he plans to open the cherries and store them in refrigerators the day before.

Charlevoix Names Ten Top Seniors

Members from two Charlevoix families dominated Charlevoix High School's top graduating seniors for the second year in a row.

This year, Denise Boss was named valedictorian with an average of 3.950 of a possible 4.0 points and Kim Gould became salutatorian with a 3.897 average.

Only a year ago, Gayle Boss and Judy Gould, sister's of this year's two top seniors, shared the respective honors.

Others among the top ten in the class of 118 graduates are Tami Borowiak, Lisa Fiedler, John F. Greene, Linda Himebauch, Mark A. Meier, Joseph F. Seidel, Carol A. Streeter and Christopher J. Wimmer.

THE TOP TEN students of the 1976 graduating class at the Charlevoix High School which numbers 118 members are pictured above. They are front row (l to r) Linda Himebauch, Kim Gould, salutatorian, Tami Borowiak, Carol A. Streeter, Lisa Fiedler. Back row: Christopher J. Wimmer, Mark A. Meier, John F. Greene, Denise K. Boss, valedictorian, Joseph F. Seidel.

In addition to being top students in their class, they have participated in a variety of activities during their high school careers.

Denise Boss

Denise Boss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Boss, has served on the staff of the Rayder, the high school yearbook for four years, and as editor this year; has been a member of the Marching Band for four years and a member of the flag corps for three of the four years; has participated in Debate, Drama and Forensics for three years, played girls basketball for four years and participated in girls track for four years; been a cheerleader for two years, a member of Campus Life for four years and president of her church youth group.

Among the honors she has received have been serving as a member of the 1976 Winter Homecoming court and Campus Life Sweetheart Co-Queen 1976. She also holds the school record in the 880 yard run and the long jump and the Michigan-Huron Conference record in the long jump; received Superior (1976) and Excellent (1975) Acting Awards in District One Act Play competition; was first place speaker in League Debate competition and first place in regional Forensics competition for two years; she has competed in State Competition in both Drama and Forensics and also in track where she placed seventh in the long jump and fifth as a member of the mile relay team.

She is enrolled in the Bronson Methodist School of Nursing in Kalamazoo to become a registered nurse. She also plans to get her degree in some specialized field of nursing.

Kim Gould

Kim Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gould, has been a Student Council Representative, a member of the Spanish Club and of the Yearbook Staff and as staff photographer for The Flash, the school publication, during the 1975-76 school year.

She has been the recipient of a Michigan Competitive Scholarship.

She plans to enroll in the Pre-Dentistry program at Michigan Technological University.

Tami Borowiak

Tami Borowiak is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Borowiak of Bay Shore.

Among her activities was membership in the Concert Band for one year. She has received Typing and Chemistry Awards.

Following graduation she plans to obtain a job.

Lisa Fiedler

Lisa Fiedler has been awarded a scholarship to Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, Ill., where she plans to major in Liberal Arts. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fiedler, she has been a member of the Concert and Symphony bands for four years, Campus Life for our years, the Student Council for two years and the Yearbook staff for one year.

John Greene

John F. Greene is the son of Mrs. Camile Green of Charlevoix and Jack Greene.

He was a member of the football and basketball teams

Law Day Offers Several Events

Law Day 1976 will mean something special for a lot of people.

The 50 member Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association will present programs in observance of the day on Friday, April 30.

Throughout the day lawyers in both counties will offer free 20 minute conferences. The "No Fees" day originated in Emmet County in 1974 and has since spread to associations throughout the state and the nation.

In addition, mock trials will be held in Petoskey and Charlevoix. The trial in Charlevoix will begin at the high school at 9 p.m. Joe Hayes will serve as judge, with Frank Hoffman as defense attorney and Mike Gibbons as prosecuting attorney.

A luncheon will be hosted by the association at 12:30 p.m. at Juilleret's of Petoskey. Annual Liberty Bell presentations will be made at that time. There will be an award given to one person from each county.

Boyne City attorney Terry Carr is chairman of this year's program. Lynn Stedman of Petoskey has served as publicity chairman.

Mrs. Ruppe Plans Area Tour

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe's wife, Loret M. Ruppe, will begin a five day Bicentennial visit to Northern Lower Michigan beginning May 3.

Part of Mrs. Ruppe's itinerary includes Charlevoix, as well as stops in Antrim and Emmet counties.

In Charlevoix, Mrs. Ruppe will be hosted by the Republican Women of the county in cooperation with the Charlevoix County Bicentennial Committee.

A reception in her honor is planned for Monday, May 3 at 4 p.m. in the community room of the First State Bank in downtown Charlevoix. The reception is being planned by Mrs. William Fochtman of Charlevoix.

During the reception, Mrs. Ruppe will present the U.S. Capitol Historical Society's film "City Out of Wilderness," an account of the history of the nation's capital, Washington, D.C.

Afterwards, Mrs. Ruppe will highlight some of the Bicentennial events planned for Washington and around the State this year. She will also respond to questions from those attending the reception.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Ruppe will lunch with Antrim County Republican Women at Shanty Creek Lodge near Bellaire. On Wednesday, she will visit a 9:00 a.m. coffee jointly sponsored by the Emmet County Women Republican's group and the Bicentennial Committee in the county. "City Out of Wilderness," will also be presented to the Emmet County group.

Later in the week, Mrs. Ruppe will visit Alpena, Cheboygan, Crawford, Oscoda, Otsego, Montmorency and Presque Isle counties.

Congressman and Mrs. Ruppe were married in 1957 and have five daughters. Before coming to Washington after the Congressman's position in 1966, Mrs. Ruppe was active in civic affairs in Houghton, Michigan, the couple's hometown.

This year, Mrs. Ruppe is serving as honorary chairperson of the Muscular Dystrophy Drive in Northern Michigan.

American Legion

It's a crying shame when people don't go and support the American Legion Bingo here in Charlevoix or as a matter of fact, anywhere. But, when the jackpot reaches a very high amount, they flock in crowding the regular members out, making a disturbance, making it difficult for people who come every night. It makes me glad that the jackpot didn't go Monday night for these reasons. One lady remarked, "Oh dear, next week we'll have to come again." I say, "that's too bad."

Pollution

State pollution experts say "Medusa" gets clean bill of health! Perhaps compared to the belching plants in Chicago and Gary and along the Detroit River, but Charlevoix is a resort town in what used to be the clean northern air of northern Michigan. Sitting on the beach, one gets "True Grit." Wash your windows today, and see what happens tomorrow. Tell me if any of these experts live within 20 miles of the plant? Or, would they. No visible emission during the study, maybe the experts should stay longer. I'll be curious to see how long they stay this summer when odors are stronger. NO Expert – Just Know What I See & Smell & Hear!!!

Museum

With regard to "old house" who thinks one of the old residences would be best for housing a museum, that was a matter looked into. An old house is not just automatically suited for a museum. The problems there that are inherent can be unbelievable. There are the code difficulties for public buildings, for one thing.

The model is conceptual, not literal at this point, but the sideline of the building has a graceful curve, and the exterior is to be of cedar, certainly an indigenous material. The flat roof provides possibility of a second story which, not in our time, but eventually will come about if present support keeps on the way it has.

Hospital Guild Donates TV Stands

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, which offers television rentals for patients, is presently having them mounted on the wall as a required safety measure Mrs. Robert Neff, Guild president, reports.

Five have already been mounted. Others will be purchased in the near future.

Plans are also being made to purchase new chairs for the hospital dining room.

Ten members of the Guild met recently at the Neff residence to make puppets which are given to children when they are patients. Mrs. Theodore is chairman of this committee.

Layettes which are given to indigent families are being made by Lois Lewis, Virginia Cunningham, Ruth Foster, Hazel Murray, Marian Beatty and June Riley.

Mrs. Glenn Ingalls made Easter favors for patients trays.

One of Charlevoix's Biggest Businesses

It's Time to Get Ready for Summer Sailing

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

Boating is a big Charlevoix business.

Thirty-five million dollars, conservatively, is the estimated total combined value of locally stored boats and summer visiting boats in Charlevoix, last season.

According to harbor records, 860 different power and sail boats used the public facilities, for varying lengths of time, last year.

The total of 2,677 "boat days" more clearly expresses dock usage. Boat days are the result of counting each boat each day: if one boat spends three days at the city dock the result is three boat days.

The records show that the average boat was about 30 feet long, that power boats outnumbered sail boats about three to one, and as expected, July and August were peak months.

Estimating the impact of these figures on the local economy is hard.

If the average boat carries four passengers, each of whom spent $30 a day on everything from food and fuel to shopping, the result would be $321,240 spent in Charlevoix for the 2,677 boat days.

The $321,240 would not include any marine purchases, such as motors, sails, electronic equipment, custom repairs nor new boats.

As Rod Stebbins at Irish Boat Yard says, "Charlevoix is one of the best, if not the best harbor on the lakes."

Jim Bellinger, owner of Bellinger's Marina, says, "Charlevoix wouldn't be what it is if it weren't for the water."

Charlevoix draws boaters and the boaters spend here, observers agree.

Charlevoix's marinas are famous around the lakes and everyone acknowledges they bring in a lot of economic activity.

Stebbins reported last week, "We just sold a boat to a guy from downstate who's coming up this weekend with his family. I made local motel reservations for him. This happens all summer."

Fairport of Charlevoix, whose main business is marine electronics, services customers from smaller fishing boats to providing radar for the majority of the ferries plying the Straits of Mackinac. Along with its electronic business, Fairport maintains 20 slips for transient boaters in the summer.

Co-Owner of Fairport, Phil Lawrence, says they provide berths for about 200 boats, whose average stay is two nights. Using the averages suggested by local bankers, four people each spending $30 a day, Fairport's guests probably infuse another $48,000 into Charlevoix's economy.

Should Fairport install radar on one of these boats another $2,000 alone could be added again.

From Ward's adjacent to the public slips, to Bellinger's, Walkers, Fairport, to McCutcheons and Irish's on Lake Charlevoix, everything from a Little Cleo fishing lure ($1.25) to $100,000 or more new yachts can be bought. Irish's alone estimates they do a half million dollars in sales and brokerage a year.

And this year we have a head start thanks to the early warm weather.

Local boaters are out sanding, painting, greasing, polishing and preparing to launch. In the process they are buying—paint, new gear, yard services from the marinas, hauling services from Doug Bergmann who works with Bellinger launching boats stored in area backyards.

The early season combined with a general positive economic trend nationally, portends a prosperous boating season for Charlevoix.

Bernie Ward Jr. reports charter fishing reservations are coming in now, and he'll be out with his first customer May 1st.

Richard Hodgson, owner of Walker Marina, observed the boating business to be tremendous here.

As banker Louis Hollow recalls, "One day which was particularly impressive, I walked along the docks, last summer. I'm not too easily impressed but that day I figured there were at least $2½-million worth of boats docked."

Banker Gordon Wellman agreed and said he felt the estimate of $30 spending per person was very conservative.

"That particular traffic spends a terrific amount of money locally," Wellman says.

Many boaters express concern about the quality of the public facilities in Charlevoix.

Theoretically boats are not supposed to tie up at the docks for the season.

The public slips have a 14 day time limit per boat, to encourage other boats to use Charlevoix and to be sure slips are available.

Several observers confirmed stories that yachtsmen have stopped coming to Charlevoix because slips are not available.

Local sources confirmed it is difficult to get some local boat owners to move on the "local politics allow certain people to remain tied up in one spot from May 1st until the end of September."

George Duke, past Commodore of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, said, "Yes the public docks are being abused by some people.

"In order to relieve the pressure of the public docks the Yacht Club has its own docks in the planning stage now. These docks would not be for transients but for seasonal rental. Then the public docks would be reserved for the transients," Duke explained.

Tim Moore Wakes Up Charlevoix

If you want to know about WVDY's Tim Moore don't ask newscaster Bob White.

White is Moore's questionable sidekick on the Charlevoix radio station's morning show and neither one never seems to have anything, but a backhanded compliment for the other.

That's sort of how disc jockey Moore wakes up his morning listeners when he gets behind the mike at 6 a.m. The 30-year-old, silver-haired disc jockey has been bantering with the station news director for nearly two years since the station went on the air and it doesn't look like it's going to change.

Normally, the Central Michigan University grad looks like one of the 10-top dressed men in the world, but its a different story in the wee early hours before he greets the public.

Last Thursday, Moore was sitting behind WVDY's electronic console wearing a maroon basketball jersey and green corduroy jeans.

"Are you under CETA funding, since this was the only job you could get?" Moore asked his sidekick newscaster White in the adjacent news booth.

"Actually, Bob, I'm not going to pick on you any more.

"Ever since you broke the strap on my golf bag."

White makes no comment and proceeds to continue on with the weather.

"At 7:35, at our office in the Pan Plaza offices in...," White mutters.

"Wait a minute," Moore interrupts. "It's Penn not Pan Plaza.

"You want to try it again."

Throughout the entire morning, radio listeners hear Moore and White get after each other, of course, only in jest. We hope.

Moore, a slim, soft-spoken announcer, says he got into professional radio work at the early age of 14, when he started working part-time for a station near his parent's cottage at Houghton Lake.

"I got a lot of high school experience," he continued.

After graduating from Mt. Pleasant High School, Moore went to Central Michigan because he thought it was one of the best broadcast programs.

He was also partially influenced by the fact that the University offered him the program directorship of the CMU FM station as a freshman.

He also eventually became the chief announcer for what is now known in Charlevoix as Channel 6, CMU's public television station. That's when Moore said he learned that he preferred local radio over television.

If working at the college stations wasn't enough, Moore also had the afternoon slot on Mt. Pleasant's commercial radio station, WCEN.

Like many others in the early seventies, Moore found himself draft eligible after graduating from college ended up only being able to work one summer for a Battle Creek-Kalamazoo radio station before going into the service.

Rather than being drafted, he enlisted in the Navy Officer's Training School and immediately qualified for special language program in Washington.

"I was in a really big town long enough to know more than ever how badly I wanted to get back up here," he said about his one-year in Washington.

Moore said he became disenchanted with radio, mostly because of the traditional low pay and high turnover, and decided to earmark in a new direction. He joined Farm Bureau's home office in Lansing and established the company's first management development division.

The Bay Shore resident said he hadn't planned to leave Farm Bureau. While working for Farm Bureau for four years, he also freelanced doing play-by-play radio games and commercials.

"I had the best of two worlds," he said.

"On a fluke, I heard about WVOY going on the air."

Moore said he had always wanted to be able to live in Charlevoix, but never thought he would be able to do it until he retired.

The Charlevoix radio personality was hired over 140 other applicants to do both a radio morning show and become the station's sales director, responsible for an 8-member sales team.

Moore said he was only able to do the unique combination job because WVDY is completely automated with some of the latest equipment in the industry.

Besides working for WVOY, Moore also does outside appearances.

In what little leisure time he does have, Moore enjoys sailing, reading about Great Lakes history, and believe it or not—listening to music.

"My heart's desire is to sail on a Great Lakes freighter this summer," he said.

"It's just always been my dream to live up here."

Is the Grass Really Greener?

National Observer writer Edwin A Roberts recently observed that no matter where people live, they usually want to move elsewhere.

We know that many people do not reside where they would choose to reside if they had free choice, he wrote in a recent column They may live in a certain town because their parents lived there, but more likely they live where they do because that's where the job is.

No matter how ideal our present home and environment is, who few of us have never entertained fantasies about pulling up stakes and trying life in another part of the country--where there's year-round sunshine, or skiing at our doorstep, or a view of the sea from a house on a cliff, he continues

Some of us dream about more exciting life in a big city, and others (especially those who live in a big city) muse upon the pastorial delights of the countryside.

Roberts says that he knows a man who is in the public relations business in Boston. He has a handsome home and a good job in what is certainly one of the nation's most appealing cities. But he and his wife long for the day when they can sell everything and move to Vermont, there to operate an antique shop in the bracing air of the Green Mountains.

Many years ago there lived in New Jersey a couple who owned a diner next to a railroad station. They survived long hours in an arduous business by planning on saving for an early retirement deep in the Maine woods.

All of this, of course, is nothing new to us. We have been witnessing this type of migration for many years.

The temptation to pull up stakes particularly strong in the United States because our country offers so many kinds of areas in which to live, as well as so many opportunities for working out the economic aspects of the venture. At the same time, the traditional tendency of peering at the grass on the other side of the fence has assumed new meaning in a period when the old cities and some of their suburbs are in marked decline.

Those cities can scarcely afford to lose any more solid citizens, but the people who run the cities have permitted crime and decay to reach sickening and often unbearable proportions. We may lament the facts while understanding completely why so many people do not want to be in the neighborhood when the urban areas come tumbling down.

Partly for this reason, there is a great internal migration underway that is likely to change the shape of our society. We all have work to do. Why can't we do it where the weather is warmer, the streets safer, the costs lower, and the pace less frantic? That is the question new migrants are asking--and answering.

The movement is away from the noise, dirt, crime and congestion of the oldest urban centers and to the so-called Sunbelt, that strip of states extending from Southern California and the Carolinas. Not everybody can make the move, certainly not everybody wants to. But it is happening, and as it continues more people who had never seriously considered uprooting their families are watching enviously the great population flow to the South and Southwest and even to Northern Michigan.

Our concern is not with those who are yearning to live somewhere else. We, like Roberts, think it is related not only to the problem of the cities, the weather and memories of happy hours in the woods, on a farm, in a boat, or at the lakeshore. We think it is related to the very routine of our lives, a routine that is necessary but imprisoning.

Looked at that way, the urge to find another site for our tent is neither remarkable nor unnatural. But moving a household is one of the most difficult tasks under the sun, and it takes its toll of men and women and especially children. We are one country, but each region still remains a kind of subcountry with its own culture and peculiarities. Making the necessary adjustments is always difficult and sometimes impossible.

So...don't do something you might be sorry for. Look before you leap. While we enjoy seeing new faces in this resort community, we hate seeing happy faces turn to sad faces simply because the necessary preparations were not made in advance

Youth for Understanding

How would you like to have an international brother or sister live in your home next school year? Youth for Understanding is looking for high school students interested in sharing their home and family with a foreign student. These exchange students come from such countries as Germany, France, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Japan, and the Philippines as well as from many other countries.

To qualify, a family must be willing to provide understanding and love to the student. Youth for Understanding tries to match a student with a family, based on similar interests and activities.

The host family provides room and board, but the exchange students are expected to provide their own spending money and clothes. You as the host brother or sister play an important part in helping to make this a good experience for the exchange student.

Youth for Understanding is now seeking homes for the students who will arrive from 23 different countries in August. Learn about France, Denmark, Japan or other exciting countries from teenagers who live there. If you are interested, please leave your name with Vane Smith or Roy Fortin at Charlevoix High School.

Thanks

Another year of Cub Scouting is coming to end in Charlevoix and we on the pack committee would like to thank on behalf of the Cubs, the many people in the community who gave support and assistance to the Cubs in the last year. Particularly we would like to thank Kiwanis for their sponsoring and support, Glen Kenney of Kit Carson Lumber for his many donations, Bill Stevens for his labor in the building of the Pinewood track and the Charlevoix Courier for their cooperation in publishing the achievements of the boys.

We believe that as a result of these efforts "cubbing" has been an extra positive experience for many boys in the community this year, again thanks. thanks.

Why Not Collect Litter Along With Mushrooms?

It looks as though there is hope for a cleaner Michigan:

Last week Gov. William Milliken became the first citizen to sign a petition to the Legislature asking for a ban on the use of throwaway beverage containers. If the boss himself favors it, you can be pretty sure the ban will be approved.

Our own Susie Trarop – the gal who puts these pages of the Courier together – has come up with another super idea to keep Michigan clean. She thinks it would be a good idea for every mushroom picker who takes to the woods this spring to pack along a second bag – for litter.

Susie, who lives at Walloon Lake, says she has noticed that litter is not just a roadside problem. Rusted beverage cans, plastic six-pack covers, metal tab openers and all the accoutrements of civilization are found far from the beaten path nowadays.

Susie thinks if we pick it all up now, the throwaway ban will have a better chance of making headway against Michigan's growing mountains of litter.

All of which reminds me of the time I visited the site of Henry David Thoreau's cabin on Walden Pond near Concord, Mass. The location of the cabin where Thoreau jotted down his favorite collection of natural and philosophical observations had been lost to many generations during the incubation of Thoreau's fame.

However, about the time of World War II Thoreau's followers found the foundation of his cabin deep in the thicket of maples and oaks near the shore of Walden Pond.

They were estatic, of course, and after making sure that the measurements of the foundation were the same as those of Thoreau's cabin, they set about to turn the area into a memorial. Links of chain were strung between each fieldstone footing and a path was cleared through the woods out to the Concord-Lincoln-rd.

I visited the site about 20 years ago and was happy to find that the scenes Thoreau had painted so vividly with his pen more than a century before hadn't changed one iota. Loons still dipped and called from the calm waters and the deep woods breathed the solitude that Thoreau loved.

Then I walked to the shore of the pond for a closer look. Lo and behold, just beneath the sparkling surface was an astounding collection of beer cans and pop bottles. Although I hadn't planned to go wading, I didn't have much of a choice as one of Thoreau's foremost fans in the midwest. I spent the next hour collecting cans and bottles and lugging them up to where I imagined Thoreau's bean field must have been.

Somehow, I've felt a little closer to Thoreau ever since.

The winter just ended couldn't have been all that bad, judging from the appearance of the back yard with the snow gone.

When the temperature hit 22 degrees below zero on Ground Hog's Day, I gave up for lost the rhubarb, peonies, raspberries and daffodils I had transplanted before the frost set in.

But now the snow is gone, I am happy to report that most of the transplants are alive and well. The daffodils even bloomed this year – an event I hadn't anticipated until 1977.

The only new plantings that haven't put in an appearance so far are grape slips from Judy's mother's arbor in Muskegon. I am hoping that grapes are a different breed, and will be popping up as the season matures. We'll see...

In an old musical called "The King and I," the King of Siam was often perplexed by life's inconsistencies. In his words, "Is a puzzlement."

Some things to me are still a puzzlement.

How come pens never have any ink in them except when you forget and put them in the washer and your entire laundry turns blue?

If the national average of children is 2.3, how come every car off the assembly line only has two back windows?

Why do they waste silicone on an ironing board?

How can an owner of a vicious dog look at his dog baring his teeth and know "he's smiling"?

Why would anyone want to get on an elevator and face the back anyway?

Why is it whenever a department store offers to pierce your ears they always put the counter on the main aisle?

Why is there a rectal thermometer in my sewing basket?

When will someone ask me to diagram a sentence like my old Freshman English teacher said they would?

How come the wheels on my shopping cart won't turn in the supermarket, but when I start to empty the groceries from it into the car, it coils in and out of traffic in front of cars and people as if it had a motor attached to it?

How did my crock pot know the exact day the warranty ran out?

Why do I assume that those two Doves nuzzling in a tree are married? Isn't it possible they're fooling around?

Why do four out of every five Americans insist on eating in their car when everything in the car slants?

Why do I tell everyone that I'm raising my children to think for themselves...and feel crummy when they do?

How come the first thing I notice in a doctor's office is whether or not his plants are dead?

What possible need does a mirror serve in a bathhouse?

How come my husband always invites me out to eat on the day I go to the dentist?

How does the senior class know the exact moment my son sits down at the dinner table and place its calls accordingly?

Is a puzzlement.

Nuts to Cowboys

When I nudged the neighbor's cat with my foot – OK, I kicked it – I was merely experimenting.

And it was simply research when I snuck up behind their dog and slipped a rope around his neck. Then I yanked as hard as I could, pulling the dog back on his hind legs and whomping him into the ground.

I wanted to see what the pets' owner would say. She was standing right there watching while I abused her loved ones. What she said was: "When my husband gets home I will tell him what you did and he will break your face."

"Where is your husband now?"

"At the rodeo," she said.

Gotcha!

The World Champion Longhorn Rodeo was at Pontiac Stadium Sunday. I first learned about it from Jim Price, the former 2nd string catcher who is now a 3rd string sports announcer on TV channel 2. Price gave a rodeo preview by bravely wrestling a calf to the ground. The calf was as big as Jim but maybe not as smart. At least, Jim won the ferocious battle.

His tactics were standard, but no less manly. He grabbed the young cow by the head and twisted until her nose and rear end were both pointing south. This caused the calf to lose her balance and fall flat. Jim then sat on her stomach and tied her feet together.

To defend herself, the calf whimpered a lot. She sounded like a person crying. Although he was in grave danger of being whimpered to death, Price never let up until his victory was secure. He didn't even flinch at the most agonizing moment when it appeared certain his hairdo would be mussed.

Obviously, Price didn't like that calf. Otherwise he wouldn't have attacked it. Calves and steers and horses have a lot of enemies when the rodeo is in town. They are called cowboys. And the rodeo cowboys never have to worry about invading a town and finding no one to fight. They bring their opponents with them, in rolling cages.

It works something like the Harlem Globe Trotters. They always furnish their own opponents, too. It isn't what you'd call competitive, but there's a certain comfort in always knowing who is going to win. You can go to the john without worrying about missing a crucial moment. The show is the important thing, not the outcome.

Oh, I know the cowboys often suffer bruises and broken bones. When you make your living mistreating animals, you have to accept the possibility of being clipped by a wild hoof. But the injured cowboy is a hero, which is nice for him. His bandages are saluted and his cast is autographed in the Good Ole Boy Tavern that night. The cow who landed the lucky kick is locked in her stall, waiting to be attacked again the next day. And maybe wondering why.

Which makes me wonder, how come some animals have it so much tougher than others? Take cats, for instance. The only thing cats are good for is testing legends. Do cats really have 9 lives? Is there really more than one way to skin a cat? Do cats always land on their feet?

But if I ever attempted one of these tests, I'd be shot. I may be shot for just writing it.

Yet it's OK to spur and cinch and lasso horses into frenzies of pain. It's OK to jump on steers and yank on their heads, not because you need the hamburg, but simply for sport.

Phooey. I'd never really skin a cat. And until some cow tells me she enjoys it, I'll never yell YIPEE! at the cowboy who jumps on her neck.

Cruelty to animals is cruelty to animals, even when there's money and macho in it.

Meet Charlevoix

Dave Phillips

Charlevoix's world's largest-ever cherry pie will be baked here in less than a month. The Saturday, May 15, event will take place at Medusa Cement.

This week, the Courier talks with restaurant owner Dave Phillips of the Grey Gables about the monstrous project that he has undertaken.

Dave has lived in Charlevoix for six years with his wife, Gale, and two children. Before taking on the Grey Gables, he was food director for Oakland University.

COURIER: Where did the idea for the cherry pie come from?

PHILLIPS: The thought came from Steve Hufford of Charlevoix. He had said that the Grey Gables has done many different and unusual things in the past. After having just made a Grey Gables record album last year, he suggested that the Grey Gables try a different type of record. I then bought a Guinness Book of Records and looked to see what type of record we could go after. Since we are a food business, I looked to see what type of food records could be broken and making the largest pie seemed logical. And since our area is famous for cherries, it looked like a cherry pie would be good.

COURIER: What kind of advance preparation have you done?

PHILLIPS: The biggest thing has been coordination and selling the idea to a group of people who would want to get involved with such a large undertaking. Selling the project also required that I convince the people that it would be worthwhile. We have had several meetings to plan the event. I think our biggest objective is to make the activity something that can be enjoyed by everyone.

COURIER: Why did you decide to have the event in honor of handicapped children?

PHILLIPS: They are special people to me. They shouldn't be thought of as being any different from anyone else. But, they do need some extra help and this is one way of doing it. Here, many of the area handicapped children will be able to go to something unusual and have fun with the rest of the community.

COURIER: Is building the world's largest cherry pie really your major reason for the May 15 activity?

PHILLIPS: Actually, no. Building a pie that big just to break a record would be wasteful. We hope to entertain those attending the event for 3½-hours with a variety of activities. We want to make people happy and for them to have a good time. Michigan's number one industry is tourism and we want this to be one more activity that the residents of Michigan can enjoy.

COURIER: Where is the money that you make from this event going to go?

PHILLIPS: One-half of the money will go to Camp Daggett, a summer camp for Charlevoix and Emmet County children, and the other half will go to the Michigan Special Olympic fund.

COURIER: What will be happening the next couple of weeks?

PHILLIPS: We will be gathering products needed to produce the pie such as cherries from all the packing companies that are donating their products. We will also be finalizing our entertainment

Sorority Celebrates 45th Anniversary

Kappa Sigma and Xi Epsilon Gamma Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will join with chapters from Boyne City and Petoskey to observe the 45th anniversary of its founding on May 5.

At that time, the Boyne City chapters will host a dinner at the Granary Restaurant in Boyne City.

Beta Sigma Phi is a social, cultural and service organization for women around the world. There are 12,000 chapters in 24 countries.

In Charlevoix, local chapters assist with the Lions Sightmobile, the Red Cross Bloodmobile and with needy families at Christmas time.

Internationally the chapters have created three special funds: the International Loan Fund through which members help one another; the International Endowment Fund through which $1.14 million have been donated to cancer research, cystic fibrosis, homes for under-privileged children and many other causes and the Exemplar Fund which helps to support Literacy Village in India.

Grade Schoolers Plan Music Special

The Charlevoix Elementary students will present their Annual Spring Program at the high school gymnasium on Thursday, May 6, Mrs. Marena LaBlance, music director at the school, has announced.

This year's program will be a salute to the nation's Bicentennial observance.

The 585 students enrolled in the first through the fifth grades will participate in the event which will include an operetta entitled "The Boston Tea Party that Shook the World" to be presented by the Fifth Grade; a skit by the First Grade entitled "Yankee Doodle" with a surprise finale that will include a medley of traditional American marching songs. These will be interspersed with the singing of other patriotic songs by the entire group.

The 111 kindergarten students are the only ones not taking part in the program.

Mrs. Robert Tollas will accompany the singers.

The dress rehearsal is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 5, with the 'big show' to be presented at 7:30 p.m. May 6.

Kids Say the Darnest Things

By Ken Winter and
Mrs. Chew's Class

Remember Art Linkletter's book, "Kids Say the Darnest Things?"

Charlevoix Elementary teacher Mary Ann Chew is finding out what Linkletter meant with a recent class project.

Her Language Arts students recently wrote autobiographies that had to include everything from a description of the student to what they want to do when they leave school.

But, the Fourth Grade teacher didn't stop at just having them write an autobiography. Besides passing her watchful eyes, the biographies went past a peer-group committee.

The student committee then rated each autobiography and awarded prizes recognizing outstanding contributions made by members of the class.

Awards were given out for best pictures or illustrotions, content and cover design.

Although not everyone earned a prize, Mrs. Chew says everyone of the autobiographies is a prize possession for some lucky parent.

Take for example, Bill Tillen's contribution: (Unedited)

"The funniest memory of my life was when I was in first grade and we had a rabbit named Jelly Bean. And, the teacher asked us to sit on the floor to read a story to us and Jelly Bean went to the bathroom on a ledge near the window. The teacher said no one could talk or we would have to sit out in the hall. And Jeff DeYries was about to sit in it and I was trying to tell him he was going to sit in it and I got sent out into the hall and he sat in the rabbit droppings."

Top content prize winner Tammy Rae Southwood wrote nearly nine pages about herself.

"The days were growing long for Mom and Dad as they awaited my arrival," she wrote.

"Mom went overtime and was so nervous, but Grandpa Southwood said, 'Don't get excited Lanny when it snows you'll have the baby.' Did that get Mom excited because it was spring."

David Scott Hendrickson wrote that he spends most of his winters up North skating and sledding besides shoveling, shoveling and shoveling.

"In April, we always are fishing for smelt," he continues to write.

"It sure is fun.

"Lat year my mom and her friend went smelting and returned with 300 pounds of smelt.

David said his family shared the smelt with those who were too old to go.

"They brought the smelt home in a sleeping bag," he continued to write.

"So I cleaned fish, forever it seemed."

David said one night he heard noises out in the backyard, and that his dog was upset.

"There was a huge bear in our backyard," he wrote.

"Mom yelled at Dad to get the gun because the bear was turning on our tied-up dog."

David said that his mother then shined a flashlight in the bear's eyes and brought the dog in. So after, he said two more bears came.

"The bigger bear rammed our kitchen door, so mom called the state police for help," he wrote.

"A patrol car pulled up soon and two men got out, only to run back in as that bear was mad,"

The youngster said the three bears finally ran back into the woods. Later, the conservation officer was called. The officer said the bear was a 500 pound female with her 250 pound cubs. David said they were moved to higher country.

"Another thing concerning wildlife," David continues to write. "A real live wolf came into our yard in broad daylight."

David ends his adventure story at that point leaving it up to the reader's imagination. It should also be mentioned that these high adventures took place before David and his family had moved to Charlevoix and were living in Minising, Michigan.

Dudley Stevens reveals quite a lot about his three brothers and himself in his autobiography entitled, "The Beginning of my Life."

"I think the saddest thing that every happened to me was when my hampster "Martha" got loose and ran

Mrs. Alexander Relates Point History

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Ross Alexander, long-time Courier country correspondent, offers another in her continuing series about Ironton.

By Mrs. Ross Alexander

Although the first people who lived on Hemingway Road did not live in Ironton they were interested and contributed in many ways to our little community.

In the early nineteen hundreds, George Hemingway, who was a Real estate broker in Chicago, purchased three hundred acres now known as Hemingway Point and developed Charlevoix County Nursery.

The only ornamental trees that residents grew were native species. He planted many new varieties such as Colorado Blue Spruce, Bristlecone Pine, California Yew, Norway Spruce, Mugho Pine and Scotch Pine and several other varieties. He encouraged many farmers to buy seedlings from the state and windrow their farms with valuable timber producing stock.

He not only influenced our community but many others into seeing the beauty in trees. He also planted and raised many flowering shrubs and perennial blooming plants for landscaping around homes and became known as the Tree Missionary of Ironton.

I remember the Nursery as one of the most beautiful and interesting places and I am sure many others have many memories also.

It was not long before others came from Chicago and suburbs and built summer homes. Some whom I remember well were the Robert Frey family of La Grange, Ill., Charles Todds of Dixon, Ill., Horace Radcliffe of Madison, Wis., the J. W Harris and family of Chicago and Fred Messingers of Chicago.

After Hirum Riffenburg sold the Argo Mill in Charlevoix, they lived at the entrance of Hemingway Road that later was the home of J. W. Harris and two daughters, Edith and Elizabeth. They sold the home they built to Fred Messinger and three daughters Lucile, Betty and Billy of Chicago.

Breezy Point Farm was built and owned by Robert Stuart of Chicago. The house was known as the Bedwin home, who had a grocery and clothing store. He was also one of the first ferrymen. It was moved to its present location and remodeled and the farm was operated as a Dairy Farm and had Holstein Cattle.

Robert Stuart was President of the Quaker Oats Company and had a summer home at the Chicago Club in Charlevoix. Patsy Flannigan, who was the skipper of their yacht, and Ross Alexander, the engineer, looked after the farm until it was ready for the new manager who was H. L. Barnum of Allegan. He became the son-in-law of Sam Alexander and had two children, Emma and Robert. After several years Marian Jackson and family managed the farm.

For several years, Mrs. Stuart sent a generous check to buy each child in the community a Christmas gift. Fruit, candy and nuts for every family were distributed with the Sunday School and the local school program in our community church. This all has many happy memories for everyone.

After the Mountain School consolidated with East Jordan and the Sunday School services were discontinued in 1929 the Eveline Township bought the school house in 1930. It is now their township hall and is used for meetings and elections.

Several of the residents became interested in our community and church work. Among those I remember were Mrs. Eliza Scott and the William Sanderson family. Mr. Sanderson taught the adult bible class many years and his wife, Edith relieved Hilda Alexander as church and Sunday School organist. As time passed in the early thirties William Sanderson was elected Township Supervisor.

GEORGE HEMINGWAY of the Charlevoix County Nursery (above). To the left is one of the last Church and Sunday School meetings held in the Mountain School before it was consolidated with East Jordan. Eveline Township bought it in the early thirties for their township hall

Robert J. Wasoski

Robert J. Wasoski, 46, retired U.S. Air Force veteran, died Friday at his Marion Township home. Death was self-inflicted according to Dr. Robert G. Martin, Charlevoix County Medical Examiner.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home on Monday evening.

Mr. Wasoski was born in South Bend, Ind., July 26, 1929, and came to Walloon Lake as a child. In 1946 he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and served at various bases. He was stationed in California when he was severely injured in an auto accident resulting in his discharge in October 1961. The family lived in the west until coming to Charlevoix in 1966. He served as Veterans Counselor in Charlevoix County for several years until resigning for health reasons. He was a member of St. Mary's church, Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 1153 and the Chief Petoskey Post D.A.V.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lois M. Tanner whom he married at Mobile, Ala., in 1954; a son, Robert J., Jr., at home; four daughters, Lisa, of Loraine, Ohio, Rita, Denise and Tammy, at home; his mother, Mrs. Carl Wasoski of Hayward, Calif; three brothers, Lester of Walloon Lake, Eugene of Livermore, Calif., and Walter of Hayward, Calif., and four sisters, Mrs. Robert (Mory) Waldorf of Sacramento, Calif., Mrs. Walter (Jane) Ward of Livermore, Mrs. Erwin (Janice) Bauder of Castro Valley, Calif., and Mrs. Quinton (Lucille) Wood of Camby, Ind.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor Mr. Wasoski's memory contribute in his name to the American Legion Youth Fund, c/o Leslie T. Shapton Post, Charlevoix.

Mrs. Addie Gregory

Funeral services for Mrs. Addie M. Gregory, 86, who died Wednesday at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Center at Petoskey where she had been a patient for a month, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. William P. Seibert officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

The former Addie M. Rush was born in Kent county April 11, 1890, and came to Hayes township as a girl. In 1915 she was married to William W. Gregory. They resided in Hayes township until moving to their present home 30 years ago. Mr. Gregory preceded her in death in 1953. She attended the Community Church of God.

Surviving are a son, Harold of Peoria, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Willard (Winifred) Biallas of Walloon Lake and Mrs. Eugene (Ruby) Curtis of Charlevoix; two step-sons, Willis Gregory and Clifton Gregory, both of Charlevoix; 22 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Charles Faculak

Funeral services for Charles G. Faculak, 91, who died Wednesday at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility where he had been a patient for 14 months, were held Friday at St. Mary's church. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Mr. Faculak was born in Czechoslovakia May 13, 1885, and came to Chicago at the age of 16 years. He was married to the former Mary Helen Buckus in 1904 in Chicago. They moved to Charlevoix in 1917 to make their home. Mrs. Faculak preceded him in death in September 1955. He was a carpenter by trade. He was a member of St. Mary's church and the Charlevoix Farm Bureau.

Surviving are four sons, Joseph J. of East Lansing, Van E. of Dearborn, Steve L. of Flint and Anthony W. of Charlevoix; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

BULLETIN

Human Services asks for help

Remaining in one's own home is the optimum goal for many people. Oftentimes people are forced to leave their home because the debilities of age render them incapable of managing their homes the way they once did. It is sad to think that someone will be moved to an alternate care living arrangement because they can no longer prepare their own meals, do their own housework or run their own errands. These problems could be solved if there were enough interested people that would be willing to provide these services. We are committed to try to keep people in their own homes and we need you to help us accomplish this task.

Elderly woman who is living in Charlevoix is in need of furniture; specifically a kitchen set, couch, lamps and chairs. Do you have any spare pieces, any old furniture that is being replaced by new? If so, this woman would benefit by your donation.

Have you heard of children's foster care? Well, some adults also require foster care. Charlevoix County is in desperate need of such homes to care for adults who are unable to be maintained in their own home and/or have been released from a state institution. It is a demanding, full time job that is not easy, but it does represent a challenge. We often neglect adults and put the emphasis on 'children with problems.' Adults are beset with a unique set of problems when they cannot return to their own homes or simply have no home to return to. You can incure many benefits from such a venture. Get the facts - then make a decision.

Lynette Marie Mayne Marries Russell Holtz in Troy Wedding

Lynette Marie Mayne of Troy and Russell Mark Holtz of Southfield exchanged their wedding vows in a quiet ceremony held Thursday evening at the couple's future home at 3674 Forge Drive in Troy.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Mayne of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holtz of Southfield.

The Rev. Fr. Robert Bretz of Guardian Angel's church in Clawson officiated at the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families and close friends. Arrangements of spring flowers and lighted tapers formed a setting for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory floor length gown which she had designed for her wedding. Fashioned with a scoop neckline and bell sleeves, it was accented with filet crocheted trim. She carried a bridal bouquet of spring flowers.

Mrs. Robert Albright of Athens, Greece, attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a two piece floor length aqua gown with filet crochet top. She carried a bouquet of white daisies accented with aqua star flowers.

Donald Holtz of Ypsilanti assisted his brother as best man.

Mrs. Mayne, chose a floor length floral print jersey gown for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Holtz, mother of the bridegroom, wore a floor length pastel print gown. Their corsages were of white daisies.

A reception followed the ceremony. Assisting were Mrs. Louis Sape of Sterling Heights and Ms. Kathy Galetto of Southfield. A wedding dinner was held at Somerset Inn in Troy.

After May 10 the couple will be at home at 3674 Forge Drive, Troy, following a wedding trip to Tahiti, Samoa and Hawaii.

Wedding guests were present from Athens, Greece, Florida and Michigan.

Mr. Holtz is assistant Administrator at Zieger Osteopathic Hospital in Detroit. Mrs. Holtz is Director of Pharmacy Services at the same hospital.

COURIER Lifestyle

MRS. CARL F. Kohler of Charlevoix shows the three oil paintings recently sent here from a former Charlevoix resident. Copies of the paintings are on sale with half the money from them going to the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Engaged

Douglas Maddox and Janice Vandenberg

Mr. and Mrs. John Klooster have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janice Vandenberg, to Douglas Maddox.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Maddox of Redlands, Calif.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Central Michigan University. Mr. Maddox is a graduate of California State Polytechnic University at Pamona. Both are presently employed at the Burroughs Corporation at Pasadena.

The wedding will be an event of July 3 at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

Historical Society Receives Artwork

The Charlevoix Historical Society has received three oil paintings of early Charlevoix scenes from a former president, Captain Ray W. Knight, who now resides in Venice, Fla.

Mrs. Carl F. Kohler who received the paintings is pictured here with them. They are (l to r) the steamer, "Hum", which was operated between Charlevoix and East Jordan with stops at Ironton and the steamer, "Boyne City" which made trips to the east end of Pine Lake, now known as Lake Charlevoix. The steamers made several trips daily.

The third picture is of the schooner, A.C. Pierce, which was owned and skippered by the artist's father. Also seen in this picture is the north pier with its lighthouse which is now located on the south pier and the catwalk which led to the lighthouse that had to be lighted manually. The Historical Society has the lamp with its red lens which served as a night time beacon at that time. The scene dates back to 1911.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL R. MARTIN are visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Martin, following their recent wedding in Athens, Greece. The bride is the former Leila Mansour of Bierut, Lebanon. Mr. Martin plans to do graduate work at the University of Michigan in the near future.

THE SELF-WIND WATCH

Jack Gantner

Why should you consider buying an automatic watch as opposed to a manual wind? One of the main reasons is accuracy. A manual-wind wristwatch is usually wound every morning, resulting in a tight mainspring, the mainspring being the power source of the watch. A tight mainspring releases its' power quicker than a looser mainspring. Therefore, a watch will run a little faster than it should late in the day, after the mainspring is not as tight.

However, an automatic watch, since it is continually being wound by wrist action, maintains a more balanced mainspring tightness, which results in a more uniform release of power and therefore, more accurate timekeeping.

For your selection of quality, stylish automatic watches, visit Reusch Jewelry.

Ft. Knox, Ky. (AHTNC) April 5–Marine Corps Private William D. Cooper, son of Mrs. Else Wells, Ellsworth, Mich., completed on March 26 eight weeks of advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Armor Center, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The private entered the Marines in October 1975 and was last stationed in San Diego, Calif.

David Heine

Navy Ensign David G. Heine, 25, whose wife Darlene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Cunningham of Charlevoix, Mich., has been designated a naval flight officer at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

He will operate and monitor navigational and communications equipment and other support systems aboard jet aircraft.

A 1975 graduate of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, with a bachelor of science degree, he joined the Navy in February 1969.

Mrs. Anne Osterbaan
Phone 588-2433

Birthday parties were held for Helen Jansen and Alice Ruis at their homes. Friends and relatives bringing the "goodies". Both have birthdays on March 21 and are 81 and 82 years old.

Mrs. Norman Veldkamps birthday was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Veldkamp. Present besides her husband and son were the Herbert Doan (Alice) family of Flint and the Harold Veldkamp family.

Mrs. Dena Otte fell and fractured 3 bones in her ankle and has been transferred from Little Traverse Hospital, where she had an operation and a cast put on to Meadow Brook Care Facilities at Bellaire.

Mrs. Jake Holler of Houghton, Texas was a welcome and surprising visitor of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Essenberg last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vanniman made a weekend trip to Toledo, Ohio, where they visited her brother and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Ray De Vries.

A community worship service will be held on Good Friday at 2 o'clock in the Christian Reformed Church at Ellsworth. Pastors of the Atwood and Charlevoix Community Reformed, Atwood C.R.C. and Wesleyan Church will participate with the local pastor.

The Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church will celebrate its 75th anniversary on April 16. It will remember the years when families met together on Sunday to worship, then later meeting at the Mitchell School some 3 miles southwest of Ellsworth, where the organization of 13 members as a church was held in January 1901.

Soon afterward a church and parsonage were built on 2 acres of land, donated by the Central Lake Lumber Company 2 miles southwest of Ellsworth on the west side road to Central Lake.

In 1926 and 1927, the parsonage and church were built in the village of Ellsworth.

In honor of the day, a buffet luncheon will be served, beginning at 5 p.m. for friends and relatives coming for the occasion and a social time. At 7:30 a program will be given, including greetings from community pastors, invitations have been sent to former pastors and former pastor's widows. There will be special music by young and old. A lunch will again be served after the program and the renewing of old acquaintances.

Spring vacation, visitors with Anne Osterbaan were Mrs. Melvin (Esther) Witteveen, her children, Kaye, Bruce, Jim and his friend Tom of West Olive, grand and great grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lyzinga, Brett and Jessica Mae of Calumet, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Osterbaan and daughter Evonne of Hamilton, Mi.

Jake Timmer and Bill Wynsma completed a trading deal last week, when Jake bought the trailer home owned by Bill (formerly Elmer Road) and Bill owns Jake'a house on the corner of Park and Center-st. The Neal Troutman family, who were renting the trailer home have now moved into the home formerly owned by Jake Timmer.

Fred Vail who is attending Davenport College in Grand Rapids spent his spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Vail and former schoolmates.

A baby shower was held recently for the infant daughter, Gretchen, of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Troutman. Gretchen was born March 1st, weighing 11 lbs., 11 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Abrahamson and son Keith from Mt. Pleasant were weekend visitors with her mother Clara Rubingh.

Recent Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jansen were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jansen and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Jansen and daughter Kelly, both of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Alward and children Billy Lee and Amy and Mrs. Jack (Barb) Gebott and 2 daughters.

On the 24th of March, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Essenberg commemorated their 28th wedding anniversary. Home for the occasion were Don and Mary Jean Matz and children from Saginaw, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Essenberg and children and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Essenberg and family, also Lynette and Larry Kayner, children of Lucille and Larry Kayner of Eastport.

Children and grandchildren and great grandchildren of Helen Jansen, helped her celebrate her 81st birthday. Coffee, ice cream and cake were served to all.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. (Gail) Maxwell of Marne, Michigan announce the birth of twins, a son and daughter, at St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids, on Sunday (Palm Sunday) evening, April 11. Thomas (Tommy) Ray, weighed six pounds and two ounces and Tiffany Kay, weighed five pounds and 13 ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Maxwell, Marne, Michigan, formerly of Hayes Township. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Krebsbach of Garrison, North Dakota.

Charlevoix Girls Capture 2nd Place

The Charlevoix High School girls track and field team launched the 1976 season Tuesday in a triangular meet at Kipke Field.

Charlevoix, with a total of 49 points, finished second behind a strong Rogers City squad which had 60 points. Cheboygan finished third with 35½ points.

Charlevoix took four first places in the meet including the discus. This is a new event added this year. Sandra Hodge threw the discus 87'4½", an exceptional distance this early in the season in an event being introduced for the first time. Jodi Alger placed third in this event with a throw of 74'10¾".

Other point winners for Charlevoix were Amy Potter who placed second and Kay Currey third in the high jump.

Ann Marie Watson third and Amy Mitchell fourth in the long jump.

In the shot put Sandra Hodge tied with Rogers City for second and Kathy Sladek placed fourth.

Jerilyn Goss won the 880 yard run with a time of 2:48.49. Audrey Kleiber placed fuurth in this event.

Kay Currey took the 110 yd. hurdles with a time of 17.1 Jodi Alger tied with Cheboygan for fourth place.

Lisa Flower, a freshman, placed second in the mile event.

Alger tied for second with Rogers City in the 100 yd. dash.

Tina Klama took a second and Goss a fourth in the 440 yd. dash.

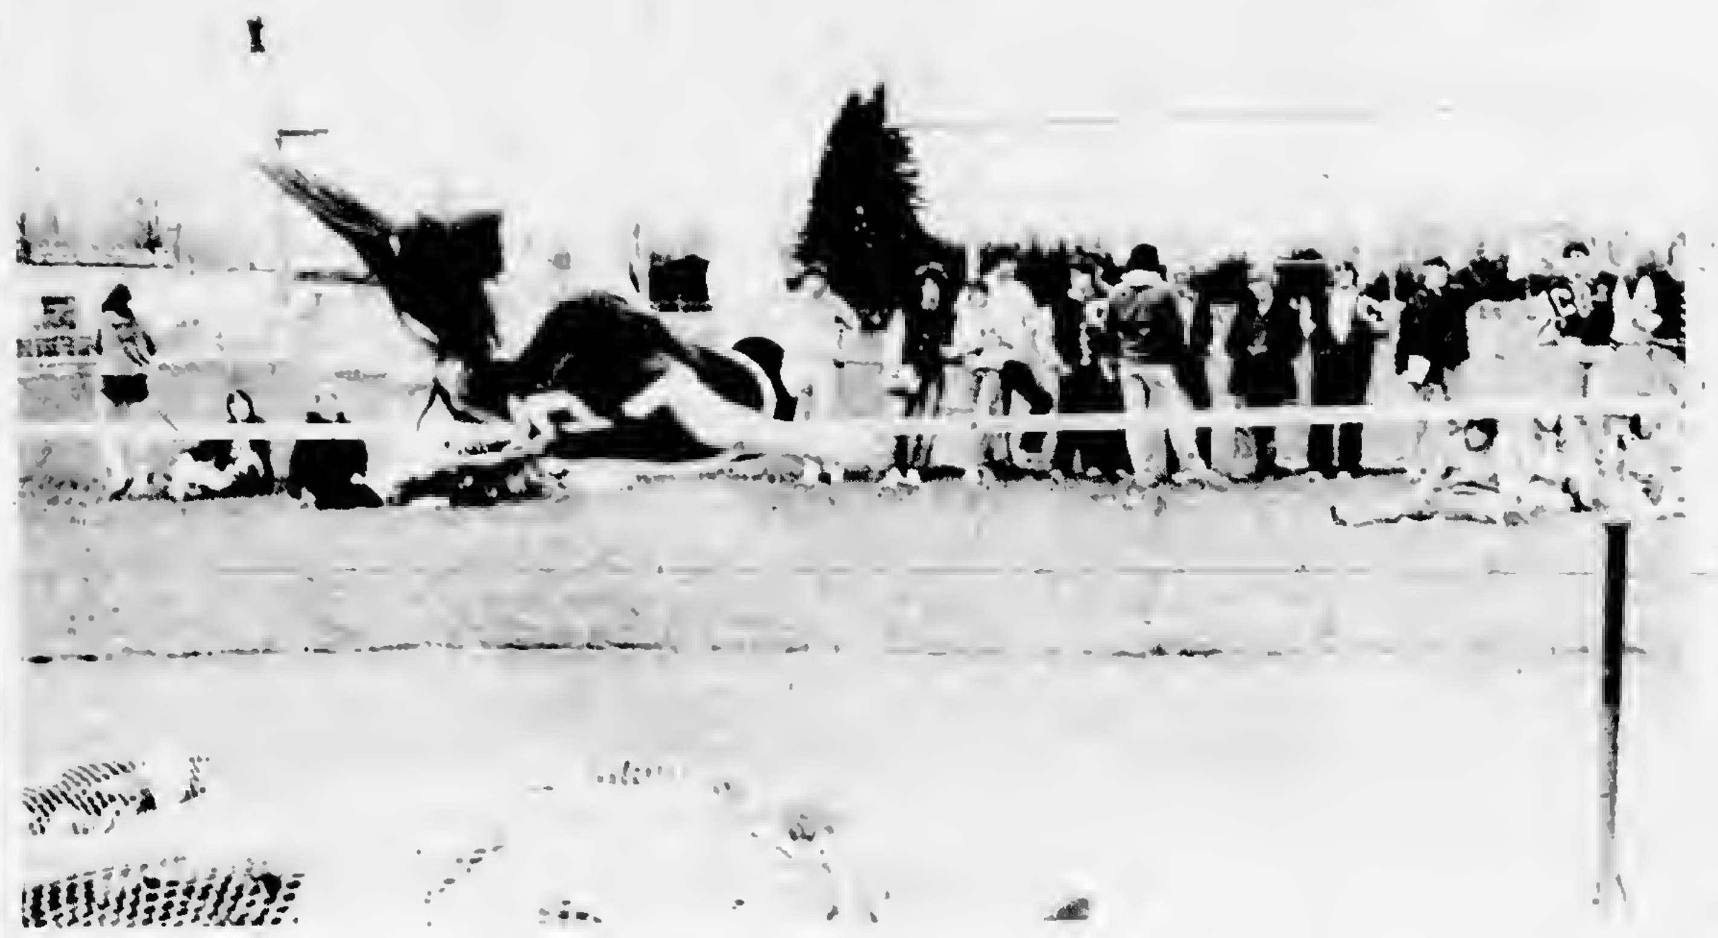
Patty Sneathen came in fourth in the grueling two mile run.

Teri Novotny captured a first in the 220 yd. run with a time of 29.2. Carole Osterberg tied with Rogers City for fourth to pick up half a point for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix with a team composed of Goss, Flower, Kleiber and Klama placed second in the mile relay.

Charlevoix did not place in the 880 yd. and 440 yd. relays. Points are given for only the first two places in relay events in a triangular meet..

The Charlevoix team is without two of its most outstanding athletes, Denise Boss and Maurine Cudd, both of whom have set team records, who have dropped track for personal reasuns.



CHARLEVOIX'S Amy Potter gives a try at the high jump.

for four years and the tennis team for three years. He also served as Student Council representative for two years.

John received recognition as a football player by being named to the Michigan-Huron Shores All-Conference second team in 1975.

He plans to attend Central Michigan University and probably study in the field of Medical Research.

Linda Himbauch

Linda Himbauch plans to travel when, as she puts it, she has a spare nickel.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Himebauch, she has been a member of the Concert and Symphony bands for four years, the Marching band for three years, the Biology Club for one year and Campus Life for one year.

Mark A. Meier

Mark A. Meier has participated in an interesting project as a high school student. Under the direction of his Science Instructor, James Jensen, he has worked with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. As a Junior and Senior he has participated in Project: L.E.O. (Littoral Environmental Observation), a study of shoreline erosion which has included taking wave height, wind velocity and related shoreline measurements.

He also was a member of the Concert band for two years while he was in ninth and tenth grades.

He has been named in the "Who's Who Among American High School Students" and received recognition for his work in the National Education Development Test.

He hopes to enter the field of Electronics and Communication but has no immediate plans for attending school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meier.

Joseph Seidel

Joseph F. Seidel plans to enter Michigan State University to study Criminal Justice.

He has been the recipient of a four-year U.S. Army R.O.T.C. scholarship and a State of Michigan, Department of Education Honorary Scholarship. He attended Wolverine Boys State in 1975; is an Eagle Scout; was awarded the Ad Altare Dei Award, a Scout Religious Award and is past president of the Legion of Mary, Junior Praesidum.

The son of LTC F.E. Seidel, U.S. Army (Ret) and Mrs. Seidel, he has been a Boy Scout for seven years, a member of the Legion of Mary for three years, the French Club 1½ years, the football and the track team for one year.

Carol Streeter

Carol A. Streeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Streeter, plans to attend Davenport College of Business and major in accounting.

She has been the recipient of a State of Michigan Tuition Grant. She has also won letters in girls basketball (1) and girls volleyball (3).

She served as class treasurer for two years, was Vice President of the Student Council in 1975-76 and a member of the basketball team for one year and the volleyball team for three years.

Christopher Wimmer

Christopher J. Wimmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wimmer, is the only one of the top ten who plans to go into teaching. He plans to attend Kirtland Community College for 2½ years to earn associate degrees in drafting and in metal processing before entering L.S.S.C. to complete work on a teaching degree to become an Industrial Arts teacher.

He was a member of the wrestling team for three years, as a freshman, junior and senior, participating in the 145 pound class.

In wrestling, he placed second in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference in his class, was second code qualifier in the Class C District, second in the regional tournament and qualified for State competition.

Commencement exercises for the class of 1976 is scheduled for June 6.

May 17 Deadline For Board

Monday, May 17, is the deadline for filing nominating petitions for vacancies on the Charlevoix Board of Education.

Ther terms of Donald Brown and Kenneth Boss will expire June 30, 1976. Neither has announced his candidacy.

Nominating petitions may be obtained at the School Business Office on Garfield Avenue or at the office of the County Clerk in the County Building.

plans. It looks like we will be having the Mackinaw City and Charlevoix High School bands, as well as color guards from Kincheloe Air Force Base and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundew.

COURIER: Do you have any reservations about the project?

PHILLIPS: At this point, no. After our meeting last week, it looks like things are beginning to shape up. I think a lot of people thought it was a clever idea, but no one realized how much work would be involved. With the help of everyone in the community, I think this project will be a good one and a lot of fun for everyone.

COURIER: We have heard that there will be an estimated crowd of 10,000 people on hand. Can you tell us where this figure come from?

PHILLIPS: The estimate is from me and based on a formula where we figure at least 1,000 people will be coming from Charlevoix. Another 300 people will actually be involved in working with the project, with 700 of their family and friends. From East Jordon and Boyne City, we expect another 1 to 5,000 people. Then from Ellsworth, Elk Rapids and Traverse City, we anticipate 2,000. The rest we expect would be tourists coming up to the area to see the pie bake.

Kids

away," Dudley writes.

"The happiest thing was when I got my Mini-bike and my Guinea Pig "Arthur."

The elementary student says some of his favorite shows are the Rich Little Show and Little House on the Prairie.

"Right now I think I'd like to be a cement contractor like my Dad is when I get out of school, but I might change my mind before then," the boy wrote.

And what does their teacher think about the class autobiographies? Ask her, the next time you see her.

Pie

He plans to make the bottom crust then also.

He said that he the chief chef at Chef Pierre's in Traverse City, and Kratt planned to meet Monday (yesterday April 26) to work out the formula for the pie fill.

He explained that although Will Flow has never manufactured pie tins, it does produce food blenders and therefore has some experience in the matter.

Phillips, Kratt and Medusa engineers will execute a dry run on May 10, to determine how the oven will function so that any necessary adjustments can be made.

"As any pie cooker knows, you start with high heat to brown the crust, sort of like searing a steak." he explained. "So we'll need to start at 450 degrees F., and then reduce to 350."

He estimates that a minimum of 400 people will be involved in the entire production from start to finish, including police, cooks firemen, truck drivers, actors and musicians.

Jim Shepard said that letter have been sent to all Intermediate School Districts with in two yours drive of Charlevoix, inviting them to bring handicapped children under their supervision of the event.

Vision Truck Makes Visit

The World Vision truck will be in Charlevoix on Wednesday, April 28, to collect good, used, wearable, clean clothing to be sent to Annville Institute in Kentucky and the Appalachian ministries.

The truck will be at the parking area of the Community Reformed church at Petoskey ave. and Meech st. to accept your contributions. You are asked not to bring hats, purses, shoes or formals.

This is part of a new Christian social action program being formulated by the Midwest Office of World Vision International located near Grand Haven. One section of its huge relief warehouse at Grand Haven has been designated to receive contributions for Applachia.

Rev. Ted Schaap and Rev. Ted Oegema are in charge of the program.

For further information call 547-2509 or 547-9482.

Ambulance Display

Torch-Bay Ambulance, a non-profit organization, in the Eastport and Torch Lake Village area is planning three open houses during May to show its new ambulance.

The newly purchased ambulance will be shown to Atwood area residents on May 1 at Penfold's Ace Hardware.

Then on May 2, the ambulance will travel to the Torch Lake Village Crest Grocery and May 3 to the Central Lake Branch Bank in Central Lake.

Refreshments will be served at all locations.

There will also be pamphlets on health and emergency care available for visitors.

FAITH BIDS US OBEY THE LAWS OF THE LAND

The citizens of a free society know that the laws they must live by are the very guardians of their freedom and the safeguards of their lives and property. These laws are kept to the irreducible minimum required to protect us from each other and from the conceivable abuses of government, while at the same time allowing us the widest possible margin of personal liberty. God's laws were set forth throughout the Bible for these very reasons, along with many admonitions to obey the laws of the land as well. It will be to your advantage to learn all about this, by your regular attendance of the Church of your choice.

"The law is good,
if man use it lawfully."
—I Timothy 1:8

Where laws end, tyranny begins.
—William Pitt, Earl of Chatham

Car Upkeep Costs Continue to Climb Upwards

Summer vacations this year, for many Charlevoix County families, will center around automobile trips to areas connected with the early American heritage, in celebration of the Bicentennial year.

In these historic areas, preparations are being completed to receive and entertain millions of visitors from all over the nation.

For those preparing to go, the matter of cost becomes a prime consideration. According to the latest figures, local travelers will have to pay about 20 percent more for their food, lodging and other requirements than they would have two years ago. Practically everything has gone up in price since then

The changes are detailed by the American Automobile Association, which surveys the situation periodically.

Currently, it reports, two people traveling together by car this summer will have to spend about $12 more per day than in 1974.

On the basis of the AAA findings, the Charlevoix County vacationers must count on a combined daily budget of about $69 to cover their essential needs.

Assumed is that they will average 300 miles a day and get 13 miles to the gallon.

The budget is broken down as follows: $25 for overnight lodgings, $24 for meals, $15 for gas and oil and $5 for miscellaneous items.

The AAA report also answers, for Charlevoix County car owners, the all-important question of how much it is costing them to own and operate their cars.

It finds that the average standard-size car in the medium-price range, driven 10,000 miles a year, costs $1,831 or 18.3 cents a mile. This compares with 26.6 cents two years ago.

Included in this are fixed costs, such as insurance, depreciation and license fees, totaling $1,186. The major part of it is depreciation, $773.

The variable costs, for gas, oil, tires and maintenance, amount to $645, or 6.45 cents a mile.

Applied to Charlevoix County and to the 8,790 passenger cars in the area, the overall cost at this rate is about $16,094,000 a year.

Township Plans for Clean-up

Saturday, May 1, has been designated as Clean-up Day in Charlevoix Township, Oscar P. Stroud, township supervisor, has announced.

Stroud has issued a call for volunteers to assist with the township-wide clean-up program.

All volunteers with any trucks they might have are asked to gather at Fire Station No. 1 at Waller and Martin Roads at 9 a.m. on Saturday. The clean-up will begin at this spot and traverse all roads in the township to pick up cans, bottles and other items along the road and to take all trash placed at the edge of the road by residents of the township.

Residents of the township are advised that there will be only one pick-up in the township.

Anyone who would like to volunteer his services or his equipment is asked to call Stroud at his home. "I must have a commitment to plan for the Clean-up" Stroud said.

All workers will gather at the Fire Station for refreshments after completing the project Stroud added.

Trade-Way Opens

Buying? Selling? Want to rent something special or buy a service?

Trade-Way, a new referral service, has opened to help those wanting to buy, rent or trade.

"We are a telephone referral service for buyers and sellers," says a company spokesman.

"We want to put people in touch with each other."

The spokesman said that Trade-Way will list a person, who is looking for something free of charge.

"And people who are selling or have something to trade or a service to sell can pay a low fee per week," he added.

"They also can get listed for weeks or months."

To get in touch with Trade-Way, all you have to do is call 536-2249.

Sooy Teaches Exercise Program

The owner of 'Body Works' exercise studio in Charlevoix, Jane Sooy, is instructing exercise classes for Senior Citizens at the Charlevoix County Senior Center every Wednesday from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. Classes started April 21 and are open to anyone over the age of 60.

Mrs. Sooy, 52-year-old, has always maintained an interest in ballet and physical activity. Many of her exercises are aimed at what Jane calls "body alignment."

"The Senior Center is very fortunate to have Jane volunteer her time to help get us back in shape," says Dorothy Pelton, Senior Center Director. For more information contact Dorothy at 536-7831.

Trial Set for Welke Airport Suit

By PEG OHLE

The law suit involving the City of Charlevoix and Welke Aviation, Inc. of Beaver Island will be heard by Judge Martin Breighner in Circuit Court July 1.

This decision was reached Monday after Judge Breighner conferred with the lawyers for principals in the case prior to a scheduled pretrial hearing last Monday.

The pre-trial hearing was cancelled when Judge Breighner determined that the litigants were no nearer an understanding of issues at stake in the suit than they had been in previous pre-trial hearings.

The suit concerns the use of the City-operated airport by the Welke company. Last November the City brought suit against the company, contending that Welke was not paying the landing fees and adhering to certain safety requirements called for in a City ordinance.

In December, the City sought an injunction against the company but it was denied by Judge Breighner.

Differences between the City and Welke arose when Welke began their freight and passenger service between their own airport on Beaver Island and airports on the mainland, almost a year ago. At that time Welke sought an agreement with the City but none was reached.

The City, in its suit, contends that the company is violating the City ordinance which regulates landing fees and other uses of the airport.

Under the ordinance, commercial users of the airport must pay $3,600 a year or $300 a month.

The ordinance also requires that a person operating on a commercial basis at the airport must obtain a contract or lease from the City.

Welke claims the fee is illegal and unreasonable and in violation of conditions established when the city received Federal funds for airport improvements in 1963.

Last January Welke filed a counter claim suit seeking $1.5 million in damages from Charlevoix Mayor Edward P. Hansen for allegedly defaming the company and its owners.

The suit claimed the Charlevoix mayor had damaged their business in statements made to a Boyne City newspaper last fall, saying they were libelous and defaming to the company, and added that the story deprived them of their civil rights.

At that time Mayor Hansen said, "The only question in my mind is whether these people have a right to operate without a permit or contract from the City."

He said he had told the company owners on several occasions that they needed a permit from the City. The real issue, according to Hansen is whether or not the City has a right to license or regulate businesses operating on publicly-owned property.

Arthur Reibel is attorney for Welke and Donald Berlage, as City attorney, represents the City in the case.

Welke Aviation, Inc. was formed last spring and received their operating certificate from the Federal Aviation Administration, which designates the company as an Air Taxi-Commercial Operator.

William Welke, 54, is Chief Pilot of Welke Aviation, Inc. He has had 32 years of experience and has commercial, instructor, multi-engine and instrument ratings. He is also vice-president of the company.

Paul Welke, 27, president of the organization is second pilot.

Mother's Day

By ERMA BOMBECK

When God Created Mothers . . .

When the Good Lord was creating Mothers he was into his sixth day of "overtime" when the angel appeared and said, "You're doing a lot of fiddling around on this one."

And the Lord said, "Have you read the spec on this order?"

She has to be completely washable but not plastic.

Have 180 movable parts . . . all replaceable.

Run on black coffee and leftovers.

Have a lap that disappears when she stands up.

A kiss that can cure anything from a broken leg to a disappointed love affair.

And six pairs of hands.

The angel shook her head slowly and said, "Six pairs of hands . . . no way."

"It's not the hands that are causing me problems," said the Lord. "It's the three pair of eyes that Mothers have to have."

"That's on the standard model?" asked the angel.

The Lord nodded. "One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another here in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones here in front that can look at a child when he goofs off and say, 'I understand and I love you' without so much as uttering a word."

"Lord," said the angel touching His sleeve gently, "Come to bed. Tomorrow . . ."

"I can't," said the Lord, "I'm so close to creating something so close to myself. Already I have one who heals herself when she is sick . . . can feed a family of six on one pound of hamburger . . . and can get a nine-year-old to stand under a shower."

The angel circled the model of a Mother very closely. "It's too soft," she sighed.

"But tough!" said the Lord excitedly. "You cannot imagine what this Mother can do or endure."

"Can it think?"

"Not only think, but it can reason and compromise," said the Creator.

Finally, the angel bent over and ran her finger across the cheek. "There's a leak," she pronounced. "I told you you were trying to put too much into this model."

"It's not a leak," said the Lord, "it's a tear."

"What's it for?"

"It's for joy, sadness, disappointment, pain, loneliness and pride."

"You are a genius," said the Lord.

The Lord looked sober. "I didn't put it there."

Ruppe Finds Primary Opposition

Incumbent Congressman Philip E. Ruppe will have his first Republican challenger when he enters August's primary seeking a sixth term in the House.

Fifty-one-year-old Malcolm Dale of Eastport announced his candidacy Tuesday for the Republican Party nomination for Michigan's 11th Congressional District seat.

Ruppe, a 49-year-old Houghton lawmaker, said he was seeking re-election because he was optimistic and enthused about his role in Congress helping people.

He listed a four-point program which he said qualified his continued service as representative of the 27-county Northern Michigan District that includes Charlevoix County.

Among those priorities were continued economic expansion, preservation of Kincheloe Air Force Base and returning White Pine Copper Mine to full production, Ruppe said.

Ruppe said he supported continued funding of the Economic Development Administration, as well as continued quality of life and the environment.

He cited Reserve Mining Company's continued daily discharge of 67,000 tons of taconite tailings into Lake Superior and expressed total opposition to Senator Hubert Humphrey's effort to obtain a $4 million appropriation to build a filtration plant to remove asbestos fibers from the cities' water supply.

"This is an absolute outrage," he insisted.

"As taxpayers, the people of Northern Michigan should not be required to give one penny of their Federal dollar to help clean up the pollution caused by Reserve Mining."

Dale, presently an Antrim County Real Estate Broker, was born and raised in Ann Arbor.

While studying at the University of Michigan in 1943, he was drafted into the United States Army and served three years with the 86th Infantry Division Signal Company.

In 1962, Dale organized his own Real Estate Firm, Dale and Associates, Inc., and operated that firm in Ann Arbor before moving it to Charlevoix in 1975.

From 1968 to 1974, Dale also served as Northern Michigan Coordinator for the John Birch Society.

In his campaign platform, Dale cited bureaucratic agencies, such as the OEO, OSHA and the IRS, as usurping Constitutional authority.

He accused Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, of being the "top bureaucrat" and being guilty of engineering the sell out of most of the United States' former allies.

Ruppe

Dale

Dale also expressed concern over giving up the Panama Canal.

He expressed alarm over a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision giving the IRS the power to search and seize information.

Council Partially Rejects LeHavre Pier Project

Charlevoix City Council only partially approved a proposed project to construct a pier and piles in Round Lake Monday.

Councilmen were reacting to the Department of the Army Corps of Engineers announcement that the LeHavre Condominium Association has planned to improve docking facilities for pleasure craft.

The proposed construction will take place in Round Lake offshore property located approximately .2 of a mile easterly of the intersection of Belvedere Avenue and Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

Councilmen indicated in a resolution Monday that they would oppose any finger extensions off the main pier that might interfer with the raparian rights of Alice Street, an underdeveloped 27-foot wide strip of property between Round Lake and Belvedere.

The street, which lies adjacent to LeHavre, has been a source of controversy between local residents and condominium association members for several years. Both claim ownership of the property.

The proposed wood pile and timber pile will have eight related finger piers and nine wood mooring piles and will extend about 132 feet lakeward from the face of an existing bulkhead.

Although the main pier would not be at the end of what is commonly known as Alice Street, councilmen argued that the fingers would be.

Council also asked that the Army Corps advise the city of any improvements made to the existing docks at LeHavre.

Developers Bob Collins and Jim Craig said it was not their intention to build at the end of Alice Street and were not interested in getting involved with the controversy again.

"If we cannot get permission to build the new docks, we will rebuild the old ones," Craig told council.

"We're not trying to trick anyone.

"We just want to get a good dock out there."

Councilmen Joe Morris said it was his ward's feeling that they did not want to lose access to Round Lake.

"I really feel it is too hazy of an issue," Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace continued. "Extending the finger piers would get into the public's right of way."

Mayor Ed Hansen said he thought the real issue was whether or not the city or someone else should build at the end of city streets.

Army Corps officials said they were taking public input until May 6 to determine if LeHavre should be granted a permit.

Business Tax Hearing Set

Businessmen who have complaints about the new Single Business Tax are invited to attend a public hearing in Lansing on May 11.

The hearing, being held by the Senate Taxation Committee on Senate Bill 1328, begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Law Building Auditorium in the downtown Lansing governmental complex.

While the hearing is on Senate Bill 1328, State Rep. Ostling pointed out that the House Taxation Committee is considering House Bill 6072, which was introduced by him.

"Both bills are essentially the same. It appears that the Senate version is moving faster and I would imagine it will be the one that we pass," Ostling said.

Ostling said the bills under consideration would provide for tax reductions up to 75 percent for certain businesses. Proposed reductions are based on the proportion of federal taxable income to gross receipts. This bill applies to businesses with gross receipts of $1.5 million or less.

Agreement Reached

The Charlevoix Board of Education and the Charlevoix Teachers Association have reached a tentative agreement for the school years of 1976-77 and 1977-78 on all items including salary Supt. James A. McKimmy announced Monday in behalf of the two groups.

Ratification votes by both the board and the teachers association are expected to be completed by the May 18.

Three File for Board

Two incumbent members of the Charlevoix Board of Education have indicated they will seek re-election to the board at the annual school election June 14 and several others have shown an interest by obtaining nominating petitions.

The incumbents are Donald A. Brown and Kenneth Boss.

Otis Elliott, however, is the only candidate to file his nominating petition at this time. A resident of Norwood township for the past 17 years, he is presently employed at the Charlevoix Cooperative as feed mill operator.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions is 4 p.m. May 17.

Both terms for the board are for four years.

2 Dollar Bills

God owns everything in HEAVEN and in Earth: He owns the gold — the silver — all the minerals. He owns the diamond, the rubies and the emeralds along with all precious stones. He only allows us to use his possessions during the life span of a man then they pass to an heir.

Socialism- liberalism is wrong because it negates the position of God in its attempt to equalize man without giving God the credit. Man is born equal but that happy state only continues as each individual submits his life to God: A man motivated by God is certainly superior to a man energized by Satan.

The privately-owned Federal Reserve has now revived the 2-dollar bill. That money is valuable only as it owns 2-dollars worth of God's gold stored in Fort Knox or elsewhere. However, FDR took the USA off the gold standard during his unholy regime. So the new 2-dollar bill is worthless except as it may be accepted on faith (not value) in exchange for necessities of human life. In actuality the paper work of the USA is presently no more value than the round, smooth stones used by primitive man as barter.

Fluoride Program Begins Next Month for Area

The summer topical fluoride program in Charlevoix will be held at the Charlevoix Public Library from June 8 to June 15, according to Cheri Hoffman, chairman of the Charlevoix topical fluoride program which sponsors the program in cooperation with the Charlevoix Health Department and the Michigan Department of Public Health.

According to Mrs. Hoffman, 84 children have enrolled in the program. The procedure consists of four visits to the clinic. The child's teeth are cleansed on the first visit and a fluoride solution is applied directly to the surfaces of the teeth. The fluoride applications' is then repeated during the three succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about forty percent compared to the sixty to sixty-five percent reduction obtained with fluoridated water, she said.

Last year 82 children participated in the program. The Dental Division of the State Department of Public Health estimates that about 113 tooth surfaces were prevented from decay by these four applications. Based on a long term research project of theirs, the Dental Division says that a minimum cost of dental care for these surfaces would have been approximately $1,130. The dental care that is included in these costs include only simple and relatively inexpensive procedures. Not only is there a monetary saving, but also a saving in pain and discomfort for the children. Since there is a different group of children for each of the three years of the clinic, these savings for the community are triple those which are stated.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel is an important part of the program.

Parents of children enrolled in the program will receive appointment cards about two weeks prior to their children's first appointment.

In addition to the clinic in Charlevoix, about 40,000 children will be receiving fluroide applications this summer in 200 similar clinics throughout the state. Michigan, which leads the nation in the number of community fluoride programs, has been providing this service since 1949. This is the fifth year that the program has been conducted in Charlevoix.

There are still a limited number of spaces available for this years program. Parents who have not yet enrolled their children may do so by contacting Cheri Hoffman at 547-4578.

Mielkes Open New Business

Jim and Elizabeth Mielke, owners of The Park Place in Charlevoix, have announced the construction of a new retail store building and the formation of a new retail business to serve Northern Michigan.

The business, to be known as Michigan Officeways, will be housed in a new 4000 square foot air-conditioned building at 1008 Bridge Street in Charlevoix, with ample free off-street parking.

The primary purpose of the new business will be the sale and service of office machines, furniture and supplies suplemented by the marketing of art and drafting materials, and a quality book department, the Mielkes said.

Michigan Officeways will be opening in mid-summer with a grand opening slated soon after.

The structure is designed by the architectural firm of Graheck, Bell, Kline and Brown. The General Contractor is John N. Northup Inc., with the majority of the sub-contractors from the Charlevoix area.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP firemen along with city ambulance crewmen and area law enforcement personnel were on hand to handle last week's mock disaster.

THE accident victims were brought to Charlevoix Area Hospital's emergency room for treatment by Charlevoix's ambulance service.

Emergency!

Sirens howled.

Radios blurted out, "Emergency at the Boyne City Road. Send an ambulance."

As firetrucks, police cars and ambulances went screaming through town last Thursday, Charlevoix residents began to wonder what was happening.

Those driving on the Boyne City Road near the railroad crossing saw a school bus tipped over on its side.

Could a school bus really have been hit by a train? If you had been at the scene you might have thought so.

Actually, it was Charlevoix's annual diaster drill to see how prepared the community is in handling a real emergency.

But even more than in other years, Charlevoix's host of volunteer emergency organizations were put through the test with a situation that many thought was real.

It started at about 5 p.m. Thursday afternoon when the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department called the Charlevoix Hospital and told them there had been a serious school bus accident on the Boyne City Road.

At the scene, a school bus donated by Hal Forbrig of Lake Construction Company, was actually on its side with the help of Swanson K & D Construction's men, who helped stage the scene earlier in the afternoon.

Helping pull the bus into position were wreckers from Don's Standard Service and Munia's Sunoco Service.

With the assistance from Charlevoix High School principal Vane Smith the high school students who acted as accident victims, some 20 victims were at the scene.

Law enforcement officers from the sheriff's department, and Charlevoix City Police Department quickly went into action directing traffic and assisting passengers.

Concerned that there might be a fire, the Charlevoix Township Fire Department was also on the scene with volunteers from the Charlevoix Ambulance Service.

Within minutes, injured people were being transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital's emergency room where hospital staff had been called in to handle the situation.

As the victims were brought in, doctors and nurses quickly identified each victim's injury and had him taken to the proper station for emergency care.

Char-Em Intermediate School District's video tape equipment operated by Mrs. Peter Spieles was also on hand to film the entire activity.

Once the victims were identified and hospitalized the drill was over.

"All together it went very well," said Richard Krueger, Charlevoix Area Hospital administrator.

"It was about as realistic as you could make it."

County Wants Director Fired

After countless efforts to resolve difficulties it has been having with the administration of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission over a period of years, the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution at its recent meeting requesting the resignation of the NWRP&DC executive director, William G. Rowden.

In presenting the resolution and recommending its adoption, Ira L. 'Bob' Davis said the Board of Commissioners had tried everything including withholding monies to support the regional commission before asking for Rowden's ouster.

He said the Emmet County Board of Commissioners was prepared to adopt a similar resolution at its next meeting. The Charlevoix County Board took action at Tuesday's special meeting.

Davis said at least two agencies have left and the regional commission because of differences with Rowden, the regional Council on Aging and the Law Enforcement Planning Component.

The resolution said, in part, that "we are long past the time for debating the various issues and in need of immediate remedies if we are to be served by such a commission."

The resolution went on to say that Rowden was either responsible for the existing situation or irresponsible by allowing it to persist. It also stated that once a new director is found, the Regional Commission must also face the same question: Is the Commission responsible for the decisions and policy making or is it irresponsible in allowing the director to dictate to the Commission?

It is the contention of the County Board of Commissioners that Bowden has dictated to the Commission rather than representing their views and requests to the Commission.

Copies of the resolution were to be sent to all NWRP&DC member county clerk and to each county's representatives to the Commission.

Cherry Pie Project Needs Your Support

Is Charlevoix's big cherry pie going to end up being a big farce?

A lot of people around Charlevoix have been asking themselves what really is going to happen on May 15.

Several of our readers have written us indicating that they think building the world's biggest cherry pie is not only a waste of time, but a waste of money.

In one recent letter to the editor, a reader suggested that everyone join him at the Jordan Valley on May 15 and pick up litter instead of going to the Cherry Pie baking.

Actually, cleaning up the Jordan River Valley isn't that bad of an idea. Our concern is not with the project idea, but with the attitude.

Sure, maybe baking a cherry pie that will get Charlevoix in the Guinness Book of Records seems a little far fetched. But then again, is it?

Last week, we wrote how the very nature of trying to earn a living often finds one getting into a routine that easily can become a rut if one isn't careful.

And that's just about how we look at the Cherry Pie Project. It's something different and a change from the normal routine.

It didn't have to be baking a cherry pie. It could have been the massive clean-up in the Jordan River Valley. But, someone came up with baking a cherry pie.

After interviewing restaurant owner Dave Phillips in last week's "Meet Charlevoix" column, we're convinced that the actual making of the pie is only a side event. The crux of the project is to get people in Charlevoix together.

Does it really matter what the project is? The fact remains that here lies an opportunity for the community to get together and do something for fun.

The negative feelings expressed by some about this project are the same negative reactions that come out everytime something different is tried.

It's very easy to sit back on the sidelines and constantly batter new ideas down. The negative always seems easier to express than the positive.

But, where does it get us?

It gets us in a situation like we can witness in Boyne City and East Jordan, our two neighboring communities.

There we have two communities battling over whether or not they should have anything to do with each other in education. The problem is called Twin Valley School District, a merged educational community consisting of residents from East Jordan and Boyne City.

We were all able to read just last week that the residents within the district were able for the fourth time to row to defeat a building proposal.

And, like in other attempts, we were able to see the "negatives" come out of the woodwork and talk down the project.

So what does it prove? To the students in Twin Valley, it means continued split days sessions and inadequate facilities.

Although Twin Valley's problems are not particularly a concern of Charlevoix, we should look at the prevailing attitude and people involved with the dilemma.

Is it possible that some of those same people could be involved with some of the negative output and occasionally arises in this community?

Although we hope not, we are concerned.

We think Charlevoix is Charlevoix the Beautiful and that it is just one step above many of the other communities in Northern Michigan.

We have been impressed with the number of civic groups and other organizations that have continually done things to better the community we live in.

And now some local residents have gotten together to bake the world's largest cherry pie.

In terms of lasting benefit to Charlevoix, it is difficult to actually say what will come out of it. If nothing else, the project may bring people together to do one thing--have some fun.

We hope Charlevoix lends its support as it has in the past for other events.

Consumers Explains Finances

Ken Winter, Editor
Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge Street
Charlevoix, MI 49720

The following figures, taken from Consumers Power Company's Financial and Statistical Supplement (covering 1965-1975) to the 1975 Annual Report, may be of interest to your readers.

+Consumers Power customers who use gas for home heating used less per home in 1975 than in any of the previous nine years. The average annual Mcf (thousand cubic feet) used in 1975 was 169. in 1974, this was 180 Mcf and in 1973 it was 176 Mcf. For the previous 8 year period, from 1965 through 1972, the use was consecutively 194, 194, 198, 194, 196, 195, 193 and 202. The lower 1975 total reflects the relatively warm winter in late 1975, better insulation and customer conservation.

+Although annual average use of gas for home heating was down last year, the total number of home-heating customers was up by 18,634 from 1974, and since 1965 the number has increased by 309,045.

+The cost of fuel per net kilowatt-hours generated has more than quadrupled in 10 years, from 2.94 mills in 1965 to 12.18 mills in 1975 (a mill is 1/10 of 1 cent). Coal that cost 29.9 cents per million Btu of generation in 1965 cost 94.3 cents in 1975. Gas that cost 30.5 cents in 1965 cost 125.6 cents last year. Oil that cost 75.1 cents in 1966 (oil was not used in 1965) cost 222.6 cents in 1975.

+In 1965, the company's materials and supplies, figured at average cost, would have cost $28 million. in 1975, they would have cost $98.8 million.

+Total capitalization (common stockholder equity, preferred and preference stock, and long-term debt) rose from $1.02 billion in 1965 to $2.58 billion in 1975.

+In 1965, the market price of Consumers Power stock reached a high of 60-1/2 and had a low of 54-3 8. That fell steadily until 1974, when the low was 9 and the high was 24-7 8. In 1975, the stock partially recovered and had a high of 19-1/4. (It is now selling at about 20-1/2.)

+General taxes (property, payroll, franchise, city income and various other state and local taxes) have almost tripled since 1965. They were $67,678,000 in 1975, compared to $23,055,000 in 1965.

+The average annual revenue to Consumers Power from residential customers using gas for home heating was $315.35 in 1975, $117.33 more than in 1965. The average annual revenue from electric residential customers was $253.02 in 1975, $143.15 more than in 1965.

+In 1965, Consumers Power served 697,011 gas customers; in 1975, it served 971,913. In 1965, it served 954,477 electric customers; in 1975, it served 1,217,720. Roughly, the increases in gas and electric match.

These figures tell a story: Taxes and the cost of supplies and fuel have risen dramatically, unavoidably leading to higher costs for gas and electricity for Consumers Power customers, and to steadily decreasing stock values for share-holders until 1974, when a mild recovery began. Meanwhile, the company has been able to add customers, and to provide gas and electricity dependably.

Several weeks ago I received permission from the owner of a rather large parcel of land near Charlevoix to venture unto his property to cut stove wood among his dead trees and windfalls.

The land is only a hoot and a holler from downtown Charlevoix and I visit the site a couple of times a week with my bucksaw. At first I worked around the fringes of the woods, dismembering a rather large elm that had fallen and disposing of an assortment of dead limbs that clottered the property.

However as the snow left and the puddles dried up, I was able to move deeper into the woods where someone years ago had left a magnificent brush pile. It stands toller than my head and apparently was bulldozed into submission because the roots are still attached to many of the tree trunks. The pile is made up largely of black ash, stripped of its bark and bleached a silvery-white, and yellow popple that cuts like butter.

Although I have made many trips to the brush pile in recent weeks, my work has kept me from examining the pile thoroughly. I am all business, pulling tree after tree off the pile and cradling them between the roots of an ancient stump I used as a sawbuck.

On my first trip to the brush pile I had noticed a few strips of carpet, like dealers' samples, strewn among the branches near the middle. I did not investigate because I simply assumed that someone was making use of the pile as a dumping ground for household refuse. For all I knew, it could have been the owner of the land, who has a perfect right to dump his personal tailings wherever he chooses.

However on Sunday I took the kids out to the brush pile with me and it didn't take them long to fan out over its multiple arms and legs. Suddenly Katie yelled:

"Look, here's a frying pan and a coffee pot."

"That's somebody else's garbage," I called. "Keep away from it."

"Look at the carpeting," Jennifer said. "It makes sort of a little bed."

"You kids get out of that wood pile," I shouted. "You're going to hurt yourselves."

"It's like sort of a cave," Katie mused, ignoring me. "I wonder what kind of an animal used it."

"Probably a bear," Jennifer answered, knowing how much bears like fried foods and coffee.

My nephew Tom Gross, who had been spelling me on the bucksaw, climbed the wood pile to see what the girls had gotten into. He reported back that they had, indeed, found a cave under the brushpile which had been occupied not too many moons ago by one of the primates.

I dropped my saw and climbed the brushpile myself for a better look. Wads of newspaper had been stuffed between chinks in the trees to make the enclosure more snug. There was room enough to sit down inside, but the slightly raised area on the left was obviously where the creature slept. In addition to the frying pan and coffee pot, the cave was furnished with a rather large candle wrapped in aluminum foil, the lid of a jar of Hellman's mayonaise and the lid from a jar of baby food, indicating that maybe even a young family had occupied the cave under the tree roots.

"What shall we do?" Katie wailed, wringing her hands.

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Well, aren't you going to tell the police or anyone?"

"The creature has been gone for a long time," I answered. "It wouldn't do any good to call the police. Besides, what has he done wrong, aside from maybe trespassing."

"What kind of a creature do you think it was?" Jennifer asked.

"Probably a hippie sapiens," I said wisely, using the Latin name. "They're not native to Charlevoix, but they sometimes nest here briefly during their annual migrations."

The girls agreed we should leave the cave intact, just in case the creature returns this summer.

Erma Bombeck

Of all the marriage manuals that have come out of this decade, the one that has intrigued me the most has been "The Total Woman" by Marabel Morgan.

Some manuals are as complicated as assembling a lawn sweeper in a dark closet on Christmas Eve, but according to Marabel if you can dial a phone you can put excitement in your marriage.

In one of her chapters, she tells of a plan to make your husband want to hurry home. One of her students, Janet, tried it. She called her husband, Jack, at 4 p.m. one day and said, "Honey, I'm eagerly waiting for you to come home. I just crave your body."

There was a lot of heavy breathing in the phone followed by a return call from Jack who couldn't believe it either and said, "Would you please repeat slowly what you said five minutes ago?" (They also do that when you order pizza on the phone so they won't get stuck with it.)

I figured what the heck. I never call my husband at work. The shock alone would be worth the effort. I dialed the number. The phone lifted off the hook. ' 'Don't say anything," I whispered, "just come home early. I crave your body."

His secretary said tiredly, "You wouldn't be hurt it I held out for a better offer, would you? Just a minute, I'll connect you with your husband."

After what seemed hours, he lifted the phone. "Come home early," I said huskily. "I crave your body."

He put me on hold for about ten minutes, then came back and said, "What's this about craving a party? It's only ten in the morning."

"I didn't say party, I said body as in Burt Reynolds."

"Burt is coming to our house for a party?" he asked.

"For crying out loud," I snapped. "Pay attention. Come home early and

Opening Day Fans

As the world's greatest baseball fan, I have always thought bad thoughts about people who never miss the season's opening game.

Most of them think if the Detroit Tigers have a Rusty Staub in right field, the manager should call a plumber.

Dumb.

But before I proceed onward, let me establish my credentials. I once risked my life for the Detroit Tigers.

It happened in the summer of 1945. My heart was in Briggs Stadium but my bod was in Germany. The Tigers were winning, thanks to guys named Newhouser and Trout, and despite guys named Hostetter and Outlaw. A pennant and a world's championship were a definite, delightful, glorious possibility. And I was thousands of miles away, getting the scores a week late.

There was only one thing to do. The war in Germany was over but there was still fighting in Japan. If I volunteered for duty in the South Pacific, I'd get 30 days "recuperation leave" at home on my way east. Of course, as my astonished buddies pointed out, I could get my head blown off in the Pacific while it was safe in Germany.

I didn't hesitate. "Sign me up," I told the sergeant. "I will recuperate in Briggs Stadium or in front of a radio listening to Harry Heilmann tell how great are my Tigers."

It turned out marvelously. The Japanese heard I was coming and surrendered. Chuck Hostetter fell down between third and home but the Tigers edged the Cubs and they were champs. I had been prepared to die for my team but I never heard a shot fired. How sweet it was...

But back to opening day...

The fancy people go to the first game to flaunt labels and label flaunts. They don't know a foul ball from a dropkick. They should stay home for the same reason I don't go to church on Easter. When the action gets interesting--World Series or Resurrection--the seats should be reserved for the faithful who feed the collection plate on all those dull days when the Tigers are battling for better locker locations next year, and the parson is plugging rummage sales.

But the reason I always resented opening day fans is not because they're too good for bubblegum cards. One thing nice about all sorts of snobs--they usually don't speak to the slobs at the bar. So I can suffer them with great charity, if not understanding. If they don't like baseball unless Gov. Milliken throws the first pitch, that's their hang-up. To each his own, and all that sweetness.

My real beef with the baseball snobs was they made me jealous. They were always there on opening day, and I was always 65 miles away, working. In the never-ending quest for fresh money, the Tigers always open the season on Tuesday afternoon. If they did it on Friday night, a fan might drop in simply because he likes baseball and see an opening game by mistake. This would not only anguish Tiger management--$5 they would have got anyway--but it would also dismay the fan who could never understand why the club brought Milliken up from Florida.

Anyway, this year was different. No jealousy of the snobs. I now work just a few blocks from Tiger Stadium, and not too hard. I told myself it would be a fine idea to take my little boy to the opening game and then write a Walton Family column about it. My little boy is 6 foot 3 and he wondered why I never took him to baseball games when he really was little.

"You weren't big enough to go get beer," I explained.

My son is not the baseball freak I am. On his way to meeting me at the ballpark, he stopped at the art museum. It was closed, due to the municipal sborts. I forbid him to draw any meaningful contrasts between the 49,000 people at the ballpark and the void at the museum. If there's anything I can't stand on my hot dogs, it's guilt.

I read the sports pages to help me make intelligent conversation. So when Aurelio Rodriguez came to bat, I was able to explain why he will hit better this year. "The experts say he has stopped hitting the ball to right, and is pulling everything to left field," I said.

Rodriguez immediately doubled down the rightfield line.

"I also stopped at the zoo," my little boy said. "It was also closed."

Featured on the sports page that morning was a photo of Al Kaline showing newcomer Rusty Staub around right field. For 20 years, Kaline was acknowledged the best right fielder in the business. Experts agreed be had everything except color. Kaline is now the Tigers' color announcer on TV.

Anyway, in the last inning, Rusty lost an easy fly ball in the sun and our guys got beat, 1-0. The error was given to Kaline for not telling Rusty there is a sun in Detroit.

The manager should have called a plumber.

Meet Charlevoix

Cynthia Johnston

Cynthia Johnston has been Char-Em Intermediate School District's Instructional Materials Center librarian for the last four years.

This week the Courier talks to her about her job and her particular interest in children's literature.

She and her husband, Hewitt, have lived in Charlevoix for 9 years after moving here from Kalamazoo. They have one son, Eric, who is a second grader at Charlevoix Elementary School.

Cynthia holds a elementary education permanent teaching certificate. She graduated from Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. and then earned a master's degree in library science from Western University.

COURIER: Can you tell us a little about your job?

JOHNSTON: I help teachers and our special education staff find material they can use in filling the needs of the young people they work with. I think I like the reference part of my job the best. When we get a request from teachers for materials, I often have to call various libraries to see what's available on the topic they requested. For example, I have had to dig up materials on educating the gifted child, as well as find other material on dealing with hyper-active children.

COURIER: Is the reference work the only thing you are involved with?

JOHNSTON: No, we also have to deal with our film library that provides visual aids to school districts throughout Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. For example, a person recently came in and asked if we could find out what films we have available on skiing. The East Jordan Middle School asked us if we could locate filmstrips to aid them in the restructuring of its new program. We frequently get films on approval to review them and see if there would be enough need to purchase them for use in the area.

COURIER: Do you have any difficulty in sorting out the good products from the poorer ones?

JOHNSTON: We get a lot of third class mail offering educational materials for use in the classroom. Some of it is just plain junk. If any of it looks like it might be of some value, we will ask for a preview copy and then make an evaluation. Ever since the Title II Act to fund school libraries went into effect, there have been companies coming out of the woodwork offering educational materials. But, now that the funding is starting to dwindle they have been out selling even harder. It is our job to evaluate the price against the quality.

COURIER: How did you ever get into this line of work?

JOHNSTON: I was a second grade elementary teacher in Kalamazoo and had a chance to go to graduate school on a fellowship on a full-time basis. So, I thought I would try it and ended up getting interested in library science. My only regret it that I'm not really with the kids like I used to be. But, I always try to keep in mind that this work will be benefiting kids.

COURIER: How do you keep in touch with kids so you can make sure you know what they might be interested in reading?

JOHNSTON: I try to talk to kids whenever I can and listen to what they have to say. There are 3 or 4 in our neighborhood that I have tried to form a friendship with. I also talk to local librarians and see what children are interested in reading.

COURIER: We understand that you have been invited to participate in a state-wide conference?

JOHNSTON: I'm quite excited about it. I have been asked to participate in the Michigan Library Association's Children's Service's Roundtable this week in Cadillac.

COURIER: What will be your part in the program?

JOHNSTON: I am being asked to review several books for those who will be attending the conference. The books are old traditional books that are normally found on library book shelves, but probably wouldn't be picked up by youngsters unless they were introduced by a librarian. Among the books are "The Fire Dragon" and "Toby Tyler."

COURIER: We've been reading and hearing a lot about the influence of television. Do you think children read less?

JOHNSTON: Certainly television has made a big dent in the reading population. But, I think more children have learned to read better and I think the quality of reading material available is better. You can find a book for just about everyone's interest. There's no excuse for not being able to locate a book that will interest a child. Kids deal with realism more than perhaps a few years ago, so reading can help them stretch their imaginations.

MRS. CYNTHIA Johnston of Char-Em Intermediate School District is a special guest this week at a Michigan Library Association conference.

Valuation Continues to Climb

By FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix County's equalized valuation will be increased only 2.47 percent over 1975 if the State Tax Commission approves the valuations that were presented to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at a special meeting recently.

The 1976 equalized valuation accepted by the Commissioners by a vote of 11-4 was in the amount of $186,773,783, or an increase of $4,493,592 over the 1975 S.E.V. of $182,279,783.

In reality, however, the increase is $15,230,156 or the difference between last year's valuation of $182 million less the $10,736,564 lost as the result of a new state law that exempts certain personal property including inventories from being taxed as before and the new figures of $186 million.

An explanation of the source of the increase was included in a recap presented by Mrs. Joan Blanchard, Equalization Department Director, who said that plus adjustments of $3,218,670 or 1.77 due mainly to agriculture and timber cut over and $4,002,310 or 2.20 percent in new properties added to $755,577 or 0.41 increased by the county and $7,253,599 or 3.98 percent by the state brings the total to $186,773,375 after the loss of $10 million in personal property is subtracted.

The equalization report was approved by a vote of 11-4 as mentioned earlier.

Harry Griffin, Oscar Ward, Rudy Florenski and Ralph Harmon cast the nay vote.

Griffin has repeatedly objected to the increase in valuation stating time and again that property in Charlevoix county was not fairly assessed as compared to other counties, especially Emmet county, and that Charlevoix county was paying more in taxes than it should. Ward has also objected to any increase.

Griffin said that it makes the assessors look as though they are not doing their job and that he thinks they are.

True cash value and how it is determined was argued but the figures stood and were approved as presented despite the objections of Griffin. The others made no comments.

Decreases in valuation of Boyne Valley, Charlevoix, and Eveline townships and in the cities of Boyne City and East Jordan was due mainly to loss of personal property on the rolls. In Charlevoix township, for instance, the largest decrease was personal property at Medusa. In St. James township the loss of property as building sites due to a decision by the Health Department that they were not suitable for home sites because of water levels. Charlevoix township received the largest increase in valuation as a result of improvements by Consumers Power at Big Rock.

Among the issues that Griffin, Ward and the others including assessors present objected to were equalization factors applied to their rolls. Only six units did not receive factors. Others ranged from 1.044 in Boyne Valley to 1.208

Charlevoix Bar Association Stages Mock Jury Trial

By Sara Gay Dammann

From the time of arrest through the return of a guilty verdict, for drunk driving, high school seniors and juniors were closely involved in the judicial process.

The occasion was Law Day, when a "mock trial" was conducted by members of the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, last Friday morning at the high school.

Frank Hoffman, Charlevoix Attorney, who organized the affair for the Bar Association, and acted as trial judge, explained:

"The basic reason, for the mock trail, was to inform kids how the Amcriean adversary system functions, in the fact that actual observation of a trial is really the best experience to get that point across."

In a non-rehearsed, sometime hilariously ad-libbed drama, Brock Dagner (a Sheriff's deputy) played out his part of a drunk driver.

Under Sheriff, James McCallum, (playing himself), arrested Dagner in the school parking lot, while students observed.

McCallum and Danger went through the arrest procedure, with some relish, as Dagner failed three exercises for intoxication: failing to pick up coins the Under Sheriff dropped, walk in a straight line or touch his nose with his finger.

The next scene was in the high school cafeteria where McCallum read Dagner his rights and demonstrated a Breathalyzer Test.

Preceeding this demonstration, and each part of the trial, individual participants explained procedures and rationales behind them.

McCallum emphasized that the Breathalyzer was used tu arrive at a "presumption" of intoxication, not a conclusion.

While the case against Dagner seemed conclusive, the burden of proof as in all trials, was on the prosecution.

Roy C. Hayes played himself – Prosecutor.

Attorney Dick Pajtas played the Defense Attorney.

"The presumption of innocence continues throughout a trial," Hoffman opened his remarks to the jury.

In this case two juries were selected, from volunteer high school juniors. One jury witnessed the arrest, the other was not allowed th see the arrest. The two juries were chosen to see if viewing or not viewing the actual crime would result in differing verdicts. Or, in other words, if the trial process would produce a fair decision.

Hoffman, as Judge, explained "The fact of an arrest is not evidence.

"The law doesn't require proof of innocence.

"The burden of proof is on the prosecotion.

"The prosecution must prave guilt beyolnd a reasonable doubt, with evidence it presents."

Hoffman continoed, "Reasonable doubt is a situation which would caose hesitation in making a major decision in your life."

For the prosecotion, Hayes opened the trial with McCallom detailing the arrest and presenting his evidence.

The mock trial was a vivid demonstration of the adversary system as Defense Attorney Pajtas attempted to poke holes in the Under Sheriff's testimony and question his observations.

Despite Pajtas' best efforts, to shake McCallum's testimony and present Dagner in a favorable manner, the jurries agreed, after some 15 minutes deliberation, that Dagner was indeed guilty.

Mark Hosmer and Tim Matchett, High School Seniors, worked with the Bar Association, under Government Teacher Nelson Green's direction.

Health Department to Administer Program

Charlevoix County Prepares for Flu Immunization Program

By PAULA HOLMES

Plans for innoculating the 85,000 residents of Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim and Otsego counties against swine flu are still on the drawing board, according to a District 3 Health Department representative.

"It's going to be a mammoth job," Gerald Chase, director of the health department, said. "We're just at the beginning stages of planning the clinics.

"And that's about the situation with other health departments across the state."

The health department director said he was just now getting word about the availability of vaccine for the $135 million innoculation program approved by the U.S. Congress two weeks ago. President Ford proposed the nationwide innoculation program after a series of meetings with scientists, public health officials and drug manufacturers.

The officials were concerned about the outbreak of swine flu, which occurred at Fort Dix, N.J., in February, because the last time the virus surfaced an estimated 548,000 Americans died. During the epidemic of 1918-19 between one-tenth and one-fifth of the world population became ill.

Since the swine flu virus has not been found in human circulation since around 1930, no one younger than 46 would have protective antibodies in his system. Thus, officials urged Ford to seek the massive innoculation program.

Chase said as far as he knew now there would be two types of vaccines available. One vaccine would be for high risk patients, such as senior citizens and those with chronic heart and lung ailments. This vaccine would contain an innocolation against swine flu and also against the A/Victoria strain.

"The A/Victoria strain is the one we had in this area during the flu season this year," Chase explained. "Some people were very sick with it."

The health department representative said the vaccine for the high risk patients would be distriboted through his department to private physicians.

"We're going to try to get each individual physician to give the vaccine to his own high risk patients," Chase explained.

He said the health department would take part in inoculating patients in nursing homes.

The second vaccine that will be available will be distributed to the general public, Chase said. This vaccine will protect people only against swine flu.

"Distributing this vaccine will be a mammoth job," Chase said. "And we don't have any real definite plans for how we're going to go aboot it."

Chase said workshops about the problem are going to be held in May, June and July for local public health officials.

"We're looking at how the polio vaccine was distributed," Chase said. "I think that's the way we will go with this vaccine, too."

The polio vaccine was distributed generally through special Sunday clinics set up in high schools. The vaccinations were given by public health nurses assisted by volunteer nurses, physicians and druggists.

In the early 1960s, the polio vaccine program involved 100 million Americans and took 18 months. The swine flu program is aimed at 220 million Americans and must be completed by November—less than seven months away.

Chase said that even with volunteer help, health officials were expecting to innoculate only slightly more than half of the American population. He expected a higher percentage of innoculations in this area, however.

"We have hit more than 95 percent up here with immunizations in general, while downstate they average about 60 percent," Chase said.

"So if the same rules applies, we should have a higher interest and we should probably have more people innoculated against the flu up here."

Chase said the health department had some obstacles to overcome before the innocolation program is started, however. One of these obstacles is manpower.

"We're going to be asking for volunteers to help us give the inaoculations," Chase said. "And I'm going to ask for federal employment funds in those counties with CETA programs to hire people to help us."

The health department representative said he would also need people to keep up with the additional paper work caused by the program.

Chase said getting enough equipment to run the innoculation program may also be a problem. The health official said he had tried to order some innoculation guns, but found there had been a rush on ordering the machines, which about double the number of innoculations a nurse can give in a day.

He anticipated convincing people that they actually needed the vaccination may also be a program.

"Due to the fact that this is not the 1950s or 1960s, but the 1970s when everyone questions anything the government says, I'm sure we are going to have to launch an education program to explain the necessity of getting the vaccination," Chase said.

"Some physicians and other health experts have already started questioning the need for the vaccines," he pointed out.

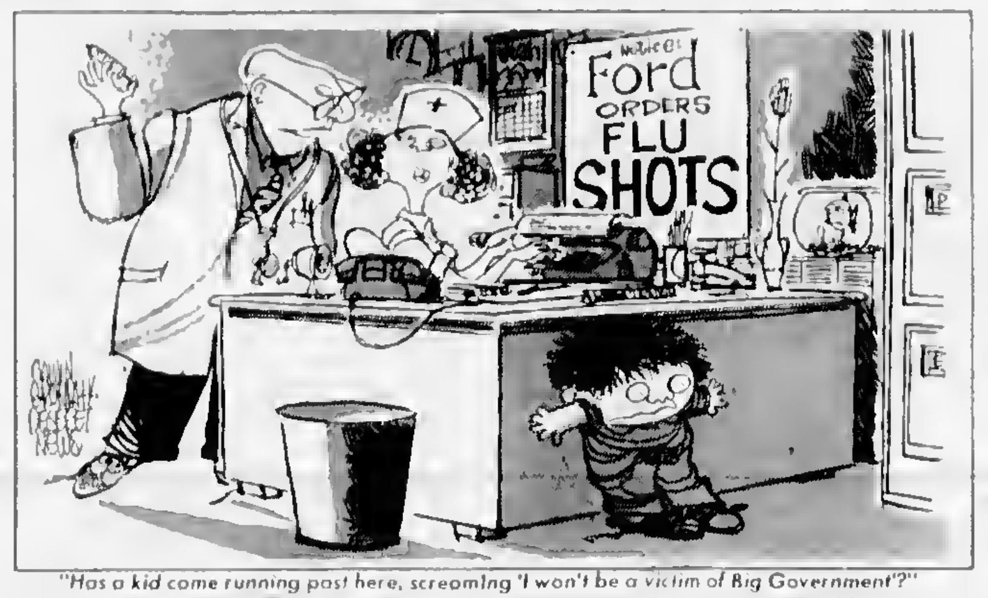
Chase said he was satisfied that the need for the vaccine was real.

"The foremost experts in the country were the ones that made this decision," Chase said. "It was really the pros that came up with the plan."

The health department director said his office receives monthly reports from the national communicable disease center and he has found them to be very accurate.

"We receive reports on what disease are cropping up, where they will break out and how extensive the outbreak will be," he explained. "And the center has been very close in its predictions.

"I have never had a flu vaccine before, but this year I expect I'm going to get one," he said.



"Has a kid come running past here, screaming 'I won't be a victim of Big Government'?"

ROBERT L. HOFFMAN
BOSS OF THE YEAR

THE BOSS OF THE YEAR, Robert L. Hoffman, received not only an official award but a personal gift, a basket of 'goodies' donated by Symons General Store from the Petoskey Legal Secretaries Association. His secretary, Betty L. Bergmann, made the presentation in behalf of the association.

Hoffman Named Favorite Boss

A Charlevoix attorney, Robert L. Hoffman, was awarded the first Boss of the Year award given by the Petoskey Legal Secretaries Association. The presentation was made recently at a dinner held at Bongiorno's Restaurant in Petoskey.

Hoffman has been practicing law in the Charlevoix area for the past 10 years. He is a member of the law firm of Hoffman & Hoffman. The selection of the recipient of the award is made by a committee, unaware of identities, based on letters submitted by each attorney's secretary. Betty L. Bergmann, who has been Mr. Hoffman's secretary for more than eight years, submitted the winning entry.

The award was the first granted by the Petoskey association and is intended to be an annual event.

The membership of the Legal Secretaries Association is made up of legal secretaries and court personnel from Charlevoix and Emmet counties and is a unit of o Michigan and National Association.

Recently elected officers were installed by Martin B. Breighner, Circuit Court Judge. They are Barbara Keesler of Boyne City, president; Sue Totten of Charlevoix, vice president; Evelyn Gratsch of Petoskey, secretary; Mrs. Bergmann, treasurer and Lorraine Washburne of Petoskey, governor.

Daggett Now Taking Summer Camp Positions

Area youngsters interested in going to Camp Daggett should make their plans now.

Camp officials say registration and information folders are now available at most public schools in the area.

Camp Daggett is for boys and girls between 7 and 14-years-old, and is operated by a non-profit organization supported by service clubs in Emmet and Charlevoix Counties.

The camp, which is open between June 20 through August, offers a variety of activities ranging from water skills to camping.

Located on Walloon Lake, Camp Daggett costs $55 for one week session and $100 for two week sessions.

This year the camp will be under the direction of Tim Pierson, who served as last year's assistant director.

Those in the Charlevoix area interested in more information should contact Edward Shanahan, 547-2115.

How Do You Rate Your Personality?

What kind of person are you?

Are you the type who will stand up on a desk top and scream at the top of your lunga to get a message across?

Or are you the type who won't say anything at all?

Just how assertive are you? Psychologists are beginning to take a closer look at people's manner in order to find out how one fares in dealing with others.

"Assertive behavior" is simply when one stands up for his or her legitimate rights in such a way that the rights are of others are not violated.

Those who are considered "non-assertive" are simply those who let others violate their own rights.

While having "aggressive behavior" is when standing up for your own rights in a particular fashion will violate others rights.

The Leaning Tree

By Marlene Cassell
Extension Home Economist
Antrim & Kalkaska Counties

My husband and I celebrated this last New Year's Eve by staying home and waiting for the new year with our children. Our daughter was the only one who could keep awake long enough to actually see 1976 arrive. She was thoroughly disgusted with the rest of us. She noted it was our only chance to ring in a bicentennial New Year. When she put it that way I felt I had indeed missed out.

I've been trying to display the bicentennial spirit ever since.

One way is to do some bicentennial landscaping this spring. A display of red, white and blue plants seems to be one of the simplest means of landscaping with the bicentennial spirit in mind.

Horticulturists at Michigan State University point out that numerous combinations of annual flowers will produce the desired color scheme. Ideas for formal and informal arrangements of the patriotic colors are as close as your favorite seed catalog or garden supply store.

A flag, a liberty bell or even the Bicentenniol star aymbol may be recreated in flowers. Or, for a simpler project, fill a flower bed or border with bands of the three flag colors.

If you want a display that is about the same height throughout, choose one kind of flower in all three colors. Verbena, petunia and sweet alyssum are all available in red, white and blue varieties.

If your Bicentennial flower patch will back up against a fence or wall, use plants of three heights; tallest in back, plants of medium height in the middle and shortest in the foreground. Tall red or white snapdragons might be used for the back row, with petunias in the center and sweet alyssum for the front row.

Red zinnias, red salvia, white zinnias and blue ageratum could also be used.

If you're planting a flag, golden French or dwarf marigolds can be used to represent the flag pole.

Library notes

New books for your spring reading pleasure include "The Winthrop Covenant" by Louis Auchincloss who always manages to give us the highest in fictional achievement. His most current book is a powerful chronicle, spanning three centuries of the Winthrop family in New England and New York. Their heritage begins in the Massachusetts Bay Colony with Governor John Winthrop's covenant with God versus Anne Hutchinson's compulsion to martyrdom. From then on, the rough Civil War and up to the present, the author reveals the torments and mental anguish of the family. The novel is a compassionate, searching view of a moral strain that, for better or worse, has marked our national character.

Catherine Cookson, who for some reason has chosen to write under the pseudonym of Catherine Marchant, has a new book out titled "Miss Martha Mary Crawford." Regardless of what name she chooses to write under, we are always assured of a satisfying, wholesome, highly entertaining tale. The heroine of this new novel is not yet 20 in 1879. He mother died when she was four, and the young girl had to shoulder the responsibility of the family and the Crawford property. The home was badly run down and their fortune rapidly dwindling. When her father died, Martha Mary discovers to her horror that he had wasted what little remained of the family inheritance and they were virtually penniless. Her struggle to remain loyal to the family and still find a life of her own makes for absorbing reading.

"Girls Turn Wives" is a rich, witty novel about the lives of women today. The author, Norma Klein, wrote the best seller "Sunshine." In her new book, she builds an intriguing plot about two totally opposite women—one a home-oriented mother of three; the other a high-strung perfectionist who is unable to have children. Unexpectedly, each of them finds herself living in New York on her own. The reader won't put this one down until the final page.

For almost 50 years, Charles Lindbergh had a love-hate relationship with the American people. He was 25 when he took off on his lone flight to Paris and from that time until his death in Hawaii in 1974 he lived out his life in blazing headlines. Leonard Mosley has written an outstanding new biography about this troubled hero who loathed the glare of publicity but could not escape from it. He began to study Lindbergh at the time of the famous Hauptmann trial, and in this book, he has succeeded in placing a remarkable man in perspective for the first time.

The Bicentennial tower, containing 5000 polished Petoskey stones and created and built by Bob Miles is now on display in the Library. Everyone is encouraged to stop in and see this extraordinary tribute to our nation's 200th birthday.

Brian Brady Gets Scholarship

Brian Brady

Brion Brady, son of William and Geraldine Brady, 731 Mercer Blvd., Charlevoix, was recently notified of his receipt of an Adrian College Presidential Award for the 1976-77 academic yeur beginning in September.

Brady, who plans to major in pre-dentistry studies at Adrian, was presented the award in acknowledgment of special achievements and academic accomplishments. This is a $1,000 grant, renewable if academic performance is maintained, and not necessarily given on the basis of financial need.

Brady, member of the Bethany Lutheran Church, is currently a senior at Howe Military School, Ind. There he is secretary of his class and participates in sword and shield plus the football, rifle, tennis and drill teams.

Snowmobilers Hold Banquet

Charlevoix snowmobilers held a "spring thaw" with a dinner and awards presentation recently at the Grey Gables in Charlevoix.

Trophies were presented to Russ Dohm, fur the best trail master; Debbie Beilinger, most enthusiastic member; and Rita Dohn, most improved rider.

Other handmade awards were presented to members recalling numerous events of the past snowmobile season.

New officers elected for this year included Russ Dohn, president; Dick Wieland, vice president; Roger Shepard, secretary; Duris Wieland, treasurer; and Jennie Meyers corresponding secretary.

Members plan to hold a beef roast in August.

It's Time to Clean Up

Charlevoix's annual home clean-up, fix-up and paint-up time gets underway this week.

City trucks will be picking up rubbish in the first ward, north uf the bridge, May 4-6.

Second Ward residents, west of Bridge Street, can expect collection on May 10, 11 and 12 while collections in the third ward, east of Bridge Street, will be on May 17 and 18.

City officials say that oll trash must be out for pick up before the starting date in cach area.

All rubbish should be in back of the curb on all paved streets and on streets without curbs, placed off traveled portion of the road.

Mark containers "save" if you want them returned.

Large items, brush and tree limbs do have to be placed in containers, but be placed for eosy loading.

Commission Reveals More About Charter

CITY CHARTER
COMMISSION

One of the more important features of the proposed charter for Charlevoix and one which has already led to a great deal of discussion is that under the proposed charter elections would be non-partisan so that all voters can cast their votes on any candidate.

It has been argued that non-partisan elections would destroy the political party system which is the organization by which we choose candidates for our government on the state and national level.

This argument is not valid on several points. First nonpartisan elections du not threaten party politics; quite the contrary. The open nature of the ward nomination caucus should promote political support of candidates on a very grass-roots bosis. Secondly, voters will have the opportunity to observe just how strongly an office seeker is supported by those who share his political ideas (his professed party). In addition, candidates who are popular with voters of more than one porty will attract support from those who would not otherwise cross party lines. How many times have we been prevented from voting for a candidate of our choice simply because of the mechanics of voting within political porty lines or the presumed stigma of what is something termed "party disloyalty"?

Political party labels really hove had little long range significance os these groups changed titles, platforms and influence since the earliest days of our government. Thomas Jefferson claimed no party affiliation under George Washington's administration. When Jeffersan observed what he considered the aims of the Federalists to establish a monarchy, or at least an oligarchy of wealth he rallied men around him who called themselves Republicans. This party became the Democratic-Republicans in the elections of 1796 and re-organized as the Democratic party in the elections of 1828.

As further evidence of the frailty of party designations this nation has had candidates for President and Vice-president representing the political parties of Federalists, Democratic-Republicans, Independents, Democratic, Whig, National Republican, Anti-Masonic, Nullifiers, Liberty, Free Soil, American, Southern Democratic, Constitutional Union, Democratic-Liberal Republicans, Straight Democrats, Greenbacks, Prohibition, Populist, Union Labor, Socialist, Progressive, Union, and finally, the States' Rights party.

Until recently the major political parties vied for the deciding votes of the independent or non-party voters who represented about 12-15 percent of the total registration. An article in the Parade Magazine of the Detroit Free Press for Sunday, February 29, 1978 stated that"– A recent Gallup Poll of political party affiliations, based on interviews with 7789 adults, shows that 21 percent classify themselves as Republicans, 44 percent as Democrats, 35 percent as Independents. In order to attract new voters, the Republican party in Minnesota has officially changed its name to the Independent-Republican party. The objective is to enlist the support of u growing number of independents, which has reached an all-time high."

The fact that more and more communities are choosing to vote non-partisan elections is proof that this is the desire of the majority of voters in those communities: The fact that non-partisan elections work so well for so many is certainly reason for the citizens of Charlevoix to consider it for themselves.

ROAD SYSTEM

The size of our road system remained substantially unchanged in 1975. Only three-quarters of a mile of roads were added, mainly platted roads.

We now rate forty-four percent of our roads as adequate for their intended purpose, a gain in 1975 of four percent which can be attributed to our construction program.

CETA

In January 1975 we interviewed extensively, then hired twelve new employees under the CETA VI program. Those people worked mainly removing dead trees from the roadsides and we were able to gain somewhat on our dead-elm problem.

CETA employees also worked construction projects, notably erosion control. When they worked local road construction their wages were excluded from the township's share of the job cost.

This report shows that we were reimbursed some $87 thousand in wages for CETA employees, enabling us to offset some of the loss of revenue in other areas, while providing additional jobs and service.

CONSTRUCTION

Construction in 1975 included completion of 5½ miles of grade-and-gravel base, 4½ miles of triple seal-coat, and 2½ miles of plant-mix asphalt paving, costing $318 thousand. Partial completion of new work, various small projects, and deferred costs from previous years comprised the remainder of construction expenditures shown in this report.

An important construction cost in recent years has been for erosion control, now averaging around three thousand dollars for a mile of ordinary roadside seeding and mulching. When special or extra erosion control work is required, this cost can be greatly exceeded.

EQUIPMENT

We acquired six new dump trucks in 1975, three of which had been ordered in 1974 and were financed out of that year's budget. It is of some interest to note that a truck which cost $16 thousand in 1975 had a price under $14 thousand in 1974 and could be purchased for about $8 thousand in 1970.

Another important acquisition was a new motor grader, giving us a total of four and enabling better maintenance grading and more efficient construction operations.

REVENUE

Our motor vehicle highway funds continued to decline. 1975 receipts were only one percent above those for 1974, whereas the normal growth rate in former years has been about four percent annually. This attrition is tied directly to the decline of gasoline sales and the attendant tax collections. The need for new revenue for transportation has been the subject of much discussion in Michigan recently.

Meanwhile, we have been forced to economize where we can, adopting policies which must result in fewer people employed and less service given. Unfortunately, we do not foresee any improvement in this situation unless our revenues are substantially increased.

District Court

Magistrate Howard Talboys heard the following cases in his court recently:

Donald Cunningham, 27, Charlevoix, charged by the DNR with burning without a permit, was assessed $20.

Deborah Bostic, East Jordan, allowing a dog to run at large, $20.

School Plans Concert

The singing of traditional American marching songs by more than 575 students from the Charlevoix Elementary School will climax the annual spring operetta presented by the school.

This year's presentation is a salute to the United States in its bicentennial year.

The Bicentennial Salute will be presented at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. Thursday under the direction of Mrs. Marena LaGlance, music instructor at the elementary school.

For those who cannot attend the evening performance, there will be a dress rehearsal at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the same site.

SPECIAL ELECTION NORWOOD TOWNSHIP

Held in conjunction with the Presidential Primary on Tuesday, May 18. To vote on millage increase to raise funds to improve secondary roads within the township.

Ellsworth Farmer Recognized As "Farmer of the Week"

An Ellsworth farmer, J. Richard Wieland, was named the MFRN Farmer of the Week for the week of March 19 according to an announcement by the Michigan Farm Radio Network which co-sponsors the weekly award with the Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

Charles Elzinga of the Farm Bureau Insurance Group presented Wieland with a personalized certificate and an eight digit calculator on Friday.

Recipients are selected on the basis of the quality of their farming operation and their contribution to the agricultural community. Nominations are made by Michigan farm organizations such as the Michigan Milk Producers Association, Michigan Livestock Exchange, Michigan Potato Exchange as well as Farm Bureau Insurance agents.

The selection is made each week by representatives of the network and insurance group and announced each Monday on the statewide "Michigan Today" radio program.

Wieland, a dairy farmer, farms 1050 acres. His involvement in community and agricultural affairs includes State Board of Directors for Michigan Farm Bureau, MFB Insurance Director, FB Services Director, Farmer's Petroleum Corporation Director, Chairman of the FB Dairy Advisory Committee, past school board member, member of the Antrim County Planning Commission and President of the Ellsworth Farmers Exchange Cooperative.

Wieland and his wife, Doris, have four children.

The basic purpose behind "Farmer of the Week" is recognizing a Michigan Farmer each week for outstanding agricultural contributions to the industry. It is a public service project aimed at giving the farmer higher visibility throughout the state.

RICHARD WIELAND, (right) Ellsworth farmer, was presented with a personalized certificate and an eight digit calculator recently by Charles Elzinga of the FB Insurance Group.

Music Theater Needs Singers

The Charlevoix Music Theatre has launched a search for singer performers and for a piano player to appear in repertoire performances of three musicals scheduled for presentation during the summer according to Katie Vogel, local coordinator for the theatre.

Auditions will be held at the Grey Gables Inn at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Prospective performers are asked to come prepared with a musical selection from Man of LaMancha, Fiddler on the Roof or Camelot which are being considered for performance.

Plans call for performances in a dinner theatre arrangement four nights a week. Performers, who will be paid, must be available from mid-June through August, Ms. Vogel said.

While the budget only allows for performers to be paid at this time, there is a need for help in other areas including lighting, staging, wardrobe, tickets, ushers and other behind-the scenes chores that go with performances.

If you have any talent in any of these areas either as a performer or elsewhere in the set-up you are asked to call Ms. Vogel at 547-4614.

If you've ever had a secret desire to be associated with a theatre production, here's your chance Ms. Vogel said in conclusion.

Team Captures 4th Win

The Charlevoix tennis team came through with its fourth win of the season to one loss Monday with a 4-3 victory over Leelanau.

Eric Lundteigen won by scores of 6-4, 7-5; John Greene by scores of 6-4, 6-4 and Dave Morgridge by scores of 6-2, 7-6 while Mark Lignell lost a tough match, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 in the singles.

In the doubles Dan Engstrom and Eric Slone won 6-3, 6-1 while Dave Taylor and Mark Malpeli lost 6-4, 3-6, 6-4 and Mark Hosmer and Steve Berlage lost 6-4, 6-3.

Charlevoix will host Alpena on Wednesday and Gaylord on Thursday.

in Marion township. Others were Bay township, 1.082; Chandler, 1.137; Charlevoix, 1.083; Evangeline, 1.06; Hudson, 1.091; Norwood, 1.186; South Arm, 1.137; Wilson, 1.107; City of Charlevoix, 1.068 and East Jordan, 1.024.

A break-down of the real property in the county reveals that residential comprises 87.57 percent; industrial, 13.40; commercial, 10.15; agriculture, 6.44 and timber cut-over, 2.44 percent.

Under personal property, industrial makes up the major part or 44.78 percent; utilities, 40.0; commercial, 15.12 and residential, 0.10.

Both Marion and Charlevoix township boards submitted letters of protest regarding the valuations in their respective townships stating that they felt Robert Potter, who had assessed both units, had made a thorough and conscientous assessment of 50 percent of true cash value. The letters stated further that the boards felt that there was no justification for applying a factor.

The valuations will be presented to the State Tax Commission in Lansing later this month for their approval.

Supports Equal Rights Amendment

Mrs. Ruppe Begins Northern Michigan Tour

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

Lorette Ruppe, wife of Congressman Phil Ruppe, is "all for the Equal Rights Amendment," she told the Courier after Monday' afternoon's meeting of the Republican Women's Club.

As a matter of fact, Mrs. Ruppe said, she finds the fact that there are so few women in the U.S. Congress and none in the U.S. Senate deplorable.

The Ruppes have been in Washington since 1966.

Mrs. Ruppe does not agree with the popular characterizations of politicians as corrupt and dishonest.

"The people we know are very honest and work very hard in Washington," she observed.

"The anti-Washington feelings exist, perhaps because we face very difficult problems, which are complex, like inflation.

"Vietnam followed by Watergate was disillusioning.

"Washington will have to rebuild itself," she continued.

"On the other hand, a democracy requires a great amount of trust between the people and representatives," Mrs. Ruppe reflected.

A recognition of these problems nationally has made "politicians recognize the need to get rid of bigness," she said.

Citing the continuation of revenue sharing, as an example, Mrs. Ruppe said, "This puts responsibility back into the states for the way tax dollars are spent."

Speaks Out

As the wife of a Congressman, Mrs. Ruppe is willing to speak out, however, she pointed out, it is the Representative who is elected, and the spouses of representatives do not want to hurt their cause.

The precedent for active politicians' wives has been long established in Michigan, Mrs. Ruppe observed.

"Mrs. Romney, Marge Griffin, and Helen Milliken have always been very open."

Monday was the beginning of a 5-day swing for Mrs. Ruppe in the northern lower peninsula. She said she is going to actively campaign for her husband this year.

Ruppe, a Republican, faces one primary contest to date, but Mrs. Ruppe expects that his Democratic opponent of two years ago, Francis Brouillette, Iron Mountain Prosecuting Attorney, will run again.

"In a district this size," Mrs. Ruppe explained, "It's almost imperative for a wife to campaign.

"I like politics, once I get out and into it," she continued, admitting to some nervous anticipation.

The Ruppe children, five girls, range in ages from 16 to 10. Mrs. Ruppe feels she can become more involved now than previously, because the children are older.

And, in keeping with her strong feelings about working women, she has firmly decided that her oldest daughter will hold down a summer job this year.

She acknowledges that the life of a politician's family is a bit "odd. It's nomadic."

Worth It

"It was hard on the older children at first with all the moves. Things have settled down now.

"It is worth it," she emphasizes.

Raising children makes it difficult to stay well informed on all the issues, "particularly when Phil comes home exhausted at 8:30 p.m.," she laughed.

"But I read all his press releases," she quipped.

Mrs. Ruppe was prepared to discuss issues and told The Courier:

"Concerning PBB," (the toxic fire retardent chemical affecting Michigan cattle herds) "Phil has been seeking low interest loans for people whose herds have been hurt and he has backed a study on the effect PBB has on humans.

"The study of the effect on humans has been funded," Mrs. Ruppe said.

On The Indian Fishing Rights controversy, she said, "It is unfortunate that it has been exacerbated..."

When asked who was "exacerbating" the issue, she said, "Sports fishermen, commercial fishermen and Indians.

"I just hope it doesn't destroy how we relate to each other as people," she said.

On the issue of abortion, she said, "I think abortion is an unacceptable method of birth control; but it is difficult to legislate it."

She said she "questioned whether the Navy's Project Seafarer," (the underground communications system proposed for the Upper Peninsula)," was a real national priority," as maintained by the Navy.

"Phil testified at the Armed Forces Subcommittee against the Navy being permitted to spend 'seed money' on the project; because he feels the people should have the choice as to whether or not the project is located in Michigan. The more money they spend on the project the less choice we'll have," she concluded.

Marijuana

As for the marijuana issue, Mrs. Ruppe said she didn't think an arrest for possession "should mar someone's life forever, but I am against the pushers."

The lack of privacy for a politician's family does not disturb Mrs. Ruppe.

"The new laws requiring candidates to file a lot of personal information are good. I am all for that," she emphasized.

"And I expect our children will be called upon by their peers, this summer, to defend Phil's positions, too, now that they are old enough," she laughed.

Asked how many terms the Congressman looks forward to, she commented, "We've talked a lot about that. We've talked about the nice little house with the picket fence in the quiet town. We can't quite see it."

Four Journalists Take State Honors

Four Charlevoix High School journalism students received recognition at the annual conference of the Michigan Interscholastic Press Association (MIPA) held at Central Michigan University Friday.

Kim Gould, photographer for the Crimson Flash and the Yearbook, received a first and a third place in the Photo Essay category.

Jim Berlage, editor of the Crimson Flash, received first place in the News Writing division.

Receiving honorable mention in the By-lined Analysis Division was John Cinnamon. Linda Smith was given honorable mention in the Sports Feature category.

Articles for judging and competition were submitted April 1 with awards being presented at the close of the conference.

Awards were divided into three classes: A, B and C/D.

The day's seminars included instructional sessions on yearbooks and newspapers, advertising, Photography, Press Freedom, Staff Motivation, Sports Writing, Typography, Editorial and Feature Writing as well as handling controversial issues, law and student media.

April 30 was officially proclaimed "Mattie Crump Day" in honor of Ms. Crump who served as advisor to the Arthur Hill News, Arthur Hill High School, in Saginaw for 41 years.

Nineteen Charlevoix High School journalism students and their advisor, Ms. Connie Ford were in Mt. Pleasant for the all-day conference.

Director Attending Seminar

Charlevoix Area Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger will be attending a three-day educational conference in Chicago this month.

The conference, being held in conjunction with the American College of Hospital Administrators meeting, will include a variety of seminars on problems facing hospitals.

Some areas to be discussed include hospital rates, trends in mental health, alcohol and drug abuse, cost control, legal issues of medicine and medical libraries.

Krueger will join some 10,000 other hospital administrators and hospital personnel from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana ad Wisconsin.

He has been a Charlevoix hospital administrator for nearly five years.

FAITH DEMONSTRATES THE FALLACY OF FALSE PRIDE

Pride can be a major stumbling block to the solution of many of the problems involving our fellow human beings. It is a false facade that often prevents us from seeking needed help, ending a quarrel, forgiving a minor grievance or admitting our own mistakes. Faith can demonstrate the error of this stubborn trait, by exposing pride as an enemy, totally incompatible with the love that is taught in the Bible. So go to your Church and learn how to tear down this barrier of pride that may be the only thing standing between you and happiness.

World's Biggest Pie Bake--See Tab

Cherry Pie Pitted Against Rail Auction for Weekend

By TOM DAMMANN

One of the world's smallest railroads, The Boyne City, and world's largest cherry pie, Charlevoix's, will compete for attention Saturday, May 15.

Simultaneously, the Boyne City Railroad is going on the auction block and the pie in the oven.

The 7.5 mile long, 83 year old railroad will come to the end of its career, at the auction, unless a bidder or bidders can buy the tracks, right-of-ways, rolling stock and other necessities to keep it going.

The railroad has been up for sale since last summer when its current owner, former Grand Rapids furniture manufacturer, Hollis Baker decided:

"I don't like running a railroad in absentia and my family doesn't like living in Boyne City."

Baker and his family divide their time between Grand Rapids, Florida, the Bahamas, Europe and northern Michigan, during the respective locales' "seasons". Baker's startling yacht, H.M.S. Dolphin, a 50 foot replica of an 18th Century Barquentine sailing vessel called at Charlevoix and Harbor Point last summer.

The original asking price for the railroad was in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Auctioneers, the Kruse Real Estate and Auction Company of Auburn, Indiana, expect that the piece by piece sale of the railroad, its museum, antiques and property will bring a much higher total.

The railroad was built in 1893 as the Boyne City and Southern, part of the operation of the W. H. White Lumber Company.

Line's Demise

The railroad gradually stretched 92 miles across to Alpena via Gaylord, becoming the Boyne City, Gaylord and Alpena Railroad.

A passenger service was maintained until the Depression of the '30's, when the decline of timbering also contributed to the line's demise.

The railroad was purchased by a group of Boyne City businessmen, including L.H. White, son of the founder, who ran it between Bayne City and Boyne Falls, renaming it the Boyne City Railroad.

At Boyne Falls, the railroad joins with Penn Central's north-south line, and it carried on a profitable freight business until 1969 when its chief source of income, Howe's Tannery, in Boyne City, ceased operation.

Under Baker the railroad carried some freight and in the summers of 1972 and '73 it hauled sightseers for its 7¼ miles.

Baker added a lot of memorabilia to the railroad's inventory which has been housed in a tourist museum in Boyne City.

He restored the two depots.

An authentic English steam locomotive and three passenger cars were imported by Baker.

All this, plus the engine house, a 1901 Presidential Pullman car, a 1950 diesel locomotive, a tank car full of diesel fuel, a snowplow and two old cabooses make up the rolling stock to be auctioned.

All the antiques, silverware, dishes and office equipment will also be up for bids.

The auction will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday in Boyne City. Potential bidders may inspect the goods Friday.

At the other end of Lake Charlevoix, crowds will be gathering at Medusa Cement Plant at 9 a.m. to watch the making of the pie. An entertainment program is scheduled from noon, while the pie bakers in a specially built oven and then cools. Pie-cutting and serving begins at 4 p.m.

The brain-child of Grey Gables proprietor, Dave Phillips, the pie, about 10 tons, has been the stimulus for considerable community cooperation in Charlevoix.

Board, Faculty Ratify Pact

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education and the Charlevoix Education Association have announced ratification of the terms of a two year contract with the certified teaching employes of the Charlevoix School District.

The Board of Education formally ratified the contract at its Monday night meeting.

The contract includes some basic changes in the terms of the contract, the calendar for 1976-77 and adjustments in salaries.

The beginning salary for a teacher remains the same for 1976-77 as it was for 1975-76 or $9226 and continues to $14,086 for a teacher on the tenth step of the salary schedule. A teacher with a master's degree will begin at $9,949 and reach $15,960 on the tenth step of the salary schedule.

The cost to the school district to implement the new contract will be an increase of 3.5 percent over the existing contract with the second year of the contract being similar and with slightly less adjustment, Supt. James A. McKimmy reported.

He went on to explain that additions to the current contract includes an all-school play, coaches for both boys and girls sports compensated on a weekly scale rather than by a season and a $10 per month dental care insurance.

Language was also included in the contract to limit the credit on the salary schedule for those persons who work less than full time in their teaching assignment.

The Charlevoix Education Association agreed to reimburse the Board of Education for supplies and expenses used for Association business.

School is scheduled to open Wednesday, Sept. 8. The calendar for the 1976-77 school year follows. Sept. 7, first day for teachers; Sept. 8, first day of school; Nov. 10-11-12, parent-teacher conferences; Nov. 25-26, Thanksgiving; Dec. 22, last day pre-Christmas; Jan. 3, return post-Christmas; Jan. 21, work day (High School-Middle School); March 16-17-18, parent-teacher conferences; April 4-8, Spring break; May 30, Memorial Day; June 9, last day for students; June 10, last day for teachers.

The City of Charlevoix will collect 50 percent of the property tax millage for the Charlevoix School District while collecting its summer taxes.

The decision by the city to collect part of the taxes during the summer will make it possible to reduce borrowing from the anticipated $778,000 to $550,000 Supt. James A. McKimmy told the board.

At the June 14 election, voters of the school district will elect two trustees to the Board of Education. Candidates who have filed

Cold Weather Keeps Bees Buzzing in Hives

By Fran Martin

Cherries, both sweet and sour, are going to be in short supply this season.

That is the word that has gone out from cherry growers everywhere but heard more clearly in the northern section of Michigan's Lower Peninsula where the heart of the industry is located.

A survey made by the Charlevoix Courier among growers in Charlevoix and Antrim Counties has verified the darkest of predictions.

The recent cold spell has been blamed by non-growers for the loss of a good part of the crop.

This, however, is not true for it was the temperatures in February that fell as low as 35 and 40 degrees below zero and remained below zero for extended periods of time that did the damage.

Then came April and the unseasonably warm weather with temperatures as high as 70 and 80 degrees that forced the blossoms to develop earlier than usual. With May came temperatures as low as 26 degrees which the blossoms can tolerate for a time.

The problem at the present time is the failure of the honey bees to pollinate the blossoms thus doing further damage to the cherry crop.

It seems that bees, like people, do not like cold weather. As a result, they remain snug in their hives, especially on cold, windy days which the area has been experiencing. It takes temperatures of 50 degrees before even a few will venture out and the thermometer must hit close to 70 degrees before they really go to work gathering honey and, in the process, pollinating the trees so they will bear fruit.

Failure of the bees to "do their thing" will result in what is known as 'June drop' Mrs. John Bascom, wife of a grower, explained. This comes about when the unpollinated cherries develop to a given stage and drop from the trees.

How badly have growers been affected?

Bill Sherman of Sherman's Orchards in the East Jordan area, which operates the largest orchards in Charlevoix county, said if they realized 25 percent of last year's crop they would be lucky. One of their largest orchards on the peninsula, he said, was 'wiped out' by the hard frosts in February.

He emphasized the anticipated loss by saying that the family processing plants, the Sherman Canning Co. of East Jordan, processed 2.5 million pounds of cherries in 1975.

"The way it looks right now we'll be lucky if we have 1.0 million this year" he said. The company also buys cherries from area growers for processing.

While the plant will have a short crop of cherries, there will be a number of vegetables including asparagus, beans and, for the first time, corn on the cob processed there.

Cherries are the major crop at the David Rosenthal orchards where they have six varieties of sweet cherries and several of the sour variety as well as a smaller number of apples, plums, apricots and peaches.

Mrs. Rosenthal said that as much as 95 percent of one variety of early sweet cherries, Schmidshad been lost and that the large, black Bing has suffered as much as 50 percent loss. The lighter varieties including the Royal Anne which are a later variety have been damaged but will not be a total loss. These are used in making marischino cherries.

"We may harvest from 40 to 60 percent of our sour cherries if the weather warms up and the bees get to work" she added. The other fruits which develop at a later date seem to be alright at this time she said.

The Rosenthals are among the few growers in the area that maintain their own bee hives. They have as many as 24 hives. Most growers 'rent' bees; i.e., rent hives of bees from a bee grower who brings hives of the buzzing little creatures to the orchards to pollinate the blossoms as they appear.

At the Richard Friske orchards which cover some 200 acres in Antrim County, most of the sweet cherries have been lost but they are hopeful of salvaging some of the sour varieties.

The latter are beginning to blossom but if the weather doesn't warm up so the bees will work we may lose that, too, Mrs. Friske said. Their major fruit crop is apples which are hardier than the cherries so should come through alright.

Marvin Shooks, a partner in the Shooks Brothers orchards in Antrim county, said the most of the sweet cherries that were gone and that, hopefully, they will get a third of last year's crop of sour cherries, their major fruit crop. They also have a few acres of plums and peaches which look alright at this time.

Pollinization is also his major concern. However, he said he heard the bees while he was working in the orchard Saturday so if the warm days continue, they could be OK.

The John Bascoms in the Eastport area with 80 acres of cherries, their only fruit crop,

Charlevoix Courier Presented School Bell Award

SAGINAW–The Charlevoix Courier received one of 18 School Bell awards presented Friday during the Michigan Education Association's annual School Bell luncheon here.

The Courier was the only Northern Michigan publication to receive the award given to Michigan newspapers, radio and television stations recognizing "outstanding contributions to community understanding of education."

Annually, the awards are given to media representatives during MEA's Representative Assembly, which this year is convened in Saginaw's Civic Center, May 6-8. Each winner receives a plaque and an engraved brass bell with a black wooden handle – a replica of the old-fashioned bell that stood on the classroom teacher's desk.

Ted Malone, roving reporter, former ware correspondent and network newsman from New York, made the actual presentations to the winners on behalf of MEA.

For the first time in the history of the awards, there were no daily newspaper winners.

Three television stations, two radio stations and six weekly newspapers were cited for their "strong and comprehensive year-around coverage of public education."

Weekly newspapers included: Charlevoix Courier; Leslie Local Independent; Marshall Community Advisor; Rochester Observer and Eccentric; Saginaw Township Times; and West Bloomfield Observer and Eccentric.

Radio stations cited were WHLS-AM and WSAG-FM, Port Huron; and WMUK-FM Kalamazoo.

Television stations honored were WUCM-TV, Bay City; WZZM-TV, Grand Rapids, and WJIM-TV, Lansing.

Special awards went to: Donna Barnes, education writer, Jackson Citizen Patriot; D. Gunnar Carlson, reporter, Muskegon Chronicle; Craig Carter, education writer, Flint Journal; Ronald Dzwonkowski, news and public affairs director, WHLS-WSAG, Port Huron; Diane Hubel, reporter, Rochester Observer & Eccentric; Jim Riekse, reporter, WZZM-TV, Grand Rapids; and Robert A. Sklar, reporter, Rochester Observer and Eccentric.

Old Maxism

An old maxim says: To get bad government all that is needed is for good men to do nothing. Plenty of good men are doing nothing when a mere 9th of the registered voters in Charlevoix's second ward neglected to vote in the April 5th general election.

When good men and women seek office the least the voters can do is to support them by a vote. Apathy among voters indicates a lack of confidence in the office seeker even though he or she may win the election.

If conditions are bad in the political field in Washington, Lansing and Charlevoix – blame yourself if you failed to vote. If you didn't like the name on the ballot—write in a candidate who might serve. That at least shows you are concerned. Until voters get the lead out and exercise their right to vote we all may soon find we've lost our freedom. It is easier to RETAIN LIBERTY than it is to REGAIN LIBERTY.

Relief

Now that the ice and snow have left the sidewalks of downtown Charlevoix, pedestrians gave a sigh of relief. Now, they could walk from store to store, doing their shopping with no threat of falling. But..now we have a new threat. Make sure you still walk with care. Please, people with dogs, I know they have to go somewhere, but find an empty lot or a grass parkway! Not in the Middle of our sidewalks, O.K.?

Bob Baker

I would like to know why Bob Baker wasn't in the news story on Ironton?

Need a Ride?

If you were wondering to get to Medusa Cement this weekend to watch the World's Largest Cherry Pie, you can relax.

Wolverine Stages will be running a shuttle bus from several locations in Charlevoix between 9:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Rides will cost $1 round trip.

Since there will be limited parking at Medusa, city officials recommend parking at the Ferry Avenue boat ramp or next to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office. The shuttle buses will be making regular runs from those two locations.

WHICH GEM SHOULD YOU BUY?

John Reusch

In 1955, rubies became the world's most expensive gem and by 1969 the larger ones were commanding as much as $10,000 per carat. The most sought-after color is called "pigeon blood"--a clear, true red. Once you've seen it, it's not hard to spot among the paler and darker versions. Rubies tend to be small and the larger stones get rarer all the time. Curiously, both rubies and sapphires are composed of the same mineral, corundum. The crucial difference is that rubies are red corundum, while sapphires are corundum of virtually any other color, the most valuable being blue velvet.

Lancour Addresses Class of 1976

Howard F. Lancour, Executive Director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, will deliver the Commencement Address to the 1976 graduating class of the Charlevoix High School, Vane H. Smith, High School Principal, has announced.

Commencement exercises for the 118 members of the Bicentennial Year class is scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday, June 6.

In his position as Executive Director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, Lancour is responsible for supervision and coordination of statewide planning for the bicentennial observance; for projects seeking Commission endorsement; implementation of progress approved by the Commission and in assisting local units of government in development of their programs.

He also is responsible for conducting the total public information program for the bicentennial. He was appointed to his present position in September 1972.

Prior to joining the Bicentennial Commission, Lancour was News Director for Gross Telecasting, Inc., in Lansing; Press Secretary for the Mayor of Detroit; Public Relations Director for G. Mennen Williams; Anchorman/Reporter for Kaiser Broadcasting, Inc., in Southfield and Announcer/Newsman for Mt. Mansfield Television, Inc., in Burlington, Vt.

He received his B.A. degree from St. Michael's College in Burlington, Vt.

Lancour, his wife and children reside in Okemos.

Friske Announces 106th Candidacy

Former State Representative Richard Friske announced today he is a Republican candidate in the race this year for the 103rd District seat.

Friske said he would present his campaign platform at a dinner to be announced at a later date.

The Ellsworth resident had served in the House as 106th District representative from 1970-1972.

He is presently owner and operator of Friske Orchards located between Ellsworth and Charlevoix.

"I want to work with the citizens of this district to return governmental control to local Constitutional level," Friske said in announcing his candidacy.

Friske said he lost his seat in the House in 1972, "because I had lived up to my campaign promises of representing the electorate instead of special interest and pressure groups..."

Governor Milliken

State Economy Looks Bright

Governor Says Ford Will Win

By KEN WINTER

HARBOR SPRINGS--Michigan Governor William Milliken isn't giving odds, but he says President Ford is going to win the Republican presidential primary May 18, despite Ronald Reagan's Indiana and Texas victories.

And the governor says he expects Democrat Jimmy Carter to do as well in Michigan as he did Tuesday in the Indiana, Georgia and District of Columbia primaries.

"I would predict that the President will win the Michigan primary," Milliken said during an interview here Thursday.

"I don't frankly want to get into the numbers game, but I think we will see some crossover as we did in Indiana and particularly in Texas."

The governor said he understood that three times as many Democrats voted in the Texas Republican primary as Republicans voted.

"I think we are going to see some of that in Michigan," he continued.

"I think that's where the parties themselves need to make their selection and there shouldn't be this ty-e of crossover."

President Ford's supporters in Michigan fear that Reagan might succeed in his appeal to Wallace's 1972 voters and begin calling on Republicans and Democrats to stick within their primaries.

If a big chunk of the Wallace vote should opt from Reagan, it could threaten the President's chances in his own home state.

Although Milliken won't specifically comment on the Michigan primary finance bill now before the Legislature until it reaches his desk, he did say he wouldn't block the primary with a veto.

Faced with a potential $200 million state deficit, Milliken said he expected the state would pick up most of the tab for the primary.

"The present trend is for the state to pick up substantially the total cost," he said about state versus local financing of the election.

Milliken made his remarks following a luncheon address Thursday, to some 150 regional planners and elected officials attending the eighth annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Regions.

The governor told officials that Michigan will need some $200 million to balance this year's budget, which was once estimated would have a $30 million deficit.

Milliken said Thursday that he would have no alternative, but to send back a revised budget to the Legislature's appropriation committee today if the Senate is still unable to approve a three-month extension of the fiscal year.

The measure has been a cornerstone of Gov. Milliken's plan to balance this year's budget and has been reportedly turned down by the Senate.

The governor said his revised budget will represent some sharp downward reductions, even for the balance of this year.

"The Legislature has within its power, the ability to rectify the situation quickly," he continued.

"Both Houses have passed the extended year, one house has given it immediate effect and the second has yet to give it immediate effect.

"Without immediate effect, it is meaningless."

Milliken said the proposed cuts would affect every aspect of the state's operations, particularly Social Services, Mental Health and Education.

He predicted that the rate of inflation would continue to come down and that employment in the state would continue to rise fairly sharply.

"The unemployment, and this is the paradox, will continue at unexpectedly high levels and will begin to come down very slowly," he said.

"I think beyond this we will see a very incouraging increase in the state revenue picture."

Milliken said there are two alternatives to stave off financial disaster this year--either reduce the level of state expenditures or increase taxes or both.

"As a matter of public policy this is the wrong time to increase taxes and thereby reduce spendable income," Milliken continued.

"What we need is to encourage the economy to continue to turn around and recover."

Humane Society Still Busy

Charlevoix County Humane Society's new Animal Shelter is still going great guns since opening last August.

Records showed that during April the Society received 46 dogs, either brought in by the Animal Control Officer or by individuals.

During the month 19 dogs were reclaimed by their owners, five were adopted and 16 either died or were euthenized.

The Society also handled numerous cats, kittens and puppies, records for which were not immediately available.

Commenting on the necessity of euthenizing animals, Robert McKown of the Society said, "Until pet owners show greater responsibility for their animals and have their pets spayed or neutered, the problem will go uncorrected. The tragedy of unwanted animals is not an animal problem, but a 'people problem'."

Since the Society opened, fewer than 20 percent of animals brought into the shelter have been reclaimed or adopted by new owners.

However, the Society hopes that as its reclamation and adoption facilities become better known, more people will take advantage of its services.

Members of the Humane Society maintain the shelter office, which is open from one to five o'clock each afternoon, Monday through Friday.

The shelter itself was built by the County and equipped with dog cages. The Society paid for flooring and furniture in the office, bought the shell for the Animal Control Officer's pick-up truck and have been buying the food for cats in the shelter. Currently it is purchasing nearly a thousand dollars' worth of stainless steel cages for puppies.

The sheriff's Department pays the salary of the Animal Control Officer, buys the dog food, maintains the shelter itself, and generally cooperates with the Humane Society.

The Society's operating budget is approximately $5,000 a year, which is raised by membership fees, donations and money-making projects. Last month, a pancake supper in East Jordan and a raffle of canned goods netted $500.

Membership in the Society is $5 a year, and monthly meetings are held in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan in rotation. The public is always invited to the meetings. For those wishing to join the Society or make donations, the address is Route 1, Box 286-B, 1004 Grant Street, Charlevoix.

Beach Erosion Still a Problem

By Peg Ohle

The Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Act, which went into effect January 1, 1975, will be helpful in slowing the erosion of lake shore property, according to Ronald Geer, County administrator of the Act.

He points out that one provision of the Act requires anyone making an earth change on land located within 500 feet of a surface watercourse (lake, river, stream, etc.) must obtain a grading permit.

Such a permit is granted only after it is determined that the earth change will not loosen the soil near the watercourse or permit ground water to seep into banks.

Such loosening of soil and water seepage makes shore property more vulnerable to high lake water, winds and waves, Geer says.

The problem of lake shore erosion was graphically cited recently by William Marks, Water Development Services Chief for the State Department of Natural Resources.

"Giant waves from the Great Lakes are chewing Michigan's shorelands at a rate that could wipe the state off the map in 100,000 years," he said.

The amount of erosion varies from place to place along the shorelines, Marks said. At Grand Marais, on Lake Superior in the Upper Peninsula, the erosion rate hits 10 feet a year, and in Allegan County, on Lake Michigan, land loss in a five-year, high-water period, was 6.4 feet a year. Marks also says that even in normal or low-water years, the erosion never stops.

Mechanical solutions to the problem include constructing artificial beaches by pumping sand from the lake bottoms onto the land. This would cost about $500,000 a mile and would probably have to be done at ten-year periods.

While this method might be feasible for the sandy shorelines of Lake Michigan, other anti-erosion systems would be needed for areas that are not sandy. These include off-shore breakers and rip-rapping (Placing rocks on the shorelines). Marks said these two alternatives would cost twice or three times as much as building artificial beaches.

Marks is pushing for Federal aid to combat lake erosion.

"Shoreline property owners cannot afford to combat erosion on their own," he said.

"Federal, state and local governments must share in the cost."

Of Michigan's 3,200 miles of Great Lakes shoreline, about 800 miles are subject to serious erosion. For all eight Great Lakes states and Ontario, Marks reports that 1,500 miles of shoreline are being seriously eroded.

Soil erosion along the Great Lakes is worse than along some lakes because the Great Lakes are relatively new, geologically speaking. The shoreline has not reached stability, and there is deep water immediately close to the shoreline, Marks adds.

Another sign of the seriousness of the problem is the stipulation in the Shorelines Management and Protection Act that new buildings be built far enough back from the shoreline so land loss won't affect them for 30 years.

"In effect, Marks says, "all we are saying is that the mortgage will be paid by the time the property falls into the lake."

Tax Info

Louis Hollow, President of First State Bank of Charlevoix announced today that the First State Bank of Charlevoix will host a one hour Seminar on the Single Business Tax.

The presentation will be made by Robert Burkhart, CPA of Doeren, Mayhew, McNamara and Groh, CPA's of Traverse City.

The program beginning at 7:30 A.M. Wednesday, May 12 in First State Bank's Community Room, will last approximately one hour and will be tailored to professional men and small businesses in the Charlevoix area.

All interested individuals are invited to attend this important meeting.

Neff to Head Walk-a-thon

Bob Neff has been appointed chairman of the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Walk-a-Thon which will be held – sun, rain or snow – on Saturday, May 22.

This year's grand prize will be a free trip aboard the charter boat Bonanza for five hours of Lake Michigan trout fishing for the winner and five guests. It will be awarded to the person who brings in the largest amount of total sponsor pledges.

Olympic type medals will be given to first, second and third place finishers in four age groups and special prizes will be given to the eldest and youngest entrants. There will be certificates for all who participate.

The Walk-a-Thon is open to persons of all ages. It will start with registration at the Charlevoix High School Parking lot at 7:30 a.m. Sponsor pledge cards and instructions may be picked up at any of the Charlevoix schools or at the office of Big Brothers-Big Sisters above Lieberman's Department Store.

Fran Martin-- A Special Friend

We couldn't have had a happier moment last week than when one of our own reporters was named a recipient of the 1976 Liberty Bell Award.

Fran Martin received the local award from the Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association in conjunction with Law Day.

For those of you who are not familiar with the award, the Liberty Bell Award is geared to recognize people who have made unusual contributions to their community.

"It is an award given to someone who through his job or extra curricular activity has done something to strengthen the legal system," attorney Lynn Stedman recently said in the Petoskey News-Review.

"It is presented to a layman who through his service to the community has contributed in one way or another to the effectiveness of our system of freedom under law."

Fran has been a reporter since 1939, when she began writing for the Petoskey Evening News. Since then, she has written extensively on many subjects for us and the Petoskey News-Review.

During her 37-year career, Fran's duties have included coverage of the county commission meetings, tax allocation board, board of education sessions, Charlevoix Area Hospital Board meetings, local courts, police and other public and quasi-public organizations.

But for us at the Courier, Fran represents far more than a reporter who spends countless hours every week gathering local news to fill our pages.

We couldn't say enough about the many obstacles she has had to overcome every week to make sure the local news reaches you, our reading family.

We've known her to stay up well into the early morning hours, just to make sure she's available to get a coach's call with game results for our sports pages or to finish a school board story so it will make our newspaper the next day.

For those of us who grew up in the professional journalism ranks and were educated in some fancy four-year institution that offers journalism, we can have nothing but respect for her efforts.

Fran is part of a declining number of journalists who got their experience through the "college of hard knocks." There were no experienced journalists or college professors around to lead her by the hand and show her the ropes. She had to pick up her knowledge through experience.

And, unlike many of the journalists employed by Big City newspapers, radio and television stations, Fran is more accountable for the work she does.

There's only one problem with Fran--she's too modest to say why she thinks she was a recipient of this year's Liberty Bell Award. She really doesn't have to, those who have been following her by-line for the last 37 years knows why.

A Salute

As you'll notice in our "Meet Charlevoix" column across from the editorial page, this is National Hospital Week.

Unlike many smaller communities across the nation, Charlevoix is fortunate to have its own local hospital to serve the needs of the community.

As you will be able to read in the column, Charlevoix Hospital offers not only a fine staff, but outstanding facility for its size.

But, beyond the bricks and mortar there's a spirit of cooperation and pride not normally found in this type of institution.

You can't but help notice this friendly attitude when you pass through the halls of the hospital.

Enough can't be said about the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

It's a community hospital we appreciate and hope you will continue to lend your support to its success.

Our hats are off to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Letters to the editor

Whose Rights

TO THE EDITOR

"PBB" three of the simplest letters in the alphabet, but yet in our society of today, they are the most mysterious. Exactly what do these letters mean unymore? They not only mean one of the most disastrous farm product accidents, but they also seem to be indicating that the rights of the people are no longer important. The PBB accident happened just about three years ago this month, but yet the mystery is still not solved. Why? Who has hid this mysterious element from the people for so long? The answer is the state, the press, and any other individual who has had or does have any pertinent information to settle this disaster once and for all.

"OUR RIGHTS", given to us by the Bill of Rights, does not seem to apply in this day and age. We no longer have the right to clean food, clean air, or even clean water. One of the most important rights that seems to be missing is that of being a human being. Look around you and see just what exactly is happening, especially to the farmers. On March 22, 1976, the farmers took a definite stand and marched on the state capitol, to protest their feelings about poisonous food being dumped on the unknowing consumer. If they will go out of their way to try and protect the consumer; why is the state not willing to help by doing their jobs. These farmers are scared to death for the health of the people in this state is every evident.

I do not believe that there is a way possible for any one to convince me that all of these farmers involved could possibly have starved, mismanaged, or over-idolized all of their cattle. It does not seem feasible that a farmer who has managed a herd for 5 to 50 years can all of a sudden, forget how to take care of a herd so that it doesn't die. Each of these farmers have been practicing the same management for years with success with no ill recourse to their animals or products. Farming is or was their livelihoods and the animals became as pets to some of them. When a farmer goes to his barn and can call every cow by name, then you definitely know that they care about their animals. It is no wonder that some of these same farmers no longer want to farm in the State of Michigan, after the "HELL" that they have been put through. Some of these farmers have seen their best friends turn on them, and even others have had their one time neighbors turn their backs to them on the street. They have had their cattle taken from them and also their farms and livelihoods, plus the humiliation and loss of dignity. Even though they once felt that being a Michigan farmer was something to be proud of. It was not their fault in the first place and yet they are made to bear the burdens of someone else's mistakes.

Who gave the people, who make such statements as mismanaged, starved, and over-idolized the right to degrade someone else to protect their own mistakes. The officials who are now pointing their fingers at those farmers are to blame for not taking care of it in the first place. Now, when the farmer turns and points the finger of blame in another direction, they are accused of lying, being called "KOOKS", causing a panic that is unfounded. Who has proven that the panic is unfounded? Have any of you seen proof to definitely state that PBB is not harmful? The proof is in the pudding as the old saying goes, and I know where the pudding is and so do many farmers who have had to bury their cattle. You as consumers ought to be thankful that we still have people in this state, like the farmers who are more interested in seeing clean meat, milk, and other farm products being sold in this state. Thank the farmer who has killed his herd and taken a great loss, rather than have it on his conscience 20 years from now that PBB was definitely harmful over a long period of time. There are many farmers who will have clean consciences. Think! Can you say that about the individuals who are supposed to be taking care of your rights and health in this state.

WHOSE RIGHTS! Do they really belong to the farmer, consumer, or the people? Who really do they belong to anymore? There are many farmers who still are keeping their rights by doing what they feel is right in their conscience and in their hearts. Don't dismay don't give up. Help these people! The farmers, who are trying to protect their rights and yours as the consumer.

Now is the time to stand behind them and help them so we can again have "OUR RIGHTS" as people and individuals.

Clockwise

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Phillips of River Rouge came north to visit their son and daughter-in-law and family last week because they don't particularly relish the crowds expected in town for the big cherry pie bash next weekend.

The Phillips, by the way, are the parents of Dave Phillips of Grey Gables, the man behind the cherry pie.

Actually, the senior Phillips came to Charlevoix to baby-sit with their grandchildren while Dave and Gale took a brief holiday before the big event.

According to insiders at Grey Gables, the entire project is going as smoothly as apple pie, if you'll pardon the expression. The 14-foot pie plate has been fabricated by the folks at Will-Flow and a gigantic oven has been constructed of fire brick by the folks at Medusa. The principals already have conducted a dry run to work out the kinks – and there weren't many.

Al Breeze, who will be in charge of entertainment on the Medusa Grounds on Saturday, says there probably will be something going on for spectators from 10 a.m. until the biggest cherry pie in the world is hoisted from the oven about 3 p.m.

Al and his co-workers at Grey Gables are hoping for a repeat of Saturday's weather for the day destined to put Charlevoix into the Guiness Book of Records. They also assure me that parking will be no problem on the Medusa grounds — even with the thousands of visitors expected to turn up for a slice of the pie.

Dave Phillips reportedly has decided to top off his masterpiece with a lattice crust, but even his co-workers are wondering how he intends to hurl strips of fragile pie dough across 14 feet of open pie without breaking them. Think about it.

In case you miss it, the U.S. Bicentennial Commission has listed Charlevoix's cherry pie one of the 20 top Bicentennial events in the country. And the CBS network reportedly puts it right up there with the top ten.

I am certainly glad George Washington attacked a cherry tree — and not a horse chestnut.

COUNTER-CLOCKWISE: Last week I told you about the kids finding a full-blown "hippie cave" in the middle of our favorite brush pile near Charlevoix. The cave, which the girls discovered while on one of our frequent wood-cutting expeditions, was furnished with a frying pan and a coffee pot and featured a carpeted bi-level "bedroom."

I speculated in the column that the cave had been fashioned under the roots of fallen trees by a "hippie sapiens" — but I was wrong.

Bill Kenifeck, proprietor of Staley's Hardware, tells us the cave was the handiwork of his son, Steve, and his buddy, John Roznoski, son of Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Roger Roznoski of Charlevoix.

The pair of 11-year olds fashioned the cave last summer as their getaway from the workaday world.

Wouldn't it be great to be 11 and live in Charlevoix with summer vacation just around the corner?

Erma Bombeck

(This column was written at the request of Bonnie Freid, editor of the "Voyager," a yearbook in Old Bethpage, N.Y., who requested, "Write anything related to being a senior in this special year.")

My son is a bicentennial graduate. He looks like any other kid. He's 18. Eats unbalanced meals. Would kill for car keys. Has fruit flies around his locker. Threatens to self-destruct if we bring a camera to his graduation.

I didn't wake up 18 years ago and announce, "Hey, we've got to get going on a bicentennial graduate." It just happened.

I'm sorry in a way. I wish I could spare him the same exploitation as the bicentennial keyring, the bicentennial hamburger, the bicentennial fireplug decorating competition, and the bicentennial headache.

He and millions of graduates are going to get it come commencement – the forefathers-on-the-threshhold-of-a-brand-new-destiny number comparing today's graduates with their forefathers.

Not that it isn't a good pitch. I've heard it before. It makes you square your shoulders, sit up a little straighter (the girls often cry), and for a moment you want to walk out on Lake Erie and be by yourself.

Then, the "threshhold of a brand new destiny" speech wears off like a shot of Novacaine and you are left on the brink with a brave, exciting future and $1.40 in your pocket.

What does my son know? What has he been taught? He knows you can't march in a graduation line and chew gum at the same time. He knows you can't make it in this world unless you know how to diagram a sentence. He knows you can't pass phys.ed. unless you take showers. He knows gym clothes can be a major air pollutant. Some school lunches must be accompanied by a prescription. His typing teacher is into TM. He knows his face will freeze if he keeps mocking his sister.

He suspects every other graduate knows exactly where he is going – but him.

He's apprehensive about his future. He's scared and he's confused. He feels like a kid who has just been given an award for being able to cope and someone stole his chair while he was receiving it.

I wish I could assure him there is no comparison whatsoever between him and his forefathers. It was one thing to write the book on a new land. It's another to live in it 200 years later. No one, not even his forefathers, could possibly imagine the burden of raising a country from birth to maturity.

I wish I could tell him that the day after graduation he will wake feeling no different than he did today. He won't be wise, dedicated, or chomping to get off his brink.

He will only be meeting his challenges one day at a time . . . which is the way his forefathers did it . . . 200 years ago.

by Jim Fitzgerald

Wife in the big city

The TV news competition has become tougher for Sonny Eliot and Jerry Hodak and their various anchors. I hope they don't blame me.

When friends asked why I moved this column-writing operation to Detroit, I used to tell them it was to be nearer gorgeous Marilyn Turner. I don't tell them that anymore.

I guess everyone knows Marilyn is the weather gal for TV Channel 7, handsome Hordak performs the same chore on Channel 2, and Sonny yucks about rain for Channel 4. Everyone also knows Marilyn is having domestic troubles with her husband, John Kelly, an anchor man for Channel 7 news. It's been in all the newspapers that he moved into his own apartment. The Marine News headline said "Anchor's Away."

What is not as widely known is that I've been in love with Marilyn Turner for years, even back when she was on Channel 2, before Hodak was old enough to forecast the days of the week.

People in my old hometown discovered my secret about 15 months ago, right after Marilyn and Kelly were married. The bride-groom's first public speaking engagement after the nuptials was at a Chamber of Commerce banquet in Lapeer. It was widely advertised that his bride would accompany him, a fact which influenced me to attend my first chamber banquet in 15 years. Kelly gave an interesting speech and then invited questions from the floor. I asked him if his wife was going to stay for the dance.

Marilyn wore a porous knit dress which revealed an enchanting silhouette when she stood in the right light. I followed her everywhere, holding the right light for my photographer. That week I published four photos of Marilyn in the local newspaper. In one of them, Kelly could be glimpsed peeking through her hairdo.

I would like to report it was at this time Marilyn suggested I move to Detroit. But truth must prevail. Marilyn and I have never met. There is no connection between my arriving and the anchor awaying. She has no idea how much I enjoy watching her walk onto the Channel 7 news set at 11 o'clock each night.

I'm aware all this sounds chauvinistic. I know Marilyn's weather job has nothing to do with her looks. She was hired because she's an expert meteorologist. Just as her husband was hired for his news sense and crisp delivery, not his Irish smile and curly hair. Sure.

But, I'm a confirmed girl-watcher, too old to reform. I'm fully prepared to acknowledge and reward female brains and ability. However, I insist upon the right to admire the package in which they are contained. So shoot me.

My wife might.

She has never been disturbed by my TV romances. I haven't taken her out on a Saturday night for three years, all because of Mary Tyler Moore, but she doesn't complain seriously. She knows I'm all look and no action. She can also draw considerable comfort from my general appearance and charm which have allowed me to complete a lifetime scoring average of .00001.

But my move to the big city has given her something new to think about. She has noted that Detroit media personalities are often experienced at divorce. In fact, a bunch of them are getting together soon and going to Dearborn to participate in a seminar on the subject. They'll probably charter a bus. My wife wondered if newspaper employment has built-in dangers to the marriage vows. I gave her some reassuring statistics concerning neighborhood paperboys.

But switch channels back to the lovely Marilyn and her John. Seriously, I'm sorry they're having problems. And, as indicated in the top paragraph, channels 2 and 4 should also be sorry. They are losing viewers to the only soap opera on a TV news show.

When the romance was happy, people tuned in to watch John and Marilyn coo and giggle at each other. Now that they're separated, viewers look for snarls and barbs. They listen intently for hidden meanings. "Did you hear that?" my wife asked. "He said he'd see her later. Probably in the parking lot."

And the most romantic viewers are hoping for a public reconciliation which, if properly merchandised, could put the ratings right up there with Tiny Tim's wedding.

What can Hodak and Eliot and their anchors do to compete with a team which spices the news with dashes of Divorce Court and The Dating Game?

Send them your suggestions, along with the top of three soap boxes in a plain brown wrapper.

Meet Charlevoix

Charlevoix Hospital

In recognition of National Hospital Week, the Courier interviewed the Charlevoix Hospital. This is how it went.

COURIER: You're a fine specimen of a building. How old are you?

HOSPITAL: I'm a descendent of the old Charlevoix Area Hospital which was born in 1918. I was born in 1953 and have grown fast since then. I'm bigger now because they have made all kinds of additions to me.

COURIER: What kinds of additions?

HOSPITAL: Well, for physical therapy, pediatrics, laboratory and X-ray, a solarium and an intensive-care coronary-care unit.

COURIER: There are a lot of people inside your walls. Who are they?

HOSPITAL: They're all different kinds of people and they all have an important job to do. They are doctors, nurses, orderlies, dieticians, X-ray technicians, laboratory technicians, therapists, pharmacists, office workers, housekeepers and laundry people. There also are a lot of volunteers who help these people help the patients.

COURIER: Speaking of patients, how many beds do you have now?

HOSPITAL: There are 44 beds, including the three beds in the intensive-care coronary-care unit. The average stay of a patient is five and a half days. Of course, many outpatients are here every day, too.

COURIER: Just what kind of a hospital are you?

HOSPITAL: I am a primary care hospital. On the hospital staff there are two internists, two obstetrician-gynocologists, two general surgeons, two orthopedic surgeons, a radiologist, and five family practioners. These doctors can perform general surgery and practice general medicine but when we get into specific difficulties we refer the patients to Little Traverse, Munson or Ann Arbor as the case requires. I'm still not big enough for the special equipment and the specially trained personnel that some patients require.

COURIER: It must cost a lot of money to provide the care you do?

HOSPITAL: Yes, Richard Krueger, my administrator, says that daily costs per patient have climbed 14 percent in the last year. Almost everything he buys costs more, like a little component for an electronic machine. Last year it cost $200 and now it costs more than $500. All the stainless steel and plastic products that we use are way up. So are medicines and drugs and all kinds of things we need, to say nothing of energy.

COURIER: Don't you do some cooperative buying so you can save money?

HOSPITAL: Yes, we belong to the Michigan Hospital Purchasing Service which buys in large quantities and can get price breaks. We have also joined with Lockwood MacDonald in Petoskey and the Community Memorial Hospital in Cheboygan to buy specific items and store them in one place convenient to all in order to cut freight and storage costs.

COURIER: What can the public do to help you?

HOSPITAL: We can always use donations to help buy equipment and other necessary items. Last year we received $20,000 in donations from $1 to several hundred dollars, the larger ones coming from service clubs, March of Dimes and the Women's Guild of the hospital. That money helped to buy a fetal monitor, treatment light for newborns, 16 m.m. projector for educational purposes, microscope for the laboratory, emergency room patient cart, E.K.G. equipment, a suction machine, laproscope, patient bed and room furniture and stack chairs for meetings, among other things.

COURIER: Besides money, what can the public do to help you?

HOSPITAL: It may seem strange, but they can help by staying well. We encourage everyone to take a minute to think about his own health. We urge everyone to participate in health education and health screening programs and to contribute to his own well-being by adopting a more health-conscious life-style.

COURIER: What about the Charlevoix Area Hospital Association?

HOSPITAL: We urge everyone in the area to join it. It is a non-profit corporation which owns and operates the hospital. Members of the Board of Directors are neighbors who have taken a concrete interest in providing hospital services to the area. Members vote for the Board of Directors and are eligible to become members of that Board themselves, thus becoming directly involved in planning the future of the hospital.

Candidates Up for Primary

Michigan voters will go to the polls in the state's second Presidential Primary Election on Tuesday, May 18.

With presidential candidates out to capture delegates prior to their party's conventions this summer, Michigan Primary will be an important one, especially for the Republicans since Michigan is President Ford's home state.

Only the Democratic and Republican parties are listed on the ballot in the May 18 Primary.

You will not be voting for the candidates listed but for the delegates who are pledged to support the candidate listed or who are uncommitted.

You cannot split your vote in this election but must cast your ballot in either the Democratic or Republican column. You can vote for only one candidate's name or for those who are uncommitted.

Republicans will be voting for delegates to the county convention. Democrats will elect their delegates in the Aug. 3 Primary Election

On the Democratic side of the ballot, voters will find the names of Jimmy Carter, Fred. H. Harris, Henry M. Jackson, Ellen McCormack, R. Sargent Shriver, Morris K. Udall, George C. Wallace, and delegates uncommitted to any candidates. The others have either withdrawn or have attracted so few delegates that they do not stand a chance.

In the Republican column, the race continues between President Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan. There is also a space to vote for uncommitted delegates.

Also in the Republican column are candidates for delegates to the county convention. You can vote for the number of delegates list in the box over the column.

Petition Deadline Nears for County

With the deadline for filing petitions in the August Primaries for County offices only three weeks away, very few completed petitions have been returned to the office of County Clerk Clarence Rabach, through which they are processed.

According to law, all petitions must be in by 4 p.m. on the afternoon of June 1.

All County offices, including Clerk, Treasurer, Sheriff, Prosecuting Attorney, Registrar of Deeds, Drain Commissioner, County Surveyor and members of the Board of Commissioners, will be on the August ballot.

As of last Friday, petitions had been returned by Ronald Geer, Republican incumbent Drain Commissioner; Ira L. Davis, Republican incumbent County Commissioner from District 4; John Kujawski, for Republican Commissioner from District 12; and Keith Annear, for Republican Commissioner from District 9.

Republican aspirants to County jobs must have at least 20 and not more than 80 signatures on their petitions. Democrat aspirants must have at least 46 and not more than 184 signatures.

Both Republican and Democrat candidates for the Board of Commissioners must have a minimum of five signatures on their petitions.

Petitions for Township offices are also due by four o'clock on the afternoon of June 1. They must be filed with the Clerk of the Township in which the job is sought. The terms of all Township Supervisors, Clerks, Treasurers and some Trustees expire this year.

The number of signatures on petitions for Township offices varies according to the size of the Township but must be no fewer than one percent or more than four percent of the number of party ballots cast for the Secretary of State in the last election in which a Secretary of State was elected.

Petition forms for County offices may be obtained from the County Clerk in Charlevoix and those for Township offices from the various Township Clerks.

DR. DAVID ROEBUCK of Charlevoix looks over one of the many X-Rays that he takes while on duty at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

X-Ray Sees Some 8,000

One of the most-used departments of the Charlevoix Area Hospital is the Radiology Department.

Commonly called the X-Ray Department, it makes approximately 8,000 examinations a year, according to Dr. David M. Roebuck, head of the department. This is an increase of about 40 percent in the last three years.

The most common X-ray examination made is that of the chest, since such examinations are routine for all hospital admissions. Other made frequently are the extremities – fingers, toes, hands, etc.

Some X-ray examinations have Latin names, for instance mammograms (for breast cancer), venograms (in which dye is injected into the veins), laminograms (which visualize a specific area of the body), myelograms (in which spinal injections are used), and bronchograms.

Examinations are also made of the upper intestinal tract, abdomen, kidneys and other parts of the body. And there are examinations in which barium is used to spotlight the area.

All in all, X-ray examinations are made of almost every part of the body for diagnostic purposes, important in the evaluation of a patient's illness.

There are three technicians working with Dr. Roebuck, Bob Egler, chief technician; Jenny Bellairs; and Ann Gates. The equipment with which they work not only takes the X-rays but processes them in 90 seconds, ready for review.

The increase in the number of X-rays being taken has put a heavy load on the space and equipment in the department, according to Dr. Roebuck.

"We are in desperate need of more space and more up-to-date equipment, especially in the outpatient and emergency rooms," he says:

An X-ray technician is on call around the clock for emergency room service.

8 Cubs Compete in Olympics

Eight Charlevoix Cub Scout and Webelo dens of Pack 11 were in Pellston recently for the Northern District Olympics in which Charlevoix was represented by more than 50 young Scouts. More than 500 participated in the event.

Two Charlevoix dens, a Webelo and a Cub, won first places and two others placed second and third.

The Webelo den that placed first was composed of John Spieles, Mike Baer, Mark Mosley and Chris Putman. Putman had a score of 93 out of a possible 100 points to rate the highest in the meet. David Novotny is the Webelo leader.

Cub Scout Den 4 which also placed first is made up of Jeff Novotny, Michael Pischner, Patrick Mitchell, Lee Allard, Tim Nuirot and Darrin Olach. Mrs. Olach is the Den Mother and Mrs. Vincent Olach her assistant.

Members of Den 2 which placed second are Mitchell Hough, Tom Graf, Jim Young, Brent Cole, Mike Louiselle and John Crowder. Mrs. Richard Putman is the Den Mother.

Den 1 which placed third in competition is made up of David Gagnon, Eric Green, Mark Hodgson, Chris Gibbons, Tim Gibbons and Craig Glass. Mrs. Roy Fortin is the Den Mother.

After concluding a successful year in Scouting, the Cubs and Webelos will close out their activities by marching in the Memorial Day parade and the Venetian Festival parade and possibly spending a day at Camp Greilick late in June.

Magic Show Heads North

A real magic show is coming to Petoskey!

Sponsored by the Drug Awareness Center of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, the 90-minute performance will be held at the Petoskey Middle School, Friday, May 28, at 7:30 in the evening.

The show will feature everything from the Hindu basket illusion, appearance of a dove, vanishing of a candle, to audience participation, all by Scorpio the Magician and Linda.

It is a fund-raising project to help the Center continue its service to the community. Tickets are $1.25 for children and $2.00 for adults and may be obtained at the door.

U.S. Coast Guard Warns Boaters About Safety

With the approach of boating season, the Coast Guard reminds boaters that many drownings occur each year after a boat swamps and/or capsizes.

Many of these deaths could have been avoided if the victims had stayed with their vessel, the Coast Guard says.

Examples of boat accidents illustrate this point:

1. A 14 foot motorboat with three persons on board capsized when the anchor, which was hanging over the side of the boat, snagged on some debris. The water temperature was 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Personal flotation devices were on board but were not used. Two of the men drowned when they attempted to swim to shore. The third person, a nine-year-old boy, managed to climb on top of the overturned boat and was rescued.

2. Two men were fishing from an anchored 12 foot aluminum outboard. One man became excited when he caught a fish and jumped up in the boat. He lost his balance and fell overboard, causing the boat to capsize. The vessel was equipped with one vest-type personal flotation device and one ski belt, but neither was used. The excited fisherman died. The other man hung onto the boat and eventually floated ashore.

3. Rough waters on Lake Michigan capsized a 14 foot motorboat with three persons aboard about 5 p.m. The boat was equipped with one yoke-type personal flotation device and four cushion-types (three of these were lost when the boat capsized).

Two of the men, one with the yoke-type personal flotation device, attempted to swim a half mile to a light structure. Giving up on their attempt to reach the light, the men tried to return to the boat. Only one of them made it. The man with the yoke-type personal flotation device apparently removed it because it was not keeping him far enough out of the water. He drowned. The other two men were able to hold onto the boat and were rescued at 9:15 the next morning.

In these incidents, flotation devices were available, although not always used. The four people who survived these incidents did so by staying with the boat (16 hours in case 3).

Staying with one's boat after it capsizes cannot be emphasized enough, the Coast Guard concludes. "The boat not only provides a flotation platform for several persons, it is also more visible to potential rescuers.

CHARLEVOIX Elementary students are anxiously awaiting to show their art works to area residents during a special Art Show being held this week at the Elementary School. This group of fifth graders made a body cast of what they call Six Dollar Man Plus Interest.

Grade School Plans Local Art Showing

The Art Departments in the Charlevoix Public Schools will present their annual combined Bicentennial Art Show at the Charlevoix Elementary School beginning Thursday.

An open house at 6:30 p.m. at the school located on Division ave. will launch the show that will continue daily except Saturday and Sunday through May 21.

On the opening night, Thursday, the school will be open from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. so parents and friends may visit the school and see for themselves samples of the art work accomplished during the school year under the direction of Miss Mercedes Mathers of the K-5 school, Mrs. Roxy Loding of the Middle School and William Murray of the High School.

Since this is the nation's Bicentennial Year, many of the art pieces follow this theme Miss Mathers said in listing some of the items visitors will see. Among them will be a bicentennial quilt, other smaller items, a body cast, a 4 ft. x 8 ft. mural, and environment cubes. She went on to say that there will be a large totem pole, a "touch but don't look" display, a blackeyed fish aquarium, Jack and the Beanstalk, Bicentennial Herbie, the dragon plus many other smaller pieces done by the K-5 students.

Circle weaving, pottery, paintings and drawings will be among the pieces to be exhibited by Middle School students whose teacher is Mrs. Loding.

High School students will exhibit work in the various art media done under Mr. Murray.

In urging the public to attend the Art Fair on opening night or during the hours of 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. on other days, Miss Mathers said "It is surprising to see how talented children are and what they can accomplished if given the opportunity and direction. This is your opportunity to see how clever they are".

On opening night the hours are 8:30 until 9 p.m. and on May 14 and May 17-21 the hours are 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Lasater Plans Meeting

Those wanting to meet or work on George Lasater's campaign to run for Charlevoix County Sheriff are urged to attend a meeting Thursday, May 13.

The organizational meeting will be held at the Community Room of the First State Bank.

Fights Unemployment

Helping Hands Helps Find Jobs by Hiring People

By BOB CLOCK

Sometimes unemployment statistics can be unnerving.

--Emmet County: 4.18 percent.

--Charlevoix County: 15.8 percent

--Cheboygan County: 30.4 percent.

--Otsego County: 14.4 percent.

However, two young Emmet County women are meeting the challenge of unemployment head-on, staking their own job security on a firm belief that they can find jobs for the jobless, supply a needed service to northern Michigan employers and provide income for themselves and their office staff–all at the same time.

They are Ms. Barbara Rowe and Ms. Gloria Noble who are the proprietors of the newly organized Helping Hands temporary employment service located in the Northland Plaza, on U.S. 31.

Although Helping Hands has been in operation less than two months, the office already has a staff of five, 250 job interviews on file and a growing roster of workers whom they have placed on a wide variety of jobs in the Petoskey area.

A unique feature of the operation is that the workers actually are employes of Helping Hands and are "loaned out" as they are needed to area businesses, industries and individuals.

Ms. Rowe says hiring via Helping Hands is a definite advantage to the employer since the firm handles the reams of government paperwork and red tape associated with the taking on of new employees. For the fee charged the employer, Helping Hands takes care of:

–Workman's compensation.

–On the job car insurance.

–Social Security.

–Unemployment Insurance.

--State and federal witholding taxes, and

--Security bonding, when necessary.

Of course, Helping Hands also writes all the paychecks, which are distributed to workers every Friday.

Mrs. Rowe believes that the variety of services offered by Helping Hands is a definite incentive for employers to take on more workers when they are needed, rather than try to make-do with skeletal staffs.

"I really believe many firms are reluctant to hire the people they need because of the paper work involved and the unemployment compensation penalties levied when help is laid off," Ms. Rowe said.

Under the Helping Hands system, an employer pays one basic fee depending on the job. All of the other "hidden costs" of the employment are handled by the agency, which, of course, includes a margin of profit for Helping Hands.

Ms. Noble is amazed at how rapidly the business has grown.

In addition to herself and Mrs. Rowe, Helping Hands has hired Sharon Topolsky of Harbor Springs as office manager; Betty Fryman of Levering as interviewer; and Parker Stough of Harbor Springs as contact man for various businesses and industries.

Furthermore, the firm has a growing list of companies in the area which are availing themselves of the unique employment service.

PROPRIETOR GLORIA Noble and office manager Sharon Topolsky discuss applican'ts potential at Petoskey office.

ORV Need Licenses

Michigan's new Off-the-Road Vehicle law, which provides for the registration and regulation of off-road recreation vehicles, will be strictly enforced beginning June, says the state's chief conservation law officer.

George M. Dahl, head of law enforcement of the Department of Natural Resources, says his officers will defer enforcement of the law's registration provisions through May to allow time for Secretary of State license dealers to distribute decals and registration certificates to vehicle owners.

But that doesn't mean that conservation officers won't be watching for vehicles operating illegally on private or state-owned lands, Dahl notes. He says a landowner's permission is required to drive off-road vehicles on private property, and that operators of motorized recreation vehicles are liable for damages to private lands, including trees, shrubs, crops and animals.

"On state-owned lands, vehicles may only use forest roads and trails, unless otherwise posted," adds Dahl.

"In state parks and at state game areas, vehicles are specifically restricted to designated roads and trails."

Artist Meet Set

Artist and Craftsmen members of the Crooked Tree Arts Council are invited to participate in the Council's Spring Conference on Wednesday, May 19, at the Hidden Valley Club in Gaylord.

All 1976-dues-paying members may display and sell their wares in the lobby area but must bring their own card tables or easels.

The Conference will open with registration and coffee hour at 9:30.

Thomas Thiery, who paints in water colors, will be the morning artist. He will give a demonstration lecture and will display some of his paintings.

Improved in Recent Years

How Healthy Are Charlevoix Area Residents?

How healthy are Charlevoix County residents? Judging by the amount of time they need to take off because of illness, are they in better shape than they were some years ago?

Just how healthy the people in one section of the country are, on this basis, compared with people in the other areas, is brought out in annual surveys made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and by the Health Insurance Institute.

The index that is used to determine general health is disability days, which takes into account the number of days that people are forced by illness or injury to stay home from work or from school, to stay in bed or otherwise to cut down temporarily on their normal activities.

According to figures recently released, there has been a noticable increase in disability days in Charlevoix County's regional area in recent years, as there has been in most other parts of the country.

Based upon the latest report, the local population is averaging 16.2 days of restricted activity per person per year, including 6.0 days spent in bed. This compares with 14.6 restricted days, 5.9 of them in bed, 10 years ago.

Elsewhere throughout the nation, people were on the disability list for an average of 17.2 days, of which 6.7 were bed days. School children took 5.6 days off, on average, for health reasons.

Because of wages lost and medical expenses incurred, the economic loss is great.

In Charlevoix County, applying the average rate of disability in the regional area locally, it adds up to an overall loss of 174,000 activity days per year for the population as a whole.

A considerable amount of it represents time taken off by workers because of illness or injury. The average nationally is 4.9 days per employed person.

In general, it appears, a family's state of health is linked with its mode of life and its economic well-being.

The American Medical Association finds that the healthiest people in the country are those with Better-than-average incomes living on farms in the midwest.

I know spring is here! Last week the lady checking out in front of me at the super market bought a rake and canning lids. Two good signs that it is time to think spring.

It is also a time when many people are seeing canning lids on the shelves and beginning to stock up. Before you rush into the stocking up syndrome, take on inventory of your needs and buy accordingly. A lot of our canning lid problems last year were caused by "friends buying for friends." Many of these lids went unused.

If you spot home canning lids on shelves, examine them well before you stock up. The lids may not be designed to fit your supply of jars.

One sure way of selecting a good canning lid is to stick to reputable supplies and manufacturers who have well tested products. A reputable manufacturer prints the company name on the lid and gives the maker's name, complete address and detailed instructions for using the lids on the outer box. Also look for a guarantee on how the lids will perform. Most boxes also have a code number printed on the top or side. This can be used to trace the shipment, if necessary.

For your own refernce, in case you have trouble with the lids, record when and where you buy your lids and the code number on the box. Be sure to include the name and address of the manufacturer.

Be sure to select lids that fit the jars you plan to use. Some lids appear to fit but in reality may be slightly off standard size. The eye alone is not a good judge of whether or not a jar and lid match. Overlapping, even a fraction of an inch, can mean the difference between a perfect seal and a spoiled product.

What vegetable needs a plumber?? Leek.

Bands Take Honors

Charlevoix bands participating in the MSHSBA State Festival at Traverse City recently returned with II rating their director, Gary L. Stutzman, has announced.

The Symphony Band, composed of sophomores, juniors and seniors, received three II's in concert and a I in sight reading resulting in an overall II rating.

The Concert band made up of freshmen received straight II's, three in concert and one in sight-reading for the final II rating.

The Symphony band played in Class B; the Concert band in Class D.

In commenting on the bands performances at the State Festival, Stutzman said "You have to remember that the standards are very high at the state level and require an almost flawless performance in order to receive a top rating. The bands played well and I was satisfied with their performances."

Stutzman spent the entire day at Traverse City as chairman of one of the festival sites.

He expressed his appreciation to the band parents who took over the task of seeing that the two bands, their instruments and music were transported without incident to and from the festival sites. "This is no easy job, expecially for people who do not do it regularly. I appreciate the efficiency with which it was handled. I am also appreciative of the behavior of the band members and their assistance which made the job easier for the band parents."

Charlevoix will host the District II Jazz Festival on Saturday, May 15.

Stutzman said this will be a busy month for the bands who will be preparing for the Jazz Festival as well as performances at the Cherry Pie Bake at Medusa on May 15 as a part of the Michigan Week activities; the Memorial Day parade, May and Commencement Exercises.

Linda Darlene Ormsby Marries James Willis at Bethany Lutheran

Linda Darlene Ormsby of Kalamazoo and James Willis of Bridgeman exchanged their wedding vows at a double ring ceremony solemnized recently at Bethany Lutheran Church here.

Arrangements of white fuji mums and lighted tapers formed a setting for the service performed by Pastor James Plackner in the presence of 100 guests on May 1. Mrs. Plackner, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Ormsby of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. William Willis of Bridgman.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. For her wedding she chose a gown of white sata peau fashioned with an empire waist accented with tiny pearls, a V-neckline and lantern sleeves trimmed with Chantilly lace and a chapel length train. She wore a picture hat of sata peau and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Eugene Farkas as matron of honor wore a floral print gown over aqua taffeta and a white garden hat trimmed with matching floral print. Her bouquet was of aqua carnations and white daisies.

Carol Ann Ormsby was her sister's flower girl. She wore a gown identical to the honor attendant's and carried a basket of white daisies, aqua carnations and baby's breath. Edwin Kerlikowske, Jr., of Berrien Springs, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Edwin Kerlikowske, Sr., of Berrien Springs, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Terry Ormsby of Mt. Clemens, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests. The bridegroom seated his mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Ormsby selected a gown of sheer mint green polyester styled with a fitted midriff for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Willis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a yellow A-line gown and floral print cape.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the American Legion post home where Mrs. Melvin Pahl of Traverse City, aunt of the bride, cut the wedding cake. Susan Pahl served punch.

After a wedding trip to New York, Washington, D.C., and Virginia the couple will return to Kalamazoo to make their home at 8931 Blairwood.

Wedding guests were present from Berrien Springs, Mt. Clemens, St. Joseph, Bridgman and Traverse City.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix High School and the bridegroom of Bridgman High School. Both are graduates of Western Michigan University.

Is Debt a Problem For Area Residents?

To what extent have Charlevoix County residents been using installment credit for home improvements and for the purchase of new cars, refrigerators and other big ticket items?

How large is their debt load at the present time? How well are they handling it?

Most of them appear to be in good shape. For several years they have been limiting their expenditures for costly goods and services because of their concern over inflation, unemployment and other aspects of the economy.

Some of the money that th would normally have spent in such directions went, instead, toward reducing their indebtedness.

More recently, with the improvement in the economy, they have become somewhat freer in their purchasing. As a result, sales of automobiles, furniture, home furnishings and other durables have increased considerably.

In Charlevoix County, based opon the national findings and upon local earnings and spending figures, the amount of installment debt outstanding is estimated at $1,750 per family.

That is the overall average. Some families owe considerably more than that and some considerably less.

For the American people generally, the debt is equivalent to about one-seventh of its net income, after taxes.

As a result of the recent upsurge in business activity, installment debt in the United States stood at $161.82 billion at year-end, according to the Federal Reserve Board. This was an increase of 2.3 percent from the year before. Approximately one-third of it represents auto loans.

For the Charlevoix County population as a whole, the total outstanding is approximately $9,990,000. That is solely for installment debt. It does not include home mortgages, charge accounts and single payment loans.

It takes nearly 15 percent of the net income of local residents, or an average of $145 per month per family, to meet the regular payments on this debt.

Are credit men worried about this? Apparently not. Their experience has been that most people have not gone overboard and are able to handle their obligations satisfactorily.

ELLSWORTH -- The marriage of Barbara L. Vandenberg and Richard J. VanStedum was solemnized Saturday evening May 1, at the Atwood Reformed church. The Rev. Larry Brossiet officated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jacob K. Vandenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick VanStedum. Both families are from Ellsworth.

Assisting her sister as maid of honor was Eileen Vandenberg. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dennis Drenth, sister of the bride, and Jean VanStedum, sister of the bridegroom.

Darci Richardson of Farwell, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Bradley Carpenter of Jenison, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Jerry VanStedum was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Dale Shooks and Tim Charbonneau. Neil Vandenberg, brother of the bride, and Tom VanStedum, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

A reception followed in the church parlors.

The couple will make their home in Ellsworth.

Judy Gould Graduates

Judy Gould, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, was among 67 students named on the Dean's List for the fall semester at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

To earn a place on the honors list, a student must have carried at least 12 credit hours in the semester and maintained a grade point of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

Hamiltons Announce Wedding

A September wedding is being planned by Judith Ann Hamilton of Charlevoix and Robert J. Wagner, Jr. of the Air Force, now stationed at Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Her parents are Mrs. Donna M. Hamilton and Robert S. Hamilton, both of Charlevoix, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wagner, Sr. of Petoskey.

The bride-to-be, a 1974 graduate of Charlevoix High School, now attends North Central Michigan College and will graduate in August with an Associate degree in Commerce.

Her fiance is a 1974 graduate of Petoskey High School and received his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas.

Following the September 18 wedding at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey, the couple will be at home in Cheyenne.

MINUTES / CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
APRIL 27, 1976

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners meeting was called to order at 7:15 P.M. by the Chairman, Clyde Cunningham.

ROLL CALL

Roll call and the following members were present: Commissioners Ingalls, Cunningham, Smith, Davis, Richardson, Griffin, Harmon, McKinnon, Milstein, Paul, Florenski, Fulkerson, Ward and Moerland, 14. Absent, Commissioner Meggison, 1.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was led by Commissioner Griffin.

REPORT BY JOAN BLANCHARD

Joan Blanchard, Equalization Director, was given the floor. The 1976 Analysis for Equalized Valuation was presented. Joan Blanchard explained the report and answered questions.

Commissioner Meggison entered at 7:55 P.M.

CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondence from Charlevoix and Marion Township Board of Review were read to the Board.

Commissioner Ingalls reported on the Equalization Committee meeting of April 20, 1976.

RESOLUTION - EQUALIZATION REPORT

Moved by Commissioner Ingalls and supported by Commissioner Fulkerson that the following resolution be adopted:

We, the Equalization Committee, having completed the review of the 1976 assessment rolls for the various townships and cities, recommend the Board of Commissioners equalize the real property by adding to the various units the amounts shown in the equalization report, a total of $8,009,176. This total is derived from the $7,253 599 recommended by the State Tax Commission and $755,577 recommended by the County in order to comply with Sec. 211.34 of the General Property Tax Laws. Therefore, the Equalization Committee recommends the real property be equalized at a value of $167,244,950.

Further, having recognized the loss of inventory on personal property exempted by law under Act 234, 1975, we recommend that personal property be equalized at a value of $19,528,425 for a total county equalized valuation of $186,773,375.

VOTE: Yeas, 11. Nays, Commissioners Griffin, Harmon, Florenski and Ward, 4. Resolution Carried. See Page 26 for the report.

APPOINTMENTS - COMMISSION ON AGING

The Chairman appointed Charles Kessler, Flo Wojan, Thora Kotowich and Melvin Niswander to the Commission on Aging to terms to be determined at a later date.

The Chairman also appointed Commissioner Griffin to represent the County Board.

Moved by Commissioner Paul and supported by Commissioner Meggison that the appointments be confirmed. Motion Carried

RESOLUTION - NORTHWEST REGIONAL PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION

Moved by Commissioner Davis and supported by Commissioner Richardson that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, the entire concept of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission (NWRP&DC) is to be the planning and coordinating agency for all local units in the 10 county area and

WHEREAS, several commissions and components are now removed from Region supervision; and

WHEREAS, we are long past the time for debating the merits of the various issues and are in need of immediate remedies if we are to be served by such a commission:

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, at its earliest opportunity, ask for the resignation of Billy G. Rowden, on the basis that, as the executive director of NWRP&DC, he is either responsible for the existing situation, or irresponsible by allowing the present situation to persist. Once a new director is found, the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission must also face the same question, i.e., is the Commission responsible for the decisions and policy making or is it irresponsible in allowing the director to dictate to the Commission?

FURTHER, BE IT RESOLVED, that, as new programs and guidelines are developed by the State and Federal Governments, new avenues of coordination and accounting be implemented so as to preserve the regional concept of the grant applicant.

This County also requests that, as soon as the Northwest Regional Planning and Development Commission has its problems resolved, the State Office of Criminal Justice Programs be contacted to place the Law Enforcement Planning Component back under regional control.

Respectfully submitted by: Ways and Means Committee, Commissioners Moerland, Davis, Griffin and Law Enforcement Planning Component Representative, Commissioner Richardson.

VOTE: Yeas, 15. Nays, none. Resolution Carried.

Moved by Commissioner Davis and supported by Commissioner Meggison to recess to May 12, 1976 at 9:30 A.M. Motion Carried.

The Agreement between the Board of Commissioners and the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University was signed by the Clerk and Chairman.

Morels Are Out

Dick Gennett of Route 2 was willing to display these record size morel mushrooms he found recently but reluctant to tell where he found them.

The largest was 5½ inches in length (without the stem) and weighed four ounces. Others were smaller but still larger than most hunters of the spring delicacy ever find. They are pictured with others the size most people find.

Gennett found a total of 3½ pounds of morels at one picking despite snow earlier in the day.

Suspect Being Sought For Auto Vandalism

An unnamed suspect vandalized Charlevoix County Prosecutor Roy Hayes' automobile sometime last Thursday night.

Prosecutor Hayes' 1976 Buick stationwagon's front window was shattered, while the rear window was completely smashed out.

Damages are estimated at $360.

According to Hayes and confirmed by Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol, there is a suspect in the case who has since left Charlevoix to the best of their knowledge. No warrants have been issued.

Hayes told the Courier that the suspect is a disgruntled defendant. This individual, Hayes reported, has a previous criminal record and has served time at Jackson State Prison.

The prosecutor said that while the suspect has fled his name is in the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) which Hayes explains means if he arrested for anything, anywhere in the nation he will be held.

LEIN is a nationwide computer service used by law enforcement agencies.

Commenting on the occurrence, Hayes, who recently moved to Charlevoix after being director Wayne County's Crime Task Force, said: "It's funny, I came from Detroit where I had cases involving the mafia, major drug dealers and was one on a hit list, but this is the first time I have had anything like this happened."

He was quick to add that the suspect was not a Charlevoix native.

Planners Organize Advisory Groups

Several Citizen's Advisory Committees to the County Planning Commission will soon be set up.

The idea was approved by the Planning Commission last week in the hope that more citizen input into planning matters will be received.

The committees, on Transportation, Land Use, Community Facilities, Utilities, Environment, Housing and Economic Development, are to be Ad Hoc committees and will probably meet four or five times a year, according to County Planner Bill Mercer.

Each committee will be headed by a member of the Planning Commission and will include a representative from the townships as well as persons from the general public.

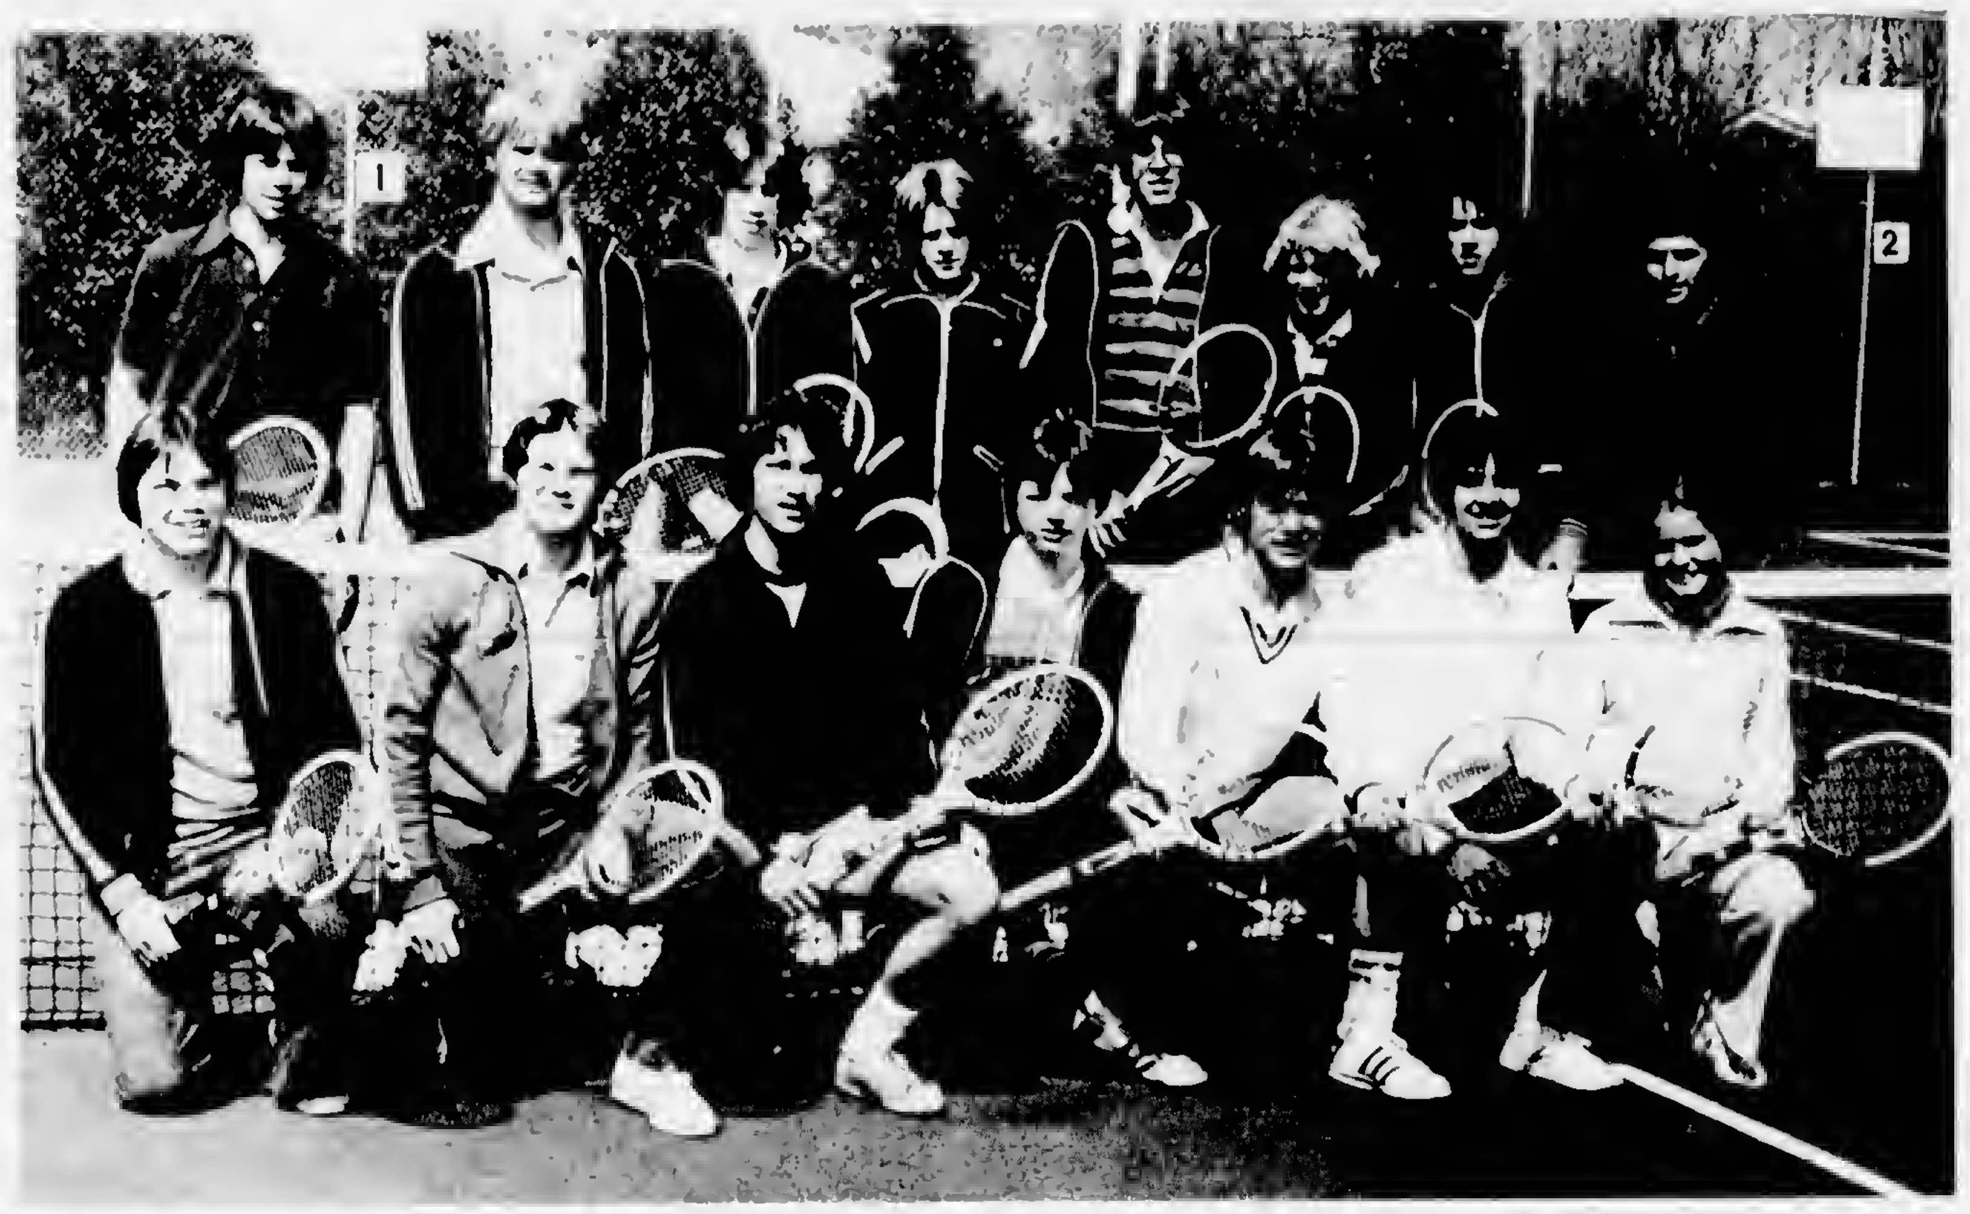
Tennis Team Downs Gaylord

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team breezed to a 7-0 victory over Gaylord Thursday after having their meet with Alpena, scheduled for Wednesday, rained out.

The Rayder squad faces one of its busiest weeks of the season as they host Alpena in a re-scheduled game Wednesday; travel to Cheboygan Thursday; participate in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Grayling on Saturday; entertain East Jordan here Monday and go to Alpena on Tuesday.

In Thursday's action the team won all its matches by wide margins. In the singles Erik Lundteigen won 6-1, 6-0; Mark Lignell 6-0, 6-2; Steve Berlage 6-1, 6-2 and Dave Morgridge 6-0, 6-2.

Coach Chuck Wright changed his doubles teams but the new combinations won with little effort. John Greene and Malpeli won 6-0, 6-0; Eric Slone and Dan Engstrom 6-1, 6-0 and Mark Hosmer and Dave Taylor 6-0, 6-1.



THE CHARLEVOIX High School Tennis team is enjoying one of its best seasons since the sport was introduced in the school. Their record is presently five wins and one loss. The Varsity team is composed of the following players: First row: (l to r) Kip Greene, Erik Lundteigen, Dave Taylor, Tom McNamara, John Greene, Eric Slone, Lisa Weimer. Back row: Marc Malpeli, Dan Engstrom, Steve Berlage, Mark Lignell, Mark Cockfield, Tracy Sell, Coach Chuck Wright.

Arthritis, Rheumatism Sufferers!
Time Proven ICY-HOT PUTS PAIN TO SLEEP "Without taking Pills"

If you're one of the many, many folks who have "tried everything"—taken pills by the thousand, capsules until you've gagged on them, spoonfulls of evil-tasting liquids until you can't stand the sight of your medicine cabinet, then it's time you get ICY-HOT!

ICY-HOT has been making friends for just about 50 years.

You don't "take" ICY-HOT. Instead you just rub its creamy balm over the affected joints or muscles. That's all there is to it. ICY-HOT must get you the results you want—blessed temporary relief from the pain of arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, soreness, stiffness. You begin to sleep peacefully again. You can actually feel the pain lessening. If you don't have relief in 24 hours, we'll return your money. Yes, you must be 100% thrilled with the speed with which ICY-HOT puts pain to sleep, or we'll return the purchase price without question. $3.00 for 3½ oz jar, or $5.00 for 7 oz. jar.

KIRK LIEBERMAN puts everything he has into this throw for Charlevoix, last week, during shot put competition at Petoskey. Lieberman won the event with a 52' 4" toss and he also took first in the discus.

In Petoskey Relays

Boys Edge Petoskey with High Points

In a closely contended triangular track meet at Petoskey Tuesday, the Charlevoix Rayders rulled up 77½ points to edge the Petoskey Northmen who had 74½ points. The third team in the meet, St. Ignace, had 15 points.

Charlevoix and Petoskey shared the firsts in the meet with eight each. Most impressive of the Rayder firsts were Kirk Lieberman's shot put of 52' 4" and his discus toss of 134' 2".

Other first places were taken by Wally Drenth with a time of 10:18 in the two mile; Matt Doan who covered the low hurdles in 22.8; Ed Russell the 440 yd. run in 53.4; Bob Alger the high hurdles in 15.9; Brian Williams the 880 yd. run in 2:05.7, and the mile relay with a team of Chuck Towsley, Ed Bourke, Ed Russell and Brian Williams in 3:40.8.

The team was without the services of Kevin Speer, a middle distance runner and long jumper.

Charlevoix's point winners in the meet were:

Discus: 1. Lieberman; 3. George Baldwin. Distance: 134' 2".

Shot put: 1. Lieberman; 2. Tom Jones. Distance: 52'4".

Long jump: 2. Steve Schuch; 3. Ed Mann.

880 yd. relay: 2. Charlevoix (Russell, Buurke, Schuch, Neil Dziedzic).

880 yd. run: 1. Williams; 2. Chuck Towsley. Time: 2:05.7.

120 yd. hurdles: 1. Alger; 2. Doan. Time: 15.9.

Mile: 4 Dave Tollas.

100 yd. dash: 2. Mann; 4. Dziedzic.

440 yd. run: 1. Ed Russell; 3. Bourke. Time: 53.4.

180 yd. hurdles: 1. Doan. Time: 22.8.

Two Mile: 1. Drenth. Time: 10:18.

220 yd. run: 3. Mann.

Mile Relay: 1. Charlevoix. Time: 3:40.8.

440 yd. Relay: 2. Charlevoix (Alger, Mann, Nate Klooster, Doan).

Charlevoix will host Boyne City here Tuesday and travel to the Soo relays on Wednesday.

Girls Take Second In Meet

The Charlevoix girls track team collected 56 points in its triangular meet with Petoskey and St. Ignace here Tuesday to take second place. Petoskey won the meet with 73 points. St. Ignace had 16.

Charlevoix had five firsts including three of four in the field events; Petoskey had eight and St. Ignace one.

Petoskey took the two mile run, picking up a total of 11 points, by forfeit because of the illness of Charlevoix and St. Ignace contenders.

After participating in the Central Michigan Chip Relays Friday, the girls team will be at Boyne City for a dual meet Tuesday; at the Rogers City Relays Thursday and at Gaylord with Grayling on Monday for a meet postponed from April 27.

The results in the field events Tuesday follow:

Discus: Sandra Hodge placed first with a toss of 88' 11½" with Jodi Alger taking fourth.

Shot put: Hodge placed third and Kathy Sladek fourth.

Long jump: Tami Mitchell first with a jump of 14' 8¾" and Ann Marie Watson third.

High jump: Kay Currey took a first with a jump of 4' 7". Amy Potter placed fourth.

In the track events Charlevoix took a second in the 880 yd. relay with a team composed of Corinne Ranger, Carole Osterberg, Potter and

NOTICE OF SALE
$27,000.00
Township of
St. James County of Charlevoix,
State of Michigan
GENERAL OBLIGATION
AIRPORT BONDS

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of the above bonds will be received by the undersigned at the Charlevoix County Clerk's Office located in the County Building, Charlevoix, Michigan, on Tuesday, the 25th day of May, 1976, until 7:00 o'clock P.M., Eastern Daylight Time, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

BOND DETAILS: Said Bonds will be coupon bonds of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, dated May 1, 1976, numbered in direct order of maturity from 1 upwards and will bear interest from date payable on March 1, 1977, and semi-annually thereafter.

Said bonds will mature on the 1st day of March as follows:

March 1, 1977	1,000
March 1, 1978	2,000
March 1, 1979	2,000
March 1, 1980	2,000
March 1, 1981	3,000
March 1, 1982	3,000
March 1, 1983	3,000
March 1, 1984	3,000
March 1, 1985	4,000
March 1, 1986	4,000

PRIOR REDEMPTION: Bonds of this issue are not subject to prior redemption.

INTEREST RATE AND BIDDING DETAILS: The bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 8 percent per annum, to be fixed by the bids therefor, expressed in multiples of ⅛ or 1/20 of 1 percent, or both. The interest on any one bond shall be at one rate only, all bonds maturing in any one year must carry the same interest rate and each coupon period shall be represented by one interest coupon. The difference between the highest and lowest interest rate on the bonds shall not exceed 2 percentage points. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than 100 percent of their par value will be considered.

PAYING AGENT: Both principal and interest shall be payable at a bank or trust company located in Michigan qualified to act as paying agent under State or United States law, to be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds, who may also designate a co-paying agent, which may be located outside of Michigan, qualified to act as paying agent under the law of the State in which located or of the United States, both of which shall be subject to approval of the undersigned.

PURPOSE AND SECURITY: The bonds were approved by a vote of the registered electors at an election held on November 4, 1975, by a vote of 75 to 36 and are for the purpose of paying part of the cost of repairs and improvements to the Township Airport as set forth in the bond authorizing resolution. The bonds are voted general obligation bonds of the Township and pledge the full faith, credit and resources of the Township of St. James for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereon.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $540.00 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the Township of St. James, must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail. The good faith check of the successful bidder will be immediately cashed and payment for the balance of the purchase price of the bonds shall be made at the closing.

AWARD OF BONDS: The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest interest cost computed by determining at the rate or rates specified in the bid, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from June 1, 1976, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified approving opinion of Freihofer, Hecht, Dosterhouse & De Boer, P.C., attorneys of Grand Rapids, Michigan, a copy of which opinion will be printed on the reverse side of each bond, and the original of which will be furnished without expense to the purchaser of the bonds at the delivery thereof.

CUSIP: CUSIP numbers will be imprinted on the bonds of this issue only if requested by the purchaser and at the purchaser's expense. An improperly imprinted number will not constitute basis for the purchaser to refuse to accept delivery.

DELIVERY OF BONDS: The Township of St. James will furnish bonds ready for execution at its expense. Bonds will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at Detroit or Grand Rapids, Michigan, or such other place as may be agreed upon. The usual closing documents, including a certificate that no litigation is pending affecting the issuance of the bonds, will be delivered at the time of the delivery of the bonds. If the bonds are not tendered for delivery by twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Daylight Time, on the 45th day following the date of sale, or the first business day thereafter if said 45th day is not a business day, the successful bidder may on that day or any time thereafter until delivery of the bonds, withdraw his proposal by serving notice of cancellation, in writing, on the undersigned in which event the Township of St. James shall promptly return the good faith deposit. (Payment for the bonds shall be made in Federal Reserve Funds). Accrued interest to the date of delivery of the bonds shall be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

Obituary

Robert Egler

Funeral services for Robert C. Egler, 44, x-ray technician at the Charlevoix Area Hospital for the past seven years, were held Monday at St. Mary's church. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon officiated. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. Death was self-inflicted according to Dr. Robert G. Martin, Charlevoix County Medical Examiner. The Rosary was recited Sunday evening at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Born in Wyandotte March 13, 1932, Mr. Egler attended schools in Ecorse and Wyandotte from where he graduated. He was a veteran of service in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict. An x-ray technician by profession, he came here from southern Michigan seven years ago to accept a position in that capacity at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. He was a member of St. Mary's church, Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, and the American Society of Radiologic Technologists.

He is survived by two sons, Scott R. and Thomas G. of Charlevoix; five daughters, Kathryn and Elizabeth of Lansing and Mary, Patricia and Janice of Charlevoix; his father, Charles Egler of Trenton; his mother, Mrs Esther Lance of River Rouge; four brothers, James of Riverview, Martin of Trenton, Harry of Taylor and Alfred of Wyandotte and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara LaBlanc of Wyandotte.

Mrs. Russell Kroeze

Funeral services for a former resident, Mrs. Russell E. Kroeze, 59, who died unexpectedly at Hacienda Heights, Calif., Sunday, were held at the United Methodist church in nearby Whittier, Calif. Wednesday. Cremation was to follow.

Mrs. Kroeze, the former Virginia Nickerson, was born at Fife Lake Dec. 4, 1916, and came to Charlevoix as a child. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and Albion College. She later received her Master's degree from Whittier College in Whittier, Calif. She taught in Charlevoix one year prior to her marriage to Mr. Kroeze in 1936. They lived in Belding and later in New York City and Baltimore before moving to the west coast. She had taught in the Whittier school system, was vice principal of a school there and was to retire this year.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Madeleine Holland of Los Angeles and Mrs. Martha Faust of Sacramento; two sons, Phillip of Los Angeles and Keith of Hacienda Heights; two grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Bonnie Nickerson of Charlevoix; one sister, Mrs. Warren Shapton of East Lansing and a brother, Keith Nickerson of Petoskey.

and the Charles Coopers in Eveline township have the same concerns as the others. The Coopers have 40 acres in fruit, most of it in apples with 10 acres in sweet and sour cherries. They returned from Florida only last week and have not made a complete survey of the situation.

Meanwhile, the growers work and expenses continue. They must replace 'worn out' fruit trees, those that are past their prime, prune the trees, fertilize the orchards, control the weeds and spray the fruit trees at various times during the fruit-bearing season, even when there is no fruit.

While growers agree there will be some fruit in 1976, it may reach a point where the goodies made with cherries such as pies, tarts and cobblers will become a treat rather than a pastry most families take for granted.

Enactment of a Township Planning Commission Hayes Township

WHEREBY, the Hayes Township Board wishes to promote public health, safety and general welfare; to encourage the use of resources in accordance with their character and adaptability; to avoid the overcrowding of land by buildings and people; to lessen congestion on public roads and streets; to facilitate provision for a system of transportation, sewage disposal, safe and adequate water supply, recreation and other public improvements; and to consider the character of the township and its suitability for particular uses judged in terms of such factors as the trends in land and population development.

WHEREBY, the Hayes Township Board wishes to form an advisory body to assist in fulfilling the above;

THEREFORE, LET IT BE RESOLVED, that a Hayes Township Planning Commission is hereby established under the provisions of Act 168, Public Acts of 1959, as amended; and

FURTHER, LET IT BE RESOLVED, the Planning Commission shall consist of Seven (7) qualified electors and property owners and one (1) member of the Township Board; and nominating petitions at this time are Kenneth Boss and Donald Brown, incumbents, and two newcomers, Otis Elliott of Norwood and Lyle S. King, presently serving as City Clerk. Deadline for filing petitions is 4 p.m. May 17.

FURTHER, LET IT BE RESOLVED, the Planning Commission shall have the powers, duties and responsibilities provided by Act 184 of the Public Acts of 1943, as amended.

Bids were approved for the property package and the workmen's compensation insurance coverage for the Charlevoix Public Schools for the period of May 24, 1976 until May 23, 1979. The board voted to give the contract to Farm Bureau Insurance for the property package and workmen's compensation and to the Charlevoix Agency for those things that exceed the basic package. Max Novak voted nay and Charles Elzinga abstained on the first issue. The second, the Charlevoix Agency contract, was approved 7-0.

A leave of absence was approved for Mrs. Jennifer Wright and a return from medical leave for Mrs. Sandra Cinnamon accepted.

May 25 was set as the date for the next work session.

DON'T JUST LEARN FAITH; LIVE BY IT!

Example is more forcible than precept. People watch me six days a week to see what I mean on the seventh!

—Rev. Richard Cecil

"Now the just shall live by faith."
—Hebrews 10:38

When Sunday morning rolls around,
A lot of folks you know
Will find themselves religion-bound,
And off to Church they go
They rue the error of their ways,
And pray that all might hear,
And when it comes to hymns of praise,
They sing them loud and clear
But when the services are done,
The lessons they ignore,
Till next the Sabbath has begun,
They leave them at the door
The only way you'll ever earn
The happiness you seek
Is living by the faith you learn,
All seven days a week!

Making a 10-Ton Pie is Hardly a Problem

You would think the organizers behind the World's Largest Cherry Pie Project would be shaking in their boots about now.

But, they're hardly batting an eyelash over the work required to get in the Guiness Book of Records.

Even so, setting out to become the maker of the largest cherry pie in the world has become more than a past time for many Charlevoix residents in recent weeks.

What was once thought to be a joke has turned out to require a lot of advance planning and cooperation among local businesses.

Take for example, a simple pie tin. You just don't go out to your local variety store and ask the clerk for a tin to bake a 10 ton pie.

Fortunately for Charlevoix, there's a local industry that has the ability to whip up the special ten ton tin. Will-flow of Charlevoix, manufacturer of stainless steel tanks, has been busy working on the project, thanks to the volunteer hours donated by its employees.

Then there was the problem of baking a 10-ton cherry pie. There didn't seem to be any local homes with large enough ovens to do the job.

But, even that didn't stop local Charlevoix residents.

Medusa Cement of Charlevoix was able to come up with a special constructed brick oven that will be heated to 350 degrees.

And the story goes on. For every problem that could have taken place, there was someone in Northern Michigan who was able to come up with a solution.

Dave Phillips, owner-operator of the Grey Gables Inn, a Charlevoix dining spot, is the chairman and "engineer-baker" for the project.

He says that the project was not only designed to set a new record, but to observe appropriately the 200th anniversary of the nation's founding, as a kickoff event in the annual Michigan Week observance.

Any revenue derived from the project is being given to support projects for local handicapped children, who were invited as special guests to observe the feat.

Canned cherries are being supplied by local cherry packers including Sherman Canning Co., East Jordan, and the Elk Rapids Canning Co. Lemons were donated by the Hansen Produce Co. of Traverse City. Frost-Pack of Grand Rapids and Petoskey coordinated the gathering of flour, sugar, cornstarch and shortening.

Chefs from Chef Pierre in Traverse City helped Phillips work out the formula for the 20,000 pound pie.

Hufford Industries of Charlevoix built the 16½-foot diameter cradle to rest the pie on, while Koboski Redi-Mix of Petoskey supplied the Redi-Mix truck to mix up the pie crust. They also donated a mamoth Drott Crux-Crane to lift the pie into the oven.

Impac Tool of Charlevoix made the world's largest knife to cut the pie that will be put on plates, and napkins were donated by Freedman Art Craft, world's oldest maker of greeting cards.

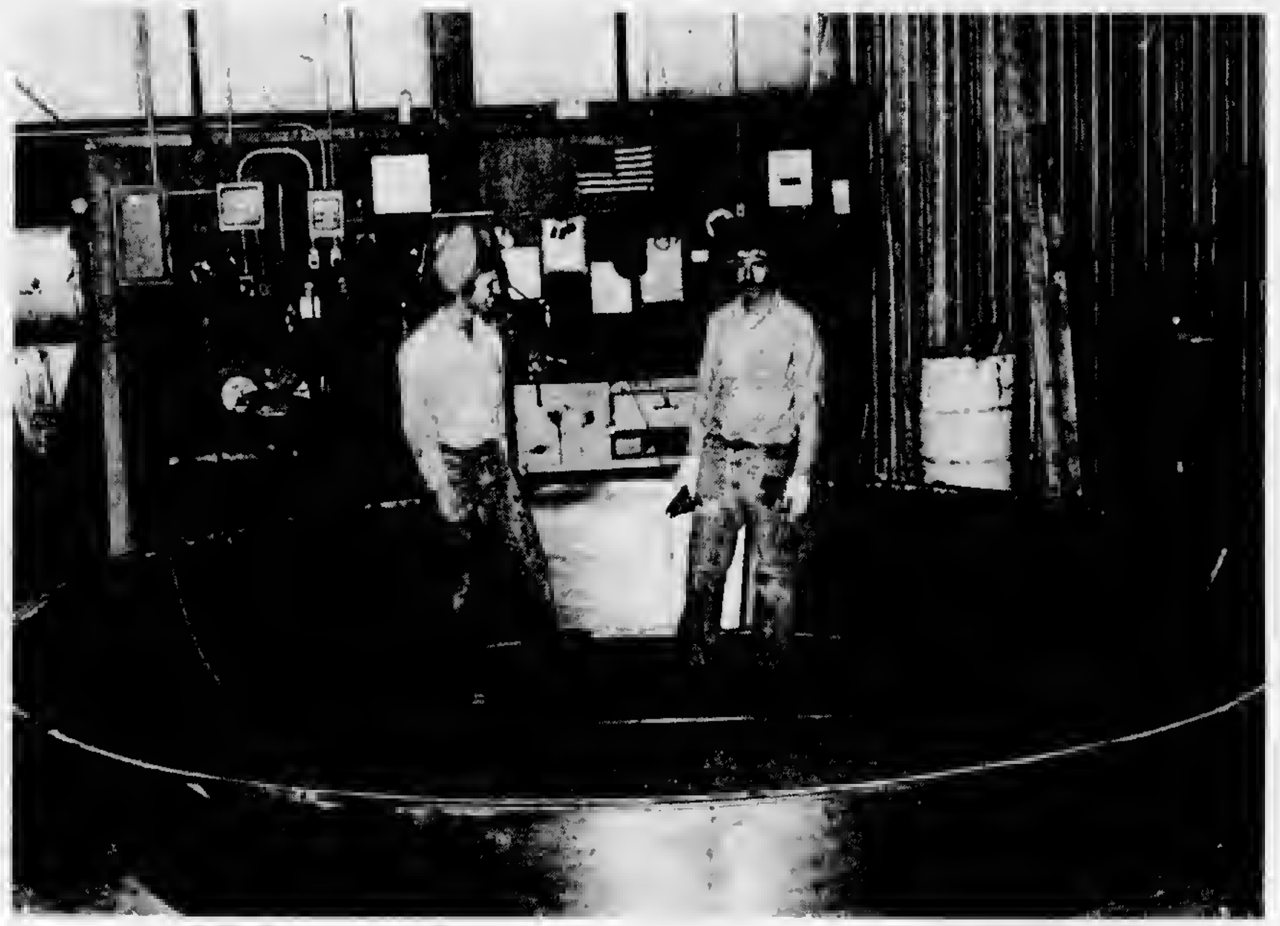
Bridge Street Hardware of Charlevoix donated lawn rollers for rolling out the crust along with shovels for mixing and scooping, while the Clothing Company of Charlevoix furnished tee shirts for all the workers.

Petoskey Plastics of Petoskey, maker of plastic bags, provided the industrial plastic to be used in covering the platform and lining the dump truck.

Sonneveldt Cooperation of Grand Rapids donated plastic forks, while Erber Auto of Charlevoix furnished a new Ford dump truck to mix up the cherry pie filling.

Both Kit Carson Lumber Company of Charlevoix and the City of Charlevoix provided lumber for the platform on which the crust will be rolled out and the variety show staged.

And the Charlevoix City Police Department and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department are handling the safety and traffic control.



LIONEL McCLANAGHAN and Arthur Miller of Will-Flow check the 3,700 pound pie tin before being taken out to the site.

Charlevoix Chefs Take World's Record With 14,000-Pound Cherry Pie Bake-off

By KEN WINTER

All it took was 750 pounds of flour, 5,850 pounds of pitted red tart cherries mixed with warm sunshine and some 6,000 people for Charlevoix to make the World's Largest Cherry Pie.

People from across the state and as far away as Texas and California witnessed the making of Charlevoix's seven ton cherry pie at Medusa Cement Company's Charlevoix plant, located just outside of town.

The already famous resort community made sure it was on the map Saturday by easily making a Guiness World's Record by baking the world's largest-ever cherry pie.

"I don't know of anything that really went wrong," said project coordinator Dave Phillips of Charlevoix's Grey Goblea Restauront.

"I've never made a 14-foot pie, he said.

"I've only made seven-inch pies for our restaurant."

Phillips, like some other 30 volunteera who worked on the pie, was covered with flour and cherry juice.

Dressed completely in white from head to toe, the Cherry Pie originator had slaved four hours with dozens of others to make the world's largest pie.

"If it wasn't for a great amount of people we couldn't have ever done it," Phillips said.

While Phillips and others used lawn rollers and shovels to mix up the pie crust, several thousand people watched throughout the day with curiosity.

Behind the large roped off area where the "bakers" were making the 1st finishing touches, the mammouth 3,700-pound silver pie tin sat waiting for all its contents to be added.

It wasn't until nearly 4 p.m. Saturday afternoon, that anyone would really be sure that the pie would turn out.

"It was everything we expected," said Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bealer, who recently moved to Charlevoix.

"We were looking forward to the air show.

"It was a great thing for the kids."

As the young married couple stood among hundreds of other curiosity-seekers, local talent performed everything from short stage shows to air aerobatics acts to entertain the crowds while the pie baked in a specially built oven made by Medusa Cement.

Thirteen-year-old Scott Mosher, who was wearing a blue locomotive engineer's outfit, said he had come with his Traverse City neighborhood to witness the event.

"We just wanted to see the world's largest cherry pie!" he quipped.

There were others like 63-year-old Alma Boone of Boyne City who just couldn't believe all the excitement.

"We're going to stay until the pie comes out," she said at one point during the afternoon.

"It's a real experience and something you'll never see again."

Mrs. Boone said she had never seen so much salt ond cherries.

"I've never put salt into my cherry pie."

Some said that the 6,000 people roaming around Medusa Cement Company property to see the pie bake-off were almost as interesting as the pie itself.

Mrs. Joyce Burns of the Southern Michigan community of Rockford said she came up with her two children after hearing about it on television and reading about the pie in the newspaper.

But even while there were many on hand to have a good time, there were others who couldn't relax until the day was over.

Louis Horton, crane operator, seemed a little nervous about his responsibility of lifting and lowering the 7-ton pie into the oven. One false move and the whole event could have been over with.

"It bothered me a little," he said while sitting inside the cabin of his 30-ton crane.

"I guess what made me more nervous than anything, was wondering if they hooked up everything properly below."

Although local law enforcement officials said traffic conditions went smoothly, some of the Charlevoix County Sheriff Deputies looked a little frazzled.

Charlevoix County Health Sanitarian Larry Levengood watched eagerly to make sure the strictest health measures were practiced during the day-long event.

"Making sure everything was sanitized and covered was the most important thing," he said.

Levengood said all the bakers had to wear clean aprons, hats and boots, as well as make sure there was plastic on the ground to keep the dirt away.

After the pie was removed from the oven, there was one person who seemed to be happier than anyone--Al Kaiser, plant manager of the Medusa Cement.

"It's great. The oven really worked," he said.

"A couple of weeks ago I didn't think it would have really worked.

"It's been a lot of fun."

Charlevoix Attorney Claims Judge Won't Give Him a Fair Court Trial

By KEN WINTER

Former 90th District Court Judge Arthur R. Reibel, who presided in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, publicly denounced his successor last week claiming he can not get a fair trial.

In a motion filed with the 90th District Court, Reibel, now a Charlevoix attorney, asked 90th District Court Judge David Fershee to disqualify himself from all cases which Reibel is either the attorney of record or named as a litigant.

According to court documents, Reibel claims Judge Fershee has consistently displayed a total luck of judicial temperament and consistently threntens attorneys with contempt of court for failure to comply with his dictates.

Reibel also claims that his successor to the bench has consistently practiced cronyism by adjusting the court docket to favor his friends.

In his motion, Reibel charges that the conduct of Judge Fershee is a breach of the Judicial Code of Ethics and is in violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility and Canons for the State of Michigan.

Fershee, who replaced Reibel after he resigned last year, said Friday that another judge had been assigned to hear Reibel's motion.

According to the Supreme Court Administrator's office in Lansing, Otsego County Probate Judge Boyd C. Baird of Gaylord has been assigned to hear the case.

Fershee denied Reibel's charges and didn't feel he was personally biased as either an attorney or judge against Reibel.

"I don't feel it is appropriate to comment on the motion until it has gone through the proper channels," he said.

The state supreme court administrator's office said that the visiting judge will rule on Reibel's motion within the next few weeks.

The spokesman said there are many instances where judges are asked to disqualify themselves for one reason or another. He was not sure how often hearings were held to determine the claims.

If Reibel is successful with his motion, a visiting judge would have to hear an unknown number of cases where Reibel is involved as an attorney.

A visiting judge would also have to be assigned to hear at least 30 cases in Emmet and Charlevoix County District Court, where Reibel is named as party in a law suit, based on a survey of District Court records conducted by the Courier.

Reibel, resigned from the 90th District Court bench in January, 1975, after being charged by the State Judicial Tenure Commission with neglect of duty and misconduct in office, including the operation of two private business from his courthouse quarters.

However, Reibel said he stepped down in order to pursue a tavern-nightclub business and not because of the 15 counts of alleged judicial misconduct.

Reibel is president of Castle Farms, Inc. located just outside of Charlevoix.

Fershee, a former Charlevoix attorney, had been appointed by the Governor to fill Reibel's unexpired term.

Six Candidates File for Board

Charlevoix School District residents will find themselves having to decide from six candidates who they want to fill the two board vacancies in the upcoming June 14 election.

Two more residents joined an already growing ballot list of candidates Monday before the 4 p.m. deadline. They are Willis L. Peters, a Charlevoix businessman, and Richard J. Farmer, a retired highway department employee.

They joined incumbents Donald Brown and Kenneth Boss along with two other newcomers Otis Elliott, a Charlevoix Co-op employee, and Lyle King city clerk in the race for the board slots.

Both Brown, a local furniture dealer and Boss, who works for a local appliance store, have served several years on the board.

School District voters will find new other issue on the ballot when they go to the polls on June 14.

Board Sets Levies

The tentative tax rate for 1975 was set by the Charlevoix Allocation Board at a meeting held Monday at the county building annex.

At the same time, the board received a letter from the Charlevoix Board of commissioners asking for a separate tax limitation for county school districts and townships of not less than the 12 mills.

After vetoing a resolution that would give 1.1 mill to the townships by a vote of 6-1, a second proposal that would allocate 1.0 mill to the townships was approved. This was after a committee appointed to compute budgets reported that their findings showed only five of the 14 townships' budgets required more than 1.0 mill.

The allocation for the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District was discussed briefly and tentatively set at 0.20 mills.

Dance into Spring

Spring's the thing...and to prove this point, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is announcing its annual spring dance to be held at the Belvedere Casino Saturday evening.

Mrs. Jacquie Merta, executive director of the chamber, said this promises to be one of the most delightful of events the chamber has sponsored in recent years.

Music for dancing will be by James Greenway and the Northern Light offering a variety of music from rock to the waltz. Hors d'oeuvres deluxe will be served throughout the evening along with refreshments offered at the bar.

Tickets at $6.00 per person may be purchased at the Chamber office or from members of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Merta added that ticket sales were going well.

COUNCILWOMAN Jeannine Wallace (left to right) and Councilman George Plumm were among city officials who welcomed Lathrup Village Mayor Richard Cogger (standing) and his wife to Charlevoix Monday night.

Lathrup Mayor Visits City

Charlevoix found itself with a new mayor Monday–well, at least for one day.

Lathrup Village mayor Richard Cogger temporarily took over the city reigns in a Michigan Week Mayor's Exchange Day with Charlevoix.

And while Mayor Cogger was watching over Charlevoix, Mayor Ed Hansen and Councilman Ray Wood were down in the Detroit suburb of Lathrup Village.

Besides being made honorary mayor of Charlevoix, Cogger and his wife were given a grand tour of Charlevoix Monday by Councilman Jeannine Wallace and Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol.

In the morning, the two visiting dignitaries were taken to the Charlevoix Elementary School to visit the children's art show, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Coast Guard Cutter Sundew and Mt. McSauba.

Later in the day, Cogger saw the city's waste water treatment facility, city nursery, Medusa Cement and Big Rock before meeting city fathers at a special reception and dinner.

Cogger is no newcomer to city government, now serving his 18th year as Lathrup Village mayor.

Lathrup Village is a Detroit bedroom community of some 5,400 residents neighboring Southfield.

Cogger told Charlevoix officials Monday night that his community population consists primarily of professional people who work in neighboring Detroit. Average income of the community is over $20,000.

He said one of his community's prime concerns is prevention of crime.

The mayor said his community established a crime prevention unit within its 7-member police force to zero in on making the area safe.

"There are many things people can do," he said about the unit's role in telling residents how to keep their houses burglar proof.

Cogger said his community incorporated in 1953, and has council-manager form of government.

Wolverine Stages

I would like to know if the Wolverine Stage Lines are charging $1.00 per person or $1.00 per family, and if it's $1.00 per person I'm wondering how come everybody else can donate their time and their produce and everything and this company is out to make money. I can see where they would have to charge enough to cover the driver's salary and the gasoline, but I can't see here they have to be out to make that buck. Where everyone is contributing to this bicentennial and to get a record in the Guinness Book of Records I should think that the stage line could contribute a little bit more than what they are, instead of just out to make a buck.

Bridge Problem

The Charlevoix Yacht Club and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce both express deep cuncern over the just announced bridge schedule on U.S. 31 drawbridge in Charlevoix. The schedule while painting now through July calls for three hour intervals between bridge openings. It is not only very inconvenient to yachtsmen during the height of the season but is also downright dangerous. Further, no notice has yet been given to mariners and no hearings or other public notice published other than a brief note in the Petoskey paper. We understand that the State Highway Department maintains and operates the bridge. We urge the State Highway Department to reconsider their action and hopefully come up with a better solution to the problem. Signed: Josh Barnes, Commodore, Charlevoix Yacht Club and approval by the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Thank you.

Everyone Joins Into Help With Cherry Pie

If you were going to send out notes of appreciation to all of those who helped with Charlevoix's "World's Largest-Ever Cherry Pie" project, it would be impossible.

You would probably have to send one to all of the 6,000 people who visited the project last Saturday at Medusa Cement.

As you can see in the photos and story appearing in this week's Courier, the cherry pie bake was everything anyone could have ever hoped it to be.

If nothing else, the Cherry Pie event symbolized how community-spirited Charlevoix can be when a group of businessmen get together and decide to make a success of something.

Perhaps the tiredest person in Charlevoix right now is restaurant owner-proprietor Dave Phillips of the Grey Gables, who along with his wife, Gale, spent countless hours organizing and getting the project off the ground.

We understand that during the last three days before the project, neither one of them saw much more than a few hours of sleep.

Then there were the many others who were up almost all night Friday with the Phillips pitching in with opening cherry cans and making last minute preparations for the Saturday event.

Much of the project was spontaneous with many of Charlevoix's community-minded citizens jumping in at the last minute to lend a helping hand and making sure that all of those at the day-long event had a relaxing day.

It would be impossible to recognize all of those who helped make this project the success that it was but we would like to include at least a partial acknowledgement of those who helped with the project.

Special recognition should be given to Medusa Cement, who generously donated many man-hours and the location for the event, as well as Will-Flow who made the pie tin.

Others included:

Bridge Street Hardware, Charlevoix; Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, Charlevoix; City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix; The Clothing Company, Charlevoix; Erber Auto, Charlevoix; Freedman Artcraft, Charlevoix; Hanna's Music, Petoskey; Hufford Industries, Charlevoix; Impac Tool, Charlevoix; Kit Carson Lumber Company, Charlevoix; Koboski Redi-Mix, Petoskey; Petoskey Plastics, Petoskey; Sonneveldt Corporation, Division of Dart Manufacturing, Grand Rapids; Aero Space Union Local 475, Employees of Will Flow, Charlevoix; Cherry Growers and Company, Traverse City; Coca Cola Bottling Company, Petoskey; Elk Rapids Canning Company, Elk Rapids; Frost-Pak Distributing, Petoskey; General Mills Hanson Product, Traverse City; Hunt and Wesson Leelanau Fruit Company, Suttons Bay; Pioneer Sugar of Michigan; Russ-N-Us, Charlevoix; Sherman Brothers Canning, East Jordan; Traverse City Canning Company, Traverse City; Triple D Orchards, Empire; Char-Em Intermediate School District, Charlevoix County Health Department, Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, Charlevoix City Police Department, Explorer Law Enforcement Post 321, Charlevoix; WJML Radio, Petoskey; WVOY Radio, Charlevoix; Chef Pierre, Traverse City.

Congratulations

Too often we fail to publicly recognize the positive activities our young people do.

We just can't let the last two weeks of activities at the Charlevoix Elementary School go unnoticed.

If you were unable to attend the elementary school operetta or the school district's art show you really missed something.

In both cases, Charlevoix's younger generation showed just how much they have to offer our society.

The grade school operetta demonstrated to us not only that our youngsters have a great deal of potential talent, but that they can offer some fine entertainment.

Equally as successful was last week's art show that included work from Charlevoix's High School, middle and elementary students.

The showing, which was held at the elementary building, demonstrated both creative and a lot of hard work by both students and teachers.

Our hats are off to all of those students who showed us just how much they know.

Bridge Complaints

Telegram to:
Honorable Governor William Milliken
State of Michigan
Lansing, Michigan

May 14, 1976

Charlevoix Yacht Club and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce both express deep concern over the just-announced Bridge schedule on US-31 drawbridge in Charlevoix. Schedule while painting, now thru July calls for 3 hour intervals between bridge opening and is not only very inconvenient to Yachtsmen during height of season, but is also downright dangerous.

Further no notice has yet been given in "Notice to Mariners" and no hearings or other public notice published, other than brief note in Petoskey, Mi. paper.

Understand State Highway Dept. maintains and operates bridge. Urge you investigate and enjoin this program, pending better solution.

Big Deal

Editor:

You may be surprised to hear the way pies are made here in this country. We use 8, 9 or 10 inch pie pans and our pies weight considerably less than 10 tons. I know it must seem strange to you but it will probably be edifying for you to realize that each country has its little idiosyncrasies. In fact we often sprinkle powdered sugar over the top with our fingers or a spoon, rather than a helicopter—or sometimes not at all! Perhaps you could share this news with some of your close friends.

Frankly, if Charlevoix's contribution to the Bicentennial Bash is typical, we U.S. citizens here in Cali would prefer to be allied with the bi-national school's first grade bulletin board of U.S. symbols or the American Women's raffle of a quilt in red, white and blue (proceeds to benefit the local school for the blind).

But maybe there's some hidden benefit that doesn't meet the eye....?

Sincerely yours,

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

A relatively recent phenomenon in American politicing is the spectacle of the candidates hitting the campaign trail in the company of their carefully coiffed wives and handsome, athletic children.

An even newer trend is the solo appearance of wives and children when the candidate is unable to cover all the political bases on a given day.

During the present campaign season we have seen the likes of Jimmy Carter Jr. stumping the suburbs of Alpena on behalf of his father.

Susan Ford showed up alone at the Azalea Festival in Charleston, S.C., when her father discovered he had conflicting appointments.

Northwestern Michigan was treated recently to a whirl-wind visit by the charming Lorette Ruppe, wife of Michigan's congressman from the 11th District. In one news interview, Mrs. Ruppe disclosed that her young daughters will campaign for their father once school lets out. I don't know if the Ruppes have consulted their daughters about their political preferences, but is is fairly safe to assume they are all good card-carrying Republicans.

A few years ago, Mrs. Ruppe showed up — solo — at Charlevoix County's Republican picnic at Whiting Park when her husband was busy cultivating voters in another corner of his vast congressional domain. She fielded questions like a veteran and captured the uncommitted vote.

I do not know if Republican Rep. Ralph Ostling has ever hoisted a beer at the Shamrock Tavern on Beaver Island. But I do know that Mrs. Ostling broke political sod among Island Democrats during her husand's first foray into politics.

And so it goes. Where the candidate cannot go — or prefers not to go — someone bearing the family name will show up in his stead to catch the bouquets and duck the brickbats.

However, such dedication of political responsibility seems fraught with dangers.

How, for example, does Candidate "X" know for a fact that his wife and offspring are sufficiently in tune with his political beliefs to serve as his stand-in on state occasions? How does he know that his hippie son won't come out strongly in favor of decriminalization of marjuana while rubbing shoulders with the Daughters of the American Revolution? Or that his grandmother won't lose the college vote by attacking the new morality on campus?

Furthermore, how can a politician be expected to keep his own campaign promises — much less promises made by a passel of relatives who certainly can't see eye to eye with the old man on every issue.

Frankly, I'd be frightened to send my kids before the public as my personal representative.

Katie would promise free pierced ears for every American girl over the age of 12 years.

Allison would make it mandatory for mothers to serve hot oatmeal for breakfast every morning of the year.

Jennifer would have recess declared a national holiday.

And Danny would promise free Tootsie Rolls for every boy under five.

Although Judy and I agree on most political issues, we still haven't come up with a consensus candidate in the Michigan primary. And we probably won't.

Of course there was a certain amount of public exposure to candiates' families before the Richard Nixons, the Lyndon Johnsons and the Jack Kennedys — but it was different. Eleanor Roosevelt, for example, spent a good deal of time in the public eye through her travels, radio interviews and newspaper and magazine articles. But she was always promoting programs of her own — not Franklin's. In fact, she seldom mentioned her famous husband — which was probably just as well.

What have we become in 200 years?

If we were filling a Bicentennial time capsule to represent American life in 1976, what would we include?

TWA's Ambassador magazine took a poll of celebrities and got some interesting answers that ran the gamut from a Bible and a credit card to a Watergate tape and a Peanuts cartoon.

No one asked me, but whenever I think of the sights, sounds, and smells of 1976, three things come to mind.

The smell of '76, of course, was the herbal. I'd put an herbal into the capsule. Don't ask me what an herbal looks like. All I know is we all smell like one. A day without herbal at our house is like a day without soap, shampoo, deodorant or air freshener.

Sometimes I feel like I am living on Christmas tree ridge.

A few years ago, we all smelled like lemon, but then long hair came in and people began to pucker every time a teenager walked into the room, so the shift went to herbal.

There is probably no other single item in our house that generates so much conversation as the herbal shampoo. Who has it? Who used it last? How much is left?

What would you put in the capsule for the sound of '76? A flick of a Bic? John Denver's voice wailing, "Far out"? Or the swooshing of a flip top off a billion beverage cans?

I opt for a long-playing recording of two million teenagers ending every sentence with the two words, "You know?" One of my sons was relating a movie he saw one night and I counted 138 "You knows?" The only trouble with 138 "You knows?" is that you feel bound to respond to them each time they're asked and at the end of the conversation my head bobbed like a runaway rocking chair.

The visible part of the Bicentennial year is easy. There is one item that has dominated the American scene and touched the life of every American: the T-shirt.

I have seen them on every form ever invented. Some T-shirts identify, some amuse, some offend, others instruct. Some are obscene. Some are signed by famous designers. Some, advertise. I saw one on a rather "healthy" girl the other day that was worn to mold an opinion. (No one should be THAT opinionated.)

Whatever, cheap T-shirts never die, they just fade. Frankly, I'd give a fortune to see the citizen of 2076 take a T-shirt out of a capsule and ponder the message on it: "CLEAN UP THE WORLD TOMORROW. TODAY JUST DO YOUR ROOM!"

Does Anyone Else Care?

The newspaper article said Dr. Joseph Denniston had resigned as superintendent of Oakdale Center, Michigan's largest mental institution, because of poor health.

"That's a lot of bull," I said to myself.

So I asked the doctor. He admitted it was 50 percent bull.

His health could be better. But half of the reason he quit is because he's fed up and frustrated with the leadership and philosophy of a Mental Health Dept. which does not have "a sincere concern for citizens confronted with problems of mental illness or mental retardation."

Dr. Denniston said the state's mental patients are "belittled, humiliated and degraded" by crummy facilities and lousy administration from the department's top executives in Lansing. He was slow to mention names, but there is no question that most of his criticism was aimed at Dr. Don Smith, a pediatrician who has headed the Mental Health Dept. since June of 1974.

Recent horror stories in the headlines described the neglect of patients in private nursing homes. Allegedly untended patients have drowned in bathtubs, or fallen from windows, or been beaten to death. One of the reasons the nursing home business is booming these days is because so many mental patients are being discharged from state mental institutions and "released into the community." They still need constant care and some of them are not getting it in nursing homes where the bookkeeping gets more attention than the patients. Usually, taxpayers pick up the tab.

It was a year ago that Dr. Denniston told me too many retarded persons were being forced out of public hospitals before they were ready, and before the community was ready to give them proper care. "I'm afraid an injustice is being done the patient in some cases," he said.

Last week the doctor was specific about who is to blame for these injustices. "The decisions as to which patients should be released are made by the central office. They should be made by the institution which is caring for the patient," he said.

The premature release of mental patients is only one of Dr. Denniston's complaints against the hierarchy of the Mental Health Dept. But all of his gripes run along the same theme: Dr. Smith and other top level management ignore the opinions of their employees "on the battle lines" who deal directly with the mental patients. So the most important decisions are made by the most ignorant executives.

Dr. Denniston admits he has "a reputation for being quite outspoken." His big problem is that he really gives a d— about mentally ill and retarded persons. If you give a d—, you should listen to what he is outspoken about.

His credentials are impressive. Before coming to Michigan, he was superintendent of state mental hospitals in Tennessee, Delaware and Indiana. He was asst. director of the Mich. Dept. of Mental Health and chief of state hospitals in Caro and Kalamazoo. He has been running Oakdale, formerly the Lapeer State Home, for the past year. But now, after a long career in the mental health field, the 61-year-old doctor is chucking it to take a paper job with the State Dept. of Education.

The source of Dr. Denniston's discontent is underlined by what he says about the man Dr. Smith replaced as chief of the Mental Health Dept. E. Gordon Yudashkin used to have the job. "Yudashki was in constant touch with the superintendents. You could talk to him. He gave you an answer," Dr. Denniston said.

Obviously, he feels the opposite is true of Dr. Smith who is aware of Dr. Denniston's charges. So far he has not publicly responded.

"People handicapped by mental disabilities are not mere social security numbers, nor are they inanimate objects to be dealt with through a variety of electronic computers, data banks or calculators," Dr. Denniston said. "Leadership or philosophy within any mental health system which demands that its clients meet the criteria of the system rather than the system meeting the criteria or needs of the client is universally ineffective. Unless a mental health system is dedicated completely to serving the needs of its clients, it should not be allowed to continue in existence."

Dr. Denniston added that "disorganization, confusion and bewilderment at the top level" causes poor morale among lower level employees.

Last week the Clinton Valley Mental Health Center at Pontiac lost its accreditation. It was cited by a hospital commission for various violations, such as unsanitary conditions and understaffing. State Sen. Joseph Snyder (D-St. Clair Shores) immediately said conditions are worse at Oakdale. I said Dr. I asked Dr. Denniston if he agreed.

"Certainly I agree," he said. But Oakdale doesn't have to worry about losing accreditation. It never had any. "Oakdale doesn't qualify ... it doesn't meet any standards. No one would ever accredit it."

Which is just dandy for the 1,500 patients at Oakdale. Dr. Denniston, who gives a d—, has quit in frustration. Does anyone else give a d—?

Meet Charlevoix

... Gary Stutzman

Gary Stutzman is Director of Bands for the Charlevoix Public Schools and is now in the process of forming this year's Charlevoix City Band which will give weekly summer concerts in East Park. Here, the Courier talks with Stutzman about the City Band program.

COURIER: Who plays in the Charlevoix City Band?

STUTZMAN: It is made up of adults in the area who are interested in continuing playing their instruments, outstanding students from area bands, and often musicians who just happen to be in town for a week or two.

COURIER: Are the band members paid?

STUTZMAN: No, they all volunteer their time. They rehearse every Monday night from 7:00 to 9:00 and the concerts are held throughout the summer on Wednesday evenings, starting the Fourth of July week. There are eight or ten concerts each year.

COURIER: What kind of music does the band play?

STUTZMAN: All the standard marches by composers such as Sousa and Gilmore. We also try to add a standard overture and some light favorites from the 1930's to the present.

COURIER: How long has there been a Charlevoix City Band?

STUTZMAN: For almost 80 years, I think. Clarence Odmark directed it for over 20 years and I have directed it six years.

COURIER: How many musicians are in the band?

STUTZMAN: We usually have 35 or 40 members. Right now we are looking for adult members, then we will fill up with students as they are needed in the various sections.

COURIER: What kind of talent are you looking for?

STUTZMAN: We always have a variety of talent – some are studying music in college, some are professional musicians, and some just play for a hobby.

COURIER: Those interested in joining the band – how do they go about it?

STUTZMAN: They should call me at the High School, 547-6491, between 1:30 and 3:00. After the season starts, they could drop by the High School Band Room during practice hours.

COURIER: You give your concerts in the band shell in East Park. Are you going to have a shell built over it this summer?

STUTZMAN: Yes, a committee from the City Council is working on plans to have it completed this summer. We have received donations through the years which now total over $1,000. This year we received $280 from the Mardi Gras fund. We really need a shell because when it is windy many of the listeners can't hear the music.

COURIER: Are there many other bands of this type in the area?

STUTZMAN: No, most city band members are paid and there are none that have been giving concerts for as long a period or which have such a loyal following, especially among the older adults. I played in the band from 1958 through 1964, and I still see some of my grandmother's friends in the audience.

COURIER: What's going on in school music?

STUTZMAN: Our instrumental program has long been outstanding, due to the efforts of many people, especially Mr. Odmark. We once had a strong vocal program under his direction, but as the program grew and there was only one person to do too much, it was discontinued. Now we have Mrs. Marina LaBlance who has built a fine foundation in vocal music in the Elementary School and Steve Stargardt who teaches vocal music in the Middle School and High School. The instrumental program is handled by Steve, Miss Evelyn Peters and myself. What we have is a total music program offering a general music class in the Middle School plus vocal and instrumental, continuing through High School with vocal and instrumental.

COURIER: How many students are enrolled in these music classes?

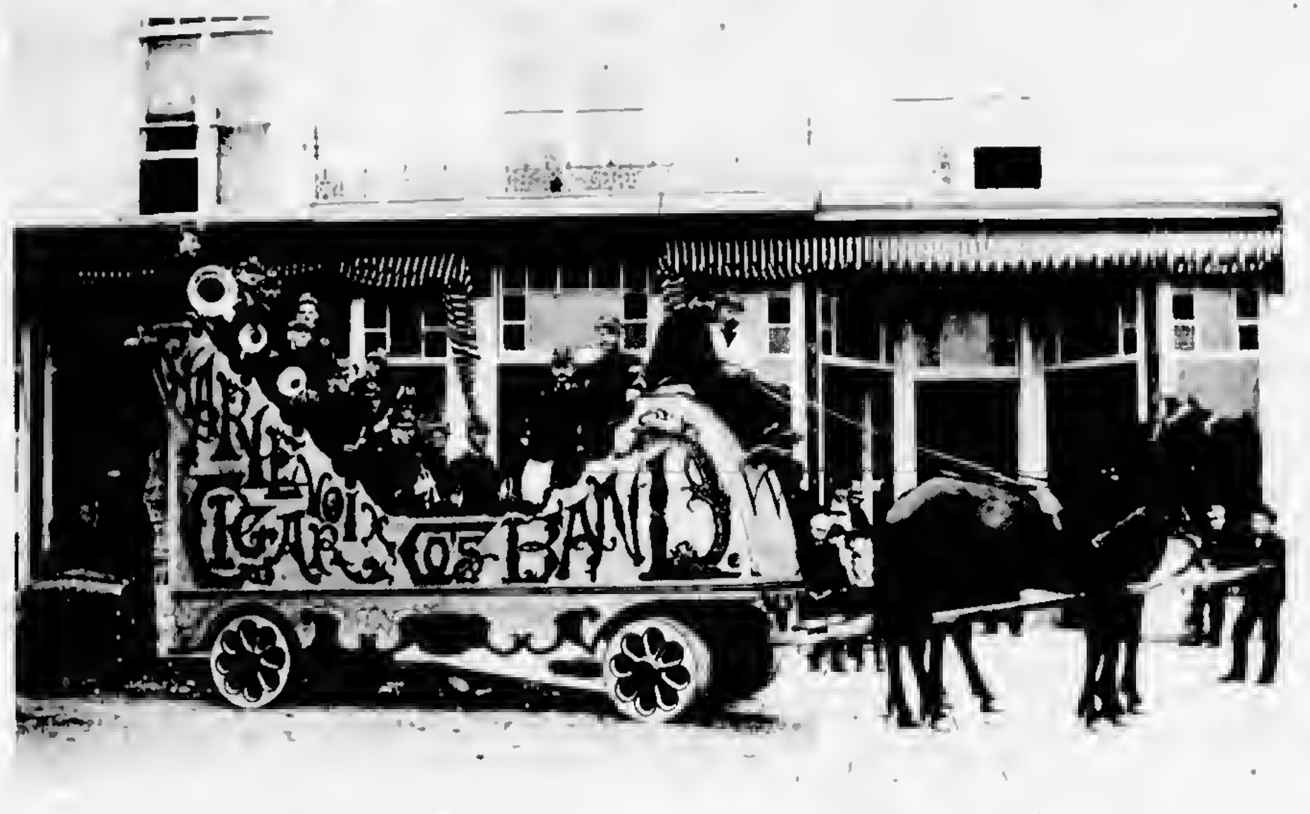
STUTZMAN: We probably have 50 in the specialized vocal classes and the sixth grade class. In the band instrument classes in grades six through High School, we have about 400 students. As the vocal program develops, it will draw from the instrument program, so the total music program will be better balanced.

COURIER: Do you furnish instruments to the students?

STUTZMAN: No, most of them start out with rented instruments and if they decide to keep playing, they buy them. The schools own some background instruments which are rented to students who want to play them.

COURIER: Do the students play most kinds of instruments?

STUTZMAN: Yes, we even offered some guitar classes at the Middle School. The students loved it.



THIS PICTURE, taken about 1895, shows the Charlevoix Cigar Company's Band, a predecessor to the present Charlevoix City Band. It was taken in front of the old Opera House which was located on the edge of the Pine River Channel. The name of the band was not whimsical there was a cigar company in Charlevoix. Bob Miles, who generously furnished the picture, can identify only one of the men, Bob Burns driver of the team. He was the father of Pete Burns, whom many Charlevoixans may remember.

New Railroad Doing Well

By KEN WINTER

Inheriting one of the world's most rickety, rutted and reeling railroads isn't exactly like being named an heir to Howard Hughes' estate.

It's exactly the opposite. What do you do when you wake up one morning and learn that one of your locomotives buried itself four feet into the ground because someone stole part of your track?

Or, you find out that the track you've inherited is so rotten that your engines derail because they can't stay on the track?

That's exactly what 25-year-old Mark Campbell is learning to cope with as he completes his first month of operating some 246 miles of bankrupt Penn Central (Grand Rapids & Indiana) trackage between Grand Rapids and Mackinaw City.

Campbell, president of Michigan Northern, has been operating under a $1.6 million contract with the state to assure continuation of freight service until March 31, 1977.

Otherwise, the trackage would have been dropped April 1, by the Consolidated Rail Corp. (Conrail), a new concern set up by Congress to take over and revitalize railroad service in the region.

Despite skeptism expressed by both state transportation officials and several Northern Michigan industrialists, Campbell is doing what many thought could never be done.

Only two months ago, the short, stocky railroad company president was told his six-member company had neither the experience nor the capital necessary to operate a short line freight service.

His two 1952-vintage diesel electric road switchers chug several times a week between Grand Rapids and the Straits of Mackinac with side trips made between Walton Junction and Traverse City.

And according to both industrialists and state officials, he's giving better rail service than the one-time rail giant Penn Central ever hoped to give Northern Michigan.

Campbell met in Petoskey last Wednesday with some 11 area rail users to discuss his service with them.

The rail company president said volume was up about 15 percent for April, compared to Penn Central's figures for the same month a year ago.

He said part of the increase was because of the backlog left from Penn Central, who quit hauling cars just before Conrail took over.

"I'm real happy about business," Campbell said.

"Business seems to be ahead of a year ago."

Campbell says his company has only recently begun actively to go out and get customers, most of the business he has had so far has come via word of mouth.

He says his only major problem has been track conditions.

One of those problems occurred two weeks ago, when someone removed 200-feet of trackage near Walton Junction, forcing an engine to run four-feet into the ground after realizing too late the section of track was missing.

Another time, one of his engines derailed near Big Rapids because of bad trackage.

He said his company presently has $246,000 to improve track conditions, but feels he'll need more.

"After the first month of operation, we discovered that amount was inadequate," Campbell continued.

Campbell estimated that he'll need four times the original $1,000 a mile the state figured would be necessary to upgrade the trackage between Grand Rapids and Mackinaw City.

"We're beginning to make believers out of the state," Campbell said about his company's operation of the trackage.

"Their attitude has improved tremendously."

Small Business Owners Jam Lansing Hearing Room Protesting Single Business Tax

By KEN WINTER

LANSING – Some 500 small businessmen from across the state sharply attacked Michigan's new Single Business Tax (SBT) last week claiming it may put many of them out of business.

Those testifying before the Senate Taxation Committee, which is now considering amendments to the SBT, criticized the law for placing an unfair burden on Michigan's small businessmen.

Many of those testifying before the committee claimed the new tax would send their tax bills soaring upwards between 200 and 500 percent, and at the same time give tremendous relief to big business.

In a stop-gap attempt to stave off sharp criticism of the tax, State Senator Robert Davis, R-Gaylord, proposed several changes to offer relief for the small businessmen.

Davis told legislators that he received over 200 tax estimates from businesses across the state that substantiate the devastating effect the new law is having on the state's small businessmen.

Supports Repeal

The Northern Michigan senator said he would support legislation to repeal the bill, but at this time thought it would be politically impossible to get it passed.

Among Davis' proposed amendments is one raising the tax liability from $1.5 to $4.5 million to reduce the tax burden on a larger number of smaller businesses.

Davis also proposed that companies not have to pay taxes on monies spent for state and federal unemployment compensation funds, insurance programs and workmen's compensation insurance, as well as being allowed 100 percent credit on personal tax bability.

Admitting that the changes would cause the state to lose some additional revenues, Davis said the tax would bring an estimated $100 million more than originally anticipated.

"Because the state is short of money, a lot of people are saying we can use that extra revenue," Davis said.

"However, it is not in the best interest of the state to try to make the small businessman pick up the burden of operating state government.

"He can't afford to do it."

Davis said he was optimistic his measure will be approved by the committee and passed by both houses in time to take effect this year.

Although those who testified said the Davis bill is good, many said it was not enough.

DeMaso Criticizes

Chief critic of the tax was Republican Senator Harry DeMaso of Battle Creek, who said the SBT was a nightmare and should be renamed to be called, "The Shaft Tax."

DeMaso, a member of the Senate Taxation Committee, said taxes should be on profits not businesses.

Eight Levies

The SBT, adopted last year, replaced eight separate business levies with a flat 2.35 percent tax on wages, sales and other factors.

The measure favors heavy industries at the expense of labor-intensive service industries which, according to the governor, were not paying their fair share under the old system.

Eddie Shepard of the Michigan License and Beverage Association told senators last week that the House Taxation Committee had completely ignored small businessmen when considering changes to the law.

Shepard said the SBT resembled the old "business activities tax" except that now the state is taxing businesses even when they don't make a profit.

Others representing the health care field claimed the SBT would also be putting a pinch on them.

Pat Callahan of Provincial House, Inc., a Lansing-based medical care facility, said taxes on his $20 million business would almost be doubled.

"I think the SBT affects us as much, if not more than others in the state because we have high intensified labor," he told the senate committee.

"The tax is a killer.

"We cannot live with it."

A spokesman for a group of Michigan architects and engineers said his industry is 90 percent labor intensified, which means they would have to pay a heavy state tax.

He said when construction is depressed, so is their business and in order to pay the taxes being required under SBT, many people would have to be laid off.

Press Objects

Clarence Sheldon of the Detroit Automobile Dealers Association said his members were concerned about having to pay taxes on the interest costs from buying cars from the factories.

He said many automotive dealers will be left with no other choice but to reduce their inventories to cut costs.

"The Effects of the Single Business Tax on many newspapers is disasterous," said Elmer White, of the Michigan Press Association.

He said some of the 54 dailies and 275 weeklies his organization represents will realize tax increases between 191 to 526 percent under SBT.

The association executive secretary said the only way to for newspapers to improve the financial burden would be to reduce staffs.

White suggested tht there be no taxes on interest from loans to improve businesses and no taxes when a business does not make a profit.

Folsom Bell, a certified public accountant and member of the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce, said the new tax is so complicated that many small businessmen's accountants' bills are higher than their tax bills.

HUNDREDS OF MICHIGAN small businessmen jammed a meeting room in the Lansing Civic Center to air their objections to Michigan's new Single Business Tax. The hearing was held by the Michigan Senate Taxation committee to consider possible amendments to the new law. (Photo by Ken Winter)

Agency Alarmed About Health

By PEG OHLE

Some alarming facts were contained in the District Health Department No. 3 (Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties) report presented to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week:

–The number of reported venereal disease cases in the four counties increased almost 100 percent over the number reported last year. Seventy cases were reported, and probably double that number were either not detected or reported.

"These diseases are highly dangerous and impact most heavily upon our teenage and young adult population," the report says.

–The number of illegitimate births and births to mothers 19 and younger approached 20 percent of the total births in the four counties. The Health Department considers these births "high risk" socially and physically to both the mother and child.

The number of outbreaks and the number of individuals affected by lice and scabies were unusually high and have become a matter of concern. One significant infestation occurred at a major hospital in the District, according to the report.

In the line of emergency services, the Health Department coordinated an investigation of the unknown white substance in the waters of Charlevoix beaches which was causing skin and eye irritation. Fortunately, the substance turned out to be marl, which was not health threatening.

Also in the line of emergency services, the Health Department assisted in a follow-up investigation of the effects of P.B.B. on humans by coordinating the circulation of information and by collecting samples.

However, the bulk of the Health Department's efforts "is directed at activities and programs designed to prevent health problems and to promote better health and better conditions for health for the citizens residing in the District," the report continues.

Among these services are the Blood Pressure Screening Clinics, at which over 1400 individuals were screened and 11 percent referred to a physician for further diagnosis.

In the field of Health Education, the Department added a full-time trained health educator who has launched a program to increase the public awareness to the area's health problems and the health services provided by the Health Department.

Accident prevention courses were presented in Senior Citizen Centers and a program to better train the operators of Adult Foster Homes was provided in conjunction with the various county Departments of Social Services and with North Central Michigan College.

Services provided by the Substance Abuse Agencies were improved, especially with the development of a network of court referral services now available in the four counties.

The volume of services provided through the Home Health Care Program was expanded several times in the last year. The largest increase was in services to individuals who were just released from acute care hospitals and were Medicare patients. Nursing and therapy services provided through the program are generally much less expensive than the cost of such services provided in a medical institution.

In the field of Communicable Disease Immunizations, the Health Department handled over 12,000 cases during 1975.

In cooperation with the various county Departments of Social Services, the Health Department screened 929 children eligible for Medicaid. The object of the program is to detect physical and mental health problems at an early stage when treatment is more effective and efficient.

Public Health Nursing Services included field, office and telephone consultations for hundreds of diseases and accidents.

The Northern Regional T.B. Clinic was established in 1974 by District Health Department No. 3 and two other districts. In 1975, the clinic X-rayed 94 persons in the four county area and placed 32 of them on chemical therapy.

Women Attend Meet

More than 500 northern Michigan women were in Gaylord Tuesday to attend the fifth annual convention of the Gaylord Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

The day-long conference was concluded with a Concelebrated Mass in the new cathedral with the Most Rev. Edmund C. Szoka, D.D., Bishop of the Gaylord Diocese, presiding.

Attending from Charlevoix were Mrs. Francis Left, Mrs. Ralph Doan, Mrs. Edward Buday, Mrs. Valois Avery, Mrs. Edward Golden, Mrs. Willard Pischner, Mrs. Ralph Shapton, Mrs. Leo Fairbanks, Mrs. Mary Lavery, Mrs. Nelle Crofford, Mrs. Elmer Reiter, Mrs. Henry Sands and Mrs. C.D. Geiken.

Boyne City Residents Save Railroad

By TOM DAMMANN

BOYNE CITY - Although stripped to its skeletal essentials, the state's shortest railroad, the Boyne City Railroad (BCRR) came away from a public auction here Saturday, still capable of continued operation.

It was saved by a group of Boyne City residents who successfully outbid a number of outsiders to acquire the seven and a half mile right of way to Boyne Falls, heart of midwest winter skiing, its two terminal depots, its diesel engine, and two sightseeing cars.

The total price bid was $153,350.

In an independent bid of $31,000, the city of Boyne City acquired the BCRR office building, a 75-year-old, two story, brick structure, with frontage on the railway. This might be used in winter to transport skiers from may be converted to a city hall or museum, it was said.

State Representative E. Dan Stevens (R. Atlanta) represented the citizens group, whose members have pledged to purchase stock in a new operating company. He voiced the actual bidding.

Stevens said "The group wanted to hold onto assets for continued operation of the line."

He pointed out that the BCRR joins with the old Penn Central main line from Grand Rapids to Mackinaw City at Boyne Falls. That line is now operated by the state assisted Michigan Northern Railway Company.

Stevens indicated that the two new lines will work together in tourism and freight hauling, adding that it Petoskey and Boyne City to Boyne Mt.

The BCRR was built in 1893 and was long associated with the lumber business.

It was purchased in 1970 by Grand Rapids furniture magnate, Hollis Baker who bought and imported an English train and operated the line chiefly to haul tourists from Boyne City to Boyne Mt.

He suspended these operations in 1973 because of high costs due mainly to the energy crisis.

Baker retained and directed the Kruse Real Estate and Auction Co., of Auburn, Indiana, to auction off his properties piece-by-piece, which meant, for example, that the Boyne City group had to bid successfully on each of the items it purchased.

According to Gary Young, spokesman for the Kruse Auctioneers, there were 467 items up for sale.

Young said that more than 1500 bidders registered before the auction began at 10 a.m. Saturday. They came from every state in the continental U.S.A.

By mid-afternoon almost one half million dollars had been sold.

Among other items sold was a 1901 elegantly furnished presidential pullman car, for which Charles A. Pinkerton,

Senior Citizen Housing Could Develop

By PAULA HOLMES

Charlevoix may have low cost senior citizen housing yet.

A representative of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority will be in the city Friday to inspect a proposed site for a senior citizen housing complex selected by the Charlevoix Housing Commission and project developer John Northup.

The city housing commission says it's confident that it will receive funding for the project if the proposed site is approved for two reasons. First, because of indications of the housing authority during recent meetings and secondly, because of a change in the funding law, which requires 20 percent of the $26 million funding program be allocated to housing projects in areas with less than 50,000 population.

"After discussions with the state housing authority we feel our chances for getting funding for the project are very good," Robert Cook, housing commission member, said.

"And the changes in the law will help, too. Before all the funds were gobbled up by the metropolitan areas."

"The state has a very poor record for funding projects in this area," Ralph McRae, another commission member, added. "The only housing project they have funded in Northern Michigan is the one at Sault Ste. Marie.

"I'm sure they will be unxious to send money up here," McRae said.

Observers say this is the closest the city housing commission has been to developing a senior citizen housing project since the commission was formed in 1974.

"We've been chasing other HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) funding programs that are now defunct," Ralph Shapton, commission chairman, explained. "Considerable time was spent for nothing."

The city housing commission has been intent on pursuing a senior citizen housing project which would provide low rent housing to area residents subsisting on only their social security checks.

Under the proposed project, the state housing development authority would loan 98 percent of the funding for the project to Northup if he meets all of the requirements and the state will request that HUD provide rent subsidies to project residents.

Commission members said the City of Charlevoix will not be contributing any money to the funding of the project, however, the state does require the city to give the developer of a project funded by the state housing authority a tax abatement on the project.

"But the city will receive a 10 percent service fee for police and fire protection and other services it provides to the housing complex," Marge Dinwiddie, housing commission member, explained. "Actually the city may come out ahead with the service fee because the money will go directly to the city and none of it will go to the state like the property tax does."

The project will be open to everyone 62-years or older, but at least 30 percent of the residents must be subsisting on straight social security income. This means that if one person is receiving an annual income of $5,550, he or she will have to pay only 25 percent of that adjusted income for rent. HUD will make up the difference in the rent which will be set at a fair market price determined by the state housing authority.

"You don't have to get rid of your total net worth to live in this project either," Ralph Hamilton, housing commission member, explained. "It's open to everyone, but $5,550 annual income will have to pay their own rent without the HUD subsidy."

The housing commission members said the state seems to prefer private contractors for the construction of housing projects. So after interviewing three contractors out of a field of 17 builders asked to participate in the project, they selected Northup, who built the senior citizen housing project in Gaylord.

Northup said the completion of the project is still a long way away. Even if the state official approves the proposed site for senior citizen housing Friday, it will be another two to three years before the complex becomes a reality, he said.

The developer predicted there was about one year of paperwork to be completed before the construction of the housing complex could begin. Following the completion of the paperwork, Northup estimated it would take an additional one year to 18 months to complete construction of the project.

"The stringent requirements the state housing authority places on projects it will fund makes it difficult to put the total package together," the developer said. "But when you get it done you have a superior project."

The state housing authority regulations require that senior citizen housing be situated within 1,500 feet of a competitive grocery and within 1,500 feet of a competitive drug store.

"The path to the grocery store from the senior citizen housing has to be down plowed sidewalks and it can't traverse a hill for more than a certain number of feet," Northup explained.

The state also suggest that the complex should be within 2,000 feet of a department store and bank and within 2,500 feet of a restaurant, beauty shop, barber shop, medical services and libraries and churches.

"As you can see these requirements have limited us to one area in town," Northup said. "And it has been difficult finding a parcel of land that could meet all of these requirements and the price limit set by the state."

Horse Show Planned

Local riders and lovers of horses will have an opportunity to see "The Dancing Horses" featuring the imported Lipizzan stallion, Maestoso-Romania, when they appear at the Emmet County Fairgrounds on Sunday, May 23.

The show will be presented by Rowe Dressage Stables of Okemos and is sponsored by the Bear River Riders 4-H Club of Petoskey. Show times are 12:30 and 2:30 and there will be a press conference at 4:30, at which time Jim Rowe, director of the group, will answer questions about riding, training and dressage.

American Cancer Society Honors Charlevoix County Drive Workers

The Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society is within $2,700 of its $12,750 goal for the April Crusade, Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. Dorothy Dixon reported Wednesday evening at an awards presentation ceremony at Grey Gables.

Some $5,862 of the $10,041 already raised has come from Charlevoix and Beaver Island through door-to-door solicitations, tavern Buck Boards, an American Legion Auxiliary luncheon, business contributions, a bake sale and contributions from school children who "sent a mouse to college."

Mrs. Genevieve Vurnum, Boyne City chairman, reported that returns from Boyne City and East Jordan are incomplete, but that contributions are still coming in. She added that Walloon Lake has almost doubled the $400 contributed last year.

The meeting was called by Crusade Chairman Pat Muma of Charlevoix to present certificates of appreciation to her workers. The certificates were presented by Dr. Harry Custer, medical advisor of the Charlevoix County Unit.

At an election of officers last week, Mrs. Nancy Porter was elected president of the unit for new year beginning in September Serving with her will be Robert Bogart, vice president; and Mrs. Dixon, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen will be:

Dr. Custer, medical advisor; Bob Clock, publicity; Deanna Beyer, public education awards; Pat Muma, Crusade chairman; and Margaret Thompson, service chairman.

Members of the board of directors are Mrs. Varnum, Boyne City; Mrs. Dude Breidenstein, Walloon Lake; Freda Kullik, Boyne Falls; and Jane Russell, East Jordan.

Charlevoix Schools' Final Day Closing Changes

The final day of school for the 1975-76 school year will be Thursday, June 10, rather than June 9 as previously scheduled Supt. James A. McKimmy has announced.

The change was necessary because of the large number of school days lost due to road conditions during the past winter. The re-scheduling will allow the Charlevoix Public Schools to meet the North Central accreditation requirement of 175 days in session.

On the final day, high school students will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m.; middle school at 2 p.m. and elementary classes at 2:15 p.m. on June 10.

In making the announcement, Supt. McKimmy stated that he regretted any inconvenience to families the change might make. He said that the school district is making this effort to maintain a quality educational opportunity and to insure this opportunity to the students of Charlevoix even when weather conditions curtail the planned schedule of events.

By PEG OHLE

There's a group of women volunteers in Charlevoix quietly helping children in the Elementary School.

They are of all ages and status, from newly-wed to grandmother, mother, former teacher and those who just enjoy working with children.

Thirty-five in number, they work half-hour periods with students who need help in areas where they lack certain skills. Such things as learning to make change, recognize money, count, and tell time may be simple for some children but for others it takes a little additional help.

Older children may have difficulty learning to add, subtract or multiply, to alphabetize, read aloud or to concentrate on what they're doing.

It is in these areas and many more that the volunteers are giving of their time, knowledge and patience, so that students can keep up with others in their age group.

Volunteers are given a packet of materials especially prepared for each child at each session. They work with the same children each week and use whatever teaching methods they feel will work best.

"Our volunteers are extremely enthusiastic about their work and accomplishments and some have recruited other volunteers," says Mrs. Betty Porter, head of the school's Resource Center under which the volunteers work.

Because the same students are usually assigned to the same volunteers on an ongoing basis, a real rapport developes between them, according to Mrs. Potter.

Some students receive help from volunteers four days a week, others one, two or three days as their needs dictate.

The volunteer program was started by Dr. William Ratigan last winter, when from a list of some 60 suggested names he recruited the 35 persons now involved in it. Plans are under way to start next year's program early in the school year.

Three students from North Central Michigan College are also currently involved in the volunteer program, for which they receive college credit.

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES MAY 3, 1976 8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

The Minutes of the April 19, 1976 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The Council agreed to have a regular Council Meeting on May 31, 1976 even though it is Memorial Day.

Motion was offered by Alderman Wallace and supported by Alderman Plumm that Petoskey be granted permission to hold tag days on May 7th & 8th, 1976 to help support the Half-way House. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

Motion was offered by Alderman Morris and supported by Alderman Plumm that the following Resolution be adopted on construction of docks at the Le Havre Condominium.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of the City of Charlevoix that the Corps of Engineers reject the request for the LeHavre Condominium to construct a series of docks at the foot of Alice Street as presented.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix advises the Corps of Engineers that the docks may be rebuilt with no fingers extending into the 27 foot width of Alice Street if Alice Street were extended into the water, this area is to remain as a splash-way only.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix be advised by the Corps of Engineers prior to granting any permit for construction of new docks or rebuilt docks.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

Motion was offered by Alderman Wallace and supported by Alderman Morris that a recreation committee be appointed to work with the recreation director and advise Council of all action. Appointed were: Lori Lesser, one year term; Max Novak, two year term; and William (George) Lusk, three year term. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $48,710.08 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wood that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Whitley.

Council adjourned.

Lyle S. King, City Clerk

Forensics Go to State

The Charlevoix High School Forensics team was in Ann Arbor recently to participate in state competition.

Ken Paul, who participated in the radio news division, placed sixth and received a superior award.

The multiple group which selected "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" by James Thurber as its presentation placed among the top 12 and received an excellent award. In this group were Matt Stangis, Laura Glass, Barbara Swanson, Scott Swanson, Bill Sweet and Rich Packert.

Their coach, Mrs. Connie Ford, said she was pleased with the team's performance, mostly because the winners are new to the program. All the multiple group will be returning next year.

Winners in the earlier regional competition which qualified them for state competition were Denise Boss who placed second in story telling and Ken Paul who placed second in radio news; the multiple group who also received a second place rating and Lynn Blanchard who qualified as an alternate in speech of information.

The Leaning Tree

You're a 1776 Homemaker. How do you use your leisure time?

Baking the family bread, making cheese without labor saving devices, tending the garden, and other chores such as candlemaking and spinning didn't leave much in the way of leisure time for the 1776 homemaker. When she did have a few minutes, she was apt to pick up her mending or knitting. Those were considered "acceptable" recreation pasttimes for women.

You are a 1976 Homemaker. How do you use your leisure time?

Well, one really great way for the modern homemaker to spend her time is at College Week for Women. If you are due for an inexpensive vacation where you'll meet new friends, get stimulated and really involved with today's crucial issues, plan on attending CWW at Michigan State University June 21-24.

Your four day adventure on campus will include living in a campus residence hall and attending a choice of exciting classes. More than 50 classes are being offered including: marriage of mirage, child abuse, parenting, public speaking, consumer budgeting, weight control, media and its effect on children, medical ethics and patients' rights, retirement, house plants, and dealing with stress.

Adult Counselor Eleanor Driver will discuss how to reach your potential and enhance your future in your many varied roles. You will also have an opportunity to meet with your legislator at a special reception.

Exciting evening programs include: the play "Godspell", films, swimming, tours and more.

If you are concerned about fees, relax. The total cost is only $55. This includes 10 meals, three nights lodging and activities.

College Week for Women is sponsored by the Family Living Education Program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service. For specific information on classes and registration contact me at the Cooperative Extension Office.

Leonard W. Reus Memorial Center

C. Donald Hughey - Owner

The Leonard W. Reus Memorial Center is located at 910 Arlington in Petoskey, phone 347-5090.

Here parents and other close relatives who have reached the Golden Age of retirement, and prefer the company of their own generation can find the kind of pleasant and relaxed atmosphere of leisure which they have spent so much of their life earning. They discriminate to no one.

Friendly professional care is only part of the extensive services offered here. They desire to add years to Senior Citizens lives and Life to their years.

Physicians and pharmacists are on call 24 hours a day. Good wholesome diets, if necessary, will be carefully prepared in the clinically clean, sanitary facilities of their well stocked kitchens.

The Leonard W. Reus Memorial Center is highly recommended by the authors of the 1976 Review.

Northern Service Bureau, Inc.

Hugh M. Leslie, Jr. - President

Businessmen know that accounts receivable are not money in the bank until they are in the bank. When you're having trouble collecting past due accounts, see the professionals at the Northern Service Bureau, Inc!

This respected firm is located at 425 Michigan in Petoskey, phone 347-2562, and is in the business of collecting accounts for you. Their methods are ethical, honest AND effective. You'll find that this is one firm which can actually make money for you rather than cost you. It's the easiest, best way to keep all of your accounts current. They are licensed and bonded by the State of Michigan.

Charging a small percentage only on those accounts which they collect, the Northern Service Bureau, Inc. has won the respect and admiration of many of the area's leading businesses. Fast, accurate credit reporting is also available to businesses in the area. The authors of this 1976 Review suggest that you give them a try and see for yourself!

Howard Raney Chevrolet Company

Howard Raney - Owner

In the Roaring Twenties the "Tin Lizzy" took grandfather where he wanted to go and that's about all. Cars then were drab and uncomfortable and there were no options available to make things easier and more convenient. But, today, people have a wide choice of options, colors, makes and models and often wonder where to go to buy their new car. In this community, we are fortunate to have a firm in our midst that can help the average car buyer make up his mind.

The firm to see in this area for old fashioned courtesy, and modern-as-tomorrow service before and after the sale is Howard Raney Chevrolet Company located at 9 East St. in Boyne City, telephone 582-6537.

They are dealers for the all new 1976 Chevrolet automobiles and trucks.

Stop soon and test drive one of the new models. See their choice selection of previously owned automobiles and tour their up-to-date service departments where they have the latest diagnostic equipment and skilled automotive technicians to serve any make or model car.

You'll soon see why we, the composers of this 1976 Review, regard Howard Raney Chevrolet Company as a leader in their field.

Moore's Hardware

Ralph Moore - Owner

In every community, the hardware store is one of the most indispensable of institutions. The Moore's Hardware, located at 102 Water in Boyne City, phone 582-6622, is just such a place. It was originally founded by men who, realizing the needs of agriculturists and homeowners throughout the area, set out to provide a supply of hardware and other commodities to fill their needs.

Moore's Hardware is one of the oldest and dependable businesses in the area. They have been serving the area well since 1905.

This community-minded store is known as the place to find tools, sheet metal, latches, hinges and paints, electrical, plumbing supplies and power tools to help you complete that project at home with speed and ease.

At the Moore's Hardware, you'll find people who take a genuine interest in serving your needs and, if they don't have just what you want, they'll order it for you.

We, as the editors of the 1978 Review, wish to take this opportunity to recommend Moore's Hardware to all of our readers.

Tennis Team Splits Meets

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team defeated Cheboygan 9-0 Thursday to bring their current record to 6-4 after losing to Alpena 6-4 earlier in the week.

In Thursday's meet Charlevoix won both single and double matches.

The team is still without the services of Erik Lundteigen who may be lost for the season.

On Thursday Mark Lingnell won 6-3, 6-4; Steve Berlage 5-7, 6-1, 6-2; Lisa Weimer 6-4, 5-7, 6-2; Dave Morgridge 6-3, 6-2; Tracy Sell 6-1, 6-0.

Doubles winners were John Greene and Marc Malpeli, 6-3, 6-2; Dan Engstrom and Eric Slone, 6-0, 6-4; Dave Taylor and Mark Hosmer, 6-3, 6-1; Mark Cockfield and Tom McNamara, 6-3, 6-1.

Charlevoix is scheduled to travel to Alpena Tuesday and the Class C regionals at Leelanau Saturday.

Against Alpena earlier in the week, Charlevoix lost their four singles matches but won the doubles in hard fought matches.

Lingnell lost 7-5, 6-4; Berlage, 6-3, 6-2; Weimer, 6-0, 6-2; Morgridge, 6-1, 7-5.

Greene and Malpeli won 6-4, 6-3; Engstrom and Slone, 6-4, 6-2 and Taylor and Hosmer 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Charlevoix placed second in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference Tennis tourney held Saturday at Grayling Coach Chuck Wright has announced.

Charlevoix had a total of seven points to place second behind the conference champions, the Petoskey Northmen who came out of the meet with 18 points out of a possible 18 points.

Boyne City finished third with six points.

This Friday, the Rayder team will travel to Leelanau to compete in the regional Class C meet.

Prior to participating in the regional meet, Charlevoix's Steve Berlage must play in an individual match at Elk Rapids on Thursday with the winner going on to regional competition.

Before going to the regionals, Charlevoix will be at Alpena Tuesday.

Finalists in Saturday's tournament were Lisa

NOTICE OF SALE
$550,000.00
CHARLEVOIX
PUBLIC SCHOOLS
COUNTIES OF CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM
STATE OF MICHIGAN
TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES
(General Obligation)

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Charlevoix Public Schools, Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, Michigan, of the par value of $550,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at the Superintendent's Office, E. Garfield Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, until 12 o'clock Noon Eastern Daylight Savings Time, on the 14th day of June 1976, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS: INTEREST RATE: PAYING AGENT; AND DENOMINATIONS: The Notes will be dated July 2, 1976, will mature March 15, 1977 and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 8 percent per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the Charlevoix Public Schools. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

AWARDS OF NOTES: For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed on a 360 day year basis by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from July 2, 1976 to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the municipality. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

SECURITY: The loan is in anticipation of the operating portion of the School Tax for July 1, 1976 to June 30, 1977 fiscal year, which tax is due and payable December 1, 1976.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2 percent of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

LEGAL OPINION: DELIVERY OF NOTES: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of the purchaser's attorney approving the legality of the notes, to be secured at the purchaser's expense. The purchaser shall furnish notes ready for execution at his expense. Notes will be delivered at a place to be agreed upon with the purchaser.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes."

YOU NEVER GRADUATE FROM THE SCHOOL OF FAITH

The completion of your education, whether high school or college, brings you literally to the threshold of life. You have now been given all the skills you will need to go out into the "real" world and face whatever problems and challenges will be thrown in your way. In the same manner, you religious education will prepare you to come to grips with life; only there is no "graduation" from this school. Faith must be continually studied, renewed and practiced, and your education never stops; but the rewards are the confidence and peace of mind which enable you to face any situation that may arise. This knowledge is available to you at the Church of your choice every Sunday.

Knowledge is proud that he has learn'd so much;
Wisdom is humble that he knows no more.
--William Cowper

"A wise man will hear, and will increase learning;
and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels."
--Proverbs 1:5

President of the Detroit-Mackinaw City Railroad successfully bid $26,000. He said he would put the car in a museum. One of the loosing bidders for the car had flown in from San Diego, California, just for the purpose.

The English locomotive and one of its cars were purchased for $15,000 and $25,000 respectively by R. Bruce McClelland, of Birmingham and Boyne City, who is owner-President of Chattanooga Coke and Chemical Co., Inc. McClelland said he will haul the train on railroad flat cars to Chattanooga where it will be placed in the Tennessee Valley Railroad Museum.

An exciting carnival atmosphere prevailed as people bid on old railroad lanterns, ties, blue prints of old locomotives, conductor's caps and the like.

Mr. and Mrs. William Price, Charlevoix, purchased a classic pot bellied stove to put in their antique shop scheduled to open in their home on the Boyne City Road near Horton Bay.

An unknown person acquired an iron pencil sharpener for $65.

Ed Lowe, owner of the town of Jones, Michigan, west of Three Rivers, purchased life sized conductor and female attendant mannequins, and the landmark 21 foot tall fiberglass locomotive engineer which stands beside the Boyne Falls depot on U.S. 131.

The most valuable piece of real estate, consisting of 600 feet of lake frontage on Lake Charlevoix, some 400 feet wide, was acquired by four Ionia businessmen for $110,000. They also purchased for $27,500 the adjoining engine house and car shop, which Baker had converted into a museum.

Sale Nears Deadline

"Rob Miles' Charlevoix", a pictorial history of the city, is ready to go to press and is expected to meet its target publication date of June 15.

This announcement was made last week by Edward L. Beutner, president of the Charlevoix Historical Society, which is publishing the book as its bicentennial project and to raise funds for a Charlevoix Historical Museum building.

Copies of the book may be reserved at the pre-publication price of $20 ($25 after June 15) by sending a check to the Charlevoix Historical Society, Box 525, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

Several File for County

Four petitions from persons seeking seats on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners were filed last week.

Filing were Delbert Ingalls, Republican incumbent Commissioner from District 1; Robert D. Christensen, for Democrat Commissioner from District 1; Oscar W. Ward, Democrat incumbent Commissioner from District 14; and Willis (Bill) Peters, for Republican Commissioner from District 3.

Previously petitions had been received from Ira L. Davis, Republican incumbent Commissioner from District 4; John Kujawski, for Republican Commissioner from District 12; and Keith Annear, for Republican Commissioner from District 9.

As of last Friday, the only other county petition filed was by Ronald Geer, Republican incumbent Drain Commissioner.

The deadline for filing petitions is 4 p.m. June 1.

Clinic Planned

A Blood Pressure Screening Clinic will be held May 25 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix High School Cafeteria.

District Health Department No. 3, which is holding the clinic, stresses that the worst hazard with hypertension is not knowing you have it. Having blood pressure checked is a painless procedure that takes only a few minutes.

Star Meets

The annual meeting of the Meguzee Association, an affiliate of the Order of the Eastern Star, was held at the Park Place in Traverse City last week. The East Bay Chapter No. 524, O.E.S., hosted the meeting.

Attending from Charlevoix Lodge No. 72, O.E.S., were Mrs. Wayne Carter, Mrs. Harold Dutcher, Mrs. Chester Belfy, Mrs. Jack Grubaugh, Mrs. Hazel Rehkopf, Janada Rehkopf, Mrs. Walter Hofford, the two past presidents of Meguzee, Mrs. Charles Bellinger and Mrs. F. James Hiller.

Mrs. Rehkopf was marshall and Miss Rehkopf a page at the meeting.

Belfy Buys Drug Store

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Belfy of Coloma, have purchased the Dillon Drug Store in Watervliet according to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Belfy.

A graduate of Ferris State College as a registered pharmacist, Mr. Belfy was associated with the drug store before purchasing it. He was at Bay City for two years and St. Joseph for four years before moving to Coloma which is a short distance from Watervliet. He is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school.

He is married to the former Sharon Sinclair of East Jordan. They have two children, Robert, 11, and Mark, eight.

Bridge Painting Upsets Area Boaters

By KEN WINTER

Despite strong objections from local boaters, Michigan Department of Highway officials say they have no choice but to reduce Charlevix's bridge opening schedule until July 15.

Charlevoix Bridge Operator Carl Soblaskey announced last week that the bridge spanning Charlevoix's Pine River channel could only be open at certain times while painting is underway.

The notice, which appeared only in the Petoskey News-Review, drew sharp criticism from local boaters who are concerned that this might interfere with Charlevoix's boat traffic.

But, state officials in Lansing say they had no alternative because of the latex surface paint being used on the road approaches to the bridge.

"It has to be applied during optimum weather conditions for the paint to have a good curing," Noel Walker, a state maintenance engineer, told the Courier.

"We felt we didn't have much choice."

Unlike the southern part of the United States, Walker said Michigan has only a certain time of the year that weather conditions are good for bridge repairs and painting.

"Ninety-five percent of our maintenance work has to be done in a certain time of the year," he said.

"We want the taxpayers to get the most for their money and this is about the only time of the year we can be sure certain repairs will be done properly."

Another state spokesman said that this was the first time in 15 years that the Charlevoix Bridge has been painted and that the work had to be done.

A Grand Rapids firm has been contracted to have the work done by July 5, but the spokesman said it is expected to be done earlier.

The job requires that the bridge be completely sand blasted and that four different coats of paint be applied.

Josh Barnes, commodore of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, told the Courier last week that a three-hour-interval schedule for bridge opening is inconvenient for yachtsmen during the height of the season, but is also downright dangerous," he said in the Courier Hotline.

"Further, no notice has yet been given to mariners and no hearing or other public notice has yet been given to mariners and no hearings or other public notice has yet been given to mariners and no hearings or other public notice published other than a brief note in the Petoskey paper."

Another member of the 240-member yacht club, George Duke, said he was concerned about cars and boats backing up on the water and road.

"It's navigable water and boats have the right of way," he said.

"I first heard about it when a sailor told me about it last week."

Duke said he was going to recommend to the Yacht Club, May 25, that they seek an injunction against the work.

"I think it's ridiculous," he continued.

"A couple of painters are going to inconvenience the whole town."

U.S. Coast Guard officials said a marine report has been broadcast and that notices have been sent out.

The Bridge opening schedule being used by the Michigan Department of State Highways is as follows:

May 12 through June 18: 6 a.m., 9 a.m., 10:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m. 3 p.m., and 6 p.m.

June 19 thrugh July 1: 6 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 11:15 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 3 p.m., 5:15 p.m., and 6 p.m.

July 2 through 5: 6 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 11:15 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 1:45 p.m., 2:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

If the construction crew is unable to work because of bad weather the bridge will open for boats on the regular schedule. The bridge will also be opened on demand from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The schedule does not apply to Sundays when the bridge will be opened on the regular half-hour schedule. The bridge will also be opened on demand for emergency vessels, requiring time only to clear the span of workmen in a safe manner.

Medusa Cement Looks At Alternative Methods

The sky rocketing cost of energy has forced Medusa Cement Company to take a close look at its operation with an eye to converting its Charlevoix plant to a more efficient type of production, Robert W. Fort, president and chief executive officer of the corporation's board of directors, said Monday.

Fort made his remarks following a dinner sponsored by the cement company at the Grey Gables Restaurant for more than 200 Charlevoix area businessmen. The directors were in Charlevoix for their May board meeting.

"When the Charlevoix plant was designed in 1965 it was the most modern and best way to produce cement," Fort explained. "But now, due to incredible changes in technology and economics, if we were to build the same plant today we would switch to a dry process of producing cement. This dry process would provide us with a 30 percent saving in energy."

Fort said the company had made a study of converting not only the Charlevoix plant from a wet to a dry process or producing cement, but of all the six plants owned by the corporation.

"We may convert this plant, but a lot depends on the price of energy," Fort said.

"Compared to a preheated dry process plant, our Charlevoix operation is at a disadvantage when it comes to cost of energy, but in terms of manpower you can't find a plant that is operated more efficiently," he said.

The corporation president said the Charlevoix plant has a long life ahead of it and he didn't anticipate the soaring cost of energy would force a closing of the operation.

Fort said the company had two goals in mind when it constructed the Charlevoix plant 11 years ago.

"Our basic goal was to be a good citizen in the community," he explained. "We felt that if we couldn't do that we would never be successful in our second goal, which was to make money for our stockholders."

Fort said the comany record in the good neighbor area spoke for itself.

"We have the best record in the state for the control of pollution," he said. "And I say control instead of prevention for a good reason. We are in the business of making dust and that causes pollution, but we have done our best to control it."

Fort said he was proud of the company and the community.

"Our record here shows a company can come into a community and if it spends a little time and money it can become a good citizen," he said.

The dinner meeting was concluded with a movie made by NBC about the Medusa Challenger and with a home movie about the recent construction of the world's largest cherry pie on the Medusa plant grounds.

ROBERT W. FORT, president and chief executive officer.

David Fershee Seeks Judgeship

Judge Fershee

David W. Fershee, who has served as Judge of the 90th District Court since he was appointed by Governor Milliken in April, 1975, has announced that he will be a candidate for the judgeship in the forthcoming elections.

Judge Fershee is seeking to fill the remainder of the term (through December 31, 1978) left vacant when Judge Arthur Reibel resigned early in 1975. His appointment expires December 31, 1976.

Judge Fershee is a graduate of Ferris State College and the Detroit College of Law, with the degree of Juris Doctor.

At the time of his appointment, Judge Fershee was, practicing law in Charlevoix and Boyne City. Prior to that he had served as an attorney for the Legislative Service Bureau in Lansing, drafting, editing and researching proposed legislation.

While in law school he was a student prosecutor for the Recorder's Court in Detroit, a law clerk for Small and Small, Attorneys, in Detroit, and a law intern for Most Holy Trinity Legal Clinic, also in Detroit.

Judge Fershee is a member of the American, Michigan, Florida and Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Associations. He also serves on the board of the Law Enforcement Division of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, and in the past has served as a board member of and legal advisor to the Charlevoix Humane Society and the Halfway House in Petoskey.

In announcing his candidacy, Judge Fershee cited his accomplishments in clearing the heavy backlog of cases he inherited, making it possible for him to maintain a current docket; his substantial reduction of cost to the county for court appointed attorneys; and is special programs for handling drunken drivers and shoplifters.

Bob Neff Wants Sheriff's Spot

Robert (Bob) Neff of Charlevoix last week announced his candidacy for Sheriff of Charlevoix County on the Republican ticket.

His signed petition was the first one for the Sheriff's job turned into the County Clerk's office, although others are expected before the June 1 deadline.

In setting forth his qualifications, Neff notes that he spent ten years with the Michigan State Police as a Trooper, Highway Patrolman, in criminal investigation, in public relations and as an Assistant Post Commander.

Other qualifications, he says, are 25 years as a successful Charlevoix businessman, six years on the Charlevoix City Council, and six years as a board member of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

If elected, Neff says he will:

--Improve communications with the Department.

--Maintain close contact with the Prosecutor's Office and courts.

--Answer all citizen inquiries in a courteous manner and act upon them promptly.

Bob Neff

--Supervise prisoners closely and conduct regular cell inspections.

--Encourage citizen cooperation and respect for law enforcement agencies.

--Coordinate area law enforcement agencies regarding criminal investigation and information exchange.

--Upgrade property inspections in rural areas during routine patrol.

--Institute training programs for officers.

An Open Letter to the People of Charlevoix

Charlevoix the Beautiful! For years, this title has aptly described the town and surrounding area known as Charlevoix, Michigan. Truly one of the most picturesque and unspoiled areas to be found in Michigan, or anywhere else for that matter

It was this beauty and the friendly, warm attitude of the people of the Charlevoix area that lured hundreds of boaters, fishermen and other tourists to your town each year. It has brought my family and friends to you for nearly five years now.

It appears that the City Fathers of Charlevoix looked around and noticed what a good thing they had and decided to see how they could capitalize on it. Nothing wrong with that ..... as long as they don't spoil the good thing they are trying to sell.

Boaters, like myself and my family and friends, have long enjoyed the natural harbor, large clean lake and easy access to Lake Michigan that Charlevoix has to offer. That is why we are in Charlevoix as many weekends as we can get away. While we're in your town, we buy gas, oil fishing supplies, bait, ice, groceries, clothing, we patronize the local marine supply facilities and eat many meals out in your fine restaurants. All of this brings money into the city coffers and goes (we thought) toward maintaining the facilities and beauty we have come to love.

It has been our experience in the past year or two, however, that when we arrive in Charlevoix on a Friday night or Saturday morning, there is often no room for us to berth our boat (a "small" 26 footer) at your City docks. The reason is simple: The spaces are already taken up by much larger (and presumably higher paying) boats than ours that have made arrangeents to leave them there ALL SEASON! The owners of these boats are seldom in Charlevoix to enjoy their boats....they just like having a permanent dock, not having to worry about finding a dock when they DO come up and apparently can afford the season rates.

I checked with a representative of the Michigan Waterways Commission and discussed this situation with him. He explained to us that they leave the management of the docks pretty much up to the people and town of Charlevoix "If they rent out a lot of their docks to the big boats on season rates, they don't have to worry about enough money coming in throughout the summer to make ends meet" he said.

On the surface, this seems like a very sound idea.....but if you think about it for a second, what is really happening all summer long? First, the owners of the big, permanent boats are not in Charlevoix, weekend after weekend, like many of the smaller boat owners are.....they aren't spending money in your shops, they aren't buying meals in your restaurants or gas in your service stations. They aren't chartering fishing boats or buying groceries....they are just paying dock fees. Second, an unattended boat invites trouble....theft (your records will bear this out) an unnoticed mishap like spillage or, worse yet, a fire....with the owner hundreds of miles away. But the worst of all is the number of people you are turning away by selling out to this

Memorial Day Services Set

Residents of the Charlevoix area will join Monday with Americans everywhere in paying homage to this country's war dead.

Wherever American servicemen of all the country's wars are buried, their country's flag will mark their final resting place and Americans will pause to remember.

Charlevoix will mark the day with the traditional Memorial Day parade climaxed by a formal program at Brookside cemetery.

The parade will form on Park Avenue and, at 10 a.m., begin its march to the cemetery with a stop on Bridge Street at Antrim Street for a brief ceremony. The V.F.W and American Legion Auxiliaries will toss wreaths on Round Lake, other wreaths will be placed in Memorial Park at Belvedere Avenue and the Submarine Memorial in East Park. Edwin P. Zeitler and George Plumm will place the wreath at Memorial Park and Benjamin S. Gill will do this at Submarine Memorial.

The Charlevoix high school band, directed by Gary L. Stutzman, will play a patriotic selection and, following a 21 gun salute by the firing squad and taps by Kay Currey and Jeff Jarvis, will play the National Anthem.

The parade will then continue to Brookside cemetery where the band will play while the audience gathers for the program at which Vincent Olach will serve as master of ceremonies.

Major Kenneth Phail, Executive Officer, U.S. Air Force Site at Ray Shore, will deliver the Memorial Day address.

Denise Ross, Charlevoix high school senior, will deliver the Gettysburg Address after Mr. Zeitler has led those present in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Following Major Phail's address, there will be a floral presentation by Mr. Zeitler and Mr. Plumm, a gun salute by the firing squad and taps.

The Reverend Donald Schorsch will give the invocation and the Reverend Hugh Cowan the benediction.

Robert Muma, riding in an opencar, will be the parade marshall. Donald Willis will serve as squadron leader.

Music during the program will be by the high school band.

The parade will be led by the Colors and Firing Squad composed of American Legion and V.F.W members.

Also in the parade will be members of the American Legion and the V.F.W. and their auxiliaries, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts of all age groups, school children on decorated bicycles, the Charlevoix high school band, and numerous horsemen.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held at the high school gymnasium.

The Memorial Day parade and program have been arranged by the Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226, American Legion, headed by George Plumm, post commander, and the Charlevoix V.F.W. post No. 1153, with Edwin P. Zeitler as post commander.

800 Veterans Can Expect Benefits

The Veterans Administration has good news for war veterans living in Charlevoix County.

Some 800 of them will receive approximately $69,000 as their share of a record payout of $376.8 million being made to various classes of service men and women.

The payment, representing dividends declared under their GI insurance policies, is being accelerated by the government. Normally, when such dividends become available, they are paid on the anniversary dates of the policies and, as a result, stretch out over a period of 12 months.

This year, however, distribution of most of the money will be completed by the end of this month. About $233 million of the total will be paid out by that time, according to Richard L. Roudebush, Administrator of the Veterans Affairs.

The dividend checks will be going only to World War and Korean War veterans. Those who participated in the Vietnam War will not share at present because of the type of insurance they hold.

Most of the recipients have National Service Life Insurance, issued to those who served in World War II The World War I vets who are eligible carry U. S. Government Life Insurance Policies and those who were in the Korean War, Veterans Special Life Insurance.

The 800 residents of Charlevoix County who will be on the receiving end are those who retained their policies. They constitute about 21 percent of the World War and Korean veterans in the local area. The total, according to the latest VA tabulation, is 3,810.

Chamber To Sponsor Dale Carnegie Course

Jacqule Merta of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce has announced that the chamber will sponsor a special Dale Carnegie Customer Relations Course.

The six weeks' session will be for personnel of Chamber members and other businesses in the area.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Merta said, "It is the treatment customers get from the people who serve them that determines how satisfied they are when they leave and whether or not they come back.

"In a real sense, the fortunes of a company are in the hands of the men and women who are 'the front line', whether owners or employees, meeting and serving the public.

"Sales people may make little or no effort to build bridges of understanding between themselves and customers. They may not know how to use sales help information and relote it to customers' wants and needs. They may show little or no interest in customers, or enthusiasm for their company's goods or services," Mrs. Marta added.

She further said the Dale Carnegie Customer Relations Training answers many aspects of "front liners" developing the ability to use professional sales aids and deal successfully with customers.

Persons interested should call the chamber (547-2101) for information. The Chamber is planning an explanation meeting Wednesday, May 26 from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the Community Boom of the First State Bank Building. Reservations are requested by 4 p.m. Tuesday.

A FIRE EARLY Friday morning completely destroyed the two-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hogan, Norwood-rd. The Charlevoix Township Fire Department answered a call at 8:30 Friday morning notifying them about the blaze but when the fire trucks arrived it was too late. The five bedroom home was completely gutted and the Hogans lost all of their possessions, said Fire Chief Curt Thompson.

Schaller Seeks Tax Facts

Kirk Schaller of the Petoskey News-Beview, a member of the Governor's Single Business Task Force, is asking that firms supply him with Public Aceountant-compiled information showing total tax paid to the State over the past two or three years as compared to the tax which would have been paid under the SBT formula for those same years.

He would also like to hear ideas about the tax.

Copies of the data should also be sent to state representatives, senators and to Governor Milliken.

William Wickham, Michigan Chamber of Commerce, 501 South Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48933, would also like to hear from those who feel penalized by the Single Business Tax.

Auxiliary Elects Officers

Mrs. Dale Meredith was installed as president of the V.F.W. Auxiliary at a meeting held recently at the post home. Mrs. James Whitley was installing officer.

Other officers installed at the same time were Mrs. Leland Warner, senior vice president; Mrs. Denver Jackson, junior vice president; Mrs. Thomas Hodgkinson, secretary; Mrs. James Whitley, treasurer; Mrs. Albert Russell, chaplain; Mrs. Kenneth Staley, condustress; Mrs. Ruhl Metzger, guard; Mary Browe, Mrs. Eugene Gibelyou and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, trustees for one, two and three years, respectively.

Appointive officers installed were Mrs. Theodore Browe, patriotic instructor; Mary Browe, historian; Mrs. Frank Novotny, Jr., musician; Mrs. Theodore Browe, flag bearer; Mrs. Alice Mothews, banner bearer; Mrs. Edwin Mann, Mrs. Thomas Hamlin, Mrs. Albert Russell and Mrs. Gibelyou, color bearers.

Chairmen who have been appointed by Mrs. Meredith are: Mrs. Hodgkinson, rehabilitation and service; Mrs. Hamlin, youth activities and VOD; Mrs. A. M. Allard, hospital; Mrs. Browe, cancer; Mary Browe, Buddy Poppy; Mrs. Mann, National Home; Mrs. Whitley, membership; Mrs. Warner, legislative; Mrs. Novotny, publicity; Mrs. Gibelyou, safe living; Mrs. Meredith, citations; Mrs. Hamlin, Junior Girls unit; Mrs. Russell, Americanism and Loyalty Day.

The V.F.W. Auxiliary meets first and third Thursdays of the month at the Post Home on US 31 North at 8 p.m.

'Don't Ignore Our Inland Lakes'

Brown Trout Stirs Concern

By Sara Gay Dammann

"Don't ignore our beautiful inland lakes."

Many Charlevoix fishermen have hoped to communicate that message to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for several years.

To insure that message got through this year, a dozen of Charlevoix's most dedicated fishermen met informally with the DNR's District No. 5 Fisheries Biologist Steve Swan, recently at Julllerett's Restaurant.

The nub of the message from the fishermen to the DNR was that lake trout fishing in Lake Michigan was getting too much attention, while the great potential fishery in Lake Charlevoix and other area land-locked lakes was not being maintained.

In his turn, Swan assured the fishermen the DNR has not forgotten the inland lakes, particularly Lake Charlevoix, and more importantly, Swan said, "The DNR is anxious to hear fishermen's ideas."

"I like meeting with local fishermen," Swan said. "There has been a lot of misinformation because of a lack of communication.

"My point is, after all, I am working for them (the fishermen)," Swan reported.

Success, particularly in Brown Trout fishing, was the major reason for the informal meeting.

According to Bill Williams, proprietor of Bill's Fishing Hole, who was at the meeting, "A lot of guys didn't know what the DNR plans for Lake Charlevoix were.

"We were most interested in the Brown Trout fishery. Walleyes were also discussed," he said.

The usually secretive fishermen admitted that Brown Trout fishing (between the public landing and the railroad bridge on Lake Charlevoix) has been outstanding. Brown Trout are revered because they are difficult to catch and once they hit put up a dazzling fight.

Another "hot spot" for Brown Trout has been Hemingway Point, where the South Arm begins.

The group, which included Jim Annis, Tony Wojan, Ken Wojon, Dave Juilleret and Mark Kantola, urged Swan to increase the Brown Trout plants. They specifically asked for an annual plant of 50,000 to 100,000 yearlings, as opposed to the DNR plans for 10,000.

Both fishermen and Swan reported the meeting was a good exchange of information.

Swan said later, "We always hear about our mistakes. It is difficult to get feed back when we are successful. It's human nature combined with a fishermen's instinct not to talk about where he is catching a lot of fish."

Swan promised to ask for a bigger planting in 1977 than the 10,000 Brown Trout scheduled for this year.

DNR planting plans for 1976 in Lake Charlevoix are, according to Swan: 10,000 lake trout; 10,000 Brown Trout; 60,000 Rainbow Trout; 5,000 Steelhead (in the Jordan River); 20,000 Atlantic salmon (Boyne River); and 1,000 Brown Trout for the Boyne Folls Pond.

Swan said the request for Walleye plantings was difficult to fulfill because Walleyes are a warm water fish and Lake Charlevoix simply is not a warm water lake.

"Lake Charlevoix is a trout and salmon lake," he explained.

Also, Swan continued, "Walleyes are a very expensive fish to raise in hatcheries."

Swan was almost as enthusiostic about small mouth bass fishing in Lake Charlevoix as he was about Brown Trout.

"This is one of the best small mouth lakes in the north," the biologist observed. "The natural reproduction of small mouth is so good we do not need to consider planting them."

Jim Annis of Charlevoix, felt the meeting was productive, because, "It created a good understanding between the fishermen and DNR."

Annis said Swan also talked about PCB.

"My daughter likes to eat fish and I asked Swan about it," Annis said. "He couldn't stress the dangers of PCB enough."

Swan's advice, following the DNR's and health department guide lines, is to clean all the fat and skin off fish.

At the meeting and in a later interview, Swan said, "PCB is in the entire drainage system. Because of biological magnification, and because it is in the total food chain and water, the bigger the fish the more PCB content.

"Trout and salmon seem to have the most PCB. Smaller trout and salmon are safer than big ones," he said. "And smoller species of fish, such as perch and bass contain less PCB.

"As the Health Department advises, I wouldn't eat more than one fish meal a week," Swan said.

Cleaning is crucial, he emphasized," "Cut off belly fat and fat along the back bone, and skin the fish.

"Broil or boil the fish, but get the fat off," Swan said.

The biologist recommends grilling skinned trout, using aluminum foil punctured on the grill, to allow the fat to drain off. Or, less preferably, leave the skin on, but puncture it so the fat will drip through.

Many fishermen, Swan included, don't eat much fish. They fish for the fun of it, letting their catch go.

Williams' advice to fishermen seeking the elusive Brown, is to troll a small Little Cleo lure on very light test line (6 or 4-pound test) as far behind the boat as possible.

"This time of year the Browns are shallow," William advises. "Don't use weight."

In summer, Browns will swim at about 30 feet depth in 70 foot deep water. Then Williams advises using a device known as a "pink lady" to get the lure to the proper depth.

Swan said the small mouth bass, a spunky fighting fish, are as "spooky as the Browns and similar fishing techniques are most successful."

Baker Hits Senate Campaign Trail

Bepublican U.S. Seaate aominee Dean Baker is pedalling his political philosophy around Michigan by bicycle.

He sloshed through Charlevoix on a cold, drizzling Monday, having begun his journey Saturday (May 15) in the Soo.

He hopes his proposed bike campaign of 850 miles will win him the votes to take the Senate seat being vacated by Senator Philip Hart.

A member of the University of Michigan Board of Regents since his election in 1972, Baker is a native of Marquette. He and his wife have four children and now life in Ann Arbor. He has a Master's Degree in Business from Harvard University and a B.A. from the University of Wisconsin.

Baker stopped at the Courier office to share his views on current issues, before continuing on to Traverse City.

By Sara Gay Dammann

"I am not a politician. I am a businessman," Baker said in an interview.

He described what he terms "a great disinclination on the part of the people towards Washington," blaming it on "government costing more and more."

He admitted, "Once I am elected I suppose I would be called a 'politician.'"

Baker sees his bike ride as a means of "slowing the process down," as opposed to usual campaign practice of flying in and out of key cities.

Baker's campaign literature describes him as "An independent Republican," which he said means, "I believe in Republican principles but I don't follow the Party line blindly."

His assessment of the issues places economics as the prime concern of the people. Crime and the integrity of the politicians he places as next important. Baker says bussing is "now only a major factor of two or three percent of the people."

He outlined his approach to these issues and others in the interview:

"I believe in the private sector creating employment, not the government," said Baker's.

To stimulate employment through private enterprise Baker would want "decent taxation rates," He looks for stimulae to investment through tax incentives.

"We can either have a collectivized society or a free society," Baker said.

The condidate said that as a businessman (President of the Deane Baker Company, a construction firm), he "understands the system, because I have worked it for twenty years.

"It comes down to government versus private enterprise," he said. Baker maintains that "If investors are allowed to have a return on their dollar" the system will be stimulated in a way that will increase employment."

As part of his views on crime, Baker was asked for his position on handgun control.

"The second amendment to the Constitution says the people have the right to own and bare arms, and this includes handguns," he replied.

"Getting the criminal off the street is the way to fight crime," he said.

"I beleve that a person who commits a crime is deterred if there is a certainty of punishment," Baker explained.

On capital punishment, Baker said, "I have difficulty taking a human life, my mind is open on capital punishment. It might have to come to capital punishment," he concluded.

Deane Baker

Baker said the solution to the problem of the integrity of politicians ,"is not passing laws but in the kind of people we elect and the kind of people appointed."

Speaking on the size of government, Baker felt, "My background as a businessman helps. I am used to making judgements to stop and start things. Right now the process doesn't lend itself to making judgements to reduce the size of government,"

Asked if he thought reducing the Defense Budget was the way to reduce the size of government, Baker responded, "The Defense Budget must be increased. The United States is substantially weaker than many people know."

On the same theme, he said, "I have misgivings about Detente with the Russians.

"The Soviets are still out to dominate this country and the world."

Baker was not ready however, to take a position on the controversial Navy Project Seafarer, proposed for the Upper Peninsula.

"If it is essential to the security of the United States, then I'd say 'yes.' But the Navy hasn't made a case yet that it is essential."

Baker said he supports year-round navigation of the Great Lakes.

While he is "sympathetic of the plight of American Indians," he said "I don't know enough to comment on their fishing rights controversy."

Coal is the answer to the energy crisis according to Baker.

As for nuclear energy, he said, "The safeguards appear adequate. We have to proceed at a prudent rate with nuclear energy."

Bottle Petition Drive -- A Positive Move

A state conservation organization has begun circulating a petition to let voters decide in November whether to ban throwaway beverage containers from Michigan stores.

We support this move and encourage Charlevoix residents to take an active part in the drive to get this question placed on the November ballot.

Thomas L. Washington, executive director of the 100,000-member Michigan United Conservation Clubs, said his group is acting because "the people of this state in polls have indicated they want returnable beverage containers ..and the Legislature, which has had this issue for several years, has failed to act."

MUCC will need to collect 212,561 valid signatures of registered voters by the first week in June to qualify for the November 2 general election ballot, state elections official David Peterson said.

The Michigan Constitution provides for voters to get proposed laws on the ballot by gathering initiate petitions with signatures equal to eight percent of the total vote for governor in the last gubernatorial election.

State Rep. Lynn Johndahl, D-East Lansing, who has sought such a throwaway ban in several bills that died in committee, immediately endorsed the MUCC action.

Last November, House Bill 4296, Johndahl's latest bottle bill, was sent to the House Appropriations Committee, where it is expected to die.

The bill, and the initiative petition, would impose a mandatory 10-cent-per-container deposit on most soft drink and beer bottles and cans to discourage people from discarding them. Pull-tab beverage can tops would be banned, as would non-returnable bottles.

Liquor and wine containers would not be affected by the initiative petition.

To encourage standardization of bottles, only a 5-cent deposit would be required on containers certified by the state as refillable by many different beverage firms.

We agree with many supporters who say the measure will reduce roadside litter and thus save taxpayers money now spent to clean it up.

We think the bill will also conserve energy and natural resources, since it will encourage the use of refillable bottles.

Many, such as the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and the state AFL-CIO, say the measure will increase the cost of doing business in the state and will eliminate hundreds of jobs in plants manufacturing beverage containers.

We feel this attitude is very short-sighted and seriously question the logic presented. Until recent years, nearly all beverage containers were returnable. We don't feel it would be that difficult to convert back to the old method.

There's hardly a stretch of Northern Michigan highway that isn't littered by some type of beverage container.

Even if those throwing out the containers along the road don't change their habits, it might encourage others to pick them up for the deposit money.

While we support the proposed bottle amendment, we think both the state and local municipalities should go even one step further. Fines for littering should be increased, as well as the enforcement of the ordinances and law.

Until we take serious action against those who litter, our beautiful environment will continue to be marred by litter.

Memorial Day

Next Monday Charlevoix area residents will pause to honor their war dead, as will people throughout the country.

Memorial Day will be observed with the usual parade, laying of wreaths and ceremonies at Brookside Cemetery.

There will be music and speeches and wet eyes as observers remember the many young men and women who gave their lives in defense of their country.

And this is as it should be.

The Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, the Korean War and most recently the Vietnam War were not fought in vain. The goals we sought and the lessons we learned on battlefields from Concord to Pleiku must never be forgotten.

Memorial Day should have a dual meaning. It should be a day of rememberance as its name indicates but it should also be a day of dedication to the cause of peace.

What better tribute could we pay our war dead than, in their names, work toward ending the kind of savage engagements that cost them their lives?

Let's not forget our war dead. Let's honor them with all the great honor due them. But let's also set our sights on attaining permanent peace throughout the world. Some say such goals are visionary. Perhaps they are now but who knows what the years will bring. We can at least try.

Stars and Stripes

May 10, 1978

Editor
Charlevoix Courier,

Charlevoix makes front page news in Europe!

A pleasant and nostalgic surprise confronted us when we picked up our "Stars and Stripes" and saw the "amazing" article.

As we are former "Charlevoixans" now living in Spain, the little "big" article was of special interest.

We are planning a trip to Charlevoix, but unfortunately too late for the pie. Maybe Dick Edwards will have an extra slice stowed away in his freezer for when we arrive there, probably in July.

It's pie a la Paul Bunyan

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (UPI) – If you like cherry pie, you'll love this northern Michigan resort community.

Town fathers have announced plans to bake a 10-ton cherry pie for the community's Bicentennial centerpiece to celebrate Michigan Week festivities, which begin May 15.

The pie, 14 feet in diameter and two feet thick, will be baked in a gigantic cement oven at the Medusa Cement Co., four miles from town.

The dough will be prepared in a cement mixer and the filling will be stirred in a dump truck.

Townspeople will spread the dough with lawn rollers and work the filling around with shovels before laying it out on a stainless steel pie tin, which will be transported by a crane.

The pie will be cooked for three hours at 350 degrees and then cooled.

It'll take 2,000 pounds of flour to make the crust and lots of cherries.

Rock or Bust

Letter to the Editor:

This letter is concerning the Rock Concert that was held in Traverse City's Glacer Dome in November. The concert was cancelled after approximately forty five minutes, because of equipment failure. The kids were given blank stubs for a return concert to be held at a later date. This later concert never came about. After many telephone calls, we were finally told that ticket monies could be refunded if the tickets were returned to Steve Glantz Production, P.O. Box 2050 Ferndale, Michigan 48220.

I returned my sons tickets around the twentieth of November and up until now have heard nothing.

It seems to me that this should not be allowed to happen. When a contract is made up to have any type of entertainment, there should also be written into that contract some type of assurance that a refund will be given if the function does not come off.

The kids from the surrounding areas, such as Gaylord, Charlevoix, Petoskey and Cadillac not only are out the price of the ticket, but also the time and gas to get there and back.

It seems a shame that our children should be ripped off by an organization such as this. At this point it is more the principal of the thing, than the money.

I waited four months for a refund on the tickets, and now feel some action should be taken.

If there are any parents out there who have returned tickets to Steve Glantz Productions and have not had any reply, and are interested in furthering this I would appreciate hearing from you.

A copy of this letter will also go to the Consumers Protection Service and Action Line.

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

It is not very often that this column has anything constructive to offer in the way of medical advice, since I am a virtual stranger to the healing arts.

However, I do have a few words of caution for those of you who would like to keep your appendices. (Appendi? Appendixes? Appendicks?) That advice is to steer clear of cream puffs filled with chocolate ice cream. They'll bring on an attack of appendicitis every time.

Let me explain.

It was on a warmish Saturday night in June, 1942, that the Clock family of Larchmont-ave. in Detroit had unexpected visitors: Aunt Emma and her four daughters. My sister and I always liked Aunt Emma and her four daughters to come visiting because they were as funny as crutches. (Since this is a medical column I'll use medical terms whether you like it or not.) By the time Aunt Emma and her four daughters went home, my sides always ached from laughing so hard and for days afterward I would try to remember all the funny things they said.

My mother also liked to entertain Aunt Emma and her four daughters, but it bothered her when people dropped in unexpectedly and she didn't have time to prepare a fancy dessert.

This particular Saturday night, Ma and I held a council of war in the kitchen. She would make cream puffs if I would hop on my bicycle and run down to Fraser's Drug Store to fetch a quart of chocolate ice cream. In the June of 1942 we didn't have a refrigerator, much less a freezer, and ice cream had to be purchased just before it was served and then eaten hastily before it melted.

It was just before dark when my mother gave me a sign that the cream puffs were out of the oven. I excused myself from my funny cousins, ran outside and hopped on my bike. I picked up the ice cream at Fraser's Drug Store and started pedaling home as fast as I could, lest it melt. When I got to Whitlock's driveway, I decided to take to the sidewalk for the rest of the ride home. I swung the handle bars sharply to the right and climbed the small rise from the street to the sidewalk. Then suddenly, out of the dark, a pedestrian appeared directly in my path, blocking the whole sidewalk. My bike and I came to a sickening stop against a little steel fence pole the Whitlocks used to keep kids off their grass. The impact caused the right handle bar to swing back and hit me in the belly.

Of course, it hurt for a few seconds and the ice cream jumped out of the basket, but there was no real harm done. I apologized for alarming the stranger and continued home to a big cream puff filled with ice cream in the company of my funny cousins.

The next day I didn't feel so hot. I had a little pain in my side. Ma said no wonder I had a pain in my side, the way I laughed at Aunt Emma and her four daughters. The next day at school I couldn't keep my mind on my algebra, I was in such pain. By evening I couldn't stand up straight. And when doctors removed my appendix the next morning at Harper hospital it was ready to pop.

Last Sunday, along toward evening, I told Judy I had a hankering for a cream puff filled with chocolate ice cream. (I knew we had some in the freezer because I had seen it there.)

After comparing cream puff recipes over the telephone with Kay DePuy for the better part of an hour, Judy finally emerged from the kitchen with her interpretation of my favorite dessert in tow. It was delicious and the kids enjoyed it as much as I did.

The next day, toward supper time, Katie complained of a belly ache.

"Too much cream puff," I said wisely as I dialed the doctor's number.

That night Katie had her appendix out.

I know it's not much to go on, but I'm sure there must be a connection.

Take it from there, Dr. Welby!

Erma Bombeck

I wanted to switch the wardrobe in my husband's closet from winter to summer last week, but he was wearing it.

To look in his closet you'd think he had a change for all seasons. But as the kids said one day, "You are now landing in Daddy's closet. Please turn your watches back 20 years."

As I picked my way through the rack of clothes I had to admit it was like a Bicentennial salute to the history of men's clothes. He had a necktie that dated back to the Hoover administration.

There was one suit that had come in style, gone out again, and was coming in again.

Then I did a thing I had not done in our entire married life. I cleaned out his closet.

Out went the Hans Brinker pants that remained standing when he sat down.

Out went the gold coat sweather that he held together by hooking a moth hole over the button.

Out went the ankle-length winter coat that made him look like a rabbi out of "Fiddler on the Roof."

Out went the belt that fit him when he and his waist were both 28.

Out went the X-rated bathing suit that used to be a PG.

Out went the sports coat with the Ruptured Duck Discharge pin still on the lapel.

Out went the loafers with the original pennies on them.

Out went the sweatshirt that read, "KILROY WAS HERE!"

Out went the seersucker bathrobe with a copy of Boy's Life in the pocket.

Out went the wading boots with the hole in the toe.

Out went the undergraduate warm-up jacket that no longer fit over the postgraduate stomach.

I knew he had discovered my "surprise" when he raged into the kitchen shouting, "What happened to all my clothes? There's nothing in my closet except two shirts, a card table, and a carton of cancelled checks. What did you do with them?"

"They are in a big trunk on their way to the Salvation Army."

"Well that's just great. I don't go on your side of the closet and clean house. From here on in – STAY OUT OF MY CLOTHES!"

Such a big deal over nothing. Today, the truck brought his clothes back. I figured they would.

If it Fitz

I had forgotten that...

My 3-year-old granddaughter, Melissa, is tremendously fond of the minister of her parents' church. When he comes visiting, he eats peanut butter sandwiches with her. And sometimes he takes her out to lunch at McDonald's.

He should be nice to her, in view of what she calls him. She calls him God.

Whenever I bore you with children stories, you'll know I am tapering off after being visited by the three darlings. They are aged infant through first grade, two girls and a boy, and their last visit prompted me to lodge a complaint at City Hall in our small town.

The civil defense people exploded three bombs to warn the populace that a tornado is coming. But they don't even put up a distress flag when my three grandkids cross the city limits. Three nuclear explosions not only would be appropriate, they would be a comparatively quiet introduction to the impending calamity.

Anyway, I find it isn't wise to quit vibrating cold turkey after the children head back home. Instead, I turn my son's stereo up full volume and place my strung-out body in the center of the four speakers. I have him play Frank Zappa records, reducing the volume gradually over a period of hours. I pass the time pondering the many things I had forgotten until Michele and Melissa and John arrived to bring back the memories.

It had been 15 years or so depending on your criteria, since babies lived at our house. It's hard to say exactly when your youngest child ceased to be a baby, but I remember getting suspicious when he began changing his own diapers and heating his own bottle.

I had forgotten how it feels to hear a baby cry at 3 a.m. It took me a few seconds to remember what to do. What you do is push your foot softly to the south. If this doesn't work, you kick more firmly. Finally, your wife wakes up. You then tell her the baby is crying.

I had forgotten about the spot on the baby's neck, up under the chin, not far from the ear. That's where you nuzzle a baby. It feels great.

I had forgotten the crunchy sound of cookie crumbs underfoot.

I had forgotten how your heart stops, and then pounds, when you hear a baby scream and the sound of a small body going bump, bump, bump.

And I had forgotten the mixed relief of discovering he fell only two steps. A potted plant went the rest of the way.

I had forgotten to look before I sit. Have you ever sat on an abandoned popsickle?

I had forgotten a grown man can somehow enjoy eating his dinner while watching a kid with a runny nose stick her face in chocolate pudding.

I had forgotten the most beautiful babies have fat stomachs and no fannies, and once they get walking fast, it is a fact of gravity that they are going to fall down, bam.

And I had forgotten adults are supposed to look the other way when this fall occur. This is supposed to make the kid think he is not hurt. I keep forgetting and picking the kid up and kissing his sore spot and mouthing silly "there-there-there-baby" words I'd hate to have overheard at the Alibi Bar.

I had forgotten how grand it feels to return home from work and be greeted by a little kid who wants to climb up your legs and stick his fingers in your nose. I had forgotten that babies don't watch TV and you don't have to knock on their heads to say hello.

I had forgotten the goofy pride of taking little kids into a restaurant and having strangers smile at them. I react modestly to such attention, bowing from the waist only after repeated applause. Inside my fat head I am hoping everyone will think I am the father, not the grandfather, for gosh sakes.

I had forgotten the marvelous innocence of a small baby; the trust and the dependence and the eagerness to love and be loved. I had forgotten that some smart adult like me must teach little kids how to hate, and who to hate.

I had forgotten that a little girl can eat peanut butter sandwiches with God.

Meet Charlevoix

Vane Smith

Vane Smith

Vane Smith has been principal of Charlevoix High School since 1969. This week the Courier talks with him about the graduating class, how it differs from other classes, and plans the graduates have for the future.

COURIER: How many students will graduate this year?

SMITH: There are 112, including an exchange student from Japan and one student in the adult education program.

COURIER: How does the size of this class compare with classes in recent years?

SMITH: It is about normal compared to those in recent years, with the exception of last year when we had 148. However, we expect larger graduating classes in the next few years. Our projections indicate that next year we will have about 143; in 1978, 152; and in 1979, 177 graduates. And, if the economy improves, we could have more students because of immigration from downstate.

COURIER: How do this year's graduates differ from those in the recent past? What are their good and bad traits?

SMITH: The turmoil of the Viet Nam war, the advent of the students' rights movement with no hair or dress codes, and lowering the age of majority have all affected the student body. I've seen the beginning of experimenting with drugs and somehow I can't blame them because they have read all about, and seen on television, the controversy concerning legalizing marijuana. Also, these students have not had the average adult contacts. Adults have not set the right examples for them or taught them right from wrong. Young people are good if they know the perimeters they must live in. We do our best to teach students the adverse effects of drugs and alcohol and tobacco but they read and see conflicting statements about these dangerous things, and somehow they have to find out for themselves.

COURIER: Are more of this year's graduates going on to college?

SMITH: Percentage-wise about the same, 52 members of the class have indicated they plan on going to institutions of higher learning. This is 47 percent of the class. Of these, 34, or 31 percent, plan to enter four year programs and 18, or 16 percent, plan two or three year programs. In 1975, the numbers were 28 percent for four year programs and 21 percent for two year programs.

COURIER: What colleges are the graduates going to?

SMITH: Ten are going to Michigan State, nine to North Central Michigan in Petoskey, five to Northwestern Michigan in Traverse City, four to Northern Michigan, four to Central Michigan and three to Ferris State. The rest, in ones and twos, are going to twelve other colleges, including three out-of-state colleges.

COURIER: What are these students going to study in college?

SMITH: The largest number of them, 14, plan majors in health-related fields, ranging from two-year technical programs to graduate work. Another 12 students are planning careers in business related fields. We used to have a large number going into the fields of education and engineering, but now those fields are over-crowded and high school graduates are looking for something else. This year we have only two who plan a major in education and two in engineering.

COURIER: What are the other graduates going to do?

SMITH: Eight of them have chosen to enter a branch of the Armed Services and some others have mentioned the Services for some time in the future.

COURIER: And the others?

SMITH: Twenty-four have a job now and will continue with that job. Thirteen have a job now but are looking for a different job and another 13 are actively seeking a job.

COURIER: Are you doing anything special to help this latter group of graduates.

SMITH: Yes, they were all invited to participate in a workshop dealing with some of the basics of job applications, interviews, resumes and personnel factors. This program was organized by Mr. Bentley and Mrs. Kaczynski of the Counseling Department.

Ford and Carter Win County's Primary Vote

Charlevoix County voters joined with those throughout the state in preferring Carter to seven other candidates on the Democratic ballot and Ford over Reagan on the Republican ticket in the second Presidential Primary Election in the state last Tuesday.

With all 26 precincts in the county reporting, Ford received 2,626 votes to 1,024 for Reagan. Forty-five were uncommitted.

On the Democratic side of the ballot, Carter took 772 to 376 for his closest rival, Udall, who received 376. The other candidates and their totals were Wallace, 82; Jackson, 34; McCormack, 27; Shriver, 16, and Harris 10. Thirty-four were uncommitted.

The Republicans carried all but three precincts in the county, the first and second precincts in East Jordan and Chandler Township, where the two parties split. In East Jordan's First Precinct, Carter received 49 votes and Ford 41 and in the Second Precinct, Carter was ahead by two or 33 votes to Ford's 31. In Chandler township Carter and Ford received 12 votes each.

In the two townships on Beaver Island, which normally show a tendency to vote the Democratic ticket, voters went for Reagan, with St. James township giving 24 votes each to Reagan and Ford, and Peaine township giving 15 to Reagan and 12 to Ford.

In the city of Charlevoix, where 858 voters out of a possible 2,400 went to the polls, 454 votes were cast for Ford and 214 for Reagan with 11 uncommitted.

Democrats in the city showed a slight preference for Udall over Carter with Udall attracting 100 votes to 91 for Carter. Wallace, who was strong in 1972, received only eight votes this time, one less than Jackson. McCormack received six and Harris one.

Voters of Eveline township gave their approval to the sale of liquor by the glass and those in Norwood township turned down a millage issue for roads in the Presidential Primary Election last week.

The sale of spirits (liquor) by the glass in addition to beer and wine got the nod by a margin of 145 to 120.

The millage issue in Norwood township was defeated by a more decisive margin. The proposal that would have permitted the raising of the Tax Limitation by three mills for three years went down by a 101 to 30 margin and the proposal that would allow the tax to be levied failed by a vote of 93-40.

In the only other special issue, voters of Melrose township turned down a proposed 0.50 mill for one year to underwrite the costs of police protection by a vote of 136 to 81.

A second issue that gave permission to transfer approximately $4,000 from the firehall fund to the road fund was approved by a vote of 125 to 88.

Candidates Continue To File For Various County Seats

The list of candidates for county offices is growing with the approaching June 1 deadline for filing.

Incumbents Treasurer Anah Potter, Drain Commissioner Ronald Geer and Registrar of Deeds Grover Geneit, all Republicans, have filed petitions, as has Robert Neff, Republican candidate for Sheriff.

The list of candidates for the County Board of Commissioners includes Delbert Ingalls, Republican and Robert Christensen, Democrat in District 1; Clyde Cunningham, Republican, and Willis (Bill) Peters, Republican, in District 3; Iro L. Davis, Republican, in District 4; Ralph Richardson, Republican, in District 5; Keith Annear, Republican, in District 9; Oral Sutliff Republican, in District 11; John Kujawski, Republican, in District 12; and Oscar Ward, Democrat, in District 14.

Petition Deadline June 1 For Politics

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin is reminding prospective political candidates in Michigan that June 1, 1976 is their deadline for filing petitions in time to qualify for the August primary election.

Austin noted, "The reminder is particularly important this year, because the deadline is two weeks earlier than in previous years."

He added, "Although the June 1st final filing date is indicated on the state's official election calendar, we are concerned that a number of candidates and political organizations may fail to take into account the new deadline and could wind up turning in petitions too late to get on the August ballot."

Voter Registration Lists Open For Public View

Bill Peters of the Citizens Information Service reports that his organization has sent out a letter to all township and city clerks and the County Clerk reminding them that voter registration lists are open to the public. A copy of the applicable statue was enclosed with the letter.

Peters says that some candidates for office have had trouble obtaining such lists from the clerks.

"We are willing to view the lists at the clerks' convenience and are not seeking any suppressed information incriminating to anyone," he added."

Rayders Take Third At Track Regionals

The Charlevoix Raydera qualified in six events at the Regional Track Meet Saturday and will be sending the Mile Relay team and three others to the State Meet at Ithaca June 5. Coach Dave Moyer reported Sunday night.

The Rayders also placed in six other events for a total of 33 points and a third in the regional meet won by Rogers City with 58 points, and Benzie Central, meet hosts, second with 36 points.

Qualifying for state competition are Kirk Lieberman who placed first in the shot put with a distance of 49'0" and second in the discus with a torow of 132'6"; Bob Alger who came in second in the high hurdles with a time of 15.1 to set a new school record. The old record was 16.2.; Ed Russell, a second in the 440 yd. run with a time of 51.7; Wally Drenth, a third in the two mile with a time of 10:07 and the mile relay team (Chuck Towsley, Russell, Brian Williams, Ed Bourke) a third with a time of 3:37.

Also adding to the points were Tom Jones a sophomore with a fourth in the shot put (46'5"); Ed Mann with a fourth in the 100 yd. dash (10.5); Steve Schuch, a freshman, with a fourth in the long jump (19'7½"); the 880 yd. relay team (Schuch, Kerry Speer, Russell, Mann) with a fourth place (1:37.2); Chuck Towsley with a fourth in the 880 yd. run (2:03.6) and Brian Williams with a fifth in the same event (2:04.6); Alger with a fifth in the low hurdles (21.5).

The Rayders are scheduled to participate in the Petoskey Relays Thursday and the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Petoskey Thursday.

The Charlevoix girls track and field team, coached by Mrs. Marie Osterberg, scored 12 points and finished in eighth place at the Regional track meet at Benzie Central Saturday.

The team also qualified three members for the State Meet to be held at St. Louis June 5.

Terri Novotny, with a time of 27.8 placed second in the 220 yd. dash: Sandra Hodge with her best throw to date, 90' 6" placed third in the discus and Kay Currey, with a jump of 4' 10", was third in the high jump.

Sherri Selissen with a time of 28.4 and a 440 Relay team (Novotny, Tammy Mitchell, Karen Sell, Currey) with a time of 54.2 placed fifth in the meet to pick up points for the team.

The Charlevoix girls will travel to Boyne City for the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet Wednesday.

Tennis Team Loses To Alpena

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team dropped its second meet of the season to a strong Alpena team by a score of 4-3 at Alpena Tuesday.

Charlevoix will close out its season Wednesday when the Rayders host Boyne City at the municipal courts.

In reporting the results of the meet at Alpena, Coach Chuck Wright said that seniors John Greene, Eric Slone and Dan Engstrom, playing in the doubles, had won all their scheduled dual meets this season. Mark Hosmer is the fourth senior on the team. Wright said they were all good competitors and their graduation will mean a great loss to the team.

In Tuesday's meet, Charlevoix won only one singles match and two doubles as they bowed to Alpena.

Dave Morgridge posted the one win in the singles division, 6-4, 7-5 while Mark Lignell lost 6-1, 6-2; Steve Berlage lost 6-3, 6-0; Lisa Weimer lost 6-0, 6-1.

In the doubles division, Green and Marc Malpell won in a cliff-hanger 6-7, 6-3, 6-1; Slone and Engstrom won 6-2, 7-5 after being down 5-1 in the second set before pulling it out, and Hosmer and Dave Taylor lost 6-4, 6-0.

The team now has a 7-3 record for scheduled play.

Elaine Carr Sets Big 10 Record

Track Star Burns Up Records

Elaine Carr, Michigan State University junior and a member of the MSU Women's Track team, qualified recently for the AIAW National Championships being held at Manhattan, Kansas.

She qualified for the national event during the recent Big Ten meet at East Lansing when she set a new Big Ten record for the 400 meter (440 yd) high hurdles with a time of 63.2. The time is also a MSU record.

She is also a member of the Mile Relay team which qualified with a time of 3:58.5. A time of 4:0 was necessary to qualify.

After appearing at the AIAW championships this week, she and her team-mates will enter the U.S. Federation Championships at Wichita, Kans., May 28-29.

MSU finished second behind Wisconsin in the recent Big Ten meet in which eight of the 10 schools participated. Wisconsin had 163 points to 139 for Michigan State.

Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Carr, has had an outstanding season in track this spring.

It all started in March when she was named to a seven-member team to represent MSU at the Florida Relays at Gainesville where she placed fourth in the 400 meter hurdles.

Later she placed first in the same event and as a member of MSU's mile relay team at the Ohio State Invitational; had firsts in the same events at the Invitational Pentathaion at Bowling Green, Ohio, where her time in the 400 meter hurdles was 64.5; firsts in a dual meet at Tennessee with times of 65.6 in the hurdles and 4:03.9 in the mile relay; firsts in the mile relay and 880 yd relay at the Western Michigan University Invitational and a second in the 400 meter hurdlea and a first as a member of the mile relay team at the Becky Boone Relays at Richmond, Ky. In taking a second in the hurdles, her time was 64.1; the team's time in the mile relay was 3:59.8.

Elaine started her track career at the Charlevaix high school when girls' track was first introduced as a Michigan-Huron Shores sport piror to her graduation in 1973.

RUNNING HER HEART out on the Michigan State University track team is Elaine Carr. The MSU junior recently broke a Big Ten record for the 400 meter high hurdles with a time of 63.2 seconds. She is a 1973 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

440 Relay: 1. (Niswander, Elzinga, Wood, Liz Keller). Time: 60.0.

The Charlevoix Middle School teams will close out their regular schedule with a dual meet with St. Ignace at Kipke field on May 27.

Sheriffs Need Not Patrol Roads

County Sheriff's Departments have no legal duty to maintain rood patrols, the Michigan Court of Appeals recently ruled.

This decision is especially important in Charlevoix County, according to Sheriff Philo Sumner, because he has been criticized for not furnishing road patrols to certain areas of the county, notably Melrose Township snd the Village of Boyne Falls.

The decision reads in part, "All thot is minimally required is thot the Sheriff exercise reasonsble diligence to (1) keep abreast of those areas inadequately policed, which may require limited vigilance, (2) monitor criminal activity or unusual conditions in the county and (3) respond professionally to calls for assistance from the citizenry."

"The Department is fortunate the county has given us as many deputies ss we have to perform our duties," Sumner said.

By resolution in March, 1975, the County Board of Commissioners restricted the number of certified deputies in the Sheriff's Department to nine and a half. This includes a half time deputy on Beaver Island and the Animal Control Officer and Marine Officer.

Sumner pointed out that he must cover the 441 square miles of Charlevoix County and serve its 18,000 people with these deputies.

In response to Melrose Township's request for patrol service, both the Sheriff's Department and the State Police made studies of the area to furnish patrols on a contract basis. The Sheriff's Department offered to provide a patrol for $19,000 s year on a 40-hour-weekly basis using a township car, and the State Police offered 20 to 23 hours a week patrolling with car for the same figure. Neither wos accepted.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has cited Michigon law regarding the contracting of police protection:

"A village which desires additional police protection has the option of entering into a contract with the county whereby the sheriff would be obligated to provide additional manpower to the villsge."

In the recent election, Melrose Township voted down a proposition to levy one-half mill to hire s retired state policeman part time.

Students Clean Up Jordan River

The Jordan River is cleaner by several dozen bags of trash than it was before s group of 18 atudents snd their instructors from the Charlevoix High School made a sweep of the river recently.

According to Norm Probert, who, with Pete Spieles and Nelson Green were adult odvisors to the group, some of the party had canoed down the streom eorlier and seen how much trash had been thrown into the river since last summer.

As a result they organized a group of science, government and wresting students, some equipped with scuba diving equipment, into a trash recovery force. The group entered the river at Graves Crossing and traveled to Rogers Bridge. They picked up bags full of trash that were later piled high on a pickup truck. A friend of the late C. C. Walker, o widely-known conservationist, took several of bags for disposal.

"There's much more to be done and we hope to return and do more," Probert said.

Junior Track Team Defeats Petoskey

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity trock team, with a total of 64 points, defeated the young Petoskey Northmen in a dual meet held recently at Petoskey. The Northmen had 47 points.

The young Rayders had nine of a possible 14 first ploces and seven second places to nail down the meet.

Charlevoix point winners were:

Shot put: 1. Tom Jones; 3. Greg Krueger. Distance: 42' 10".

Long jump: 1. Steve Schuch; 2. Kerry Speer; 3. Craig Boss. Distance: 18' 1".

Bicentennial Camporee Draws Area Scouts to Mackinaw

Charlevoix's Scout troops and the Webelo troop of Pack 11 were among the 126 units numbering 2,100 Scouts who attended the Scenic Trail Council bicentennial camporee at Mackinaw City recently.

Besides the traditional camp out the Scouts visited Fort Michilimackinac and the fort on Mackinac Island, both dating back to the early days of this country. Others crossed the Mackinac Bridge and visited Wilderness State Park.

Attending from Charlevoix were Troop 50 whose membership is composed of handicapped boys: Rick Merriner, Bob Hahn, Fred Moyer, Dale Martin and Sean Sweency. Clement Olach is the Scout Master. Robert Bergmann of the Scout committee accompanied the troop.

Troop 43 with Dr. Jeff Porter as Scout Master, had the following patrols at the event: Rattlesnake: Phil Morrison, Mike Klama, Scott Barrett, snd Curtis Dixon; Eagles: Willie Johnston, Mike Martin, Scott Johnston and Louie Knutson; Beavers: Gregg Dixon, Ed Sarasin, John Case, Matt Boulton, Dale King and John Geserick.

Troop 43 staff was composed of Francis Pischner, Dr. Porter, Richard Martin, Don Leonard, Joe Earley, Tim Hanna, Joe Seidel and Roger Pischner.

Webelo Pack 11 with David Novotny, as leader and William Stevens as his assistant was made up of Scott LaBlance, John Spieles, Bill Dohm, Mark Mosley, Glenn Smith, Jeff Russell, Dudley Stevens, Chris Putman and Mike Baer.

The patrols of Troop 11 who attended were: Owl patrol: Mitch Martin, patrol leader, Kevin Whitley, David Buday, Paul Stangis, Willy Ranger and Jim Duke; Flaming Eagle: Jim Landon, patrol lesder, Joe Smith, Patrick Avery, Steve Young, Shane Wade, Tony Wade, and Jim Baker; Wolverine patrol: Allen Muma, patrol leader, Mike Paul, George Smith, Robert Muma, Tim May and Greg Wojan. Scout Master Louis Edwards, Assistant Scoutmaster John Houting and Elwood Wade accompanied the troop.

Springbrook Hills

Joe Breidenstein–Project Manager

Live in comfort and style at the Springbrook Hills, where condominium conveniences and security with individual home privacy are offered. They are Michigan's most complete year round development.

Springbrook Hills is conveniently situated 3½ miles East of US 131 at Walloon Lake Junction, in Walloon Lake, phone 535-2227.

These beautiful homes, located in the Petoskey School District, offer all the conveniences of apartment house living without the problems of having neighbors only "a wall away". These are individual homes designed to each person's own taste.

These homes can be privately owned, or fully equipped vacation homes which you may rent for the day, week or season. At Michigan's "most ecology minded development", homes and choice building sites are available.

The grounds where these fine homes are located are landscaped to provide the otlimate in carefree, country-style living.

In the summer, they feature fresh water swimming, golf, bike riding, horse back riding and more. The winter months offer cross country skiing, snowmobile riding, skiing and more.

If you're retired or just considering living somewhere where the pressures and bustle of life won't get you down consider Springbrook Hills.

The authors of this 1976 Review recommend Springbrook Hills to all our readers.

They carry a fine selection of boats such as Starcraft, Glastron, MFG sail boats, and Grumman canoes as well as a complete selection of motors. To round out their services they offer boat rentals and boat storage.

As the writers of this 1976 Review we think you'll like the fine service that Four Seasons Marina is capable of.

Ken's Anchorage And Sporting Goods

Quality, service, low prices. Those are three of the best reasons we can think of for dining at Ken's Anchorage and Sporting Goods, where the entire family can dine in luxury for less. Myra and Ken Crawford are the owners of this fine establishment.

Located at 201 W. Mill St. in East Jordan, phone 536-2851, this outstanding restaurant features all of the traditional favorites such as steaks, fried chicken, chops, sandwiches, salads, seafood and the Ken's "Anchorage Special", the T-Bone. Whether it's breakfast, lunch or dinnertime...you always dine better for less at this well known restaurant!

They have recently remodeled their restaurant for your added comfort and enjoyment.

At Ken's Anchorage & Sporting Goods you will find a fine selection of hunting, fishing, archery, camping and other related equipment. They are also one of the largest suppliers of Black Powder in the area. Hard-to-find items are also available. You may purchase your fishing and hunting licenses from this establishment.

If you haven't tried the great food, quick service or seen the sporting equipment at Ken's Anchorage & Sporting Goods...you're really missing something good. The authors of this 1976 Review urge you to stop in at your earliest convenience and see for yourself if it isn't one of the very best! Their restaurant and sporting goods department are open for your convenience from 6:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m., 7 days a week.

Village General Store

Andy Robinson–Manager & Butcher

Walker Auto Parts

For used and rebuilt auto parts go to Walker Auto Parts located on Advance Road, 3 miles East of East Jordan, phone 536-7449.

Many do not realize the value of an auto wrecking concern to the community. They will pay the highest price for your old worn out auto, or one that has been in a wreck. Let them take it to their place of business where they will start working on it. Engines, transmissions, parts and accessories are segregated into piles and the body is placed in a specified section of the yard to be used for used body parts.

Many dollars may be saved in parts if purchased at the Walker Auto Parts. You will find all of their parts for sale in good condition and completely checked over. All their employees are familiar with automobiles and trucks, and are courteous and accommodating. See them for auto parts or whenever you have an automobile that is no longer in running condition to sell. Bob Walker, the owner, has been serving the area dependably for almost 20 years.

The authors of this 1976 Review take this time to endorse Walker Auto Parts of fair and honest dealing. Please mention to Bob Walker that you have seen this article in this year's Review.

Bradley Septic Tank Service

Expert septic tank cleaning and service is available in this area from the Bradley Septic Tank Service at 219 E. Lincoln in Boyne City, phone 582-7352.

This respected firm specializes in the cleaning, repairing and sanitizing of septic tank systems of all types, and their quality work has won them the admiration of leading contractors and homeowner alike. Carlton Bradley, the owner has been serving the area expertly since 1961.

Commercial, residential and industrial sanitation problems are their full time job and they know it! Their crews are ready to go on a moments notice to correct any malfunction which may arise with your waste disposal system. Also for professional septic trenching and excavating this is the firm to call.

The Bradley Septic Tank Service stands ready to perform any type of maintenance on your septic tank system. They can repair or clean most any unit on the market, and they can do it faster. They are fully licensed, of course.

The writers of this 1976 Review suggest that you contact Bradley Septic Tank Service for all of your septic tank problems.

Westco Heating

The Westco Heating, located at 800 Water St. in East Jordan, phone 536-2461, knows the heating and air conditioning business thoroughly. They don't "goess" at your problems–they "know" the answers. They are men who understand all phases of this work and they keep up with the latest eqoipment and maintenance problems. Westco Heating stands behind their work and will do a job in the shortest time possible. They understand that when you have a heating or air conditioning problem, you need someone immediately and cannot wait to have it taken care of.

Westco Heating offers you the best in heating and air conditioning equipment and installation, both commercial and residential. Repair jobs are given prompt attention at a fair price.

You will like their employees and find them courteous and efficient. If you want to do business with someone you can trust, be sure to call Westco Heating first.

Robert Westcott, the owner, has nearly 30 years of experience in this field as well as is your licensed boiler installer and repairman.

The researchers of this 1976 Review find it doubtful that you could find a more competent cootractor. Call Westco Heating at 536-2461. You'll be glad you did.

Anyone who has a pet is faced with the possibility of having a urine stain on their carpet.

Most urine stains can be removed if worked on within the first coople of hours. Blot the excess liquid with a clean, white, absorbent material such as tissues, paper towels or cloths. Flush the area with some plain water and absorb as dry as possible. Mix a teaspoon of a neutral powder detergent with a cop of lukewarm water. Work small amounts of the solution into the pile with the fingers. Absorb. Flush with vinegar and water, dampen the area, and allow it to remain for a few minutes. Absorb as dry as possible. Place a one-half inch layer of the dry, absorbent material over the area and weight it down with a book. If the absorbent material becomes wet, replace it with dry. Leave it for eight hours. Brush the area with the hand to blend the pile with the surrounding carpet.

If your pet is a cat there is little chance of completely eliminating all the odor. The stain should be flushed until you think all the material has been removed and then follow the previously described removal procedore. Try a deodorant to eliminate the remaining odor. However, this may not be effective during periods of high humidity.

Fortunately, cat accidents are rare and by following the removal procedures as needed dog urine usually is not a problem.

Club To Judge Gardens

The Charlevoix Garden Club will award plaques during the month of August for gardens with the best Bicentennial motifs.

Mrs. Anthony R. Stabnick of the Garden Club says that since flower gardens are now being plated, gardeners should take the contest into consideration.

Red, white and blue flower combinations and real old-fashioned gardens are suggested.

Camping Becoming More and More Popular

Camping – be it in a trailer, tent, or by backpack and sleeping bag – is the fastest growing recreation in America.

For those who enjoy sleeping under the stars and who are willing to take bad weather with good, Charlevoix County has much to offer.

There are over 500 public campsites, ranging from the rustic state Forest campgrounds operated by the Forestry Division of the Department of Natural Resources, to the more elaborate facilities of Young State Park, which is under the Parks Division of the D.N.R., Whiting Park, operated by Charlevoix County, and Windmill Farm, a privately operated campsite.

Bell's Bay Campground, south of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan, is a State Forest campground. It has 40 campsites and provides trash pickup, water from pumps, and pit toilets. It is guarded at nighttime from Thursday through Monday.

Camping is free at Bell's Bay, but campers must register upon arrival. There are no reservations.

The Beaver Island Campground, south of St. James, is also a State Forest Campground. It has 20 campsites and provides the same facilities as Bell's Bay, but there is no nighttime surveillance.

Young State Park, between Boyne City and Charlevoix on Lake Charlevoix, has room for about 300 camping units. Facilities include electricity, flush toilets, trash disposal, and nighttime patrol. It costs $4.00 a night to camp at the park, plus the price of a vehicle sticker.

Half of the campsites of Young State Park, and other state parks, are available for reservations, which must be received by the park at least 15 days prior to the beginning of the desired camping period.

At Whiting Park, Charlevoix County provides 40 campsites. It is located on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix near Boyne City. Camping fees are $2.00 a night and there is a large recreational building.

Windmill Farm Campground is located east of Charlevoix on the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road. It consists of 500 acres and provides a swimming pool, electric plug-ins and a dump station.

In addition to the above places designated as campsites, the Department of Natural Resources permits camping on any state owned land that is not posted against camping. Permits for this use may be obtained from any D.N.R. office, or from State Police Headquarters.

How many campers use the facilities in Charlevoix County? Last year, 1,357 camps were set up at Bell's Bay, accommodating 4,065 campers; 174 camps were set at Beaver Island for 680 campers; 25,079 camps were set up at Young State Park for 110,376 campers, and 417 camps were set up at Whiting Park.

It is interesting to note that 26 percent of the campers at Whiting Park were residents of Charlevoix County.

All these figures add up to thousands of campers sleeping under the stars and enjoying rain or shine. It does not include the thousands more who used campsites for a day, or part of a day, to picnic, swim, fish, sun, look for rocks, or hunt mushrooms.

For instance, the D.N.R. estimates that there were 6,000 day users at Bell's Bay and 2,145 day users at Beaver Island.

The increased use of campgrounds, coupled with the lack of consideration many persons show toward others, is causing trouble in some areas. Four of the state's 146 State Forest Campgrounds now charge a daily fee of $1.50 to help pay the cost of a patrolman to enforce camp rules. There are regulations governing excessive noise, disorderly conduct, use of off-the-road vehicles, and other nuisances.

Two years ago, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners were forced to close one access road and increase sorveillance at Whiting Park becouse of vandalism.

With the changes, the county has again been able to provide one of the best and most secure camping areas available near Charlevoix.

52 People Walk 30 Miles For Big Brothers

More than 220 people from throughout the area participated in the Big Brothers-Big Sisters Walkathon held Saturday over a 30 mile roote on the south side of Lake Charlevoix, Bob Neff, chairman of the event, has announced.

The youngest of the walkers was eight years old and the oldest 27 Neff said. Fifty-two of the walkers completed the 30 mile hike. The youngest to cover the distance wus Paul Murray who is eight and the oldest was 15. The total distance walked by the entire group was 4,523 miles.

The grand prize winner for the greatest sponsorship money raised will be announced as soon as all the pledges are collected. The grand prize is a fishing croise aboard the motor vessel Bonanza for the winner and a guest.

Olympic-style medals were awarded to the following: Age group up through 11 years: 1. Ted Armstrong; 2. Stephen Young; 3. Deanna Will.

Age group 12 through 14: 1. Kelly Morris; 2. Bill Feis; 3. John Brennan.

Age group 15 through 17 years: 1. Rich Russell who placed first overall; 2. Bob Flanders; 3. Chris Walden.

All qualifiers received a certificate as they finished the 30 mile walk.

Thirty area residents headed by Don Luedke assisted with the Walkathon during the day.

Charlevoix Prepares for Summer Band Program

The Charlevoix Public Schools' 20th annual summer band program is slated to begin June 29 in the Charlevoix High School Bandroom. The purpose of the summer band instruction is to give music students an opportunity to further their musical abilities through individualized instruction.

This year's program will be headed by Dwight Smith, former East Jordan Band Director, presently an administrator with the Chelsea School District in southeastern Michigan. Smith is a clarinet major with a general knowledge and background in all musical instruments.

Bruce Bender, a 1976 Olivet College graduate will also be teaching in the summer band program. Vocal instruction, a first for the program will be offered to all interested students. Bender is a double-reed major and will work with reed and upper brass instrumentalists along with voice students.

Rex Thuston, a retired teacher from the Detroit Public Schools will once again be instructing and advising percussionists. Thuston currently lives and works in Petoskey.

The summer workshop will run from June 22 through July 29 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Lessons will last 30 minutes and students are given the option of individualized or group instruction, up to four members.

The program is open to any music student, instrumental or voice, between the grades of 6 and 12, with lessons being held in the Charlevoix High School Bandroom.

For further information, contact Gury Stutzman, Director of Bands at 547-6491, Charlevoix High School.

Mrs. Peter Vander Slik of Atwood and Mrs. Willard VanderArk went to Zeeland last week Wednesday to attend a bridal shower for Sharon, daughter of the Wesley VanderArks.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanderArk, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Whitelord and children of Traverse City were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jay VanderArk.

Cora Drenth spent a few days last week, helping her son Kenneth get settled in his home in Cedarville.

Visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cooper was their son Herman and family from Grand Rapids. They also visited Herman's sister and family Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arnold, who were happy to have their son David home after three weeks in the Osteopathic Hospital in Traverse City following a bad car accident.

John and Agnes Klooster were happy to have their 3 daughters and families home for Mother's Day. There were Ronald and Darlene & daughter from Traverse, Bill and Donna Wynsma and their 3 and Larry and Bonnie Oosterhouse and sons from Grand Rapids. Larry & Bonnie are very happy with their 2-week-old son.

Helping Kimberly Essenberg celebrate her birthday were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vannamin, Mr. and Mrs. Al Vanniman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vanniman. Grandparents on the mothers side, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Essenberg, and sons, their daughter Lucille Kayner and children, all met at Kimberly's parents, the Larry Essenbergs.

The house was full over to Maynard Alwards on Sunday for Mother's Day and to celebrate Mr. Alwards birthday with 47 Alward children and grandchildren and guests Dessie Farrell, Mark John Essenberg and Gary Drenth, all going strong, we wonder if the roof is still on!

Charlevoix Economy Can Expect Upswing

The Charlevoix County economy, already on the upswing, will be getting an additional boost in the months ahead.

The basis for the forecast is the flood of extra cash that local residents will be receiving from Washington.

The windfall will consist chiefly of refunds that will be made to those who overpaid on their income taxes for the past year due to excessive amounts withheld from their paychecks.

In addition, many people failed to take advantage of changes in the tax law, especially the one that permitted $30 tax credits for each taxpayer and for most of his exemptions.

As a result, the Internal Revenue Service estimates that it will be refunding about $30 billion this year, as compared with $26 billion last year.

Over 67 million taxpayers will be getting refunds. They will average $421, as against the $391 returned in 1975, according to the official figures.

The tax refunds to residents of Charlevoix County will add up to approximately $1,986,000, it is calculated, based on the average reimbursement rate in the area.

Local residents will also be sharing in an extra $5 billion that will be distributed to Social Security beneficiaries beginning in July. It represents an increase of 6.4 percent across the board.

The increase, which is due to the rise in the cost of living, is automatically tied to the Labor Department's consumer price index and is adjusted to changes occurring between the first quarters of each year.

Last year, when the rate of inflation was higher, resulting in an automatic adjustment of 8 percent, it amounted to $5.7 billion

All in all, the nation's consumers will have $35 billion more from these two sources alone.

Assuming that Charlevoix County residents get a proportionate share of it, there will be approximately $2,324,000 more available in the local area.

TV To Carry Chicago Station

Lake Charlevoix Cable T.V. has announced that beginning June 1 it will carry programs from station WBBM-TV in Chicago.

WBBM will be inserted on cable Channel 3 after Channel 50 signs off shortly after midnight.

Graduates

Navy Fireman Apprentice Louis E. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rathiens of 312 W. Upright, Charlevoix, was graduated from Advanced Hull Maintenance Technician School at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

Obituary

Vaodlin E. Faculak

Funeral services for Vondlin E. (Von) Faculak, 64, former Charlevoix resident who died unexpectedly at his home in Dearborn Sunday, were held Wednesday at St. Andrew's Cathedral in Dearborn. Interment was in a Dearborn cemetery.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Faculak came here with his family as a boy. He left here in 1940 and for many years had been employed at the Ford Motor Co.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Capt. Roger Faculak, stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army, and three brothers, Joseph J. of Lansing, Steve L. of Flint and Anthony W. of Charlevoix. Another son, Gary, was killed in Vietnam.

Lewis E. Juilleret

Funeral services for Lewis E. Juilleret, 71, who died Tuesday at his home here, were held Thursday, May 20, at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Raymond Giffin of the First Congregational church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Juilleret was born in Harbor Springs July 11, 1904, was graduated from Harbor Springs High School and attended Ferris State College and Michigan State University. In 1936 he was married to the former Helen E. Hott at Charlevoix. He was associated with his grandfather and father in the restaurant business until coming here in 1946 to open the Coffee Cup restaurant which he operated until his retirement. He was an ardent hunter and fisherman.

He was a member of the First Congregational church, Charlevoix Historical Society and Charlevoix Senior Citizens.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Lewis E. III of Kansas City, Mo., and David F. of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Joyce Ridge of Ypsilanti and Mrs. Jerry (Nancy) Foster of Charleston, Ill.; 11 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Martha Cole of Kansas City, Mo., and a brother, Joseph of Harbor Springs.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor Mr. Juilleret's memory contribute in his name to the First Congregational Church Memorial Fund.

Jean Wulfman

Services for Mrs. Eugene J. (Jean) Wulfman, 72, who died Saturday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for a week, will be held at the First Congregational church at 4 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. Raymond Giffin will officiate.

Born in Charlevoix July 24, 1903, the former Laura Jean Swinton was graduated from the University of Michigan. In 1927 she was married to Mr. Wulfman at Charlevoix. They made their home in the Detroit area until their retirement from teaching and returned here in 1962 to make their home after summering here for many years. She taught at Grayling, Roseville, Farmington and St. Clair Shores. Mr. Wulfman preceded her in death in July 1975.

She was a member of the First Congregational church and the Mary Brewster circle, Charlevoix Historical Society, League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

Surviving are two sons, Carl E. of Stockton, Calif., and David A. of Rollo, Mo.; seven grandsons; a brother, the Rev. G. Donald Swinton of Charlevoix and a sister, Mrs. Ralph Clemon of Laguana Hills, Calif., and Charlevoix.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor Mrs. Wulfman's memory contribute in her name to the Michigan Lung Association.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

"SECURITY" of ready money. Those of us PAYING tourists who are forced to take our boats, our fishing trips and our money to other towns who are still receptive to the "little guy", and his problems. The word is getting out ...... "If you don't have the bucks, forget Charlevoix"!

As if this weren't bad enough, the docks are in a state of disrepair, the rates for berthing a boat (when you can find room) has gone up as much as 20-25 percent, and it now costs $2.00 to pump out a boat sewage holding tank.....an increase of 400 percent!

People of Charlevoix....you're being cheated! Your once beautiful area, friendly attitude and unspoiled surroundings are being corrupted, sold out, sub-divided, packaged and marketed like so much chopped liver!

Charlevoix the Beautiful? .... I wonder.

Sincerely,
Brian C. Amato

THEY GAVE THEIR LIVES TO PRESERVE YOUR FREEDOM

We are inclined to take for granted the many forms of freedom which we enjoy in this country, perhaps because we have never been forced to live without them; and yet we must remind ourselves of the sacrifices that have been made in order to preserve them for us, by those who were called upon to give their lives in battle. Not only on Memorial Day but throughout the year we should honor those brave heroes, and give our thanks to God for this wonderful free nation we have because of them. And since the list of our freedoms includes the right to worship God as we choose, the Church of your choice is the best place to express your gratitude.

O valiant hearts, who to your glory came
Through dust of conflict and through battle-flame;
Tranquil you lie, your knightly virtue proved,
Your memory hallowed in the land you loved

Service Businesses Predominate

In Charlevoix County, government figures show, there are more people engaged in providing services of various kinds than in producing goods.

More and more, with each passing year, the local area is shifting toward a service economy.

That is the trend, also, in most parts of the country. As a result, the United States has become the first nation in the world in which most of the working population is in service industries rather than in the production of tangible goods.

Nationally, according to the Department of Commerce and the Bureau of Labor Statistics, almost seven out of every ten workers have service-type jobs today–in banks, schools, hospitals, stores, business offices government agencies, finance, transportation, communications and the like.

In Charlevoix County, the latest figures show, approximately 61 percent of the working population have service-oriented jobs. The other 39 percent are in goods-producing occupations, which consist of agriculture, mining, construction and manufacturing.

This compares with 57 percent in services and 43 percent in production in 1970.

Elsewhere in the United States, 68 percent are now in the service sector and, in the State of Michigan, also 61 percent.

The transition over the years to a service economy is attributed principally to automation, which has steadily reduced the number of people needed in production jobs. At the same time, however, it has opened up many new service-type opportunities.

The increased affluence produced by automation has triggered an ever-increasing demand for services as well as for goods, points out Victor R. Fuchs of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Besides creating new jobs it has provided "opportunities for small firms and non-profit organizations, thus insuring the proliferation of independent businesses at a time when large corporations are growing still larger by the absorption of small ones."

Camp McSauba Sets Opening

Plans for Camp McSauba, a day camp for boys and girls 6 to 12 years of age, have been announced by Dwight Boss, City Recreation Director.

The camp will be operated on a weekly basis for nine weeks beginning June 21 and continuing through Aug. 20.

The camp is located at Mt. McSauba north of Charlevoix where a wide variety of activities are planned for boys and girls. The program, geared for children, will feature ten youngsters to each counselor. The camper's day will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily Monday through Friday and will feature hiking, swimming, crafts, games of all kinds, nature study, archery, campfires, drama....learning skills and fun things planned for children.

Registration blanks may be found on the brochures telling of the camp. Camp fees are $30 per session of five days and $25 per each additional family member.

Further information or registration blanks may be obtained from the recreation director at 547-4272 or at his office in the City Hall.

Dixie Highway Topic For History Buffs

The old Dixie Highway will be the subject of the Charlevoix Historical Society program on Tuesday, June 1, at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff will report on this interstate highway which extended from the Straits of Mackinac to Miami, Florida, and passed through Charlevoix. She will cite some of the background involved in designating this as a national highway and also relate personal travel experiences from the motoring era before construction of present freeways and toll roads.

Contributions to this subject are invited from anyone who may have an interesting travel experience or anecdote as it relates to an earlier period when the motorist was pretty much on his own for bed, board, and maintenance of his automobile.

Little League Fund Raiser Set For Thursday

The annual Little League luncheon will be held at the American Legion post home Thursday, Mrs. Don Kelly, president of the Little League Auxiliary which sponsors the annual event, has announced.

Serving will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 2 p.m.

A Kodak movie camera will be given as a door prize, Mrs. Kelly said.

The menu for the luncheon will feature a variety of hot casserole dishes, a wide selection of salads, rolls, dessert and a choice of beverages.

Mrs. Kelly is general chairman of the annual event sponsored by the auxiliary to raise funds for Little League activities, which this year involves 360 boys and girls. She will be assisted by auxiliary members including Mrs. Stanley Smith, who will be in charge of decorations and the printing of tickets, and Mrs. Kenneth Whitley who will head the ticket committee.

Tickets for adults will be $2.00 if purchased in advance or $2.25 at the door; students tickets will be $1.00 and preschool tickets, 50 cents.

Tickets may be purchased from any auxiliary member or by calling Mrs. Whitley at 547-5454 or 547-2791.

Women Accountants To Hold Meeting

The Petoskey area chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants, will be sponsoring an informative address, entitled "Think Metric", to be given by Philip Webb, assistant professor of Engineering at North Central Michigan College, on Wednesday, May 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the faculty room at the college.

Dinner at the college cafeteria will be served at 6:15 p.m. For reservations call Blanche Smith, 547-2116.

City Council Approves $2 Million Budget

Charlevoix taxpayers will see only a slight increase in their tax bills after city council approved a $2.09 million budget Monday.

Although general fund expenditures are up some 11 percent over last year, non-union city workers and department heads are seeing only a 5 to 7 percent hike in their paychecks.

The city is expecting some $2.2 million in revenues with slightly more than half of the municipality's income coming from its utility operations. The electric fund alone is anticipated to bring in slightly over $1 million with another $106,400 coming from sewage operating revenues and $83,500 from water operating revenues.

Charlevoix's current 9-mill operating tax levy is budgeted to generate some $210,750 in revenue, only slightly up from last year's $207,000.

On the expenditure side, most of Charlevoix's general fund expenditure increases appear to be in the area of sidewalk and marina improvement with some $5,000 being budgeted for a new city car.

This year's projected general fund expenditures are expected to be $658,430, compared to last year's $581,400.

Major budget expenditures include $104,790 for police, $52,860 for fire, $36,280 for cemetery, $56,900 for major streets, $46,200 for local streets, $29,790 for marina, $38,380 for airport, $27,670 for golf course and $28,500 for city administration.

Department head salaries included in this year's budget include the fire chief at $10,050, police chief at $12,600, waste water treatment facility operator at $12,350 and the city administrator at $15,750. All salary increases represent only five percent hike over last year.

Here is a breakdown of this year's major budget items:

Beaver Island Opens Airport Bids

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix County State Bank was the successful bidder for $27,000 in general obligation bonds offered for sale by St. James and Peaine Townships of Beaver Island.

Construction is expected to begin in July.

The two townships which own and operate the island airport located in Peaine township offered the bonds for sale to raise funds to help finance improvements on the airport, John Gillispie, St. James township supervisor, said.

The bank's successful bid was for 6.0 percent for 10 years.

Other bids received were from First State Bank of Charlevoix, 6⅛ percent; Citizen's Commercial and Savings Bank, Flint, 7.75 percent; Community Bank, Bad Axe, 6.704 percent; Manley Bennett McDonald & Co., Detroit, 7.6 percent.

The bonds will be retired with funds derived from a 1.5 mill tax levy over a 10 year period which was approved by the voters in the two townships in the Nov. 4, 1975, election.

Earlier the two townships had arranged to borrow $25,000 at 5.65 percent interest for 10 years from the Michigan Aeronautics Commission. This plus funds on hand and revenue from the sale of the bonds will underwrite the townships' share of the $160,000 project Gillispie explained.

The remaining $80,000 will come from matching funds provided by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

The combined funds will underwrite the cost of the proposed improvements that will include a 3,000 ft. paved East-West runway, apron, taxi-way and related facilities at the island airport. The runway will be 50 feet wide. The airport is presently serviced by two turf-covered runways that crisscross from Southwest to Northeast and Northwest to Southeast. One is approximately 3,000 feet in length and the other approximately 2,700 feet in length.

Construction bids will be opened in Lansing at 10:30 a.m. June 19 at the Civic Center Auditorium. Information for bidders may be obtained at the office of the Michigan Aeronautical Commission in Lansing.

Barn Brings Back Old Memories

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

Old timers know the barn, now a luxurious home, by the side of the Boyne City Road, as "The D'Ooge Farm."

Others call it the "McDowell Barn."

It's sign proclaims "Lake Charlevoix Farms."

And most recently "antiques" signs draw attention.

Standing in traditional barn form, amidst immaculate lawns and landscaping, pastures, and white post and rail fences, sweeping downwards to woods and Lake Charlevoix, the barn is an imposing structure.

Almost everyone has some recollection of the barn, its history and legends, as present owners Weldon (Bill) and Ruth Price have learned.

Upon taking ownership in November, 1974, the Prices were warned by previous owners Harold and Marge Hartger of Grand Rapids:

"Everyone is going to ask to see the glass floor."

Ruth Price laughed, as she showed visitors through the antique shop she is opening with her daughter Sara Lohff in the section of the barn opening onto the Boyne City Road.

"One night last winter I was alone here. Suddenly I noticed people walking on our porch, looking in.

"I asked them what they wanted.

"They said they were looking for the glass floor,' Mrs. Price smiled and shrugged.

The legend of the glass floor has its origins in the dramatic redesigning of the barn's interior by the Malcolm McDowell's in the 1950s.

But that legend must be seen in the perspective of the barn's history.

Sources say the farm, which includes a house, milk house, stables and land on the north side of the Boyne City Road, was originally known as "The Grandy Farm."

A date, 1895 and the words Grandy are carved in the cement of the milk house.

Grandy, according to Jerry Haggerty, a Hayes Township native, sold the farm to D'Ooge about sixty years ago.

It was D'Ooge, Haggerty says, who replaced an old barn with the structure of the present house-barn.

D'Ooge's barn, however, was a working barn, full of hay, livestock, and the usual necessities of farming.

Haggerty and Bill Ohle of Horton Bay recall the barn dances.

Ohle reported, "I was very young then, sometime near or just before World War I.

"There was a huge barn dance to celebrate the building of the barn.

"We may have come from Horton Bay by horse and buggy or vintage Ford.

"Our parents tossed us up in the hay mow, while they danced.

"When it was time to go they took us down and we slept in their arms going home," Ohle

Beaver Island

If Mr. Brian Amato had ever gone to Beaver Island and tried to get a berth for his boat he would get it quicker than you can blink an eye. And may I say this also, that the big ships pull into the Beaver Islands out of these dreadful storms Lake Michigan expells once in a while. Thank you from a true Beaver Islander.

Paint Job

It seems to me that a paint job on the bridge once in fifteen years is a very small inconvenience to the yachting public. The pedestrians and automotive public have had to wait for bridge openings every half hour all day long all summer, when the boats are leisurely cruising in and out of the channel. The bridge needs paint to preserve it, and right now it is far cheaper to keep it in good condition than it would be to replace it years earlier than necessary if it is neglected. I suggest that the yachtsmen go up into Lake Charlevoix for the next five weeks and find out what a beautiful lake it is, and how much challenge there is in sailing there, rather than in the wide expanse of the big lakes. I'm sure that East Jordan and Boyne City would welcome their patronage, too.

Police Department

I would like to know what's wrongwith our town. The Police and the Sheriff's Department are really lazy. The only people they arrest around town are people they find sleeping in their own car. You would think they would much rather have them sleeping than have them driving under the influence. But not Charlevoix. Two responsible people from Ludington, respectable people from Ludington, went to Bell's Bay to camp in their camper for the night. The hippies raised so much hell they had to sleep downtown in their car on a street.

State Representative Ostling Seeks Third House Term

State Representative Ralph Ostling of Roscommon has announced that he will seek re-election to the Michigan House of Representatives from the 103rd legislative district.

Ostling is completing his second term in office and during the current term has served as vice-chairman of the House Committee on Conservation, Environment and Recreation and as a member of the Elections, Liquor Control, House Policy and Economic Development committees.

He has also served on two special legislative committees, the Public Service Commission Investigating Committee and a "watchdog" committee for the Civil Service.

In making the announcement, Ostling said the major problems facing the state today are focused on money. "I continue to be much concerned about the big spenders in Lansing. I think the voters want the escalation of government programs stopped, and I agree. Yet in spite of these fiscally difficult times, the big spenders are calling for more taxes so they can spend more money.

"I totally disagree and the only tax increase on the income tax I could possibly support would be one that is coupled with an equal amount of relief from the property tax and from nuisance taxes. I want to see the state hold the line on spending and begin immediately to put away a surplus for lean years."

Ostling also listed welfare reform and a better climate for business, particularly small business, as top priority issues.

"I would like to see less dependency on government at all levels. It appears easy to look to the government for the provision of services," he added.

"Each increase in services costs you and me more money. We will stop governmental regulations of our lives only if we stop demanding so much from it."

Ostling also said, "I have supported and will continue to work to gain passage of legislation which would call for less regulation of services provided by private enterprise. Lively competition on the open market can and will assure the consumer a fair distribution of dependable products and reliable services."

Representative Ostling is a native of Roscommon and has lived there all his life. Before entering the legislature he served as clerk of Gerrish Township for 17 years and was a secondary school teacher for 20 years. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master's Degree in Industrial Education from Central Michigan University.

Sunday High School Commencement Set

The eighty-eighth annual Commencement Exercises for the 112 members of the 1976 graduating class of the Charlevoix High School will be held at the high school gymnasium at 3:00 p.m. Sunday.

Howard F. Lancour, Executive Director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission will deliver the Commencement Address.

Lancour will be introduced by James A. McKimmy, Superintendent of Schools.

Kim S. Gould will open the program with the salutatory followed by Denise K. Boss who will deliver the valedictory.

Following the Commencement Address, Roy M. Fortin, Assistant Principal, will present awards; Vane H. Smith, Principal and Nelson Green, Class Advisor, will present the Class of 1976; C. Max Novak, President, Claire C. Martin, Treasurer, and Donald W. Brown, Trustee, of the Board of Education, will confer the honors of graduation.

The graduates will enter the gymnasium to the strains of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the Charlevoix High School Symphony Band under the direction of Gary L. Stutzman. The band will also play a senior selection, "Incantation and Dance" by John Barnes Chance and the Recessional.

The Rev. Albert F. Mansen will present the invocation and the Rev. Keith Simon the benediction.

An honor guard of Junior Class members will bring the graduates into the gymnasium.

New County Courtesy Guide off Press

The first run of the Charlevoix County Courtesy Guide is off the press.

The 22-page, four color brochure contains a detailed map of the county complete with the new county road numbers and a separate map of Beaver Island. The locations of all township halls in the county are also indicated for the first time.

There are brief descriptions of each city and village in the county along with recreational facilities available in each area. There are also lists of boat launching ramps and parks within the county.

The 35,000 Courtesy Guides will be sent to the Michigan Tourist Council, the State Department of Highways, American Automobile Association offices and local chambers of commerce for distribution to prospective tourists and vacationers in the area.

In addition, 20,000 copies of the map only are being printed for distribution locally.

The total cost of the guide and map to the county will be under $1,500, according to County Planner Bill Mercer.

Dear Mr. President

Gerald R. Ford
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President,

I am writing this letter because I thought it should more appropriately come from me than from one of the 17 other young people you will be getting to know this year. I am one of the 13 others who were not recommended by your Commission as a 1976-77 White House Fellow to the President.

You'll have to excuse the length of this letter, but I have decided to share it with my readers, who took a genuine interest in your White House Fellowship Program.

When I was flying back from Washington late Monday morning, I tried to think of some way I could tell as many people as possible about my three-day experience with your Commission.

While you were out last week campaigning in Texas to keep your job in The White House, I was in Washington trying to get one on your staff.

As I'm sure you are aware, I was the youngest of 30 young Americans, who competed in the most rigorous White House Fellowship competition since the first year of the program over a decade ago. In fact, there were just under 41,000 requests for applications compared with 28,000 last year.

I wish I could feel disappointed that I won't be able to take a sabbatical from my job as editor of the Charlevoix Courier to work in The White House for a year as a Fellow. But after meeting the 29 other candidates last week, I felt honored that your Commission would consider me among them.

As you know, the 30 finalists met Friday morning at the Civil Service Commission offices to be taken by chartered bus to Airlie House Conference Center located in the shady countryside of Virginia. The quiet retreat offered a relaxed atmosphere to meet both the members of your Commission and the other candidates.

For the next three days, we were interviewed by the Commission in a series of eight 25-minute sessions. At each session, two Commissioners interviewed us on an individual basis covering everything from the nation's unemployment to the role of the press.

I think what impressed me more than the interviews was the caliber of people conducting the sessions.

I can't think of too many 25-year-olds who can say they were able to spend the weekend with Governor William Scranton, U.S. permanent representative to the United Nations, or even your own Secretary to the White House Cabinet, James E. Connor.

As I went through the biographies of your 10 commission members, I was impressed that these 10 people were willing to spend three days to search out potential leadership material to work with you for a year.

It would take too long to list the credentials of your White House Fellowship Commission, but I don't think any of them should be left out in thanking them for the time and good job they did with us.

Other Commission members included Peter F. Krogh, dean of Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service; Alan J. Pifer, president of The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; Levi A. Jackson, Urban Affairs Manager for Ford Motor Company; Neal B. Freeman, President of Jefferson Communications; Walter G. Davis, Director of Education, AFL-CIO; Kenneth R. Cole, Jr., vice president of Union Camp Corporation and former White House assistant; Mercedes A. Bates, vice president of General Mills, Inc.; Patricia Reilly Hitt, former Assistant Secretary for Community and Field Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Herbert James Storing, University of Chicago political science professor; David B. Truman, president of Mount Holyoke College; Miles W. Kirkpatrick, lawyer and former Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission; and Elizabeth A. Kovachevich, Florida Circuit Court Judge.

As you well know, the Commissioners' titles only briefly indicate the credentials these people hold.

Equally impressive were the candidates, which included several mothers who were able to maintain a family, earn advance degrees and have a professional career.

Nearly all the candidates possessed an advanced degree, with some even having been a Rhodes or Fulbright Scholar.

Besides the national finalists' academic excellence, they have all excelled in their professions and have taken on tremendous community leadership.

Being able to dine and socialize with all these people was indeed an honor. They earned my respect both as individuals and as leaders of our country.

After our three days of interviewing, we were taken back to the Civil Service Commission offices in Washington, where we were given an envelope with your Commission's decision.

Inside was a letter from your Commission Director, Bruce Hasenkamp, regretting to advise me that the Commission did not recommend me as a 1976-77 White House Fellow to the President.

As your cabinet secretary said during one of our meals, it is not the end of the world when one does not become a White House Fellow.

I can't help but think that the three-day selection process has to go down as one of the major events that will ever occur in my life. I know I have grown tremendously from the experience.

If nothing else, the program gave me a direction that will be difficult to offset in years to come.

As one of your Commission members told me, it is a privilege to be a country newspaper editor, as it is a White House Fellow. I'm sure you will find this year's fellowship winners as challenging and enjoyable as I did during my three-day stay with them.

I hope you will continue to lend your support to this program, and again, my deepest appreciation for the experience.

Sincerely yours,
Kenneth M. Winter

Boyne City Railroad Rambles Through Area with New Owners

By TOM DAMMANN

BOYNE CITY—The group of "railroad buffs" who saved the state's shortest railroad, the seven and half mile Boyne City Railroad (BCRR), from ignominious death on the auction block last May 15, have organized under the name of the Boyne Valley Railroad Co. (BVRR), it was learned.

According to its newly elected President, Joe Gierlach, the company hopes to begin operation the week before July 4.

The group met last Saturday under the guidance of State Representative E. Dan Stevens (R. Atlanta) who had acted as group spokesman and bidder at the auction.

With Stevens presiding, the group elected a board of directors and officers, and approved measures to organize the new company under the Michigan Railroad Act of 1873.

At the auction the group, composed mostly of Boyne City residents, or part time residents, successfully outbid numerous outsiders to acquire the seven and a half mile right of way between Boyne City and Boyne Falls, heart of midwest winter skiing, its two terminal depots, a 44 ton General Electric diesel engine and two sight-seeing cars.

The total price bid was $153,000.00.

But at Saturday's meeting Stevens revealed that this price has been reduced to $60,000 as a result of subsequent negotiations with the railroad's former owner, Grand Rapids furniture tycoon, Hollis Baker, also a railroad buff.

Under the new agreement the group has gained possession of the right of way, the two stations, two roofed passenger cars, an open passenger car and a caboose.

Baker retains the diesel and will lease it to the BVRR for $2500 a year for three years and for $3000 a year for the second three years. The railroad company will have the first option to purchase.

The company will make a down payment of $10,000 on its purchase and pay off the balance of $50,000 in three years, according to Gierlach.

This was confirmed by Baker's Boyne City Attorney, Guy C. Conkle Jr., who said agreement papers are now being drafted.

The BVRR has retained another local railroad buff as its attorney, Patrick C. Cassidy, who as a qualified engineer in the summer of 1973 drove "The Duchess", the English Steam locomotive, Baker had imported to haul the sightseers to Boyne Mt.

According to Cassidy and Stevens, the new company will also have to obtain the blessing of the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission, if it intends to haul freight.

It has also been announced that BVRR has sold 5,000 shares of stock at $10 per share.

Boyne City Railroad

An organizational meeting of the Board of Directors, open to the public, is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, Cassidy said. The plan to purchase a standard American steam locomotive as an added tourist attraction will be on the agenda.

Meanwhile, Gierlach said that the company is negotiating with the new state-aided Michigan Northern Railway to assist it in maintaining the seven and half mile trackage and rolling stock in safe condition.

Gierlach said the company is also trying to work out a lease arrangement which would permit it to operate a sight-seeing train on Michigan Northern's tracks between Boyne Falls and Petoskey to provide a triangular service between Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Petoskey for skiers in winter and sightseers in other season.

The Michigan Northern has taken over the old Penn Central main line between Grand Rapids and Mackinaw City via Cadillac and Petoskey.

Boyne Falls is the junction of the two lines.

The old BCRR, built in 1893, was long associated with the lumbering business.

Baker bought it in 1970 and operated it largely as a tourist enterprise until the energy crunch forced him to stop.

He retained the Kruse Real Estate and Auction Co., of Auburn Indiana to auction off his properties in bits and pieces, which meant that the local group had to bid

State Tax Limit Vote Has Merit

The never-ending state appetite for more spending and the attendant higher taxes could face its first serious challenge this year if a petition now making the rounds gets the support of enough taxpayers.

The petition calls for a constitutional limit on state spending and would also put some curbs on local government by requiring each unit to submit any property tax increase proposal to a public vote.

The idea has merit and we hope a sufficient number of Michigan voters (266,000) will sign the petitions so that the issue can be on the November ballot.

Basically, the plan would require that state spending and taxation be limited to 8.3 percent of the state's total personal income for the previous fiscal year or the previous five calendar years – whichever is greater.

Personal income means total income received by all Michigan residents from all sources as defined by the United States Department of Commerce. It would be roughly the equivalent of a state's gross national product. Federal funding projects and revenue for general obligation bonds would be exempted.

The amendments would also mandate that the legislature cannot establish any new programs and services and impose them on local government without appropriating state funds to cover the costs.

They further propose that the state must maintain the same level of funding for all units of government that is in effect at the time the constitutional amendment is adopted.

As one could expect, numerous government leaders express alarm about the sweeping nature of the constitutional proposals and suggest that if passed they could cripple the state's flexibility in dealing with its money problems.

That kind of red flag is countered by some formidable names in the economic field including Dr. Paul McCracken, a former chairman of the President's Economic Advisory Council and a faculty member at the University of Michigan.

McCracken points out that the rise in spending at all government levels in the past five years has eaten up 52 percent of the increase in personal income. He suggests that when opponents of the plan talk about "Flexibility" they really mean "flexibility in only one direction, and that's upward."

Dr. James Ramsey, Michigan State University economics professor, notes that state government growth has been even more rapid than that of the federal government and suggests it needs to be slowed down.

William Niskanen, chief economist for the Ford Motor Company, who supports the constitutional amendment on spending, says that bureaucracy, by its very nature, is bound to seek more jobs, higher pay and more power.

He notes that everybody, including legislators, private business, lobbyists and many citizens can see benefits in the higher spending for themselves but they hope that someone else will control overall spending. Nobody does.

And many lawmakers readily admit that every time a new state tax is imposed, especially an increase in the state income tax to meet new needs, those needs suddenly become imperative and can never be cut back or reduced.

Under the present system, the state's 248 legislators are expected to design each year the frame work for spending and taxation. In the process, they are subjected to tremendous pressures when it comes to cutting taxes on spending.

For that reason, a number of state lawmakers are also supporting the plan because they feel it would give them statutory basis for fending off the pressure groups without fear of retaliation at election time.

The amendment proposals also include a safety value of emergency situations. In the event of a severe recession, for example, the governor could declare a financial emergency. The legislature could then, by a two-thirds vote of each house, exceed the 8.3 percent limit to meet the special emergency for that fiscal year only.

Citizens who support this plan should keep in mind that if it should become law they might have to accept some limitations of public services they have come to expect in the past.

That is a price that will have to be paid if people want to get serious about putting a lid on state and local spending.

The proposal may have its drawbacks – and certainly we do not have the economic expertise to endorse it fully at this time. But it also holds promise of finding better ways of solving government problems than by simply increasing taxes.

We hope the issue will go on the ballot in November and that in the meantime it will receive full statewide debate and exploration. Then taxpayers can make the decision about which route they want the state to take.

Society Says Thanks

To The Editor:

The generosity, cooperativeness and enthusiasm of the people of Charlevoix County is unlike any other locale. We found this evident during the recent American Cancer Society compaign.

We express our deepest gratitude to every person in Charlevoix who served in the following capacity: Captains, Crusade workers, donations to the bake sale, and to the luncheon, Mr. Louis Hollow, First State Bank of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County State Bank, V.F.W. Post, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Village Graphics, Grey Gables Inn, Oleson's Food Store, McPhillips Flying Service, Charlevoix school and business.

We received exceptional publicity from the Charlevoix Courier with the wonderful assists of Mr. Ken Winter. We also express gratitude to W.V.O.Y. and W.J.M.L. radio stations and the Petoskey News-Review for the excellent coverage they gave.

To all the people who served under these capacities we say a special "thank you" for your willingness to give unselfishly of your time by going out and soliciting funds for the American Cancer Society.

All of these were a vital part of the success of the drive, but without the contributions from the business, schools, and residents our efforts would have been in vain. We are proud that the people of Charlevoix County are still carrying on the fine tradition of helping their fellow man through such worthy causes.

Our sincere thanks for your excellent support in making our drive a success.

Salute to Pie

Ken Winter, Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, MI 49720

Dear Ken:

A salute to the great pie! Never in the culinary history of the world has such a monumental "bake-off" been attempted, much less successfully accomplished. Charlevoix is on the map and will be recorded in the annals of haute cuisine for creating a cherry pie of such a proportion that it will forever remain unequalled.

It was a corporate effort that brought the people together and a demonstration of what human organization and ingenuity can achieve. There can be no question that the people of Charlevoix are dynamic and innovative.

In these troublesome times it was a rare and refreshing experience to have participated in an occasion dedicated to just plain fun. I was delighted to share in the frivolity and shall never forget the beauty and symmetry of that great pie viewed from above. It was truly symbolic of what we can do if we work together.

Sincerely,
RALPH OSTLING

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

When the Bicentennial is over and the last firecracker has sounded from sea to shining sea and the orators collapse exhausted after telling us for the thousandth time all the good things about the United States, then I hope we have the good sense to knuckle down and do something about some of the things that are wrong with the country.

I know it borders on blasphemy to even suggest that the "land of the free and the home of the brave" is anything less than perfect, particularly when grandmothers all over the country are knitting afghans that look like American flags and school children are memorizing the Bill of Rights.

But I have a gnawing feeling that if this country is going to live to have a Tricentennial, a number of our sacred institutions are going to have to be redesigned or thrown out.

Take the insanity of our presidential elections, for example.

There was a time when presidential candidates were chosen pretty much by party leaders in smoke-filled rooms. Then little by little, the American people began to feel they were being left out of this very important step in the election process. The presidential primary election was the solution. Fine.

But then along came Richard Nixon and a lot of us learned that our nice little candidates were being bought body and soul by the giant corporations and other special interest groups through campaign donations. Holy Moses! We can't have that.

So we drew up a list of regulations governing who can give what to whom, frosting the cake with matching funds from the federal till.

Congress tried to do the right thing, but botched it as usual. No limit was placed on the number of candidates from each party receiving funds, however, and we presently are witnessing the spectacle of nearly a dozen men and women of various stripes drawing tax dollars to curry favor with their constituents.

As a card-carrying skinflint, I find such waste appalling. In fact, I am beginning to look back at the smoke-filled room with a feeling somewhat akin to nostalgia.

Another thing: Why must presidential candidates spend the better part of a year campaigning for election? This is particularly worrisome to me when it comes to an incumbent like Mr. Ford leaving his desk for days at a time to drum up support in Grovers Corners. I know if I left my job for more than a weekend there would be no end to the catching up I'd have to do. And I somehow feel that Mr. Ford's job is slightly more demanding than my own. I don't know how he does it.

If I were running the show, I'd limit campaigning to the two months just prior to the election. I'd outlaw primaries and turn the chore of candidate selection back to the parties where it belongs. County and state conventions performed a vital role in the old days, but we were too dumb to realize it.

Once the candidates were chosen, I would dress them in sack cloth and they would become the property of the United States government until the election. The total campaign would be limited to six or eight public debates across the country. Candidates would not be allowed to spend the millions they now waste on campaign staffs, campaign headquarters, campaign posters, and what have you.

What else is wrong with the Red, White and Blue?

I think we are going to have to take steps soon, whether we like it or not, to preclude another "recession;" like the one just ending. There is no reason why a civilized nation should subject its citizens to the trauma of unemployment. The loss of a livelihood is a devastating blow to most workers, affecting them not only economically but – perhaps to an even greater extent – psychologically.

Planning is a dity word in America. But if it takes federal planning to smooth out the humps and hollows of our economic life, so be it.

And while we're kicking over the traces, how bout adopting a new National Anthem as we go into our Tricentennial century? I, for one, have never learned to conquer the high notes in the "Star Spangled Banner" and I never will. My choice for a new anthem would be "America, the Beautiful." The "purple mountains" and "amber waves of grain" always get me all choaked up, but at least I can hit all the notes.

Erma Bombeck

My sister is coming for a visit next week.

We have grown up together, shared the same bed, the same parents, and eaten off the same ice cream cone. We're very close.

I do not want her to know that I have poker chips in my planters and winter ironing hidden in a beer cooler.

I've broken my back to make this house look like people have never lived here. For the first time in four years (her last visit) the dining-room table is visible.

I don't know how the White House handles state visits, but I work from a Master Plan. Weeks ago, I made a list of things that needed to be done according to priorities.

1. Get the Christmas candle off the hall table in the entranceway.
2. Throw away junk mail on back of commode.
3. Get the dog laundered.
4. Gather together silverware that matches. Offer rewards.
5. Replace pocketbook of "Valley of the Dolls" on coffee table with new historical hard-cover.
6. Remove light bulb in oven.
7. Take Colonel Sanders phone number off bulletin board and replace with bread recipes.
8. Buy children new underwear and shoes.
9. Buy size 10 bathrobe and offer to loan it to her while she is here.
10. Harvest houseful of dead plants and replace with new ones three hours before she arrives.

Call it pride. Call it pressure from the Board of Health, but I want things to be perfect.

My husband found me trying to get the ironing board down. "Help me with this," I said.

"What are you trying to do?" he asked.

"Take this thing down. It is collapsible, isn't it?"

"Haven't you ever taken it down before?"

"Never."

"Maybe there's a release here somewhere. Here we go. Now, where do you want it?"

"I don't know. Wherever people put these things. Try under the bed with the electric football and the Easter baskets."

"Now what?"

"Whatever's on the list. Me? I have to work on my thin wish."

Terrible Jean's Revenge

Thank you, Abdullah Sheik. Now I have a name for the only right thing I ever did to Terrible Jean. It was the Camel Clutch.

I read about the Sheik on the sports page. He is a professional wrestler and he is helping train Muhammad Ali for his boxing-grappling match-bout with a Japanese wrestler next month.

Wrestling is the only thing dumber than boxing, and the Indianapolis 500 is dumber than both of them. But I still read the sports pages every day, trying to find out whatever happened to Boots Poffenberger. He pitched ball and nonsense for the Detroit Tigers many years ago, about the same time Terrible Jean's favorite sport was pounding me into the ground.

Terrible Jean is the oldest and most fearsome of my four formidable sisters. I grew up in her shadow. So did most of our neighborhood which, thanks to her, didn't need trees for shade. What I mean is she was a big girl, older, heavier and meaner than her only brother, a sweet boy who was so non-violent he protested against the Viet-nam War in 1935.

I watched while the Blue Water Bridge to Canada was constructed within sight of our home in Port Huron and I daily cheered the workers as they brought two great nations closer together. Even at the age of 10 I realized the bridge would some day be a great thing for draft dodgers.

Thirty-five years later I still have psychological scars from growing up in constant fear of being maimed by a shade three with her skirt tucked into her bloomers. A scar quivered the other day when I received a letter from Dolores Messing who lives in Southfield near Terrible Jean. Mrs. Messing asked why I had failed to report that Terrible Jean recently won a tennis tournament in Oscoda. She accused me of being jealous of Terrible Jean's superior abilities. She further charged that I had always been resentful of Terrible Jean's incredible talents, even when we were small children.

It was easy to figure out what had prompted Mrs. Messing to write. Terrible Jean had dictated into her ear while sitting on her head.

I wasn't surprised to learn Terrible Jean had won a tennis trophy. I used to be her favorite opponent and she was unbeatable. Her strategy was to smash the ball into my mouth. I was too skinny to swallow it and too weak to spit it back over the net.

Terrible Jean was a marvelous winner. To celebrate each victory she'd do something exciting such as throw me in the St. Clair River. I couldn't swim but the tennis ball struck in my mouth kept me afloat.

In Oscoda there is probably a river awash with Terrible Jean's latest victims, bobbing.

But tennis isn't Terrible Jean's greatest sport. You should see her fist fight. She used to swing her huge meathooks down, as if pounding nails. It usually took her 30 seconds to make me disappear into the ground, whim-

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Esther Bleha

Esther Bleha

Esther Bleha is this year's president of the Charlevoix Garden Club. Here Mrs. Bleha tells the Courier about the club and what the members have planned for the season.

COURIER: How old is the Charlevoix Garden Club.

BLEHA: It was organized in 1939 and federated with the State and National Garden Clubs in 1947.

COURIER: What is the purpose of the club?

BLEHA: As stated in our year book, it is "To beautify the home and city; to cultivate a love, knowledge and preservation of the flora of Michigan; and to foster true friendship among its members."

COURIER: How many members do you have?

BLEHA: We are limited to 35 active members. We also have 17 associate members, six honorary members and one life member.

COURIER: What are the on-going projects of the Garden Club?

BLEHA: Every year we plant and maintain the triangular garden at the intersection of Michigan Avenue and Petoskey Street. Last fall we brought in a new load of dirt and planted bulbs. When the bulbs are gone, we plant other flowers so we have blooms all season. We also weed and water this plot. In addition, we plant, water and weed the garden on Mercer Boulevard near the old station. We have a master plan for plantings on the high school campus and each Arbor Day we plant a tree or shrub there. We also take care of the planters at the post office and at the library.

COURIER: What are this year's projects?

BLEHA: We are pleased that, for the first time, the city has come to us for assistance. As president of the Garden Club I am serving in an advisory capacity on the Shade Tree Commission. The Elementary School is doing some landscaping and we are helping with shrubs and bulbs. We are delighted to be of help.

COURIER: Tell us about your Bicentennial projects.

BLEHA: Our special project is making a mini park overlooking the lake at the end of Dixon Avenue. We are going to erect a boulder with a plaque honoring Father Charlevoix. We are also going to set up some benches and landscape the area with trees and shrubs. We are calling the trees "Liberty trees" in honor of the early patriots who met outdoors under the trees rather than in taverns or other places where they might be overheard. Our slogan this year is "Keep America's Ideals Deep Rooted."

COURIER: You have a special Bicentennial contest in August, don't you?

BLEHA: Yes, we will award plaques each week to gardens with the best Bicentennial theme.

COURIER: How do you raise money for your civic undertakings?

BLEHA: Each November we have an "evergreen workshop" where we make wreaths and other holiday decorations for sale. In the winter we have a card party, and in June we sell plants at the Flea Market. This year the market will be on June 11 and 12.

COURIER: Do you have anything else planned for the year?

BLEHA: Yes, on October 1st we will host District 5 of the State Federation of Garden Clubs – 175 to 185 members. Hopefully we will have the use of the Belvedere Casino for this meeting.

Electric Co-op Buys into Nuclear Reactor

Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc. of Boyne City and Wolverine Electric Cooperative, Inc. of Big Rapids are expected to share in 20 percent of the ownership and output of Detroit Edison's 1100 megawatt Enrico Fermi nuclear unity scheduled for completion in 1981.

An announcement made last week states that a letter of intent has been signed by company officials, contemplating that definitive agreements will be prepared and executed later. The agreements are subject to approval by the boards of directors of the cooperatives and Detroit Edison, as well as by the Michigan Public Service Commission, the Rural Electrification Administration, and the Federal Power Commission.

When completed, this will be the first instance in Michigan that such a joint ownership arrangement has been worked out between cooperative-owned and investor-owned utilities which provides for a sharing of the benefits, costs and risks of large new generating units.

All winter I go around feeling sorry for myself–wishing I had more variety in my winter wardrobe. Then suddenly it's spring and time to store my "meager" belonging. That's when a new awareness begun. I wonder where did I get all this apparel? Where am I going to store these garments? Maybe I should just box them all up and give them to GoodWill. I began to realize I'm not the neglected waif I thought I was.

The problem at hand is where and how to store a winter wardrobe. Specialists at Michigan State University offer suggestions for summer storage and insect control measures.

Wash or dry clean woolens before storing them in clean plastic bags or other airtight containers. If woolens are not cleaned, hang them in bright sunlight for a day or more and brush thoroughly before storing.

If closets and drawers are not airtight, be sure to vacuum the area thoroughly and spray entire inside surfaces with one of the following: malathion (premium grade), pyrethrins plus piperonyl butoxide, or dichlorvos for clothes moths.

An easy way to kill clothes moths and carpet beetles in a closet is to vaporize paradichlorobenzene crystals with a vacuum cleaner. Special attachments are available. This will give temporary, if not permanent, relief. Remove plastic buttons and hangers, for this chemical may dissolve them.

Use malathion (premium grade), ronnel or diazinon to control carpet beetles. A paint brush is ideal for applying malathion to clothes closets. A dichlorvos ministrip may also be hung in closets for protection.

If a closet with a tight-fitting door is used for seasonal storage of clothing, several days of treatment with paradichlorobenzene will kill moths and immature stages of carpet beetles. Use one pound of the chemical to 100 cubic feet of space (a closet 3 x 4 feet and 8 feet high contains about 100 cubic feet). Place the crystals in a shallow pan on a high shelf, or hang in a cloth bag or perforated container from the top of the closet. Remember this chemical may dissolve plastic.

Cedar chests provide good protection against insect pests. Suitable cedar chest are made of at least 70 percent three-fourths inch red cedar heartwood. Do not paint the inside, but treat every few years with 100 percent cedar oil. For added control, use paradichlorobenzene crystals or moth balls. Store only freshly laundered or dry-cleaned clothing in cedar chests.

Regular use of the vacuum cleaner will help remove insect pests in your home. Vacuuming removes lint upon which larvae feed, as well as eggs and larvae.

Always keep in mind that any chemicals can be harmful to children. Make sure small children are kept away from your storage areas.

Luxury 3 bedroom tri-level, 2½ baths, fireplace, attached garage on wooded lot. Amenities galore. See for yourself by calling for an appointment now.

Your WVOY T-shirt Iron-on

INSTRUCTIONS

1. For best results, apply to material made with at least 50 percent polyester and 50 percent cotton. Shirts of 100 percent cotton do not hold the colors after repeated washings.
2. Cut out pattern along dotted lines.
3. Place a protective piece of cloth or bonded typing paper over the ironing board to keep excess ink from staining ironing board cover.
4. Slip the T-shirt over the end of the board so that the front (or back) is directly over the board's protective cover.
5. Place the cartoon face down on the area of the T-shirt you wish to decorate and pin it to the shirt so it will not slide. Place a clean sheet of paper directly over the cartoon to protect the iron's surface. Heavy paper will prevent the proper heat transfer from occurring.
6. Set the iron on "cotton", allow it to heat up and apply with firm, even pressure over entire surface for 30 seconds. Use a dry iron, not steam.
7. Allow to cool for at least one minute before removing paper.

CAUTION

If you have never used an iron before, have an adult member of your family apply the heat transfer for you to be sure your shirt comes out just right.

LAUNDERING

No special laundering is required. The colors will mellow with the first washing to a slightly faded look which will not wash out if you have followed the directions carefully. Wash and dry with other permanent press clothes using the proper settings or temperatures. Do not use chlorine bleach on any permanent press materials. If properly applied and laundered, your T shirt design will last through repeated washings and dryings.

Charlevoix County Barn Brings Back Old Memories

remembered.

Haggerty said he and his wife used to meet at the barn dances, "Before we were married.

"They had a fiddler, sometimes two.

"Anyone who wanted could come. They had big crowds.

"You brought your own food or drink, if you wanted any," Haggerty explained.

Fred Willis, of Charlevoix, helped clarify the history of the barn dances.

"D'Ooge bulit the barn around 1908 or 1909. He was a professor of Latin at some college," Willis said.

Ohie suggested it was D'Ooge's brother who was the professor of Latin at the University of Chicago.

No one interviewed recalled any D'Ooge first names.

According to Willis, D'Ooge didn't farm the place long, but rented it to former Charlevoix County Clerk, Frank Bird, who farmed the land.

Bird was the host of the barn dances, Willis explained.

Between the D'Ooges and McDowells ownership there was an absentee owner named Swain who opened a girl's summer camp on the site of the present Camp Seagull.

"The place lay vacant for quite awhile," Willis said.

A Boyne City Road neighbor recalled that Gladys Olds Anderson, daughter of R.E. Olds, creator of the oldsmobile, and Dr. Dorothy Dart, owned the property, living in the farm house across the street.

Mrs. Anderson and Dr. Dart sold the land to the McDowells in the late 1950's.

And with Malcolm and Ella McDowell, came dramatic changes.

McDowell, a Grand Rapids financier had summered somehwere near the Loeb Estates, Willis thought.

Mrs. McDowell, an accomplished equestrienne from California, imported California architects to redesign the barn to a house, over box stalls for her thoroughbreds.

The barn-house was restructured inside with what one Charlevoixian described as "flair, good taste and California verve."

A porch was added on the upper end, facing the lake.

The living room adjoined the porch. A large round bed served as a central couch. Antiques and such utilitarian innovations as a stove on wheels were intermixed. The living room flowed into the kitchen.

Living room curtains were deerskin chamois, held by Navajo-style silver concho belts.

On the ground floor of the barn, guest rooms were designed from the "pig room," according to Mrs. R. L. Geiken of Charlevoix, a close friend of the McDowells.

Mrs. McDowell's well-known love of horses and animals and flair with interior design was the source for the persistent rumor about a "glass floor."

The glass floor was supposed to have been built so that the McDowells could look from their living room down onto their horses.

Mrs. Geiken confirms that the story is simply "not true."

A member of the Hartger family suggested that the plans had been drawn for such a floor but scrapped when the costs were realized.

But the rumor is so persistent, there are Charlevoixans who insist they have actually seen the glass floor.

Harold Hartger, a business protege of McDowell, purchased the barn and adjacent farm land after Mr. McDowell's death.

The Hartger's used it as an occasional summer retreat.

The Don Hawkins family, now of Boyne City, lived in the farm house, raising Quarter horses and maintaining the property for both McDowells and Hartgers.

In 1973 the Prices, then living in Bloomfield Hills, began looking for a retirement home.

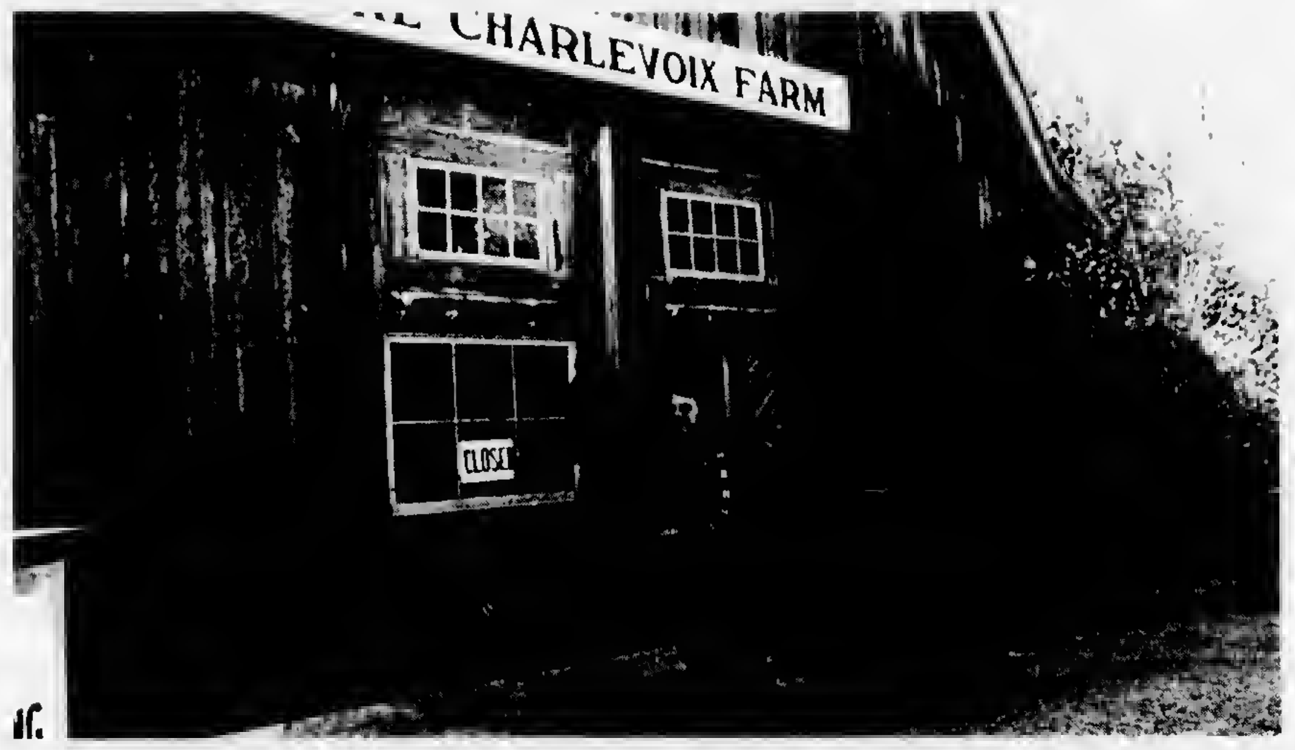
"We'd always thought of going to Virginia, but we love Michigan," Bill said.

They discovered the barn. It was a perfect answer to their dream of expanding the antique business Ruth had begun in their downstate home.

Initially the whole farm, and all the land appeared too big a project for the couple.

But when two Price children decided to join the move to the north, a renaissance of the old Grandy Farm became a certitude.

BILL PRICE prepares the new antiques sign for the Charlevoix Farms. Below: Ruth Price prepares to open the store by making sure all her antiques are displayed.



OLD Timers know that this barn, now a luxurious home by the side of the Boyne City Road, as "The D'Ooge Farm. Others call it the "McDowell Barn" located between Boyne City and Charlevoix.

Eighty-Nine Years Ago

Charlevoix Experiences 'Most Shocking Calamity'

Eighty-nine years ago this coming June 16 there occurred what was described by The Charlevoix Journal of that time as "the most shocking calamity in the annals of Charlevoix, the most disastrous in loss of life and property, and bringing sorrow to the greatest number of persons in our village."

It was on that date, June 16, 1887, that the Propellor Champlain, en route from Chicago to Charlevoix and other northern ports, caught fire near Fisherman's Island, resulting in 22 known deaths.

The exact number of deaths was never definitely established because the passenger and crew lists were destroyed in the fire, many bodies were burned beyond recognition and others were lost at sea. Also, the names of all aboard was never definitely established. Among officers and deckhands were listed, "one white deckhand and ten Indian deckhands."

Survivors gave the names of several Charlevoix residents aboard the Champlain, listing them as George W. Miller, Mrs. Harrison Bedford, Mrs. Ella Smith, Miss Mary Wakefield, Robert Wilks, George W. Wrisley, Fred Wrisley Antoine Sharrow and William Stevens. Three Charlevoix residents' bodies were recovered, those of Mrs. Smith, Wilks and George Wrisley.

News of the tragedy appeared in local newspapers for sometime after the fire. The Charlevoix Journal, in an "aftermath" story sometime later, contained the following story:

"A message by telephone from Middle Village (on Little Traverse Bay) this morning states that the body of a girl about 14 years old, supposed to be Lulu Willard, has just been picked up on the shore at that place."

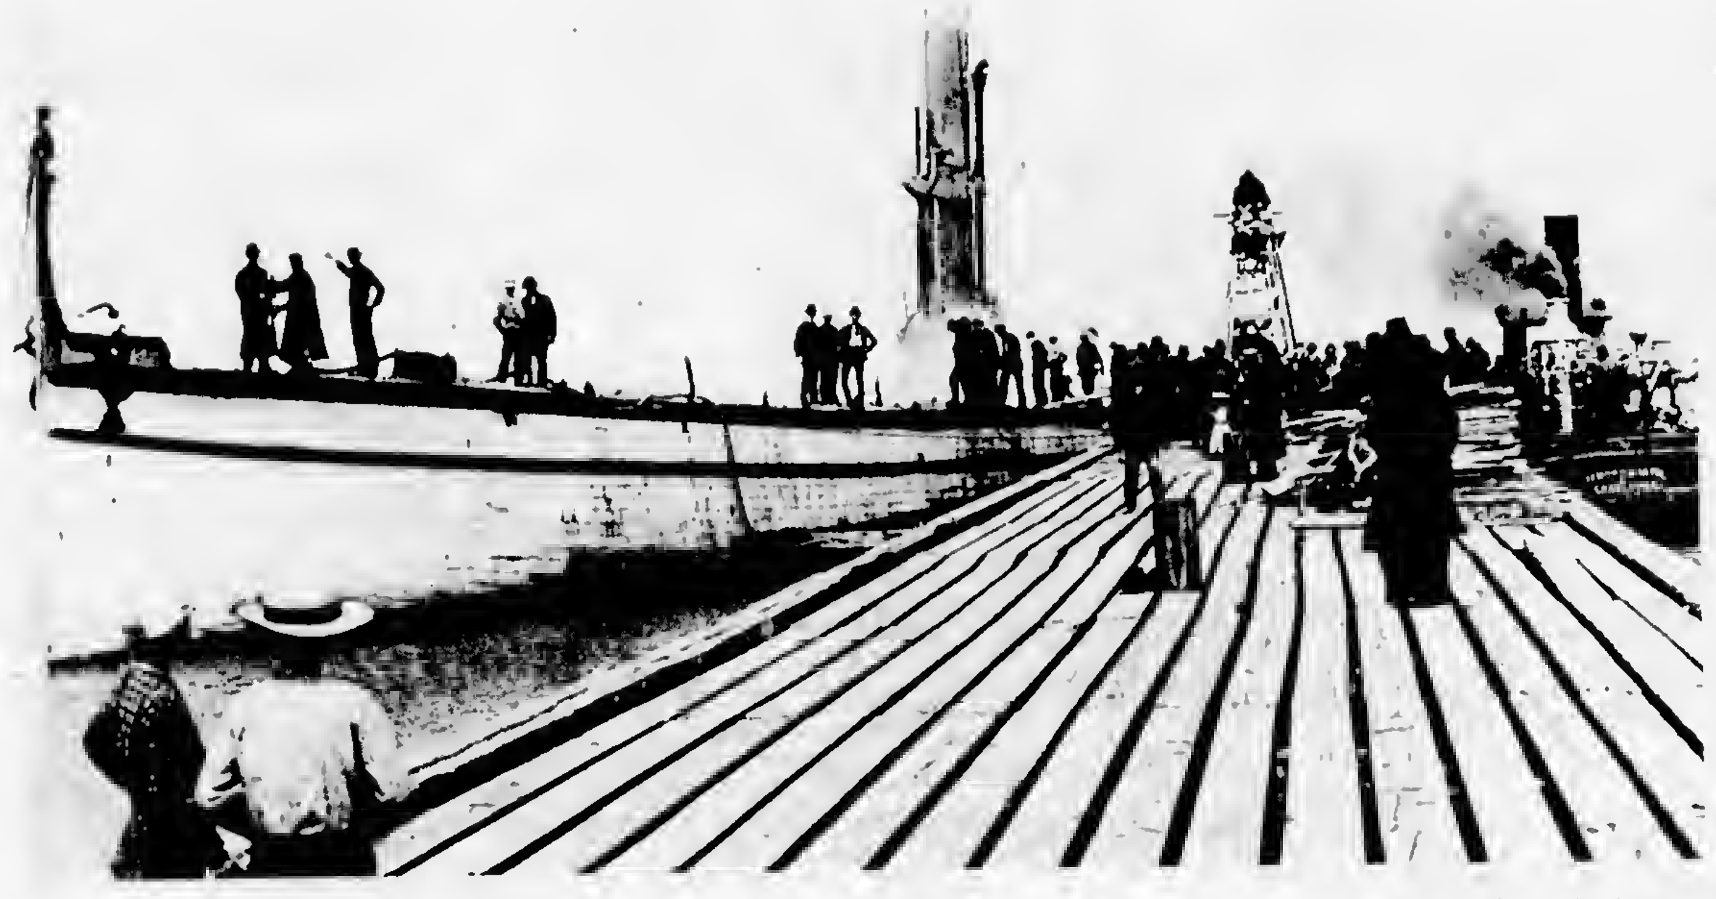
There was not only loss of lives but loss of good aboard the Champlain. An ad appeared in the Charlevoix Journal reading, "Take Notice. My losses in the late Champlain disaster has made it necessary to collect at once every dollar due me. Those owing me willl please call without delay and settle accounts. George W. Miller."

A lasting reminder of the tragedy remains in Charlevoix's Brookside Cemetery, where 15 headstones mark the graves of unknown persons who died as a result of the fire.

The cause of the fire was debated for some time. Some believed that a lantern exploded or dropped to the floor, igniting material around it, and others thought that the dome of the boiler was too close to the woodwork.

Whatever caused the fire aboard the Propellor Champlain 89 years ago, it was a sad incident in Charlevoix's early history.

THESE 15 HEADSTONES in Brookside Cemetery mark the graves of unknown persons who died when the Propellor Champlain burned off Fisherman's Island on June 16, 1887. (Photo Courtesy of Bob Miles).



THE STILL-SMOULDERING hull of the Champlain was towed to the pier at Charlevoix after it burned off Fisherman's island. Also in the picture is the city's first fire engine aboard the tug, "James Martin." The pumps were operated by a steam engine and a hose was dropped into the lake to supply the water as needed. What Will the Class of '76 Do?

What plans do the 1976 graduates of the Charlevoix High School have for their immediate futures?

A class profile compiled by the Counseling Staff at the school reveals that fifty-two members of the class of 112 or 47 percent have indicated intent to pursue a formalized education program; 7 percent have chosen the armed forces; 22 percent presently have jobs and will continue in those jobs; 12 percent have jobs but are seeking different jobs and 12 percent are actively seeking jobs.

A further breakdown, shows that of the 47 percent planning to seek higher education, or 52 of the class members, 34 or 31 percent plan to enter four-year baccalaureate programs and the remaining 18 or 16 percent plan two or three year programs.

This compares almost directly with the figures for the class of 1974 when 33 percent went into four-year programs and 15 percent into two-year programs. In 1975 the figures were 28 percent for the four year and 21 percent for the two year programs.

It would seem that the increase in the four-year program enrollment is significant for the fact that things are returning to normal economically. Generally, about a third of the class could be expected to attend four-year colleges and another half of that number two-year specialized programs.

Eight members of the class have chosen to enter the various branches of the armed services while others have mentioned the services as a possibility in the future.

Of the remaining students, 24 have jobs in which th they plan to continue; 13 have jobs but are seeking different ones and 13 are actively seeking jobs. Of this last group, all were invited to participate in a workshop dealing with some of the basics of job applications, interviews, resume and personal factors. Six of the 12 attended the workshop.

Fourteen of those planning to attend college anticipate majors in health-related fields ranging from two-year technical programs to graduate school. Another 12 are planning careers in business-related fields. Three will be attending schools in Illinois, North Dakota and Florida.

Included in the 112 members of the class are an exchange student from Japan and a graduate via the adult education program.

In the past it has been traditional that most Charlevoix graduates went to either Central Michigan or Northern Michigan Universities. However, this year's class has broken that tradition and has 10 members planning to attend Michigan State University.

A breakdown of the choices of schools shows 10 at Michigan State University, four each at Central Michigan University, Northern Michigan University and Ferris State College; two each at Lake Superior State College, Michigan Technological University and Grand Valley State College and one each at Kalamazoo College, Olivet College, Trinity Bible Institute in North Dakota and Loyola College, Ill., all four year institutions. One plans to attend Bronson Hospital School of Nursing which offers a three-year diploma.

Nine others will attend North Central Michigan College; five, Northwestern Michigan College; two each at Kellogg Community College and Davenport College and one each at Miami-Dade Junior College, Florida, and Kirtland Community College, two year institutions.

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES MAY 18, 1976 8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood, Absent: None.

The Minutes of the May 3, 1978 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Motion was offered by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wallace that the following Resolution be adopted to construct an emergency power circuit to the wastewater plant.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, it is desirable for the City of Charlevoix to construct an underground power cable to part of Charlevoix Township, area of Boulder Park to continue the project of supplying emergency power to the Wastewater Treatment Plant as requested by the environmental protection agency,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix proceed with the construction of this emergency underground power circuit as in accordance with agreement and permit when obtained from the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was offered by Alderman Wood and supported by Alderman Wallace to adopt the following Resolution to adjust the rates for moorage and sewer pump-out fees.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix and in the best interest of the City of Charlevoix adopts a revision in the moorage and sewage pump-out fees as per Department of Natural Resources file No. A4.16 and A 5.13, Serial No. 506-78 and will publish the following fee schedule.

PER DAY

	May 15 through Labor Day	May 1 - May 15 & from day after Labor day thru Sept. 30
Boats: Under 20'	$2.25	$1.13
20' - under 30'	4.50	2.25
30' - under 40'	6.75	3.30
40' - under 50'	9.00	4.50
50' - under 60'	11.50	5.75
60' - and over	15.50	7.75

The fee for boat sewage pump-out services will be $2.00.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was offered by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Morris that the following Resolution be adopted to limit the taxable percentage of personal income tax in the State of Michigan.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix has been advised that great effort has been put forward to limit the taxable percentage of personal income of the people of the State of Michigan to 8.3 percent,

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix agrees it be advisable and,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix go on record supporting the petition amendment to the constitution to limit state personal income tax to 8.3 percent of the personal income of the State of Michigan.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was offered by Alderman Wallace and supported by Alderman Wood that the following Resolution be adopted to revise the utility deposits.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS because of increased cost and increased amounts of monthly utility billings and difficulties in collecting of utility bills, it is deemed to be in the best interest of the City of Charlevoix that the "Standard Rules and Regulations" of the City of Charlevoix with respect to utility deposits and billing procedures be amended to read as follows:

Page No. 2; III; Deposits and Guarantees

A. 1 RESIDENTIAL. A deposit in the amount equal to two months estimated billing based on history of prior consumption of electric, water,
and sewage charges for such residence, but not less than $50.00.
COMMERCIAL. A deposit in the amount equal to two months estimated billing based on history of prior consumption of electric, water,
and sewage charges for such commercial building, but not less than $100.00.

A satisfactory payment record for a minimum period of two years shall establish eligibility for a refund of deposit upon request.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Council reviewed the bids submitted for the completion of Phase I on the Clinton Street parking lot and waterfront. Only one bid was submitted for the entire Phase I project, and that was by C.H. Smith.

Motion was offered by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wallace to adopt the following Resolution to accept the bid submitted by C.H. Smith of $13,816.25 for the complete project.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Charlevoix has determined that in the best interest of the City of Charlevoix that the bid from C.H. Smith of $13,816.25 be accepted to complete Phase I Clinton Street parking lot and waterfront,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the project schedule and date of completion will be furnished by the Acting City Administrator.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $145,256.62 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Whitley that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, Wallace, Morris, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Voc Ed Students Plan Open House

The Charlevoix High School Vocational Education Department will present an open house this weekend to display its latest Building Trades House located at 1010 St. James Court in Hampton Village.

The open house will be held from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m. Friday and from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Saturday.

The house, built this year by the Building Trades classes, is an 1800 sq. ft. tri-level, three bedroom home designed with two baths and a two-car attached garage. It has a spacious living room, dining and family room and a kitchen plus a utility room and workshop. The exterior finish is aluminum siding, field stone and rough-hewn cedar.

The Building Trades Class, which constructed the house, is taught by John Milts, assisted by David Anderson. The class meets two hours per day with two class sections.

The 1975-76 house is the sixth and most ambitious of the houses to be constructed by Building Trades since the course was initiated in 1970.

CHARLEVOIX VOCATIONAL Education students put the last finishing touches on the home they have been building during the school year.

Club Announces Fall Travel Trip

The New Horizons Travel Club is planning an eight-day trip to California in September, as well as several one, two and three-day trips this summer, according to the club's Publicity Director, Cliff Holzhauer.

The club is made up of persons 60 years of age and older who live in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

Recently-elected officers are Mrs. Anne Staley, president; Mrs. Agnes Hegerberg, vice-president; Mrs. Effie Weldy, secretary; Mrs. Mary Leonoskey, treasurer; Mrs. Pearl Phillips, membership chairman; and Mrs. Janet Barber, tour director.

Anyone wanting further information on any of the prospective trips may call Mrs. Barber at 536-2639.

Hey Seniors Here's Some Activities

Two special events for Senior Citizens in Charlevoix County are being planned for June by the Commission on Aging.

On Wednesday, June 8, Senior Citizens from all over the county will gather for lunch at the Senior Center in East Jordan. Meals will not be served in Charlevoix or Boyne City that day.

Following lunch, members of the Commission on Aging will meet with Senior Citizens to discuss any ideas they feel the Commission should consider and other projects the Commission has planned.

On Sunday and Monday, June 12 and 13, a trip to Mackinac Island is planned for all Senior Citizens. Those interested should contact the Senior Center at 536-7831.

pering.

My only chance was to trip her, before she started pounding, and then grab her in my famous neckhold. When she was flat on her stomach I would put my knee in her back and clutch her chin with both hands. Pulling back with all my strength. She would beg for mercy, and I would let her free only after she promised she would never hit me again.

I was reminded of this when I read that Abdullah Sheik's most famous wrestling weapon is his Camel Clutch. He sits on his opponent's back and pulls on his chin until he gives up or splits into two parts. I am flattered by the imitation.

And I don't care if Muhammad Ali copies Terrible Jean's defense against the Camel Clutch. All he has to do is surrender and promise to never hit the Japanese wrestler again. Then he should get up and pound the Japanese to death.

Terrible Jean used to do this while hollering what a dumb sucker I was to trust her. Ali could holler "Remember Pearl Harbor" which is more patriotic.

Obituary

Mrs. Betty Novotny

Funeral services for Mrs. Betty Novotny, 48, former local resident who died May 20 at Wayne County General Hospital at Eloise, were held May 22 the Roberts Brothers Funeral Home in Belleville. Interment was in Hillside cemetery at Belleville.

The former Betty Switzer was born May 28, 1927, and was graduated from the Charlevoix High School. She was married to Edward Novotny in Charlevoix. They resided here and later lived in Muskegon before moving to Belleville where they had resided in recent years. Mr. Novotny preceded her in death Feb. 19, 1976.

Survivors include two sons, Gerald E. and Mark of Belleville; four daughters, Mrs. Londa Kissell of Belleville, Mrs. Lorraine Lawrence of Bloomsburg, Pa., Lynn of Detroit and Lichel of Belleville and two brothers, Gerald Switzer of Houghton Lake and Nelson Switzer of Muskegon.

Mrs. Joseph Hoffman

ELLSWORTH--Funeral services for Mrs. Joseph (Winifred) Hoffman, 85, former resident who died Wednesday in Grand Rapids, were held Friday at the Atwood Reformed Church with the Rev. Larry Brosseit officiating. Interment was in the Atwood cemetery.

Born in southern Michigan Sept. 10, 1890, the former Winifred VanderArk came to Ellsworth as a girl and, in 1918, was married to Mr. Hoffman who preceded her in death in 1956. They had always resided in Banks township. In 1966, she moved to Grand Rapids to make her home. She was a member of the Atwood Reformed church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Martin (Margaret) Elzinga of Atwood; a son, Versal Hoffman, of Grand Rapids and five grandchildren.

The Hastings Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Ray C. White

Funeral services for Ray C. (Buddy) White, 65, who died Saturday in Grand Rapids, were held Monday, May 24, at Holy Cross church, St. James, Beaver Island. Msgr. Victor Gallagher of Alpena officiated. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Born in Chicago Oct. 2, 1910, Mr. White lived on Beaver Island and, later, in Charlevoix. He was a commercial fisherman and prior to leaving here in 1942 to live in Grand Rapids was employed on the Beaver Island ferry.

He is survived by his wife, the former Patricia Shannon; three sons, John P. of Grand Rapids, Lawrence B. of Wyoming, and Daniel P. of San Francisco; a daughter, Mrs. Gerard (Marilyn) Hekker of Kentwood; nine grandchildren; a brother, John C. White of St. James and one sister, Sr. Ethelee Mulhern of New Orleans.

Peter K. Gallagher

St. James, B.I.--Funeral services for Peter K. Gallagher, 76, former resident who died Tuesday at Green Bay, Wis., were held Friday at Holy Cross church. The Rev. Alvin Yard O.F.M. officiated. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Born on Beaver Island, Mr. Gallagher left the island about 50 years ago to make his home in Green Bay where he worked as a house painter and farmer. He never married.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Neil D. Gallagher and Miss Grace Gallagher of Green Bay, Wis., and Sr. M. Leanora Gallagher of Grand Rapids.

Loren L. Corwin

Funeral services for Loren L. Corwin Sr., 73, will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Winchester Funeral Home. Rev. Raymond H. Giffin of the First Congregational Church will officiate and interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Mr. Dorwin died yesterday at his Charlevoix home.

He was born July 18, 1902 in Ashley, Mich. In 1935 he was married to the former Isabel Payne in Indiana and the couple lived in Lansing where Mr. Corwin was employed by the Oldsmobile division of General Motors for 42 years.

In 1963 the couple moved to Charlevoix and purchased the Silver Birch Motel which they operated until 1972 when Mr. Corwin retired.

Mr. Corwin was a member of the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix; a member of the Charlevoix Humane Society; a member and past president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club; a former president of FISH; a member of the Charlevoix Senior Citizens; was active in the Charlevoix chapter of American Red Cross; a member of the Quarter Century Club, General Motors, Lansing.

Survivors include his widow; two sons, Loren L. Corwin Jr., of Petoskey and Ralph E. Corwin of Traverse City; three daughters, Mrs. Larry (Lois) Payne of Florence, Ky., Mrs. Gary (Barbara) Villeneuve of Woodhaven and Mrs. Jacquelyn Little of Romulus; 12 grandchildren.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor the memory of Mr. Dorwin, may do so by contributing in his name to the First Congregational Church memorial fund.

Mrs. Charles Lamphear

Graveside services for a former resident, Mrs. Charles (Mildred) Lamphear, 90, who died May 28 at San Antonio, Tex., will be held at Brookside cemetery at 11 a.m. Thursday. The Rev. Raymond Giffin will officiate.

The former Mildred Johnson was born in Charlevoix and was married to Mr. Johnson who preceded her in death in the late 1030's. Mrs. Lamphear left here about 35 years ago and lived in Detroit and Little Rock, Ark., before going to San Antonio.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ferd (Byrnece) Greisenstein of San Antonio; a son, Jack, of Alabama and several grandchildren.

SUMMER BRINGS US CLOSER TO GOD'S CREATION

The sun has reached the zenith in the sky,
And casts no noonday shadow from up high;
But warms with gentle breezes through the air
A world of life that's teeming everywhere.
The grass and trees attain their deepest green,
While lazy streams reflect the summer scene:
A season meant for living out of doors;
And time to take a holiday from chores,
But never from your faith; for on vacation,
You'll learn first hand the beauty of Creation.
So, in the Church to which your faith has bound you,
Give thanks to God, who made this world around you.
--Gloria Nowak

"Now learn a parable of the fig tree; When her branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is near."

Charlevoix Automobile Dealers Say Big Cars Becoming Popular Again

By PAULA HOLMES

There may be a gas shortage in America, but new car buyers don't seem to be aware of it.

The huge rush to buy those compact, economy-minded, fuel-conserving cars that occurred in late 1973, when the words "energy shortage" first became a part of American's vocabulary, has slowed to a trickle.

All across the country car dealers have noticed an increase in the past two months in the sales of luxury model cars and Charlevoix car dealers are no exception.

"Right today, the bigger car, the bigger engine and the more accessories it has the better the people seem to like it," Dennis Kusina of Kusina Motor Inc. said describing his customers.

"I'm not saying that this will last very long, but that's what people are buying today," Kusina said.

"The car dealer said he wasn't really surprised by the new car buyers trend back to larger cars.

"I never really expected the little cars to catch on," he said.

"People like the big cars–it's what they're used to," he explained. "And they have more room and more comfort than the smaller car, too"

Kusina said the fairly stable gas prices and the improvement in the economy had also encouraged people to return to selecting the luxury models when they visit their car dealers.

He said the hottest items on his lot were the Puntiac Catalina and the Cadillac.

Lyle Miles, salesman for Erber Auto., said improvements that had been made in the larger luxury model cars had also enticed car buyers back to the bigger cars.

"The bigger cars have been improved a lot," Miles said. "Most of them get much better mileage now than they did before."

But even if the cars are getting better mileage, the consumption of gasoline in this country has increased 10 percent over last year, according to recent surveys. And that increase is attributable to the increase in the sale of luxury model cars.

"A lot of people have troilers and other things they have to pull," Miles said. "They really need the bigger car for that."

Miles said many of his customers refuse to buy the compact cars.

"They say there is no way they are going to give up the comfort," he said. "And many of them need the larger size because of their families."

The car salesman said the smaller cars were still selling even with the increased interest in the luxury models.

"The smaller cars are still more economical," he said.

Chuck Center, salesman for Fochtman Chevrolet-Buick, Inc., said the only real trend he had noticed among car buyers was that the sale of smaller cars had slowed down.

"The small car is a seasonal sales item," Center said. "As soon as it really gets to be summer, I think the sales to the student ond secondcar market will pick back up."

"But people aren't really switching sizes of cars as far os I can tell," he continued.

"There's a certain portion of the market that has always had big cars and you're not going to get them to switch from an Impala to a Chevette," he said.

Center ottributed the increased sale of larger cars to people that are returning to the market after not buying a new car for several years.

"We're selling our larger model cars to some people that have been out of the morket for two to three years," he said.

The salesman said he hadn't had any problem keeping the larger cars in stock or in filling orders for larger curs.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL at the Charlevoix High School serves as the voice of the student body and as liaison between this group and the administration. Its responsibilities are many and varied. During the 1976-77 school year they will fall to Kip Cinnamon and Kay Currey, president and vice president, respectively.

Marge Carey Named Cherry Queen Candidate

Morge Carey, 1975 Venetian Queen, will represent Charlevoix in the 1976 National Cherry Queen Pageant to be held in Traverse City June 25 ond 26.

Miss Carey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Carey and she will be sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. Twenty other Michigan communities will be represented in the pageant.

The new National Cherry Queen and the six young women selected as members of the Royal Court will preside over the 50th annual National Cherry Festival, July 4 to 10.

The Queen will receive a $1,000 scholarship, an extensive wardrobe and many honors and gifts. She will travel thousands of miles during the next year, including an extended cherry promotional tour in February.

Five Residents Run for School Board

By KEN WINTER

Charlevoix voters head for the polls again this Monday to decide who should fill two four-year vacancies on the Charlevoix School District Board of Education.

Incumbents Don Brown and Ken Boss are being challenged by three district residents–Otis Elliot, Richard Farmer and Bill Peters.

Polls open at 7 a.m. Monday with voting taking place until 8 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

Brown, 48, says he is seeking the second term to offer his continued support towards the present administration and program.

He said the present school administration has been doing a good job and feels the school district is offering a good curriculum.

"You are always working to improve the curriculum," he added.

Brown was born in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1946.

He served in the U.S. Army from 1946 to 1949 and from 1950 to 1952.

After working for Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in Detroit, Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Michigan City, Ind., Brown returned to Charlevoix 15 years ago.

He had been associated with Hess Furniture Co. of Charlevoix until he opened his own furniture store, Don Brown's House of Furniture, last year.

The second incumbent, Ken Boss, is also a life-long resident and salesmanager for Puff's Appliances.

Having just finished a two-year term on the school board, Boss soys he has learned a great deal about the operation of school district and would like to keep the system running smoothly.

He adds that havbig three children makes him particularly interested in seeing that Charlevoix has the best educational system possible for the money they have to work with.

The 38-year-old resident is a member of Kiwanis and the Community Church of God, where he is choir director and sings in the King'a Men gospel quartet.

When asked about the current building needs at the Middle and High Schools, Boss said renovation is particularly necessary at the Middle School.

"I feel the curriculum we have to offer at the present time is a good, rounded program," he continued.

"There are other things some would like to have, but we can't afford them.

"We have always been accredited by the North Central Association."

Norwood resident Otis Elliot is tossing his hat in the ring because he thinks government should tighten their belts.

Elliot is co-owner of E & W Manufacturing Co., which makes utility trailers.

Although Elliot does not belong to any clubs, he has served on the East Jordan City Council.

The 39-year-old candidate says he is interested in turning the district around–possibly even doing away with one-third of the faculty.

"A portion of our students can't even read and write because teachers aren't doing their job," Elliot claims.

Elliot says that while sports are good, they ore costing the school district too much.

The candidate also says that the present middle school facility only needs a few repairs and that money being spent on the Southgate property could be better spent by adding a room to the high school for those interested in mechanics.

Elliot doesn't think the present curriculum is odequate after seeing his own daughter's work and he feels more essentials should be taught to cope with everyday life.

Bill Peters, manager and cooperation owner of Hooker's Laundry and Cleaners, is seeking his first public office.

The 49-year-old resident is active in church activities and is chapter leader for Catholic United for the Faith, as well as being St. Jude Chapter leader.

He is presently co-chairman of the Citizen's Information Service (CIS) and a member of the John Birch Society.

Peters says he is running because he doesn't think the district has fulfilled its obligations in the hiring of teachers.

"I don't believe they have been effective in collective bargaining at all," Peters said.

"The most important of all, is that the Charlevoix Board of Education has not been policy makers, but have been led by the administration."

As far as improvement of the middle and high schools, Peters says each facility has to be looked at individually with only the essential work being done.

He also says that the present curriculum could be improved with a good solid program containing the "3-r's and G(God)."

Richard Farmer, a life-long Charlevoix resident, retired two years ogo from the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation. While working with the state, he was an office manager for the construction office.

Farmer says he would like to see less emphasis on sports and more in curriculum.

"I also think that the school board should learn to say no to some of the demands of the teachers and mean it instead of giving nto their demands," he continued.

"If the teachers are not satisfied with their lot, they should quit and go somewhere else if they think that they could do better."

Farmer said he would also like to see any millage issue voted on for only one year at a time, instead of every two to four years.

"I believe that if it were done that way, more of the issues would pass and with property valuation going higher each year it might be possible to ask for less millage in the second or third years."

The candidate says his financial background as office manager would help him cut expenses if elected to the board.

Gierlach Heads Boyne Railroad

By TOM DAMMANN

BOYNE CITY--Joe Gierlach, President of the infant Boyne Valley Railroad (BVRR) was elected and retained as the road's General Manager and Chief Executive Officer at a Board of Director's meeting here Saturday morning.

Gierloch was given a three months contract.

He advised the board that as a result of meetings held with Petoskey businessmen and representatives of the Petoskey Area Chamber of Commerce he thought daily sightseeing trips between Boyne City, Buyne Falls, and Petoskey could become a lucrative business for the railroad.

The Board, presided over by Chairman Richard H. Wulff, of Cincinnati Ohio, and Boyne City, set June 30 as the target date for starting the tourist service.

Before then, the purchase agreement papers must be signed by Grand Rapids furniture tycoon Hollis Baker from whom the essentials of the former Boyne City Railroad were purchased at a public auction held May 15. Baker is presently in France, but expected back soon.

Also, such legal requirements as incorporation of the BVRR and a status definition by the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission must be obtained, Chairman Wulff said.

These three top priority items are included on a list of tasks Gierlach must work on before the next board meeting, scheduled for Saturday, June 26.

The other items on the priority list are: insurance, advertising and publicity; safety provisions and procedures; coordination of ticket sales; lease arrangments with Michigan Northern Railroad, over whose tracks the BVRR will have to operate its excursion train on the portion between Boyne Falls and Petoskey; the

Cars

I would like to know if there isn't a city ordinance that states how many cars are to be in a driveway in a residential neighborhood and are being serviced at this time. I would also like to know why the people on the corner of May and Garfield cannot find the time to mow their grass.

Litter

One of the most picturesque and scenic drives outside the city limits is the Boulder Park Lake Michigan Shore Drive. How disheortening to see the litter dropped by careless litterbugs at the end of this drive! One way to help correct this unsightly situation would be to place a litter barrel at the "turn-around". Bell's Bay is a good example of what litter barrels do to keep the environment neat and clean. Mr. Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor would be doing us all a favor if a barrel was so placed during the next three months. How about it, Oscar? – One who loves this beautiful city.

Thanks

We would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to the many friends and neighbors who came to our aid at the recent loss of our home. Special thonks to the local radio station, the American Legion and the Bourkes' Steak & Stein.

Jack & Sue Hogan

County Tax Limit Question Goes on Ballot

By PEG OHLE

The proposition limiting Charlevoix County taxes to 12 mills will be on the ballot in the November 2 General Election.

An initiative petition with over 600 names requesting the right to vote on the proposition was presented to the County Board of Commissioners early this spring. The petition was turned over to County Prosecutor Roy Hayes, who this week issued the opinion that it was valid in all but one respect.

The petition calls for allocating the 12 mills on the basis of 6.7 mills for local schools, 3.7 mills for county operation, 1.5 mills for township operation, and .1 mill for the Char-Em School District.

It is the allocation to the Char-Em School District that Hayes found invalid, citing the fact that, by statute, millage for intermediate school districts is set in the county where the greater portion of the district lies – in this case, Emmet County.

Hayea, substantive justice would indicate that this one invalidity does not invalidate the whole petition.

Before writing his opinion, Hayes also researched the question of whether millage could be lowered under Article 9, Section 6 of the Michigan State Constitution.

After talking with the Attorney General, State Treasurer, and others, it was determined that while it was probably the intent of the Article to prevent the raising of millage above 15, it could also be lowered under the Article.

In a letter to the County Tax Allocation Board, Hayes is advising them to prepare a counter proposal to the 12 mill proposition for inclusion of the November ballot. He is indicating the Board has three alternatives:

(1) Prepare a separate tax limitation of more than 12 mills.

(2) Prepare a separate tax limitation of not less than 12 mills, with the millage allocated in the manner it deems best.

(3) Adopt the separate tax limitation of 15 mills previously acted on.

Before Hayes' decision was rendered, Citizen's Information Service spokesman Willis (Bill) Peters issued a news release in which he promised that if the County Board of Commissioners did not put the initiative petition on the November ballot, C.I.S would "circulate recall petitions and file civil litigation for those responsible."

Peters also said "several commissioners and other elected officials are attempting to circumvent the provision of this Act."

Houses are Like Money in the Bank

Most residents of Charlevoix County have one asset that has weathered the depression in fine shape.

It is the homes they own. They have zoomed in value in the last few years.

Because the demand for housing is so great, as in most areas, and the supply so limited, prices have skyrocketed.

For some time people had refrained from buying new homes, the conditions were unfavorable. Now, however, with the economy on the upturn, they are in the market in a big way.

In Charlevoix County, the equity that local people have in their homes, representing their market value minus the mortgage debt outstanding on them, amounts to a whopping $52,089,000, it is estimated.

This takes into account only single-family, non-farm dwellings that are owner-occupied. It does not include multi-unit properties or units that are rented or vacant.

The details on the equity that homeowners, locally and elsewhere, have in their dwellings, are contained in data compiled by the Department of Commerce, the National Association of Home Builders and others.

They show that the average price of a new single-family house in the United States has climbed to $42,300 as of February. A year earlier it was $37,900. Used housing reached $37,200 from the previous average of $33,850.

Prices are considerably higher in some areas and considerably lower in others.

Going back to 1970, the median value of owner-occupied homes in Charlevoix County was $12,200, according to the Commerce Department. The total worth of the 4,118 local dwellings was $50,240,000.

Their present value, based upon the average overall change, is estimated at $108,518,000.

Most of them have mortgages on them. In the regional area, according to the most recent government figures, about 56.7 percent are mortgoged. Throughout the country as a whole, 61 percent are mortgaged.

With consumer confidence returning and with mortgage money obtainable at somewhat lower rates, the home building industry is emerging from its two-year slump and is gearing up to meet the rising demand.

RICHARD KRUEGER, Administrator of the hospital, is pictured accepting the check from Mrs. Ready in the presence of Dr. Dennis Joy, Chief of Staff.

Charlevoix March of Dimes Donates Funds to Hospital

In behalf of the Charlevoix County Chapter of the March of Dimes, Mrs. Michael Ready who headed the 1976 fund campaign, presented a check for $1500 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital toward the purchase of a special piece of equipment.

In making the presentation, Mrs. Ready said "The emphasis is on the prevention of birth defects. We feel that this piece of infant intensive care equipment (which the check will help underwrite) will help to deal with serious medical problems encountered with newborns."

The equipment to be purchased with the check is a radiant heater designed to keep a newborn baby's body temperature constant while the doctor is treating the child.

In 1975 a similar contribution from the March of Dimes helped purchase a fetal monitor for use at the hospital.

Women's Club Earns Award

The Charlevoix Women's Club was awarded Second Place District Award for outstanding results on its Community Improvement Program at the recent convention of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs.

The local club's Improvement Program is the restoration of Michigan Beach Park and the committee chairman is Mrs. June Cross.

Mrs. Julia Leedy Baer, past president of the Charlevoix Women's Club, and Mrs. William Brady of Charlevoix, the Federation's Northwest District First Vice President, accepted the award.

Club Plans Picnic

The Charlevoix Organic Homesteaders Club, composed of people interested in the care of plants and animals, will have a potluck picnic at the David Anderson home near East Jordan Tuesday, June 15.

The picnic will be a family affair to which new members are invited. Members are invited to bring their children if they wish. They are also asked to bring a dish to pass.

Those wishing to attend are asked to meet at the parking lot of the First State Bank at 8 p.m. for the trip to the Anderson farm.

Anyone wishing more information about the picnic or the club may call Mrs. Anderson at 536-7927.

Special Two-day Event

Bell Tolls for Red Fox Inn

By PEG OHLE

The bell tolled for the Red Fox Inn over the Memorial Day weekend.

The famous chicken dinner restaurant in Horton Bay was the scene of a nostalgic "closing for good" dinner hosted by owner Marian Hartwell and members of her family.

Two hundred people enjoyed the dinner, served in two shifts on Friday and Saturday evenings. The menu of country-fried chicken, dumplings, tomato pudding, mashed potatoes, gravy, hot rolls, relishes and chocolate fudge cake ala mode enticed even the most faithful dieter.

Former customers and friends came from all over the area and from as far away as Detroit to re-awaken memories of days when a trip to the Red Fox Inn was the highlight of the summer season.

Started in 1920 by Marian Hartwell's mother, the later Mrs. Vollie Fox, the Red Fox became known far and wide for its country cooking served in the old Inn that dates back to the late 1870's. Each year, hundreds of Charlevoix residents, in couples and in larger groups, partook of the family-style delicacies. They went by limousines and yachts (the "Sylvia" being one of the most frequent visitors), and often liveried chauffeurs ate in the side room especially reserved for them.

The story is that it was a Charlevoix woman who talked Lizzie and Vollie Fox into serving meals. The Blochs and Goldmans, Charlevoix summer residents, owned a retreat on "the point" at Horton Lake, for which Vollie was caretaker. One evening Vollie took the Goldmans home for dinner, for which Lizzie prepared fried chicken, and the meal so impressed Mrs. Goldman that she suggested Lizzie go into business.

For Christmas the first year, the Goldmans sent a wooden red fox to the Foxes as a gift, and it has graced the Inn since then.

Appropriately, this year a large group from "the point" (now the Horton Bay Club) were guests at the Red Fox Inn on its closing night.

It was a nostalgic gathering not only for the diners, but for those who helped prepare and serve the food. On hand, besides Marian, were her sisters Betty Lou Kelts, who also grew up in the Red Fox Inn, Marian's daughter Mary Lynn and son Jon, Jon's wife, Maggie, and Marian's grandchildren.

Then, too, there were waitresses, waiters, busboys and kitchen help from Horton Bay and the surrounding area who come back to the Red Fox Inn to work. Many of them had their first jobs at the Inn, learning how to peel potatoes, cut cabbage, pluck chickens and scrub pans. They ranged in age from the early twenties to the late sixties, including two retirees who managed to wrestle with dishwashing for over five hours.

Others also came to help – school teachers, a dentist, a physicist, an anestheologist, members of the "Horton Bay Generals" softball team, and many others. And everyone donated his services because it was not only a farewell dinner for the Red Fox Inn but a fund-raising project for Horton Bay's Centennial celebration on July 3.

It was a fitting way for the Red Fox Inn to say goodbye. It has been part of Horton Bay through all its 100 years. Long before the days of Vollie and Lizzie Fox, the building was a boarding house for the lumberjacks of the area. There was a saw mill in Horton Bay in 1876 and a local historian says the lumberjacks were paid $1.00 a day and "found a $2.00 a day and "finding yourself (meaning finding eating and sleeping quarters of your own-more likely more than not in the building that became the Red Fox Inn.

Reibel's Furor Dies in Court Trial

Former 90th District Court Judge Arthur R. Reibel's attempt to stir up the judiciary here with a motion asking that his successor disqualify himself from all suits involving Reibel either as a lawyer or litigant died quietly Tuesday.

Fershee

Visiting Judge Boyd C. Baird of Otsego County Probate Court dismissed Reibel's motion for disqualification for lack of evidence and because several of Reibel's cases are still being appealed.

Judge Baird, who had been appointed by the State Supreme Court, administrator to hear the motion, made the ruling early Tuesday evening after nearly 3 hours of testimony.

Reibel, who resigned from the bench under fire a year ago, claimed Judge David Fershee had displayed a lack of judicial temperament and had threatened attorneys, including himself, with contempt of court citations for failing to comply with his "dictates."

He also complained that Fershee practiced "cronyism" by adjusting the court docket in favor of his friends.

He further charged that Fershee's conduct was a breach of the judicial code of ethics and a violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility and Canons for the state of Michigan.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Roy Hayes, former Wayne County Crime Task Force Director, called Reibel's accusations "shocking" and without basis during Fershee's defense.

Hayes said Reibel had no evidence that Judge Fershee had been personally biased or prejudiced against him.

Besides asking for dismissal of the case, Hayes had asked that Reibel be cited with a contempt of court citation for making an "affidavit in bad faith." Judge Baird denied Hayes' second request.

Fershee was appointed to office in April, 1975, after Reibel left the bench while charged with 3 counts of alleged judicial misconduct.

Reibel was elected to a six-year term as judge in November, 1972. He denied any charges of wrongdoing and at the time, cited his business at Castle Farms, a former roadside tourist attraction southeast of Charlevoix, as the reason for his resignation.

The tenure commission dropped the charges in view of his resignation.

Among the charges were that he allowed a backlog of 336 cases to pile up, neglected to hear or rule on motions, submitted erroneous reports to the Supreme Court administrator, giving the impression of doing more work than he actually had done, and neglect of court duties in pursuing his business and personal affairs.

Reibel

He was also charged with using his judicial power and prestige to persuade or coerce others to patronize or contribute to the success of his business.

Charlevoix Women's Club Hosts Charlevoix Grads

Girls in this year's graduating class from Charlevoix High School and their mothers were guests of the Charlevoix Women's Club at a luncheon Saturday at Elm Point.

In past years, the Women's Club has honored all graduates at a tea, but this year it was decided to include only girls and their mothers, and to have a luncheon instead of a tea.

Hostesses for the event were present and immediate past officers of the Women's Club: Mrs. J. Leedy Baer, Mrs. John Cross, Jr., Mrs. George A. Duke, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Duke, Mrs. Robert W. Bogart, Mrs. Kit Carson, Mrs. Joseph G. Morris, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Reibel, Mrs. M. A. Laliberte and Mrs. Arthur Stoel.

Miss Sybil Levinson also assisted.

Senior Housing Still at Standstill

By Paula Holmes

The Charlevoix Housing Commission is in a holding pattern on its plans for the development of low cost senior citizen housing in the city.

Project developer John Northup was expected to meet with a representative of the Michigan State Housing Authority for the inspection of a proposed site for the housing complex on Friday, May 21, but the official was unable to make the trip.

And he has been unable to set a new date for the visit, too.

"The official called and said he would be unable to make the appointment," Northup explained. "And they've been so damn busy down there, he just hasn't been able to get away."

Northup said he had been in contact with the official recently and he expects a new date to be set up for the site inspection soon. Nothing more can be done on the project until a construction site is approved.

Having a state housing authority official in the city to inspect a proposed site for the housing complex is the closest the city housing commission has been to developing low cost senior citizen housing since it was formed in 1974.

The commissioners said they spent a lot of time chasing other funding programs offered through the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development before they decided to seek funding through the state housing authority.

The commission, chaired by Ralph Shapton and composed of Marge Dinwiddie, Bob Cook, Ralph Hamilton and Ralph McRae, is confident it will receive funding for its proposed project because of recent meetings with the housing authority and because of changes in the funding law.

The commission is proposing to construct a four story, 66 unit apartment complex. The project will be open to anyone 82-years or older, and at least 30 percent of the residents in the complex will be subsisting on straight social security income.

These residents will be eligible for housing subsidies from HUD, the commission said.

It is estimated that the project will be completed within three years after approval of a construction site.

DENISE BOSS has been named to receive the Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship offered annually to a high school graduate entering the field of professional nursing. The scholarship is underwritten by Mr. and Mr. D.D.Walker of the Belvedere Club and St. Louis, Mo. Miss Boss is pictured receiving the check from Max Novak, a member of the hospital board and of the scholarship committee, in the presence of Dr. Dennis Joy, Chief of Staff of the hospital and also a member of the scholarship committee. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Boss, Denise is enrolled in the three-year nursing program at Bronson Methodist Hospital School of Nursing at Kalamazoo. The $700 scholarship has been awarded annually since 1958 when it was initiated by Mr. and Mrs. Walker.

Single Business Tax Should be Watched

If you're one of the many Charlevoix residents who just completed estimating your first quarter's tax under the new Michigan Single Business Tax, you'll want to keep your eye on a newly formed Governor's task force.

Some 50 businessmen, educators and legislators met last Thursday in Lansing for the first meeting of the Governor's Task Force on the Single Business Tax.

Although the group spent most of its first meeting laying out its game plans for the next few months, the outcome of the task force's work could have a significant outcome on our local community.

Some of you, especially those who are not directly involved with owning or managing a business, may ask why you should be concerned about the tax or the task force.

If a recent Courier survey is any indication of how the new tax is affecting Charlevoix businessmen, the entire community is going to feel its effect.

The Single Business Tax (SBT), adopted last year, replaced some eight separate business levies with a flat 2.35 percent tax on wages, sales and other factors.

According to Dr. Douglas Roberts, chief aide to the House Taxation Committee, the bill was signed into law by the Governor last August for about five reasons.

The first reason was to stabilize the state's income, so that every time an economic slump hit one portion of the state's economy the entire state income wouldn't run into a financial crisis.

Secondly, the new tax structure was intended to be designed in such a way as to entice new business to move into Michigan by giving tax breaks to those who were building new plants or making vast capital improvements.

In addition, the new tax was set up to simplify Michigan's tax structure by having one instead of eight different taxes to pay. At the same time, it was hoped the tax would make it more equitable for all business taxpayers.

While the entire strategy looked good on paper, many Michigan businessmen, especially smaller concerns, began figuring out that the new tax would have a serious effect on their operations.

At a recent public hearing in Lansing, State Senator Robert Davis of Gaylord reported that he had received over 200 tax estimates from businesses across the state that substantiate the devasting effect the new law is having on the state's small businessmen.

Many of those who testified claimed the new tax would send their tax bills soaring upwards between 200 and 500 percent.

The net result is that the new measure favors heavy industries at the expense of labor-intensive service industries which, according to the governor, were not paying their fair share under the old system.

Our concern is not as much with the equity question over which system is more fair, but over how the small businessmen can afford to pay such a large increase in one year.

The purpose of the task force just appointed by the governor is to monitor the new tax and to come up with some concrete solutions by September for the Governor to recommend to the Legislature before it adjourns in the fall.

The task force this month is embarking on a statewide independent survey of the business community to see how the tax is affecting Michigan business.

Once the survey is completed and the data compiled, the Task Force expects to hold a series of hearing across the state to gather more input on the tax before making its recommendation.

We sincerely hope that this task force is not simply a rubber stamp for the governor's new tax program. All early indications are that the group will make a conscious effort to evaluate the tax.

For a community like Charlevoix, the new tax could mean a loss of jobs, and have a crippling effect on our economy.

While Charlevoix does have some industry, most of our business is service-oriented and none of our industry compares to the size of the Big Three automakers who appear to be reaping the benefits.

Unless changes are made, many of our businesses will have no other choice but to pass the tax increase along to their customers. For many of those businesses, raising the price of their product could be devastating.

We feel the small businessmen have a lot resting on the outcome of the Governor's Task Force. If they are unable to come out with some reasonable solutions to the problem, we urge the Michigan Legislature to repeal the present law and go back to the old tax system.

There are too many communities like Charlevoix across Michigan that cannot afford the crippling effect of Michigan's new Single Business Tax at the expense of saving a few dollars for the state's larger corporations.

Bridge Clarified

Dear Sir:

It is requested that the enclosed article clarifying the temporary opening schedule at the Charlevoix Bascule Bridge be published in the Charlevoix Courier.

Yours very truly,

Carl P. Seufert
District Engineer

The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation has offered the following clarification for the temporary opening schedule of the Bascule Bridge on US-31 in Charlevoix. According to District Engineer Carl P. Seufert of Cadillac, the Department is taking all steps possible to complete the painting project before heavy boat traffic begins.

The painting contractor was allowed to start six weeks ahead of schedule. If good weather holds, the painting portion of the contract should be completed by June 18, 1976. If for some reason the painting should not be completed before the 4th of July weekend there will be no work from July 2 through July 5, 1976. Even now there is no painting done on weekends from Friday noon until Monday morning. During these work shutdown periods the bridge will open on the hour and the half-hour as provided for by regulations.

From now through June 18 the weekday opening schedule is as follows:

6:00 AM, 8:30 AM, 11:15 AM; 12:30 PM, 3:00 PM, 5:15 PM, 6:00 PM.

Temporary signs carrying the above schedule will be erected by the Department on the bridge to better disseminate the information to boaters. The bridge will continue to be opened on demand for emergency vessels.

After painting of the structural steel is completed, there will still be some work to be done on the concrete pavement approaches. This will not interfere with boat traffic but will restrict highway traffic to two lanes for a period of time.

Every effort is being made to complete the project as soon as possible.

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

Wouldn't you think that out of a nation of 230 million people we would be able to come up with at least one presidential candidate totally qualified to call the shots down in Washington?

Instead who do we have?

–A political hack who skyrocketed into the front ranks only because the Democrats knew they could beat him in 1972. (And don't forget who did the appointing, old Richard Milhous himself)

–A trigger-happy movie star who apparently was asleep in the wings during the double feature on Vietnam. He still thinks it's O.K. to send American troops overseas to fight little wars for people who should fight their own battles.

–A Bible-quoting peanut grower who swears on a stack of farm almanacs that he has never told a lie. In the first place it's a lot of hooey. In the second place, who cares? White lies (and a few scarlet ones) have made it possible for men to live together in relative harmony for thousands of years, so why knock it.)

–A former Jesuit seminarian who might–just might–have all the qualifications except one: He isn't married to Jacqueline Onassis. If he can take care of this little oversight in the next four years, we might give him a chance.

Then we have 'Mo' Udall who looks good only after two martinis (mine, not his.) It's fun to be liberal when you don't have to worry about who's paying the bills. And Frank Church, who frankly just isn't gutsy enough for the job. Nice guys finish last. Then there is Teddy Kennedy, who says he isn't a candidate but has resigned as swimming coach at Chappaquiddick, just case. And finally Hubert Humphrey, my favorite Bolshevik, among others.

I don't think it's any secret that President Ford is going to win the nomination in the Republican Party barring one of the calamities the fortune-tellers predict. He has one foot in the door, so to speak, and there is no point in paying the movers twice, if you know what I mean.

However the Democratic convention should prove more interesting. I do not think that our toothy front-runner Jimmy Carter will get the nod.

In the first place, how can a man who has never told a lie ever win the respect of a political party, many members of which have never been known to tell the truth?

In the second place, something about Carter doesn't ring true. There are too many discrepancies between his public statements and his private actions to present a unified picture of a man with a mission. The impression grows of a little boy trying to please mummy.

So who then will the Democrats nominate?

My favorite Bolshevik, of course.

Although I do not believe in the supernatural, I do know that there is a natural balance, a system of compensating forces in the affairs of men that will not let Hubert Humphrey's long tenure on the American political scene go unrecognized–particularly if he is willing and able to run for the presidency. And he is.

I see the Democratic convention deadlocked between Carter and Brown during the early ballots. Then I see a move to break the deadlock with Humphrey as the standard-bearer. The old war horse moves onto the platform with arms raised. The crowd goes wild.

Of course, he gets the nomination and when Carter and Brown refuse the vice presidential nomination, it goes to Udall.

So there you have it. But don't cancel your subscription. I've been wrong before.

Erma Bombeck

The way the demonstrator in the department store explained it, the only thing that stood between thin and me was a doorknob.

You just hooked the pulleys to a doorknob, attached them to your ankles and wrists and exercised your little heart out.

I had to believe that. She was living proof. If that girl had drunk a bottle of creme soda and turned sideways, she would have looked like a thermometer.

She said just 15 minutes a day with this little exerciser and I too would be able to walk on the beach without children tagging along for shade.

I hesitated at first, then thought it would be nice to have thighs that didn't look like pockets, knees that didn't blouse and a stomach that would stop laughing at the same time I did.

From past experiences too painful to relate, I have learned never to have the family around when you're going the self-improvement route. So, I waited until the house was empty and unpacked my harness.

I don't want to be dramatic, but if John Wayne took as long to saddle a horse as it took for me to figure out those strings, he'd have missed the war.

I stretched out on my back and began hoisting my legs into the air by pulling my arms down. I had gone through about five or six of these lifts when I experienced pain–pain that can only be caused by a door slamming into your skull.

"Are you okay?" asked my husband.

"Compared to what?"

"This is a dumb question," he said, "but what are you supposed to be stretched out on the floor with strings attached to your arms and legs dangling from a doorknob? Don't tell me. I got it! A fat marionette!"

"I am trying to use muscles I have never used before," I panted.

"That sounds like a reasonable idea. Why don't you use the head muscle that warns you not to lie down in the path of a door that opens in on your head?"

"If you are finished giving advice, bug off."

"It's going to hurt your head when I go. How about my putting a sign on this one: "CAUTION, WIDE LOAD." Or locking it? Or putting a hinge on you so that you swing open with the door? Where are you going?"

"Have you ever tried to walk out of a room gracefully, dragging a door behind you?

If it Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

They'll never be missed

The people of Columbia have been rescued from being beaked to death by rampaging doves.

And for writing that smartie sentence, I will have to explain once again how I can eat hamburgers.

It happens all the time.

I can't understand how hunters can enjoy killing. I laugh when they claim they are "harvesting a crop," not killing. I ask them why I've never seen a farmer drive through town with a bushel of rutabagas tied to his fender, headed for the newspaper office to have his picture taken with his vanquished vegetables?

And the hunters can't understand how I can enjoy eating steak if I am against killing animals. They laugh when I claim slaughterhouses won't bother me until they are featured on TV's American Sportsman with Rock Hudson knocking the steer's brains out with a golden hammer.

They ask me how I can be so dumb as to not realize dead is dead, meat is meat, and there's not enough ketchup to change the taste?

It is a great and frequent argument which I've never won, or lost. And it's nothing personal. Some of my best friends go hunting all the time. When they return home, they always assure me they never fired a shot for fear of hitting a waitress. But, I think they are just trying to spare my Bambi stomach. I have been known to throw up on newspaper photos of snake hunts.

My favorite opponent is Preston Mann who operates the Hunters Creek hunting preserve. It is a slick operation with every convenience for outdoorsmen who don't have time to go outdoors. Mann's pheasants are trained to fly into the pockets of lunching auto executives and commit suicide.

Mann does not take my barbs peaceably. In fact, he is a master of the weirde debate and I don't have a prayer in one-on-one combat.

Just recently his local newspaper quoted him as revealing that I am actually a closet blood-sporter who lusts after innocent animals. Mann said he discovered my killer instinct during several years of watching me eat at his club. He said he could tell by the glint in my eyes and the slobber on my lips everytime I bite into a cheeseburger, rare.

I mention this as some sort of solace to all you hunters out there who, after reading this column, will want to send me nasty words. Don't bother, I've heard them all from the master, Mr. Mann. If he can't make me see the light at the end of the deer run, nobody can.

I can understand why Preston might think I eat meat with inordinate enjoyment. But he mistakes haste for lasciviousness. When dining at Preston's, I always eat the meat quickly before someone shoots it.

Actually, Mann's customers win points from me for honesty. They don't give you any harvesting baloney about killing to thin the herd or protect the grain. They go to hunting preserves for birds the same as their wives to the A&P for pork chops.

The birds are there to be killed, no other reason, and the hunter pays for every bird released in front of his gun. If he misses the first shot, the best-trained birds keep circling until hit. They get their training in carnival shooting galleries.

There is a difference between shooting pheasants at Preston's place than shooting doves in Cali, Columbia. No one could afford that much bloodshed at Preston's.

The doves fly over by the thousands and, if you forget your shotgun, you can probably kill them with rocks. U.S. sportsmen can fly down for the dove hunts on Braniff Airways which offers special excursion rates which are cheaper per bird than lunching at Preston's.

"It's like dying and going to paradise," a Bloomfield Hills attorney said as he killed doves quicker than he could count them. He was quoted in a sports page story which also said: "All afternoon they had come, a never-ending stream of gray birds. Our shoulders, which we had taken to padding with heavy handkerchiefs the day before, still ached. Earlier they had been actually bleeding from the kick of the gunstock." There is no bag limit. It is possible for one hunter to kill 600 doves in one day.

Forget about the danger to a species. Maybe Columbia has to be protected from takeover by doves.

But what is the pleasure in killing them? Why would anyone spend hundreds of dollars and fly thousands of miles to shoot birds in a birdbath?

If that's sport, so is eating a hamburger.

Meet Charlevoix

Bernie Ward, Sr.

Bernie Ward, Sr. was a commercial fisherman, boat operator and bait salesman in Charlevoix for many years. Here he tells the Courier about some of his experiences.

COURIER: When did you start in business?

WARD: We went into the bait business in the early depression days–in 1931–and later went into boats and commercial fishing. We fished for perch in the spring and fall and ran charter boats and sold bait in the summer.

COURIER: Was the perch fishing good in those days?

WARD: Yes, one year we caught 20 tons.

COURIER: Where did you sell them?

WARD: We had our own fish market in Charlevoix and when we had an overabundance, a dealer from Bay City bought the surplus.

COURIER: Did you ever fish for other species?

WARD: We fished for whitefish and trout until it didn't pay anymore.

COURIER: Why did you go into the boat rental business?

WARD: We did it when perch fishing went bad in Lake Michigan. At one time we had 80 row boats to rent fishermen. You could just about walk across Round Lake when they were all out fishing. Once we had fishermen from five states, including Kentucky.

COURIER: What time of year did they do most of the perch fishing?

WARD: The season usually ran from May 1 to June 15 and then from September 1 until bad weather.

COURIER: What happened to all the perch?

WARD: They all but disappeared for about 12 years. I think there were so many shad or aelwives that were eating the spawn of the perch. The perch are coming back now–quite a few were caught in Lake Charlevoix this spring. The plantings of salmon and other large fish are keeping the alwives down. I didn't think the perch would ever leave us, but they sure did.

COURIER: How big were the perch you used to catch?

WARD: They averaged about three-fourths of a pound. Of course, some were bigger.

COURIER: Where are the best perch fishing spots in the area now?

WARD: Round Lake, near the railroad bridge, and around Ironton.

COURIER: Do you think commercial fishing will ever come back in the Charlevoix area?

WARD: No, there will never again be enough fish for commercial fishing. Modern equipment would wipe them out in one year. I think the lakes should be left to sports fishermen. They pay $10 a pound for the fish they catch. Others pay $1.00.

COURIER: Is fishing an expensive sport?

WARD: It's more expensive than it used to be and can be as expensive as a person wants to make it. When we first started with charter boats, we took people out for four hours for $5.00. Now it costs $20 an hour. We bought our first power boat for $28. Now an outboard motor can cost as much as $1,600.

COURIER: Your son Bernie, Jr. now runs the charter boat business, doesn't he?

WARD: Yes, and over the weekend he had a group of Russians out. They caught a lot of fish.

COURIER: Now that you're retired, do you still fish?

WARD: Not much. We spend five months a year in Florida and I used to do some fishing there, but not any more. Instead, I enjoy our orange and grapefruit trees.

COURIER: Are you a native of Charlevoix?

WARD: Practically. I grew up near Ironton–my father was a farmer. Before I went into business for myself, I worked for the Charlevoix Co-op for three years and for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for five years.

COURIER: Do you have any children other than Bernie, Jr.?

WARD: We also have a son, William, who lives in Birmingham and a daughter, Joanne, who lives in Grand Rapids.

COURIER: Did Mrs. Ward also grow up in the area?

WARD: No, Mae Oma came to Charlevoix from Kentucky to work and has been here ever since.

112 Charlevoix Seniors Graduate at High School

"There is something special about being a member of a bicentennial class. It gives you a chance to dwell on the past and an opportunity to look to the future." Howard F. Lancour, Executive Director of the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, told the 112 graduating seniors of the Charlevoix High School in his Commencement address.

He went on to say that this country, in its first two hundred years, benefited from the daring and imagination of the young. On July 4, 1976, this country will begin its third century as a democracy. You are the youth on whom it will be depending.

We face problems, economic,social and environmental problems, but if you face them, one day at a time, you will find a solution.

Referring again to the bicentennial year, he said it has caused people to pause and think. When you do that, you realize that this country did well in its infancy, accomplished much in its adolescence and is prepared to do even more in its adulthood.

He concluded by saying that today's students are more concerned about others, they are awaiting a chance to reach out and to achieve a new goal. The means is there because 200 years ago brave people felt this way. When they adopted the Declaration of Independence, they gave you personal freedom...What you do with that freedom is your choice. I hope you use it well.

Kin Gould, in her salutatory, said "We are facing new challenges. The things we have learned over the last 13 years have prepared us for this day". In her valedictory, Denise Boss urged her classmates to become involved. "It's the only way to change things. Strive, believe in yourself, motivate" she urged her fellow graduates.

Honors of graduation were conferred by C. Max Novak, president, and Claire C. Martin, treasurer, of the Charlevoix Board of Education.

Vane H. Smith, principal, and Nelson Green, class advisor, had presented the class.

James A. McKimmy, Superintendent of Schools, introduced Mr. Lancour.

LOU AND Kathy Mettler opened their sportswear shop at 211 Bridge Street three weeks ago. They moved to Charlevoix from Bayfield, Wisconsin, where they are partners in a similar shop. "Mettler's by the Bay" specializes in men's and women's sportswear and will be open year around. Although new residents in Charlevoix, the Mettlers point out they are not new to the "north country" and are enjoying the people and environment of the area.

Couple Exchanges Wedding Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Jennex

Deborah Lynn Powell and Gerald Allen Jennex, Jr. were married May 22 at the Eastport Baptist Church in an afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Powell of Charlevoix and the bridegroom, who lives in Grand Rapids, is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. Jennex of Rives Junction.

Two hundred and fifty persons witnessed the ceremony, performed by the Reverend Jennex. Organ music was presented by Mrs. James Jensen and she accompanied the sister of the groom, Miss Carol Jennex, as she sang "Lord Give Them This Day" and "Treasure".

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father wearing a gown of white jersey knit with empire waist and long sleeves. The draped full length skirt fell to the chapel-length train. The gown featured accents of lace and seed pearls and a comb with stephanotis and ivy secured the chapel-length veil fashioned by the bride. She carried a Bible, a gift from the groom, covered with greens, stephanotis and white rose buds.

Pastor Don Riedel and the groom met the bride and her father at the altar, where they were joined by the bride's mother and the groom's parents in a dedication ceremony.

As a completion of the ceremony, the bride and groom sang a song of dedication, "In This Quiet Hour."

Incumbent Commission Faces Opposition

Interest in the office of Charlevoix County Commissioner is running high this election year as indicated by the increased number of candidates for the 15 posts in the county.

The interest in the immediate area is as high as elsewhere where all but two of the 12 incumbents are facing opposition in either the Primary or General Elections.

In District 13, the city's north side, incumbent Donald B. Meggison is being opposed by Ralph A. McRae, former first ward alderman. Both are candidates on the Republican ballot. The winner in the Primary election will be unopposed in the November election.

Incumbent Oscar W. Ward, Democrat, will be unopposed in the Primary election but in November will be challenged by a newcomer to political circles, Mrs. Marianne Thomure, a Republican, in District 14.

J. Lee Moerland, incumbent commissioner in District 15, is being opposed by Theodore E. Browe, Jr., who has returned here to live after 20 years in the U.S. Air Force.

One of the county's wealthiest townships, Charlevoix township, has three candidates on the Republican ballot in the Primary Election including incumbent Clayton A. Smith who has represented the township for the past eight years. He will be opposed by Herbert Friske, service station operator who resides in Hayes township, and John E. Haggard, owner of Haggard Plumbing. The winner in the August election will be opposed by Leroy Haertler of Hayes township, a Democrat, in November.

In District 2 which includes Marion and Norwood townships south of here and Peaine and St. James townships on Beaver Island, incumbent Clyde Cunningham, who is presently serving as chairman of the Board of Commissioners, will be opposed by Willis (Bill) Peters, who operates Hooker's Laundry and Cleaners. The winner will be unopposed in November.

In District 5, the contest in the Primary election will be on the Democratic ballot where John E. Vrondran and Karl Waldner will be vieing for the nomination and an opportunity to oppose incumbent Ralph Richardson, a Republican, in the General Election. District 5 includes Eveline and Wilson townships.

Four Contests Set for Primary

By FRAN MARTIN

Four county contests all on the Republican ballot, will face the voters when they go to the polls in the August 3 primary Election.

Another four, these between Republican and Democratic candidates, will be found on the ballot in the General Election in November.

Contests in the Primary Election will find Roy C. Hayes, incumbent, who was appointed Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Jan. 1, 1976, being challenged by Donald J. Berlage, former assistant prosecutor, for this office.

Three candidates will square off for the nomination for sheriff, a position presently held by Philo E. Sumner. Other candidates are Robert Neff, former member of the Michigan State Police and retired businessman, and George T. Lasatar, former teacher and Probation Officer for the courts of Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Mrs. Mary C. Feindt, Charlevoix county surveyor, an elective position, and city surveyor, an appointive position, is being opposed by Nicholas B. DeYoung for the office of county surveyor.

Ronald Geer, incumbent drain commissioner, is finding opposition from Clayton Healy of RR East Jordan.

Incumbents Clarence F. Rabach, county clerk; Anah H. Potter, treasurer, and Grover C. Geneit, register of deeds; will be unopposed in the Primary Election.

However, they and the nominee for drain commissioner, will be opposed by Democratic candidates in the November General Election. Mrs. Lois M. Wasoski, presently in charge of the Office of Veterans Affairs for the county, will oppose Rabach for the office of county clerk; Brad Lee Howard of Boyne City is challenging Mrs. Potter for the office of treasurer; Matthew R. Waldner will be trying to unseat Geneit as register of deeds and David Alan Nachazel of East Jordan will be opposing the Republican nominee for the office of drain commissioner.

Hayes, who became Charlevoix county's first full-time prosecutor on Jan. 1, will be seeking the Republican nomination in the Primary Election.

Hayes came here from Detroit where his last position from June 1971 until coming here had been as director of the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force whose purpose was to coordinate local law enforcement's efforts against organized crime in this country's third largest county. Other experience includes a private practice, an appointment as assistant prosecuting attorney in Wayne county, a position in which he handled all phases of criminal prosecution; assistant director of the American Bar Association's special committee on Crime Prevention and Control and Executive Assistant to Wayne County Prosecutor William L. Callahan.

He is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and the Detroit School of Law. He was admitted to the bar of Michigan Jan. 6, 1966.

Donald J. Berlage, who will oppose him for the Republican nomination, has practiced law

Hey Look Mom!

If you see a first-grader running around with a sticker reading, "I'm a Tooth Keeper", he or she is a member of the first grade class in the Charlevoix Elementary School which has been receiving instruction in proper care of the teeth.

According to teacher Sue Smith, first-graders have been learning how to brush and floss their teeth properly, what foods to eat to keep good teeth, and getting general pointers from Dr. David Strawbridge, sponsor of the program.

They have also been given toothbrushes and small mirrors to help them in the learning process.

First-grade mothers have been helping with the program three days a week.

"The kids like it. Some of them have never brushed their teeth before and now they are forming good habits," Ms. Smith says.

Next year the school hopes to continue the program through funds set up by the American Dental Association.

The group of mothers assisting Charlevoix first graders in learning how to care for their teeth were Mrs. Lee Reibel, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Sharleen Cole, Mrs. Sam Washburn, Mrs. Frank Jaskierski, Mrs. Paul Stephan, Mrs. Mike Miller, Mrs. Gene Steele, Mrs. Coy Groves, Mrs. Herb Boss, Ms. Joanne Bier, Mrs. Frank Wojciechowski and Ms. Sue Nawrocki.

in Charlevoix for the past 10 years and served as assistant prosecutor for the county under Harvey C. Varnum.

The three candidates for the nomination of sheriff are widely known in the area. Sumner for his 25 years association with the law enforcement in the county including 10 years as sheriff; Neff as a former member of the State Police and as a businessman and Lasater for his association with the schools and, more recently, with the courts.

Mrs. Mary C. Feindt will be opposed by Nicholas B. DeYoung in the Primary election for County Surveyor.

Mrs. Feindt is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is a Registered Land Surveyor. She began her professional career as an assistant to the owners of the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. in 1938. In 1944 she purchased the business and, when it was incorporated, became its president.

She is affiliated with the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American College of Surveying and Mapping, the American Society of Women Engineers, the Michigan Engineering Society and the Michigan Society of Registered Land Surveyors where she is currently chairman of the Education Committee. She is past president of the Michigan Land Title Association and a former member of the Board of Governors of the American Land Title Association.

Her opposition in the forthcoming election, Nick DeYoung, operates his own surveying business here. He is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a major in Math and was employed by the Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co. from 1969 until 1973 when he went into business for himself.

In the race for drain commissioner, Geer is the incumbent. He has held the office for several years. His opposition in the Primary Election, Clayton Healey, is a rural East Jordan resident.

purchase of some enclosed passenger cars for rainy day usage; the purchase of a genuine steam locomotive; and contingency plans.

It was agreed that a ribbon cutting ceremony be held after the June 26 board meeting.

The Board also approvved the retention of Patrick C. Cassidy, Boyne City Attorney as its legal council, and Mrs. Jamie Baumann of Walloon Lake, as Public Relations counsel on a part time basis.

Gierlach revealed that the following tentative operation schedule had been discussed at a meeting with the Petoskey Area Chamber of Commerce last week: the train will leave Boyne City at 8:15 am, arrive at Petoskey at 9:45 am, leaving on a return trip to Boyne City at 11:15 am. A second train will leave Boyne City at 2 pm, arrive in Petoskey at 3:30 pm and begin its return at 4:15 pm. There may be whistle stops at Boyne Mt. and Walloon Junction. It would be a seven day a week schedule through Labor Day, Gierlach said.

Following the May 15 auction, the group of local railroad buffs who successfully outbid numerous other would-be purchasers to the tune of $153,000 renegotiated their agreement with Baker.

For a total of $60,000 the BVRR will gain possession of the seven and a half mile right of way from Boyne City to Boyne Falls (site of the junction with the old Penn Central now Michigan Northern), the two terminal stations, two roofed cars, an open passenger car and a caboose.

Baker retains the diesel engine which he will lease to the BVRR for $2,500 a year for three years and for $3,000 a year for the second three years. The BVRR will have the first option to purchase the engine.

Gierlach, owner-operator of the Boyne City Theatre, says the board feels it must purchase at least one enclosed passenger car immediately to be used in rainy weather, because that is a time when business can be particularly good.

"In show business we know that when it rains it pours people," Gierlach said.

State Representative E. Dan Stevens, who was instrumental in the formation of the state aided Michigan Northern Railroad, and acted as spokesman and bidder for the BVRR group, attended Saturday's board meeting as an advisor.

Obituary

Getchell W. Campfield

Masonic rites for Getchell W. Campfield, 62, who died Wednesday at Little Traverse Hospital where he had been a patient for two months, were held Friday, June 4, at the Winchester Funeral Home. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at Mt. Pleasant, July 31, 1913, Mr. Campfield was married to the former Marion Smith at Ann Arbor in 1934. They came to Charlevoix 42 years ago to make their home. He was associated with various businesses including the furniture business, a music store and in recent years, Fay's Dress Shop. He was a veteran of World War II having served with the U.S. Army in the Pacific Theatre.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.; was a musician and played with the City Band and attended the United Methodist Church.

He is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Linda Mays of Kalamazoo; one grandchild and a brother, Kenneth of Hampstead, England.

Mrs. Theodore Wojan

Funeral services for Mrs. Theodore (Dorothy M.) Wojan, 55, who died Wednesday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for one day, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Hugh Cowan of the First Baptist church officiated. Interment was in Sunset Hills cemetery in Flint.

Born in Flint Jan. 2, 1921, the former Dorothy M. Paige was married to Louis C. Lucas at Flint in 1938. He preceded her in death in 1948. She lived in Flint and later Phoenix, Ariz., before coming here in 1969 to make her home. In 1970 she was married to Mr. (Ted) Wojan. They resided near Bay Shore.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Louie (Susan) Majors of Phoenix, Ariz.; two step-sons, Richard J. and Robert J. Wojan, both of Charlevoix; five grandchildren and two brothers, Harold Paige and Alvord Paige, both of Flint.

Vern C. Hamlin

Vern C. Hamlin, former Charlevoix resident, died May 31 in St. Joseph's Hospital in Tawas City.

The deceased was born July 5, 1925 in Florida and moved to Charlevoix as a child. He was a 1946 graduate of Charlevoix High School and married a classmate, Adeline Olszewski, in November 1946.

He had lived in Oscoda for 15 years and until his retirement three years ago was president and general manager of the Straits Aggregate Company in Tawas City.

Besides his wife, survivors include a son, Larry, of Oscoto; a brother, Harold, of Walloon Lake; and his twin sister, Mrs. Velda Wilson of Ferndlae.

Funeral services were held last Thursday in the Tawas Methodist Church and burial was at the Springport Cemetery in Harrisville.

FAITH HELPS US APPRECIATE A FATHER'S WISDOM

Despite a variety of unflattering images depicting a father as either too stern or too spineless, the true picture is more likely that of a kindly, hard-working provider and protective shield for his family; the wise arbiter of right and wrong; the author of firm but loving discipline; and a tower of strength at all times. A father tries to conceal his anxieties while setting the example of character and courage for his children, and must provide the answer to any physical or moral crisis that may arise. The Bible is filled with passages in praise of a father's wisdom and guidance, and you should learn to honor and respect your father at the Church of your choice; not merely on special occasions, but every day of the year.

> "Hear, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding."
> —Proverbs 4:1

> Be kind to thy father, for when thou wert young,
> Who loved thee so fondly as he?
> —Margaret Courtney

Election Board Rejects Seven Petitions

Seven Charlevoix residents--including an incumbent county commissioner--have been taken off the August Primary ballot for improperly filing with the county clerk.

The Charlevoix County Election Commission notified the residents Monday that their nominating petitions were invalid after receiving word from the Michigan Secretary of State's Election Division in Lansing.

Disqualified from the election were Brad Lee Howard, a Democratic candidate for county treasurer; Nicholas R. DeYoung, Republican candidate for county surveyor; incumbent county commissioner Clayton A. Smith and challenger John E. Haggord for District 3; Ronald J. Barnadyn in District five; and John F. Martin and Casimir Tuton in District 10--all Republicans.

The ruling was made by Judge of Probate John T. Murphy, County Clerk Clarence Rabach and County Treasurer Mrs. Anah Potter, who based their decision from instructions received from the state Election's Division.

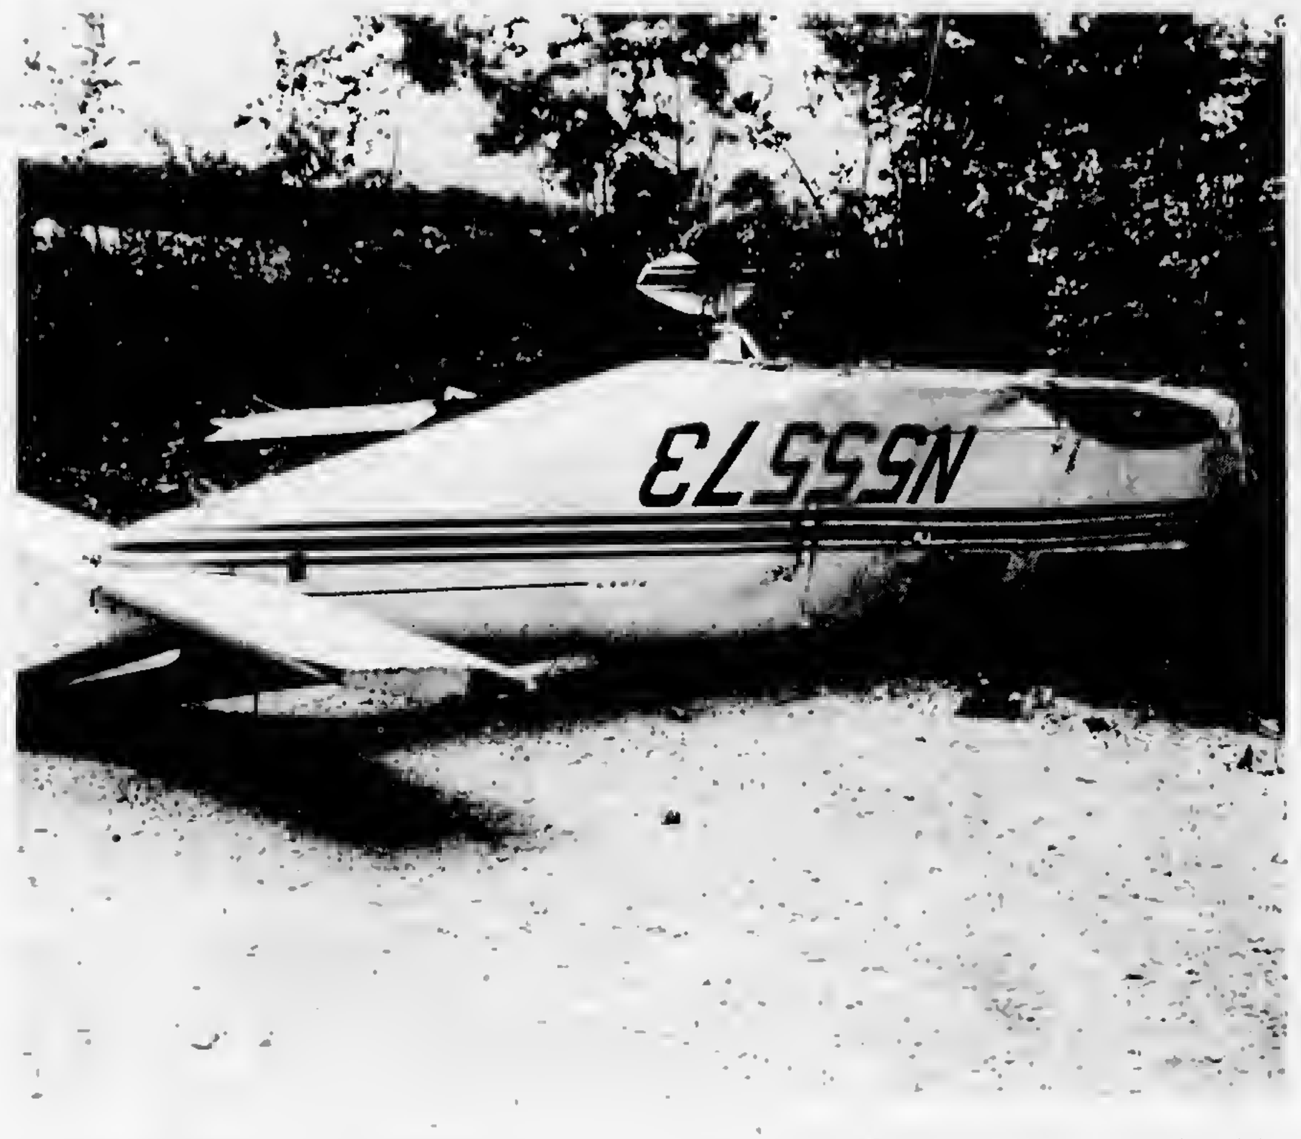
Because she is herself a candidate, Treasurer Potter said she did not take part in the consideration of her own petitions or those of Howard, whose petition was among those found to be inadequate by the other two members of the Commission.

Likewise, Clerk Rabach said he did not take part in the consideration of his or Democratic challenger Lois Wasoski's petition. Judge Murphy said both petitions did meet state election law requirements.

All seven candidates have been notified of the deficiencies in their filings and have three days from notification to appeal to the Michigan Election Commission if they wish.

Rabach said this was the most people disqualified from running in an election in recent years.

Those who were disqualified either failed to file an affidavit of identity, which is a notarized statement of the candidate's qualifications, or failed to have the proper number of appropriate signatures on a petition for a particular precinct the candidate was running in.



THIS CHEROKEE SIX engine plane rests on its top after its right wing was torn from the fuselage following an emergency landing on the Medusa Cement Co. property Saturday afternoon. The pilot of the charter flight and his two passengers escaped with minor injuries.

Air Crash Injures 3

The pilot of a charter plane and his passengers escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon when their Cherokee Six plane developed engine trouble as it neared the Charlevoix airport and made a forced landing on Medusa Cement Co. property north of the runway. The plane was enroute to Charlevoix from Beaver Island at the time of the incident at 2 p.m.

The pilot, Forbes Tompkins, 64, city manager of Boyne City who makes charter flights for the McPhillips Flying Service, was admitted to the Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of a possible concussion, according to Mrs. Tompkins. He was to be discharged to his home late Monday according to hospital attendants.

The passengers, Gordon Wellman and Orval Hicks, officials of the Charlevoix County State Bank, were treated at the hospital and released.

According to officials of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department who investigated the accident, two boys in the area of landing said they heard the plane's engine sputtered and saw the plane descend rapidly and disappear behind a club of trees.

The pilot apparently attempted to land on a one-lane road that leads through the Medusa property. The road at one time was an extension of Carpenter ave. and led to the former city dump.

Upon landing the plane apparently went out of control, struck a pile of top soil, rocks and brush which tore off the right wing and flipped the plane over. It skidded to a stop some distance from where it had come down. The plane was demolished. The use of safety belts are said to have saved the pilot and his passengers.

A representative of the FAA, E.J. McAvoy, of Grand Rapids was here Sunday to investigate the crash.

Amateur Begins Tuesday

The 1976 Michigan Amateur Golf Championship will open at the Belvedere and Harbor Point Golf Courses next Tuesday.

A total of 360 Michigan amateurs including several former champsions are entered in this year's tournament which will feature 18 holes on each of the two courses on Tuesday and Wednesday. The top 64 players will begin match play at the Belvedere course Thursday with the finals scheduled for Saturday.

The Belvedere course has 6,611 yards over rolling hills. Seventy-two is part for the course. The Harbor Point course is narrower and 6,089 yards in length. Par for the course is 71.

Among the former Michigan Amateur champions who are entered in the 1976 event are Dan Pohl of Mt. Pleasant, the defending champion, Glenn H. Johnson of Detroit, Ben S. Smith of Birmingham, Tom Draper of Troy who is returning after an absence of several years, Doug Hankey of Lansing, Melvin "Bud" Stevens of Livonia, Pete Green of Franklin, Bill Newcombe of Ann Arbor, and Don Stevens of West Bloomfield.

Players from the immedite area who are entered include two from Harbor Springs, G. Bentley Renker and Barry Renker; Lon J. Kowalske and Donald Peck of Boyne City; Kim Hocquard of East Jordan.

The first trio will tee off at 8 p.m. at each course with succeeding leaving the club house at seven minute intervals until 2:53 when the last trio goes out for the 18 hole round.

Jewels Lifted

The Reusch Jewelry in the Oleson Shopping complex lost an undetermined number of expensive watches and two trays of less expensive rings to theives who entered the store through the roof vent some time Thursday night.

The breaking and entering was discovered by Jakob Ganiner, a store employe, when he opened the store at 9 a.m. Friday.

The Charlevoix City Police are investigating the loss.

Owners of the store have placed no dollar value on the loss.

Boss and Brown Re-elected

Two incumbents, Kenneth Boss and Donald W. Brown, were re-elected to four year terms on the Charlevoix Board of Education in the annual school election held here Monday.

The election brought out a light votes wityh only 791 ballots cast. Six were invalid or spoiled.

Boss received 561 votes; Brown, 494; Richard Farmer, 185; Willis Peters, 147; Lyle S. King, 85, and Otis Elliott, 77.

The Charlevoix Historical Society is trying to locate two girls who rode horses in the Venetian Parade in 1975. They wore colonial men's uniforms and tri-corn hats. Please call Mrs. Carl Kohler, 547-2963.

Busy Bees

After reading this week's Hotline I am wondering why anyone should be concerned about the condition of the corner of May and Garfield and worrying if the grass is cut or not. Then I decided why we live in "Charlevoix, the Beautiful." It is beautiful because we have so many self-appointed inspectors to check on who cuts their grass and when. Maybe we could do with less criticisms and more good neighbors. Let the busy bees tend to their own corners.

Direct Appeal

I would like to make a direct appeal to the person or persons who are destroying the efforts of our downtown merchants to make our town beautiful during the summer. There is no sense to what you are doing, there can't even be much fun to it either. Ripping the flowers off plants or just tearing them out of the flower boxes that the merchants have generously put out in front of their shops is just plain stupid. Our town will look a lot plainer without those lovely flowers, and, let's face it, that's what is going to happen if this vandalism keeps up.

Four Employees Retire from Charlevoix School System

By FRAN MARTIN

Four members of the staff of the Charlevoix Public Schools retired at the close of the current school year.

They are Dr. William O. Ratigan, counselor, consultant, diagnostician and researcher in the school program for 17 years; Raymond O. Carr, teacher and former school administrator for 25 years and Mrs. Lulla Brock, a teacher for a total of 23 years including six in the Charlevoix school system, and Mrs. Ellen Copeland who has been associated with the cafeteria program for 14 years as a baker and cafeteria employee.

For Dr. Ratigan retirement will mean a return to the typewriter and a career as a writer which was interrupted by his tenure in the Counseling Center.

During his years at the school Dr. Ratigan has been credited with a number of firsts: he founded the first counseling program, which resulted in the present Counseling Center; in 1965, he wrote and then directed the first Title 1 program for disadvantaged children in the Charlevoix area; served as consultant to the Char-Em Intermediate School District in the early days of special education; established the Charlevoix School System as an official center for administering the General Educational Development Test (GED) which clears the way for high school completion by diploma or by equivalency certificate and also serves as a college entrance test in some cases and, in his final year in the system, as a consultant to the new Fountain Valley testing program, as a diagnostician and as a researcher for the Title 1 program. He also introduced the Fountain Valley testing program in Math for first and second grade students at St. Mary's School. In addition, he initiated the program for adult volunteers who work one a one-to-one basis with children needing extra help outside the classroom.

Dr. Ratigan is a native of Detroit, graduated from the University of Chattanooga and, during World War II, was West Coast director of communication for NBC.

In 1946, he and his family moved here to free lance. The result of that was 12 books relating to Michigan history, the first of which was "Soo Canal".

His most recent book, "Theories of Counseling", which is required reading in classes on counseling, was written after he returned to school and received his Ph.D in Counseling and Personnel Services in 1963. He is also an extension lecturer for Michigan State University and has been invited to lecture at NDEA Counseling and Guidance Institutes at Florida State University, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, University of Miami-Coral Gables and at Michigan State.

Dr. Ratigan is married to the former Eleanor Eldridge. They have three children, Mrs. Anne Pelton and Shannon Ratigan of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Mrs. Patsy Ranger of Charlevoix.

Carr

Carr, who is leaving the classroom prior to his official retirement for reasons of health, has had a wide range of experiences as a teacher ranging from the classroom, through coaching, high school principal, middle school principal and superintendent of schools.

A native of Blissfield, Carr is a graduate of Bowling Green State University and has a master's degree from Michigan State University. He is a veteran of five years service in the U.S. Air Force. At the time he went on inactive status, he was a major.

Prior to coming to Charlevoix 10 years ago, he taught and coached at Metamora High School in Ohio, was teacher and principal at Barryton Rural Agricultural School and superintendent at the Vanderbilt Area School and the Lake City Area Schools. Since coming here he has served as high school principal, middle school principal, mathematics teacher and driver education instructor. He will continue as a part-time driver education instructor until his official retirement from the Michigan Public School System.

Carr has been active in the community since coming to Charlevoix. He is a member and past president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, member of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, and chairman of the Council of Ministries of the United Methodist Church.

He is married to the former Lillian Hart. They have four children, Mrs. Diann Weisgerber, a teacher in the Pine River Schools, Mrs. Nancy Foltz of Petoskey, Dennis, special education teacher in the Charlevoix schools and Elaine, a junior at Michigan State University.

Mrs. Brock

Mrs. Copeland

Dr. Ratigan

Carr

Mrs. Brock

Mrs. Lulla Brock, the former Lulla Mitchell, entered the field of teaching via Antrim County Normal School, Eastern Michigan University, Ferris State College, Bay View Summer School and Central Michigan University from where she received her degree.

Her first teaching position was at a rural school at Phelps where she taught from 1935 until 1941. She returned one year to teach at the Ironton school during the teacher shortage during World War II. With four children and a husband (Aaron) who operated a 337-acre dairy farm, she spent the next 15 years at home and working toward her degree. In 1960, she returned to the classroom and taught at Walloon Lake, returning to the Ironton School in 1963. After the school was annexed to the Charlevoix School System in 1967, she remained to teach in the school for trainable mentally handicapped children and, in 1970, came into the Charlevoix School System. She has taught in the middle and elementary schools and in recent years has taught the fifth grade.

She is a member of the Charlevoix Education Association, the M.E.A., the Community Reformed Church and has been a 4-H leader.

Because of her husband's health, they have sold their large dairy farm and will soon be moving to a new home located on M-66.

Their children are Ralph of Daggett and Peter of Rapid River, both in the Upper Peninsula, Mrs. Richard (Dagmar) Muma of Pinconning, and Aaron, II, of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Copeland

The fourth retiree, Mrs. Ellen Copeland, will long be remembered for her work in the middle and elementary school cafeterias, especially the last few years when she

The Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board, at a special meeting held Thursday, presented its recommendation for a separate tax limitation, which will serve as a counter-proposal to the 12-mill tax limitation proposed by the C.I.S. (Citizens Information Service).

The allocation board, in its recommendation, proposed 15 mills to be allocated as it was in both 1975 and 1976. That allocation has allowed 4.7 mills to the county, 9.1 mills to the school districts, 1.0 mill to the townships and 0.2 mill to the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

The C.I.S. proposal allows 12 mills to be allocated thusly: 3.7 mills to the county, 6.7 mills to the schools, 1.5 mills to the townships and 0.1 to the Intermediate School District.

The fixed millage proposal made by the tax allocation board is for two years; the C.I.S. is for an indefinite period and would require a referendum vote to change it.

CETA Funds Run Dry

By FRAN MARTIN

CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) funds are being cut back and a number of CETA employes will be removed from the payroll by the end of June, Lee Moerland, who represents the Charlevoix Board of Commissioners on the Northwest Michigan consortium, advised the board at its Wednesday session.

Funding was trimmed back to $246,000 for the county, which nets only $199,000 in actual cash after unemployment claims and administration costs are subtracted from the total.

Mrs. Helen Phillips who administers the fund for Charlevoix County Clerk says that present funds are earmarked for the Title II program. As a result, as many as 15 employes will be dropped at the end of June. Among those to be lost to the program will be clerical employes in various offices such as the county clerk, city and school offices, cafeteria workers in schools and others involved with the cities, she said.

Mrs. Phillips said that at one time there were as many as 70 employees on the program under different titles. In May, the number had dropped to 50 and by the end of June it will be down to 38.

The summer employment program for youth in the county whose funding is channeled through the Intermediate School District is now doing some hiring at the present time. This, however, will be a short term program, she added.

Asked if she thought additional funds would be made available for the CETA program, Mrs. Phillips said she was not in a position to say, but the consensus of opinion is that funds will be forthcoming since this is an election year. She said it is felt that after the election there may be a revision of the public works program that might be instituted. Meanwhile, the Title II program will be the only one in effect in the county.

Pontiac Engineering Firm Opens Charlevoix Office

Giffels-Webster Engineers, Inc. of Pontiac has opened an office in Charlevoix at 301 Michigan Avenue.

Roy J. Russell, Registered Engineer, Land Surveyor and Community Planner, who recently joined the organization, is manager of the Charlevoix office.

Russell's 20 years of experience includes the planning and development of Michaywe, a 2,800 acre resort development near Gaylord. He was also instrumental in obtaining nearly 80 percent of Federal Grand funds for the development of the largest industrial park in Northern Michigan, also near Gaylord, for which he directed the planning and engineering.

Giffels-Webster Engineers have provided civil engineering services for municipalities, institutions and private land developers throughout Southeastern Michigan since 1952.

Remember the Old Dixie Highway?

Three Charlevoix Residents were Instrumental In Seeing the Michigan to Florida Road Built

By PEG OHLE

Three prominent Charlevoix residents were instrumental in planning the old Dixie Highway, which ran from Mackinaw City to Miami, according to local historian Bernice Wexstaff.

In a recent talk before the Charlevoix Historical Society, Mrs. Wexstaff told of a meeting held in Ellsworth in 1917, at which the Charlevoix and Antrim County portions of the West Michigan Pike (later an integral part of the Dixie Highway) were planned.

Present at the meeting were S.J. Usher, owner-editor of the Charlevoix Courier; Harry Nichols, son of John Nichols, founder of the Charlevoix Lumber Company; George Van Pelt, retired Chicago business man who summered in Norwood; and H.J. Gray, secretary of the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association.

It was the enthusiasm of Van Pelt, Mrs. Wexstaff said, that brought about the realization of the Charlevoix and Antrim County parts of the Dixie Highway. He had long been an advocate of good roads and had seen the first Michigan concrete road, in Detroit, a mile-long stretch of Woodward Avenue.

Due to Van Pelt's influence, the road up Greensky Hill which was part of the old Dixie Highway, was surfaced with cement.

"'Dit' Hammond did the work, everybody for miles around came to drive their cars on the road and Hammond became locally famous for his work while Van Pelt became known as 'Concrete Van Pelt'", Mrs. Wexstaff added.

The old Dixie Highway entered Charlevoix County from Petoskey at Bay Shore along the route that later became old U.S. 31. It went through the settlement of Burgess and past Greensky Hill to what is now the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road, then to the present U.S. 31. It zigzagged through the City of Charlevoix, down Petoskey Avenue and Bridge Street to Antrim Street, to the present Sheridan Road, to Norwood Road and south to the Village of Norwood.

The Old Dixie Highway apparently caught the imagination of early-day motorists because it went ALL THE WAY to Florida. But even with a direct route, traveling wasn't easy.

Mrs. Wexstaff told of a trip she and her husband and another family member made to Miami in 1925.

Poorly Marked

"The roads were still poorly marked and often treacherous with sand or mud," she said.

"It was imperative to keep food and shelter in the automobile as food and lodging were often hard to find along the country sections. (We) carried a small tent and portable gasoline burner and it was used many times although other lodgings were sometimes available."

One rainy night the Wexstaffs took refuse in a barn which had been converted to tourist rooms by a thick hay "mattress" in unused horse stalls. On another occasion they were housed in a building that had been a confederate hospital in the civil war.

"Here the three of us slept in one double bed partitioned with a curtain that surrounded the bed in the living room of the tourist hostess. It was a cold night for Georgia and the blankets were non-existent atop the feather mattress but the hostess built a huge fire in the fireplace and the Wexstaffs survived the cold," Mrs. Wexstaff recalled.

The Charlevoix-Miami trip took the Wexstaffs three weeks in 1925, due to stormy weather, bad roads and mechanical trouble with their Chevrolet touring car.

"Remember there were no comfort stations or service stops as there are today," she said.

"Gasoline had to be purchased wherever a red pump at the edge of a village street made known that motor fuel was available...Grocery stores frequently had pumps to serve the motorist, but Anti-Freeze was non-existent, but seldom needed as most early autos were jacked up in a barn adjacent to the lowly horse which was then brought into service for the duration of the winter."

In lieu of comfort stations, Mrs. Wexstaff said, "the motorist looked for a country school house along a country road as the schools always had outdoor 'johns', or took to the woods with a page from his mail-order catalogue, which was a necessary adjunct to motoring on the Dixie or elsewhere in the mid-teens and twenties."

In Yesterday's World there was camaraderie among car owners, Mrs. Wexstaff remembers.

"Owning a car was something of a hobby and car owners hob-nobbed together like a bunch of jazz musicians at a jam session. They exchanged experiences and bragged on gas consumption and the remote spots they have been able to visit with their cars.

"Even the women folks waved their white-gloved hands and smiled on that rare occasion when two cars met and passed on the narrow roadways."

And that's a far cry from today's motorists who whiz by a fellow motorist in distress without even taking a second glance!

Dorothy Dixon Retires from First State Bank of Charlevoix

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

Dorothy Dixon (Mrs. Maurice G. Dixon) is retiring from her positions as Cashier, Assistant Vice President and member of the Board of Directors of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, this month.

Mrs. Dixon, who has been with the bank since 1943 has decided to spend more time camping and fishing with her husband and family. But she isn't trading in all her ledgers and adding machines.

Despite retiring to spend more time with her family, Mrs. Dixon is going to continue to consult the bank on special projects, conduct a small personal bookkeeping service, and take in some sewing.

And, Mrs. Dixon says, she'll continue her 25 years of active work for the American Cancer Society and the Congregational Church.

Mrs. Dixon, who describes herself as "a very determined person," worked her way through Lansing Business College and when she decided to live in her home town of Charlevoix, presented herself to former Bank President Archie Livingston.

In August 1943, she began work as a teller at 50 cents an hour.

"There were four of us at the bank then, including the President.

"Our assets were $375,000," Mrs. Dixon laughs.

Mrs. Dixon watched the bank grow and grew with it. "Everything I learned I learned from experience. I took a few short American Banking Association courses, but I never went to school to study banking," she recalls.

By 1945, Mrs. Dixon had purchased stock in the bank, sealing what all her colleagues note as her deep loyalty to the institution.

In 1950 she became Assistant Cashier.

Director at Bank

In 1967, she was made a Director of the bank by the Board of Directors.

In May, 1970, she was made cashier.

In 1972 she was made Assistant Vice President.

"Dorothy was an officer of the bank before it was fashionable to have women bank officers," Louis Hollow, President of the bank points out.

As important as the ascent of Mrs. Dixon's professional career up through the ranks of banking, is the deep regard colleagues and banking customers hold for her.

"She is the one sought by long-time residents of Charlevoix as a trusted friend and financial advisor," Hollow explains.

Her expertise as a banker is augmented by the warmth and concern she communicates to everyone with whom she deals.

Part of her role has been that of personnel manager.

"A tribute to her ability," Hollow points out, "Is that she does the hiring and we have almost no turn over."

In the 33 years of Mrs. Dixon's tenure, the total bank turn over has been 30 people, which includes part time help.

Mrs. Dixon says she has "never felt like an executive officer.

"I feel like a just plain person," she laughs.

The employees over whom she has supervisory duties says, "She guides us in the right direction. She knows what she's doing and she treats you like an equal."

Dorothy Dixon

Mrs. Dixon was born in Williston, North Dakota. Her father, Martin Pedersen, a native Charlevoixan, brought his wife Minnie and seven children back to Charlevoix in 1924.

"We came to the Loeb farm first, where my father worked," she recalls. "Then he worked on the boats until the Depression in '29."

Graduating

Graduating from Charlevoix High School during the Depression (1933) she was immediately faced with finding work.

She went to Detroit for two years to work for the Harry Broder family.

In 1935, she returned to Charlevoix to marry Maurice Dixon.

When the war broke out and "Morrie" was sent off to the Pacific she worked her way through Business College.

Looking back over her 33 years in baking, Mrs. Dixon reflected, "A lot has changed. It is different, not necessarily easier now with computers.

"People blame computers, for their problems, but a computer is only as good as the employee who feeds in the information," she explains.

She remembers her first trip to the post office to mail money, "I was carrying a bag of $10 or $15,000. I was petrified.

"Today that's taken care of by Brinks.

"But handling that sort of money doesn't mean anything. It just isn't the same as the money in your own pocket book.

"And, I learned," she continues, "That money is very personal. What an individual owes or their ability to pay is private personal information.

"You learn never to talk about other people's affairs in this business," she concludes.

Mrs. Dixon's dedication and loyalty is heralded by her associates.

State Chamber Makes Poor Decision on Project Seafarer

The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce's recent endorsement of Project Seafarer comes at a had time.

In a news release issued last week, the state group said "over-reacting to unsubstantiated charges of harmful effects (medical, environmental, etc) would be to replace reason with emotion, national interest with local convenience, the process of scientific investigation with the rumor mill of theoretical speculation."

We find the Chamber's endorsement of the study almust as outlandish as the charges they label project adversaries as possessing.

The Board of Directors of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce said it unanimously endorsed the continuation of comprehensive studies and analysis relative to locating Project Seafarer in Michigan's Upper Peninsula for basically three reasons.

First, it stated that Seafarer is regarded by professional experts in national defense as essential to protecting the U.S. strategic submarine fleet, which is universally recognized critical to the defense of the country and its people.

Secondly, the Chamber said the cost of constructing Seafarer in Michigan is only about one-third of the estimated costs of locating the Project at alternative sites in New Mexico or Nevada.

And lastly, they contend that the cost of routine Project maintenance would be approximately $48 million per year less in Michigan than at the alternative sites.

In adopting the resolution, the board noted that "public officials should resist pressures to abandon this important Project until all facts are collected, analyzed and published."

Although we cannot argue with the Chamber's supposition that public officials should make sure they have all necessary scientific data at hand, we are concerned about the Chamber's support of the project.

Prior to taking its stand, the Board said they had been fully briefed by Rear Admiral Kenneth Haynes, director of U.S. Navy Communications.

Admiral Haynes contends that Seafarer will not be a regularly-spaced "grid but rather will be a highly flexible cable layout involving about 2,000 miles of cable within a 3,500 sq. mile boundary. None of this, according to the Navy official, would interfere with communities, individual residences or highly fragile ecological areas.

While 65 percent of the system will use existing easements, where will the 35 percent be laid? We also seriously question how the Navy could even design a system that will not interfere somewhat with local communities and environmentally sensitive areas.

The Navy also told the State Chamber that it has not made any effort to suppress biomedical studies concerning the effect of low frequency waves and that all medical data has been published in professional journals.

After Congressman Philip Ruppe's recent disclosure that he learned of secret federal government plans to dispose of nuclear waste in Northeast Michigan, how can we honestly know what the Navy's intentions are?

Similarly, the Navy official said the project would be stopped if harmful effects to human, plant or animal life are found. Again, we ask what kind of assurances can the Navy truly offer?

Finally, the Navy official pointed out that Seafarer is a system for daily, routine communications with the nuclear submarine fleet. The spokesman said it is not a "war message" system nor a method for detonating weapons on the ocean floor.

Admiral Haynes noted that Seafarer is a vital instrument for peace in that it insures constant, uninterrupted contact between top Navy command and the strategic submarine strike force.

For that very reason, we question the Navy's contention that the underground system would not be a prime target for attack.

Although the proposed project is being recommended for construction in the Upper Peninsula, the effects of the project are going to have a significant impact on all of us.

ft's bad enough that we are constantly learning about new pollutants in the world's largest body of fresh water--The Great Lakes.

Why should we further entice jeopardy to this community's greatest asset with a pct project of the Navy?

Letters to the editor

Congratulations

The Editor,
Charlevoix Courier,
Charlevoix, Michigan, U.S.A.

Dear Sir:

We wish to congratulate the Community of Charlevoix on your successful entry into the Guinness Book of World Records, by baking a mammoth cherry pie.

It has been of special interest to us at Paris, due to the involvement of Medusa Cement Company, and having heard of the plan in February.

We commend your community spirit and wish you a great Bi-Centennial year.

Special congratulations to Al Kaiser and the Medusa people who helped put plans and action together to come up with a successful event.

Yours very truly,
MEDUSA CEMENT COMPANY,

No Sympathy Please

Dear Editor:

I'm getting pretty fed up with the sympathy supporters in this County who feel we should "give Philo Sumner his last four years in office so he can retire as a Sheriff."

I checked into the laws concerning retirement for all City and County employees and they state as follows:

(1) Employees are eligible for full retirement at the age of 65. (Philo Sumner will not be 65 in four years.)

(2) Employees may take an early retirement at the age of 60 with 10 years of service. (Philo is not 60 yet, but he has been a Sheriff for 10 years.) Therefore, he WILL NOT and I repeat WILL NOT lose his early retirement eligibility if he is NOT re-elected this term—after 10 years of service you are "locked in" for retirement and CANNOT lose it!

So, sympathy supporters of Philo Sumner, I hope you'll think again before you support a man whose only goal for his last term in office is retirement. I have examined the other two candidates and I strongly suggest that you vote for the man who has lived up to his accomplishments and researched his goals enough to know that they CAN and WILL BE a reality. His name is GEORGE LASATER.

I am duly chastened and chagrined. It was pointed out to me in a letter from a Charlevoix resident that the Cherry Pie Caper WAS a benefit, and a worthy one at that. Then I went back and reread the original article which prompted my outburst of outrage and discovered at the very end, softly, that the benefit WAS mentioned then, also. I let the sensational parts blot out the sensible parts.

I apologize.

Dear Mr. Winter:

My husband and I read your editorial in the May 5 edition of the Courier, with interest.

Charlevoix's Cherry Pie Project put the town in the news, world-wide, in addition to all the plus aspects that you pointed out.

I enclose the front page of a Stars & Stripes, May 9—a newspaper with a circulation in just about every country.

Much more pleasant to be noted for a friendly project like an all-American Cherry Pie (super-size, that it), than for the problems some other cities call to mind.

Hope it was happy eating.

Sincerely,
Shirley Georgi

Clockwise

by Bob Clock

For the past couple of summers I have spent considerable time in the backyard converting vast expanses of lawn and beds of flowers into a vegetable garden.

Because the soil is tough and hasn't been turned in 50 years or more, I have politely refused the generous offer of friends to use their rototillers to break our stubborn sod.

In the first place, I am afraid that no rototiller made could take on a 50-year-old peony root and win. Our ancient tubers are planted deep and packed tight. It is a man-sized job to get underneath them with a spade and pry them loose.

In the second place, I'll have to confess to being an amateur archeologist of sorts. Every spadeful of dirt that I turn over reveals mysterious shards and tools from by-gone ages.

At first I would blame all of the relics on the Indians.

"This," I would say, holding up an elongated stone with a sharp, serrated edge, "is an old Indian jacknife used to clean fish."

The kids would gather round peering at the strange stone with wide eyes and furrowed brows.

I also dated all pottery shards back to the old days of prehistoric Indians.

"Look," I would cry, holding up a fragment of fragile glazed pottery decorated with tiny flowers in periwinkle blue, "this must have been an old Indian campsite. This looks like part of an old Indian gravy boat."

Judy would take the shard and examine it carefully.

"This china was made in Sheffield, England," she would say.

"How can you tell?" I'd ask defensively as the childrens' faces dropped.

"It says so on the bottom," she'd answer.

One day last summer after several shovelfuls had turned up little besides angleworms and fat white grubs, my eye suddenly caught sight of a longish piece of metal. I bent over, picked it up and slapped it on my knee to knock the dirt off. Then I looked at it closely.

"Why, it's a file," I said. "An ordinary metal file. Look, you can see where one end was made to fit into a wooden handle."

"You blew it," Judy said. "Blew it completely."

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Do you mean to stand there with a straight face and admit that you weren't about to announce to all and sundry that you had just come across an old INDIAN FILE?"

I hadn't even thought about it.

Some of the objects I have unearthed are genuine collectors' items. Last week, for example, I found a square nail, laboriously forged by hand by some long-dead ironsmith. I gave it to Jennifer for Show and Tell.

But it's the pottery and china shards that surprise me, not because they are so beautiful but because they are so plentiful. The former owners or tenants of the property over the past hundred years could not have been very well coordinated to break so many dishes. Of course, there's the possibility that they did o lot of fighting and went out into the yard to heave dinner plates at one another.

Probably, back in the good old days before garbage pick up, all household trash ended up in the backyard and broken china is the only refuse that survived the ravages of time and the elements.

Yesterday I was disemboweling a peony plant and had reached quite a depth when I unearthed a rather large shard decorated with birds of paradise.

"Well, here's another piece of china," I said, handing it to four-year-old Danny.

He looked at it closely and then peered into the hole.

"Can you hear them talking Chinese down there?" he asked.

Erma Bombeck

My husband and I were reading a story in the paper the other day about a couple who were getting a divorce because he did not cut his toenails in private and she found it disgusting.

"That's the trouble with people today," I observed. "They don't have a sense of humor. A lot of marriages could be saved with a sense of humor."

"Which reminds me," said my husband. "A guy told me an amusing story today which is true. It seems his wife made a new casserole and when some of it was left over, they gave it to their cat."

"That IS funny," I said wiping tears of laughter from my eyes.

"That's not the story," he said irritably. "A few hours after the cat ate the leftovers, he started to roll around the floor like he was dying, so the people figured they'd been poisoned too and the entire family went to the hospital to have their stomachs pumped."

"That's great," I smiled. "I love stories with happy endings. I always say stories don't have to be dirty to be funny."

"That's not the end," he explained patiently. "The zinger is when they all came home, the cat had given birth to kittens."

"How many?" I asked.

"You don't understand. That's the joke."

"What joke? Did the cat have kittens or did she not have kittens?"

"The point is she was never poisoned in the first place."

"Who said she was?"

"Everyone assumed that."

"Then that's their problem."

"No, no," he said, waving his arms. "The fact that the cat gave birth is funny."

"That's the kind of remark I'd expect from a macho who had an anesthetic to have his teeth cleaned."

"Don't you find it amusing that they would go to all that trouble to have their stomachs pumped and the cat wasn't sick at all?"

"Let me get this straight. Are you saying the entire family is going to have kittens? That doesn't make any sense. Where did you hear that Joke?"

"Just some guy in the club dressing room who was cutting his toenails."

The voice on the phone asked me to please hold the line for J.P. McCarthy.

J.P. McCarthy? Detroit's most famous disc jockey on WJR, the world's greatest radio station? The sometimes TV substitute for the immortal Bill Kennedy? J.P. wanted to talk to me, on the air? Wow. This is bigtime stuff, I thought. He usually phones Sonny Grandelius.

McCarthy was calling to welcome me to town, while his millions of listeners wondered why he didn't play some good music instead. The call came almost two months ago and I wanted to write about it sooner, but J.P. has been sick. I didn't want to say anything to make him feel worse.

Not that I don't agree he is a great disc jockey and raconteur. I am temporarily a commuter, on the freeway an hour every morning, and J.P. makes the driving fun.

When he was ill and off the air for several weeks, much of Michigan ached and mourned. Every Big Name except the Pope substituted for him and came up short. Not even Shirley Eder could stop McCarthy's listeners from yearning for his return. Me too.

But now that he's back to work, maybe I can explain something about that phone call without getting lynched by his fans.

When McCarthy got me on the air, he asked: "Didn't you once write something about me being too sweet?" I had to admit it, although I'd been hoping he wouldn't remember.

It happened several years ago when J.P. first began doing the color commentary for Detroit Lions football games. This means he was one of Bill Ford's hired cheerleaders. I wrote something about him cheering too, too sweetly. And he answered with a note saying one "too" would have been sufficient.

McCarthy waa simply the latest victim of my long-standing gripe against sports announcers who phony it up to help the club owners sell tickets, rather than tell the truth so listeners will know enough to stay home.

When I say long-standing, I mean I go all the way back to Harry Wismer. He started on the road to wealth by broadcasting Lions games back in the 1930s. He never told the truth until 1966 when he wrote a book called "The Public Calls It Sport." That's when he admitted his job had been to make the Lions sound great to the rodio audience, even when they stunk out the joint. The Lions were then owned by George Richards. Wismer wrote: "I could hardly have been an objective reporter. My first responsibility was to Richards, not the fans of Detroit."

Nothing much has changed since then. Club owners still have control over who is hired to broadcast their games. Some of them do their best to be objective, but they remain suspect; always short of 100 percent credibility.

Would you trust this newspaper's labor writer if he couldn't have been hired without General Motors' approval?

In the case of the Lions, such suspect reporting today could be toughed on Joe Slob than in Wismer's day. Michigan taxpayers, without their consent, are paying $800,000 a year to finance the Lions' domed stadium in Pontiac.

It's one of the most outrageous rip-offs ever. Bill Ford should buy his own toys.

But you don't hear many taxpayers gripe about it. They know the Lions are worth every cent because their broadcasters tell them so.

All of which is pretty heavy stuff for a column about J.P. McCarthy who always sounds light enough to walk on cotton batting. So here's a more frivolous reason for disc jockeys leaving sports to unbiased experts like me....

One of McCarthy's on-the-air phone callers last Monday was a woman who wanted to know what years the modern Tigers had won pennants. He told her 1934, 1935, 1945 and 1968.

Bobo Newsom would never forgive J.P. Bobo pitched the Tigers to a pennant in 1940. They lost the World Series to Cincinnati.

That woman was moking a Tiger hat to enter in a Downtown Detroit Days contest. She wrote the pennant-winning years all over the hat. But, because she received burn information, there was no 1940. And she didn't win the contest. I know, because I was one of the judges.

I asked if the loss made her angry at McCarthy. "I could never get mad at him," she said. "He is too sweet."

"But not too, too," I said.

Meet Charlevoix

...Keith Morris

Keith Morris was recently elected president of the Charlevoix Women's Club. This week the Courier talks with her about the aims and objectives of the Club and some of its projects.

COURIER: When was the Charlevoix Women's Club founded?

MORRIS: It was founded in 1968 as an outgrowth of the former Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs. We joined the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs the same year.

COURIER: Who is eligible for membership in the Women's Club?

MORRIS: Everyone living in the Charlevoix area who is in sympathy with the objectives of the Club. We make a special effort to invite newcomers through the Welcome Wagon and word-of-mouth.

COURIER: How many members do you have?

MORRIS: We have a membership of about 130, although, of course, they don't all attend every meeting.

COURIER: What are your membership dues?

MORRIS: They are $5 a year, except for life members, who do not pay any dues. Life members are those who have belonged to the Shakespeare or Dickens Club and the Women's Club for at least 25 years and who hove reached the age of 65.

COURIER: When do you meet?

MORRIS: Next year we will meet every third Tuesday. We meet in various places around town, depending upon the program, which may be anything from a luncheon and fashion show to a serious speaker.

COURIER: What kind of civic projects do you promote?

MORRIS: Our outgoing board has completed plans for renovation of the Lake Michigan Beach. It is our Bicentennial project and we are working with the City of Charlevoix and the Department of Natural Resources. John Campbell also helped by making a contour map. We are getting a grant of $6,000 from the DNR and the City will also supply funds. The whole project will take some time, but the first part will start shortly. The project entails not only beautification of the beach but preventative measures against wind and water erosion. We also plan to erect a bath house to meet specifications for handicapped persons and pruvide a paved parking lot for 104 vehicles.

COURIER: You recently received a state prize for this project, didn't you?

MORRIS: Yes, we were awarded Second Place District Award by the State Federation.

COURIER: What are some of your other on-going projects?

MORRIS: Almost every year we have a used book sale at the library for the benefit of local Indian children. This year the sale will be held August 12, 13 and 14. Anyone who has books to donate may take them to the library any time between now and then. Mrs. Hewitt V. Johnston and Mrs. Jeffrey L. Potter are co-chairmen of the sale. The money raised is used for a wide variety of purposes – to buy clothing for the children, to purchase sports equipment for them, even for education. Right now we have a girl who needs $300 to enter Michigan State University. We're going to try to get it for her.

Another one of our projects is Girlstown on Loch Rio in Belleville. We cooperate with the State Federation in furnishing a home for girls who have had an unfortunate experience or who need a change from their home situation.

COURIER: How do you raise funds for these projects?

MORRIS: Our only fund-raising activities are the book sale and our annual salad luncheon.

COURIER: Who are the present officers, besides yourself?

MORRIS: Mrs. J. Leedy Baer is immediate past president, Mrs. Arthur Reibel is first vice-president, Mrs. George Duke is second vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Duke is third vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Stoel is recording secretary, Mrs. M. A. Laliberte is corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Kit Carson is treasurer.

We're now in the process of lining up committee chairmen, but Mrs. Reibel will be publicity chairman, Mrs. Otto Wiesenger will be historian chairman, and Mrs. Don Brown will be audit chairman. Otto Wiesenger will be historian chairman, and Mrs. Don Brown will be audit chairman.

COURIER: Do you meet during the summer?

MORRIS: No, our meetings are held during the fall, winter and spring months. This year we will have our membership community room on September 21 in the Community Room of LaCroft.

COURIER: Have you been a member of the Women's Club for long?

MORRIS: No my husband Joe and I moved up here three years ago from Cincinnati. However, I have spent summers here since I wos a small child. My parents, the Freyhofs, had a cottage at the Belvedere Club for many years.

COURIER: Do you have children?

MORRIS: Yes, three. Our oldest, Mary, Mrs. James Larimer, lives in Grandville Ohio; Mellissa just graduated from Rollins College and will live in Winter Park, Fla; and Joe III is a student at Ohio University.

On Stage...

It's one of those evenings when you want to do more than have a quiet, candle-light dinner.

And you want to do more than listen to a noisy rock group or sit around a crowded bar. How about a play?

A newly formed theatre troupe will be making a Charlevoix summer debute July 4—hoping to offer that something different summer visitors and local residents may want.

Right now, the troupe is busy rehearsing, as well as designing a summer theater stage to accommodate the four shows it hopes to present throughout the summer months.

Some of Michigan's performers, who will operate the Charlevoix Music Theatre, will present "Man of LaMancha," "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Camelot."

Initially, the performances will be held at the Grey Gables Inn with hopes of also performing in a more rustic setting at Castle Farms, located two miles south of Charlevoix on M-66.

Associate producer Katie Vogel says she hopes the new theatre group will answer the question so many resorters ask–"Where do we go for a good evening's entertainment in Charlevoix?"

Producing the shows are Larry and Charlene Brook, who live in both Southfield and Charlevoix.

Mrs. Vogel, whose husband hosts Charlevoix radio WVOY's evening program, says the Detroit couple have always been interested in Charlevoix and wanted to create more evening entertainment.

"Their special hope is that in years to come, we can cultivate enough talent in the Charlevoix area to have 50 percent or more of the performers from this area," she says.

"At this time we have quite a few volunteers from Charlevoix High School and the local community working on the production areas of our musicals."

They even eventually hope to be able to offer high school credit for those students participating in the program.

For the time being, the group's prime objective will be to generate support for the summer program.

John Raliegh of Detroit, a professional actor and opera singer, will be directing the summer stock theater with Bill Vogel of Charlevoix and Jan Zollman of Boyne City providing some of the local talent.

For more information about the summer program, call 547-6644.

Hey Kids!

How About Summer Camp?

All signals are "Go" for the opening of Camp McSauba, a day camp for boys and girls from six to 12 years, says Dwight Boss, Charlevoix Recreation Director.

The first session is scheduled to open Monday, June 21, at Mt. McSauba located north of Charlevoix where a full schedule of activities have been planned. The sessions will be held five days weekly from June 21 through Aug. 20. Daily sessions will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3:30 p.m. Parents must bring their children to the camp site located at the foot of Charlevoix's only 'mountain'.

Jack Gebott and Henry 'Butch' Wagner will be camp directors, Boss said.

KAREN SELL and Kim King will serve as counselors.

Gebott, a graduate of Western Michigan University, and an experienced camp director, comes to the program after having served at YMCA camps in the Grand Rapids area. He was with Camp Optimist, a day camp outside Grand Rapids and at a resident camp, Camp Manitoulin, near Middleville. He is a teacher by profession.

Wagner, a teacher with majors in biology and science, will be the second director. He also comes to the program with a great deal of experience. He worked with the Del Terrill Day Camp for six years and was with the city's water safety program for six years. In addition, he is an experienced scuba diver. He also has a minor in Physical Education.

Karen Sell and Kim King are joining the program as camp counselors.

The camp program is geared to children, Boss said in announcing camp personnel. Each group will be composed of 10 campers and a counselor. Children are grouped together according to age. The camping program has been structured so campers will be exposed to a host of activities, Boss explained.

Day to day activities are planned on a group bases. Regular activities will include water instruction and swimming, archery, BB gunnery, arts and crafts, nature study, games, hiking, camp crafts, singing, skits, stunts, Indian theme and values training....plus the fun of working and playing together.

At the present time, 80 youngsters are registered for various sessions throughout the summer.

The Day Camp is sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department.

DWIGHT BOSS, seated center, discusses the summer plans for Camp McSauba, a day camp being operated by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, with the camp directors and counselors. With Boss are Jack Gebott (left) and Henry (Butch Wagner).

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES

MAY 31, 1976
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, and Wallace. Absent: Aldermen Wood and Morris.

The Minutes of the May 18, 1976 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Council was asked to fix a 100 foot portion to Newman Street where water lays when we have a rain, due to no storm sewer in that area. The City is going to make a study of this area and see if this problem can be corrected.

Mayor Hansen recessed the Council to a Board of Appeals meeting.

Council reconvened to its regular Council meeting.

A Public Hearing was conducted for comments on the City's operating budget for fiscal year 1976-77. After considerable discussion was held on the budget, motion was offered by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wallace that the budget be accepted and the Ordinance drawn up for same.

ORDINANCE NO. 354

The City Ordains:

Section 1. That to defray the expenses and pay the liabilities of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan for the fiscal year beginning March 1, 1976 chargeable to several funds provided by law and duly created, it is necessary to appropriate to such funds for the respective purpose thereof the following sums of money:

Fund:	Amount:	Mills:
All Funds	$2,092,464.00	12

Section 2. That there be raised by taxation upon the July Tax Roll for the year 1976 assessed upon the real and personal property in the said city, a total sum of money equal to 9 mills x (.92819 delinquency) on each dollar of the total assessed valuation of such property as shown on the assessment rolls of said year, such sum including the allocation made by the County Tax Commission.

Section 3. That there be raised by taxation on the July Tax Roll for the year of 1976 assessed on real and personal property in City, a total sum of money equal to 3 mills on each dollar of the total assessed valuation of such property as shown on the assessment roll, of said year, such sum ($74,400) to be utilized for the fifth year Debt Retirement, both principal and interest on the $700,000 General Obligation Bonds which were sold June 8, 1971.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, and Wallace. Nays: None. Absent: Aldermen Wood and Morris.

Motion by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wallace that the proposed General Fund Budget in the amount of $568,930 as proposed by the Finance Committee be Approved. Motion was offered by Alderman Whitley and supported by Alderman Plumm to adopt the following Resolution appointing a Street Administrator.

RESOLUTION FOR DESIGNATION OF (STREET) ADMINISTRATOR

WHEREAS, Section 13 (e) of Act 51, Public Acts of 1951 provides that each incorporated city and village to which funds are returned under the provisions of this section, that "the responsibility for all street improvement, maintenance and traffic operation work shall be coordinated by a single administrator to be designated by the governing body who shall be responsible for and shall represent the municipality in all transactions with the State Highway Commission pursuant to the provisions of this Act."

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that this Honorable Body designate Robert Wexstaff as the single (Street) administrator for the City of Charlevoix in all transactions with the State Highway Commission as provided in Section 13 of the Act.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm and Wallace. Nays: None. Absent: Aldermen Wood and Morris.

Motion was offered by Alderman Whitley and supported by Alderman Erber to adopt the following Resolution appointing a Maintenance Superintendent.

RESOLUTION

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT, William Brodin is designated as Maintenance Superintendent on sections of the State Trunk line Highways as shown on the Municipal Maintenance Map and Budget Sheets, for the City of Charlevoix.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Whitley, Erber, Plumm, and Wallace. Nays: None. Absent: Aldermen Wood and Morris.

Motion was offered by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Wallace that the following Resolution be adopted whereby authorizing the Chief of Police to conduct auction sale to dispose of abandoned bicycles.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED that the Chief of Police be authorized to sell during the month of July 1976 abandoned bicycles in possession of the Police Department, with notice of auction sale to be duly published in the local newspaper.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that all of the sale proceeds will go into the City's General Fund.

BOARD OF APPEALS — MAY 31, 1976

The Board of Appeals met to discuss a variance whereby permitting Chez of Charlevoix to build a sixteen (16) unit parking carport along the east lot line of their property which borders the City access road between the first hole and the second tee of the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

The Committee was in favor of discussing this further, so the Board of Appeals was recessed until June 14, 1976.

Former Residents Celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. (Ada) Maxwell, Marne, Michigan, former residents of Hayes Township, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary, with dinner at Finger's in Grand Rapids, Saturday, May 29, hosted by their family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas (Gail) Maxwell of Marne and Mr. an Mrs. T.C. (Annamae) Baker of Rockford. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall L. (Mae) Donaldson of Joliet, Illinois, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Maxwell, attended the event. Their anniversary was May 22. They have four grandchildren, Scott, Jaime and two-month old twins, Tommy and Tiffany.

Sunday afternoon, May 30, the Baker's hosted a family gathering at their home. Attending were the honored guests, the Senior Maxwell's, Tom and Gail Maxwell and four children, Bruce and Paula Baker and Denny and Carla Miller, and Marshall and Mae Donaldson.

Maxwell worked at the Michigan Maple Block Co. in Petoskey, until his retirement in 1970. Mrs. Maxwell was the former correspondent for Hayes-Bay Shore, for the Petoskey News-Review, also the correspondent for the Community Calendar of the Charlevoix Courier, until they moved to Marne, last July.

It's a Long Way from Ellsworth to Yucaipa, California

It's a long way from Ellsworth, Michigan to Yucaipa, California but that is where two former Ellsworth residents met as neighbors.

The Courier recently received a letter from Hazel Pearl Phillips which tells of her meeting Minnie Bolhuis Hoekstra, who lives across the street from her.

By way of introduction, Mrs. Phillips explains that she was born in Inwood in 1892, the daughter of Almira (Brown) Pearl. Her maternal grandparents were Julia (Yetta) and William Brown of Atwood.

"My father built the big house on the hill in Ellsworth which is known as the Klooster home," she writes. "Later we moved on the 'George Holbein' farm in the Miles District between Ellsworth and East Jordan in 1899."

Mrs. Phillips is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and the County Normal School as well as Ypsilanti. She went to California in 1920 and taught school for 39 years, mostly in Los Angeles. Now retired, Mrs. Phillips spends much of her time traveling and has been around the world by ship four times.

A note from Mrs. Hoekstra says she was born in Ellsworth in 1915 on a farm along Six Mile Lake "across from Yettaw's Point among the rolling hills."

After working in the canning factory in Ellsworth a few years, Mrs. Hoekstra moved to Muskegon and from there to Chicago where she met her husband, Chris Hoekstra. They later moved to California.

Of her association with Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Hoekstra says, "We enjoy reminiscing about the bye-gone days after we discovered we had both lived in Ellsworth."

Mrs. Hoekstra has written a poem, "Ode to Ellsworth, Michigan", which follows:

Ellsworth, O Ellsworth, is where we had our start,
Ellsworth, yes Ellsworth, you're still within our heart.
The old iron bridge and the swamp so dark
Where creeping things moved and the lovers would park.
We have moved far away, but our thoughts we can recall
As we laugh with the memories of the old blue hall.
Everyone so busy in the summer making hay,
Then on Saturday night the band would come to play.
Sunday was church for most of the people
And the bell would ring from an open steeple.
Week days were long working out in the sun
But we must admit we also had fun.

Early to bed and early to rise,
I used to believe were just two lies.

Never stopping long enough to think things through
What being healthy, wealthy and wise would do.
Yes, the years would slip by, but we love to recall
The things that happened in the old blue hall.

Do you have fond memories of your childhood?
If you lived in Ellsworth, you surely would.
I visit you often when at night I close my eyes
And I am sure that I will till the day I die.
So, Ellsworth, O Ellsworth, where we first had our start,
Yes, Ellsworth, O Ellsworth, you're still in my heart.

Re-Issue of Plat Book Sparks Interest for History Buffs

There is a re-issue of an old book title available in bookstores and similar outlets this summer of particular interest to Charlevoix County residents and visitors. It is the "Plat Book of Charlevoix County Michigan", dated 1901.

Tracing the succession of land ownership can be almost as much fun as tracing family origins, and frequently almost as frustrating.

One way is to explore past ownership of lots and land acreage is to ask the county Registrar of Deeds to prepare an Abstract of title from the time the land was conveyed to the first individual or corporate titleholder by the federal government, by "patent".

If the Registrar isn't too busy, for a good many dollars you can have in hand a comprehensive, carefully dated rundown on every transaction affecting your land from that very first owner. It does take time; you may have to wait several years to have in hand all the facts on change in ownership, mortgages, type of land conveyance, etc.

If you don't insist on assembling all the detail, and just plain wish to turn back the clock for a quick look at the entire Charlevoix County scene 75 years ago in a painless way, the 1901 Plat-book is for you.

In it you can examine the plat maps of both the north and south sides of the city of Charlevoix and environs for lot detail in both the "Charlevoix Summer Home Association" and the "Chicago Resort", at a time when both were unrecorded.

These two famous northern resorts were of course well established at the turn of the century. Other resorts in this county that were not so well-known were Ironton, Wildwood Harbor on Walloon Lake, Advance, Talcott, Mount McSauba, Kaw-Ga-Chew-Ing and Caledonia Heights. Did you know that there was once a "race course" northwest of Charlevoix, just beyond the city limits?

Did you know that you had a choice of two routes south from town in those days-via Antrim Street to Sheridan south, or out State, turning right past the cemetery and out Marion Center Road? Both routes took you through Inwood and Norwood on your journey toward Traverse City.

Did you know that in addition to those we have now, in 1901 there were six communities in Charlevoix County large enough to have official post offices and which have completely disappeared from today's maps? These include Inwood, Phelps, Burgess, Bay Springs, Oot and Thumb Lake.

Did you know that there were, in 1901 on Big Beaver Island, property descriptions of 53 different parcels owned by different Gallaghers-at least twenty-two of them-J.P., D.P., Phil, C, Mrs. P.M., Mary E., R.S., Annie E., G.F., J.W., W.J., Michael, John, P.C., P.F., C.C., Neil, Dominee, D.T., John S., and probably more.

Can you locate LITTLE Beaver Island?

That sort of information, and a lot more, awaits your painless attention in the 1901 Plat book, if you are a lover of ancient trivia.

Tennis Lessons Offered Again

Tennis lessons will be offered again this season at the municipal tennis courts at the corner of Elm Street and Central Avenue, Charlevix Recreation Department Director Dwight Boss announced.

Both adults and younger players may sign up at the courts this week for the classes scheduled to begin June 21. The classes will be offered four days each week and players may make their choice of days. Enrollment for classes may be made at the courts from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. daily this week with attendants at the courts. A $9.00 fee for the six one-hour lessons must be made at the time of registration, Boss said.

Randy Silver of Detroit and Charlevoix will be the instructor this year. Silver has been an instructor at the Don Kervis Tennis Camp at Watervliet and played with a high school tennis team in Royal Oak. He is 21.

Classes for all registrants will be categorized according to experience.

Classes for registrants in the eight through 16 year age group will be as follows: 2:00 to 3:00 p.m. for beginners; 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. for intermediates and 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. for advanced players. Classes will be given one day per week for six weeks.

Classes for adults, i.e., persons 17 years and older, will begin at 6:00 p.m. for beginners; 7:00 p.m. for intermediates and 8:00 p.m. for advanced players.

Dairy Bar Downs Tri-City In Women's Slo-Pitch

Women's Slo-pitch played one game last Wednesday in which Mom's Dairy Bar rolled over Tri-City Asphalt 16 to 8, Julie Wimmer pitched the win as Betty Bergman took the loss. On Thursday, June 10, two women's games were played. In the first game, Kentucky Fried Chicken downed Medusa 5 to 4. Pam Parsel took the win while Tammy Mitchell suffered the loss. In the second game, Village Inn cooked Edwards IGA 10 to 4. Marge Carey took the loss as Sue Peters pitched the win.

On Saturday, the 12th, Browe Electric was turned off by Medusa, 25 to 5. Tammy Mitchell hurled the win while LeeAnn Christenson took the loss. In the second game, Mom's Dairy Bar whipped County State Bank, 22 to 5 Cindy Kitely took the win while Julie Supernaw had the loss.

County Must Pay For Drainage Study

By FRAN MARTIN

The county is responsible for underwriting the cost of a study of a drainage problem in the Boulder Park area Huy Hayes, Charlevoix County prosecutor, advised the County Board of Commissioners at its recent meeting.

The problem is the result of the drain off of lands behind the area.

The problem will require an engineering study which could cost from $800 to $2,000. The expenditure would not be recoverable until a drainage district is established, Hayes advised.

In other action at the recent board meeting, the board waived building and soil erosion and sedimentation fees on recreational projects in the county as long as they are being developed on public lands.

Descriptions of lands located in Charlevoix Township which the City of Charlevoix proposes to annex have been returned to the city for correction. Ralph Richardson, who heads a special committee named to study this issue, reported to the board. The proposed annexation will be brought before the board when this is done.

Martin Paul, the board's representative on the Commission on Aging, reported that the commission was asking to increase its membership from 10 to 15 members before definite terms for board members were established. Lee Moerland said that he felt an executive committee should be established to care for current problems with the enlarged board meeting only two or three times per year. No definite action was taken on the matter.

William Mercer, director of the Planning Commission, presented the proposed county-wide recreation plan for review before forwarding it to the state for consideration. Mercer also presented some information regarding a grant administrator and said that Gordon Hobbs, who had held such a position in southeastern Michigan would attend a meeting of the board.

Food Program Saves $1,100

The food preparation program at the Charlevoix County Jail initiated in December has already saved the county $1,100 during the first five months Robert J. Weyand, food service analyst for the Department of Correction, has advised the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The meals now average $2.87 per day, Weyand said and added that improvements in the area of purchasing is expected to trim the average cost even more.

This has been made possible by the use of menus prepared by the food services; the preparation of foods for daily use and cooking and freezing of foods for use on weekends and holidays, planned buying and use of a micro-wave oven. The cook, Mrs. Ernest Williams, is employed on a 40-hour per week basis. Jail personnel heat and serve the breakfast meal.

Prior to adopting this plan, meals were catered by a local restaurant at a cost of $4.00 per day.

Need Help

Charlevoix County's Cancer Fund drive is $1,800 short of its goal, according to Chairman Patty Muma, who is making a plea for additional funds.

While the City of Charlevoix met its goal with collections of almost $6,000, other areas of the county did not do as well, Mrs. Muma says.

Those wishing to make an additional contribution, or who were not contacted during April, may do so by sending a check to the treasurer, Dorothy Dixon at the First State Bank in Charlevoix, or to Mrs. Muma at 1500 Park Avenue, Charlevoix.

More Meals

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging reports that starting Thursday, June 17, three meals instead of two a week will be served to Senior Citizens in Charlevoix.

They will be served on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 12:30 in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria.

TWO NINE-YEAR-OLD Ellsworth girls earned top honors at the recent Michigan Accordion Teacher's Guild contest in Troy. They are Rhonda Sowers (left) and Melody Anderson, shown here with their teacher, Al Anderson, who is Melody's father. Together they won a third place in the duet category and both were awarded an evaluation trophy. Melody was also the Michigan Champion Soloist in her age group and took first place in the elementary division of sight reading. They competed against students from Flint, Kalamazoo, Detroit, Grand Rapids and Muskegon. Rhonda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Sowers.

LYNDA MCCANN NEWMAN, daughter of former Charlevoix residents Mr. and Mrs. Dale McCann, was recently judged "Ms. Downtown Flint". Among eligibility requirements for the contest was that contestants must be employed or doing volunteer work for a downtown Flint business or oganization. Ms. Newman is a nursing student at Mott College and does volunteer work for the Flint Environmental Action Team.

It's summer vacation - and that goes for your houseplants too! Most houseplants, except African Violets, can be outdoors after Memorial Day. An outdoor vacation may be a treat for your houseplants but keep in mind their are certain risks.

While houseplants placed outdoors do tend to grow vigorously and may double in size, they are susceptible to bug infestation and storm damage.

MSU horticulturists suggest if your plants are doing well inside, leave them there. On the other hand a plant that is doing poorly may benefit from an outdoor vacation.

If you think you'd like to give your houseplants a summer vacation, horticulturists suggest the following procedures.

Prepare a plant to go outside by cutting it back or by transplanting it into a larger container to give it room to grow. Try not to damage the root system during transplanting. If the roots are damaged, give the plant a week or so indoors to recover before setting it out.

When you move plants outdoors, place them where they will not receive direct afternoon sunlight. Houseplants get sunburned easily. Pick a shady, sheltered spot for them. Even in the shade, plants will generally get more light outdoors than indoors in a sunny window. Most will thrive because of the increased light.

For the first few days, set plants outside only for a couple of hours. This will give them time to adjust somewhat to outdoor conditions.

When you are ready to set them out to stay, consider burying the pot up to the rim in the soil. This will keep them from drying out too rapidly and will help protect them from being blown over and damaged. They should still be watered daily and taken inside if severe weather conditions are forecast.

Minimize insect problems by setting plants away from flower beds or vegetables that may attract insects. As a preventative, spray with a general purpose household insecticide every two weeks. Sprays are most effective if used in early morning on calm days. Washing the leaves regularly with warm water will also discourage insects.

Because plants will be growing rapidly while they're outdoors, they need more fertilizer than they need under indoor conditions. Be careful not to over-fertilize. Follow manufacturer's directions.

When you bring plants inside at the end of August, check them closely for insects. Isolate infested plants from insect-free ones and treat insect problems at once.

Bob Miles' Book Still Available

Word from the publisher in Chicago is that the press run is half completed and that publication of "Bob Miles' Charlevoix--A Century in Pictures" may be expected by the end of June. It was originally anticipated that the book would be ready for distribution by June 15.

However, additional work on a number of plates to achieve desired quality resulted in the delay.

In view of the later date, "Bob Miles' Charlevoix" may continue to be ordered from the Charlevoix Historical Society, Box 525, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720 at the pre-publication price of $20 until June 30. After that date the cost will be $25.

Obituary

Fred W. Shaver

Mr. Shaver, age 76, died June 5, 1976 at his residence. He had been a resident of East Lansing since 1925, coming to East Lansing High School where he coached the High School's Football, basketball and baseball teams until June of 1944 when he retired.

He then became associated with Auto Owners Insurance Co., retiring in 1964 as National Claims Manager.

Mr. Shaver was a member of East Lansing People's Church, Life member of Bay City Lodge No. 129, F. & A.M., Capitol Chapter No. 9, R. & A.M., Lansing Commandery No. 25, K.T., and Elk Khurafeh Temple. He graduated from Bay City High School and Alma College.

He attended the University of Michigan, North Western University, Ohio State and the University of Wis. He was made a member of the Alma College Hall of Fame in 1971 and was a member of the Alma College order of the Golden Thistle and the Sigma Delta Psi. He was a Veteran of World War 1.

Surviving are: son, Fred W. Shaver, II, of DeWitt, Mich.; a daughter, Miss Priscilla L. Shaver of East Lansing; 2 grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. Religious services were conducted at 1:00 p.m. Tuesday, June 8th, at the Estes-Leadley Colonial Chapel, with Rev. Carl Staser of the People's Church officiating, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery in Lansing.

Memorials may be made to the Michigan Heart Association or the Michigan Diabetic Association.

W. Karl Purdy

Graveside services for W. Karl Purdy, 75, who died Sunday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Thursday, June 8, at Brookside cemetery. The Rev. William P. Seibert officiated.

Born in Strathroy, Ontario, Nov. 25, 1900, Mr. Purdy came to Augusta, Michigan, in 1927. In 1933 he was married to the former Mrs. Crystal Howard at Angola, Ind. They made their home in southern Michigan until moving here in 1951. He was a carpenter by trade. He was a member of the Community Church of God.

Surviving are his wife; a son, William Karl, Jr., of St. Joseph; a step-daughter, Mrs. Charles J. (Anita) Pontius of Hillsdale and two grandchildren.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Charles Lampbear

Graveside services for a former resident, Mrs. Charles (Mildred) Lamphear, 90, were held at Brookside cemetery June 3. The Rev. Raymond Giffin officiated.

Mrs. Lamphear died May 28 in San Antonio, Tex.

The former Mildred E. Johnson was born Feb. 26, 1886 at Fairgrove and came here with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Johnson, in 1898. She was married in 1914 to Mr. Lamphear who preceded her in death on Aug. 10, 1947. Following his death she made her home in Detroit with her daughter, Byrnice, now Mrs. F. E. Greifenstein, and since 1963 in Little Rock, Ark., and San Antonio with her son-in-law and daughter.

Surviving are a son, John E. Lamphear of Birmingham, Ala., one daughter, Mrs. Greifenstein of San Antonio and four grandsons.

Lloyd J. Dornaa

Funeral services for Lloyd J. Dornan, 80, who died Tuesday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held Friday at the Chappell Funeral Home in Fennville. Interment was in a Fennville cemetery.

Mr. Dornan was born at Fennville where he resided and worked as a farmer and construction worker until moving to the former Adams property in Marion Township in 1961.

He is survived by his wife, Rena M.; one son, Lloyd J., Jr. of Fennville; two daughters, Mrs. Wade Doty of Cary, Ill., and Mrs. Hugh E. Walker of Harrisburg, Ill.; three grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a brother, Adrian of Grand Rapids and two sisters, Mrs. Emily Loverigge of Marquette and Lena M. Dornan of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Buehlmaa

Mrs. Hilda Buehlman, 89, died Wednesday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The body was returned to the Reedsville Funeral Home in Reedsville, Wis., for funeral services and burial on Saturday.

Mrs. Buehlman had come here 2½ years ago from the Manitowoc area to make her home with her son, James Buehlman.

Board Approves Bids

The Charlevoix County State Bank was awarded the bid for $550,000 in tax anticipation notes by the Charlevoix School District. The bid was awarded at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education held Monday.

The bank's bid was in the amount of 3.7 percent and was the lowest of three received. The bid submitted by the First State Bank was for 3.88. The third was entered by the Caseville Bank and was the highest of the three.

Supt. James A. McKimmy, in commenting on the bids, said he and the board were appreciative of the competitive low bids of the local banks. He went on to say that this indicates their interest in supporting the schools.

The board also approved debt service payments which are due July 1, 1976. The service included the transfer of $51,692 from the Old Retirement Fund (the high school bond issue) to the City National Bank of Detroit and the transfer of $105,722 from the New Retirement Fund (the K-5 school) to pay principal, interest and fees.

Michael Gibbons Named Assistant County Prosecutor

Michael Gibbons

Michael A. Gibbons, who has had a law practice here for the past 19 months, has been appointed assistant prosecuting attorney for Charlevoix county.

The appointment was made by Roy C. Hayes, Charlevoix County Prosecutor. In announcing the appointment, Hayes said the increased case load in the courts and the need to have a representative of his office on call 24 hours a day were the chief reasons for appointing an assistant. He cited the number of completed files in Circuit Court alone to emphasize the increase in the work load of the office. In 1975 there were 18 completed files compared to 50 during the first five months of 1976.

Hayes said Gibbons would join him on 24 hour call and be involved in District Court cases as well as assisting in Circuit Court.

In addition, Hayes and Gibbons are cooperating on the presentation of seminars for Law Enforcement officers in the county. The first of the series was "The Laws of Arrest and Search and Seizure". Other phases of the laws involved in law enforcement will be included in future seminars.

Gibbons was admitted to the Michigan Bar in January 1966, and in the past 10 years has filled a number of positions while preparing himself for a general practice.

For a brief time, he was in private practice with a law firm in Iron Mountain. From Dec. 1, 1966, until Jan. 23, 1970, he was chief administrative assistant and assistant prosecutor in Ingham County. He did extensive criminal trial work in the courts of the county and maintained an office at the county jail where he conducted general investigations, search warrants, extradictions and issued criminal warrants. For the first year, he was a member of the License Appeal Board in Lansing and also conducted a limited private practice consisting of bankruptcy hearings in U.S. District Courts, domestic relations, negligence and real estate matters. From Jan. 24, 1970, until coming here he served as hearings officer for the Financial Institutions Bureau for the Department of Commerce of the State of Michigan.

He also has attended a Prosecutor's Seminar in Lansing, a short course for Prosecuting Attorneys at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and Banking Seminars at Lansing and Washington, D.C.

Prior to being admitted to the Bar of Michigan, he was Chief Assistant Subrogation Officer for the Michigan Mutual Liability Insurance Co. with offices in Detroit.

Gibbons was born in Detroit March 30, 1938, was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1956 and served the next two years with the U.S. Army in Germany after graduating from the Army Finance School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Fort Wayne, Ind. in 1956.

Following his discharge from the service, he attended the University of Detroit for a year and, in 1962, was graduated from Aquinas College in Grand Rapids with a major in English Literature and a minor in Political Science. In 1965, he received his law degree from Wayne State University Law School.

He is presently a member of the Michigan Bar Association and Charlevoix-Emmet Bar Association.

He is married to the former C. Marilyn Neff. They have four sons.

Special Golf Day Planned

Women golfers in the Charlevoix area will play every Wednesday morning at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course it was decided recently at a meeting of interested golfers.

Those interested in playing will meet at the clubhouse between 10 and 11 a.m. every Wednesday to be paired with playing partner for the nine-hold round of golf.

It was pointed out that this program is open to all interested golfers and is not confined to any one group.

Joha Smith

Smith Joins Edward's

Dick Edwards of Edwards IGA has announced the addition of John Smith to the store's meat department.

Smith has worked in Northwestern Michigan for 30 years, 11 years with the Kroger Company, ten years with the IGA and was with Neff Brothers from 1964 until they sold their store.

"I am looking forward to seeing all my old friends and new friends at Edwards IGA," he said.

Charlevoix Resident Has Outboard Championship Sewn Up

Voisin Looking For A Competitor

Don Voisin

By KEN WINTER

You would think being a five-time national marathon outboard champ would be enough for Charlevoix's Don Voisin.

But, the 30-year-old bearded insurance agent is already gearing up to capture another crown next month in the American Power Boat Association's National Marathon Championship to be held on July 11 and 12 in Trenton, Mich.

What's the challenge after winning the title in 1968 and then again every year from 1970 to 1974?

"I guess, I'm just waiting to see who can beat me," says Voisin, who's won 24 out of 25 marathons he has raced in.

The Charlevoix driver, known as "The Trapper" in the north country, most recently won the Class D feature and the fastest race in the Belle Isle Outboard Club's 29th annual marathon around the island park May 23, averaging 60.12 miles.

Besides winning the marathon championship five times, Voisin has also picked up the American Power Boat Association's High Point Championship crown every year since 1968. The only exception was in 1969 when he lost out by four points.

The high point crown is based on the number of points picked up for racing during the May through October season.

"I guess, I just like the competition," Voisin said about his outboard racing career that began in 1963.

Born and raised on Mullet Lake in Northern Michigan's Cheboygan, County, Voisin practically grew up watching power boat racing out the front window of his home.

For many years, Michigan's second largest marathon–the Top of Michigan Marathon–took place on Mullet Lake and the rest of Northern Michigan's Inland Waterway, some 87 miles.

Voisin began racing when he was 7-years-old in a 20 horsepower runabout and has since graduated to 13-foot Desilda with a 55-horsepower Mercury that goes up to 63.5 miles an hour.

"The first five years I learned from the school of hard knocks," he said about getting into the sport.

In 1968, Voisin said he started building his own engines, and began to pick up the awards he's been getting ever since.

Power boat racing is just beginning to climb out of a 10-year slump, Voisin says, because Mercury has gone back into making new engines for the sport.

As far as getting into the sport the racer says all you need is an investment of between $500 to $560 to pick up a boat, motor and prop.

"I go out of my way to help new people get into the sport," he added.

The Charlevoix resident says the sport is a relatively safe one and he has been slightly injured only a few times in his long career.

"Most of the serious injuries come in short course races, not the marathons," he says.

Voisin races in between 10 and 13 races a year in Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin, as well as several on the east coast.

"Most of the people who race boats are the working and professional people who like to get out on weekends," he said.

Voisin has been commodore of the Top of Michigan marathon for four years and has served on numerous committees for the American Power Boat Association.

Radioactivity Is Subject of Meeting

Radioactive emissions will be the subject of a meeting called by Mrs. Alice Tunison, Charlevoix County Civic Defense Director for June 24.

Mrs. Tunison advised the board of commissioners that the meeting had been called to clarify this subject in the county.

She said representatives from the Radiological Division of the State Health Department would be on hand to discuss the subject and that Consumers Power Company personnel would be present to answer questions regarding its Big Rock Nuclear Power plant.

CETA Program Put a Youth to Work

By Fran Martin

Two hundred and fifty young people, most of them school age, are working in three northwestern Michigan counties as the result of SPEDY, the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantage Youth.

This according to Jan Elliott, counselor for Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties, part of the 10 county Northern Michigan Manpower Consortium which receives federal funds to support the program. Funds are channeled to the three counties through the Traverse Bay Area Intermediate School District to the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

The SPEDY phase of the CETA Title I Youth Program is one of three whose purpose is to provide a work experience for young people as a step toward the private sector where they will have full-time employment when the need arises, Miss Elliott explained. Many have never known the experience of applying for and holding down a regular job, she added. This program is designed to do that while allowing them so many hours work each week at a fair wage, she continued.

In the SPEDY program now underway the youth, both boys and girls, are working 28 hours per week at $2.30 per hour. The employees must meet federal guidelines to work in the nine weeks program.

In Antrim County, 110 young people are working; 75 in Charlevoix county and 60 in Emmet county. Others are being processed and will be working this week.

They have been assigned to employment in non-profit public offices and organizations. Among the places they are working are medical care facilities, libraries, recreation departments, schools, offices in municipalities, and with such groups at Big Brothers-Big Sisters, the Humane Societies and similar organizations.

Two other programs will become available when fall begins Miss Elliott said. One will be a part-time situation where students in school will work eight hours per week in the community.

The second program will be for those out of school including drop-outs who will receive counseling, tutoring where it is needed, and encouragement to return to the classroom. These people may work as much as 24 hours per week.

"There are many young people in the community who would likely qualify for work under SPEDY. If you think you might qualify or want more information regarding the guidelines under which the program is conducted contact me" Miss Elliott said.

She may be reached through the Char-Em Intermediate School District where applicants may leave a message and their name, address and telephone number or at her home. The numbers are 547-9947 or 4336.

In Race for Michigan Amateur Crown

Pohl Has Battle On His Hands

Three-hundred amateur golfers from throughout the state teed off at the Belvedere and the Harbor Point golf courses at 8 a.m. Tuesday at seven minute intervals as the annual Michigan Amateur Golf Championship got underway Tuesday.

After two days of medal play, the 64 players with the best scores, including the defending champion, Dan Pohl of Mt. Pleasant, will begin three days of match play with the finals scheduled to get underway Saturday afternoon.

This year's entries include not only many old favorites who have been on the amateur tour for many years but even more young players, many coming out of college ranks. There are even a few scattered players that are out of Michigan High Schools where golf has become a regular sport.

Pohl, who attends the University of Arizona on a full-time golf scholarship, can expect strong competition from other young players. His chances of repeating his title are good but with a number of strong contenders expected from elsewhere around the state, he can expect tough competition all the way.

The courses on which the tournament will be played are in excellent condition. Recent rains have made it possible to be in better condition, barring inclement weather, than anytime during the 1976 season.

Many entries arrived early to take advantage of the opportunity to play one 18-hole round on each course prior to the official opening of the tournament Tuesday morning.

DAN POHL, winner of the 1975 Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament, is back this year to defend his title.

For Venetian Festival

Chamber Searching For Queen

By Fran Martin

Who is the lucky young woman who will reign over the annual Venetian Festival in this Bicentennial year?

That is the question the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will seek to answer by announcing initial plans for the Venetian Queen's Pageant to be held July 22.

Entry blanks are now available at the Chamber of Commerce office or from Mrs. Thomas Schaperkotter, chairperson of this year's Queen committee.

In announcing the event, Mrs. Schaperkotter said that candidates must be a year-around resident of Charlevoix School District, must be not less than 17 years of age or more than 21 years of age by June 30, 1976, and must be single and never have been married.

The deadline for entering the Venetian Queen contest is Thursday, July 8.

Assisting Mrs. Schaperkotter as members of the Queen's Committee are Mrs. John Yaroch, Mrs. Richard Kenney, Jan Elliott and Mrs. Gary Ilice. Mrs. Robert Wasoski, the 1975 chairman, is presently serving in an advisory capacity.

In urging local girls to enter the Venetian Queen's pageant, Mrs. Schaperkotter said that the pageant can be an exciting event for all the candidates. The Venetian Queen, throughout the year, represents Charlevoix at festivals and other events including the National Cherry Queen Pageant. In addition, she will receive a cash scholarship.

Interested persons may pick up entry blanks at the Chamber of Commerce office. Anyone seeking further information may call Mrs. Schaperkotter at 547-6275 after 5 p.m.

Old-Fashioned July 4 Planned

An old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic with games and music is being planned by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Mrs. Jacquie Merta, executive director of the chamber has announced.

The event is scheduled to begin at noon at the Depot Beach on Lake Charlevoix.

Dwight Boss, Charlevoix Recreation Department director, will organize games of all kinds for the kids with trophies for the winners; the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will offer hotdogs and hamburgers for sale and refreshments will be available at the nearby Charlevoix Depot which has been converted to use as the Yacht club clubhouse where there will also be an open house, Mrs. Merta has announced.

In addition, there will be a band playing in the park to add an even more festive atmosphere to the picnic.

"There's nothing more American than a picnic. Residents of the area are invited to bring their "makings" for a picnic to the beach and enjoy what promises to be an All-American event to celebrate this country's 200th anniversary", Mrs. Merta said in inviting everyone to participate.

Miles Books Still Available

"Bob Miles' Charlevoix – A Century in Pictures" will be available at the pre-publication price of $20 until June 30. Edward Beutner, president of the Charlevoix Historical Society announces.

The book, the Bicentennial project of the Society, was originally slated for publication on June 15, but because of a delay at the printing plant, it will not be out until the end of this month.

After June 30, the price will be $25.

All proceeds above publication and distribution costs of the book will go to the Historical Museum Building Fund. Contributors of $100 or more to the fund will receive the book free and become life members of the Society.

As the name indicates, the book consists of over 300 pictures collected and captioned by the Charlevoix photographer during his long career in the area.

It is printed on fine paper and handsomely bound in buckram and is destined to be a real collector's item in years to come.

Orders for the book, with checks, should be sent to the Charlevoix Historical Society, P.O. Box 525, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720.

All Kinds of Hobbies!

More than 90 Entries Made for Fair

The 8th annual Hobbycraft' Fair, scheduled to be held in East Park July 10, has already attracted 90 entries according to Mrs. Jacquie Merta, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the show.

The event annually attracts a wide variety of hobbies and this year is no exception Mrs. Merta said. Hobbies are the 'in' thing these days. They are more interesting and more varied every year. The increased interest in hobbies has been the basis for the success of this show which opened eight years ago with a handful of entries and which now features many unique exhibits Mrs. Merta added.

If you have an interesting or unusual hobby you would like to share, you are invited to call or write the Chamber of Commerce for an entry blank and be a part of one of this community's outstanding shows.

E. J. Scouts Do Big Good Deed

Six Boy Scouts did a big good deed recently when they painted the home of Mary Hujeck in East Jordan.

Sister Anthony Theresa, who reported the Good Deed to us, said the house had not been painted in 30 years.

Scouts participating in the painting bee were Greg Dickson, 12; Bert Dickson, 15; Ed Sarisin, 11; Joe Siedle, 18; Tom Leonard, 15; and Phil Morrison, 15.

Nine-year-old David Campbell also moved and restacked firewood.

Bridge Closed

The City Administrator's office advises that on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week the bridge will be closed to traffic between 3 a.m. and 5:30 a.m. except for emergencies and a couple of minutes each half hour to clear traffic.

Richard Friske

In the June 9, 1976 issue of the Charlevoix Courier an advertisement appeared announcing a forthcoming "Republican Fund-Raising Dinner for Richard Friske", together with details of where and when the function was to be held. The small ad was footlined "Pd. Pol. Adv."

The advertisement thus was designed to imply that Mr. Friske is endorsed by the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

Mr. Friske is entitled by law to run as a Republican - or Democrat - under present rulings. He may even be elected. But I have not heard that he is running with the blessing of the local Republican official organization. Perhaps this should be clarified.

Little League

In association with a program which aims to teach children discipline, good sportsmanship, loyalty and the value of team work, the Auxiliary of Little League must bring these same attributes to its efforts on behalf of the League.

This was displayed at its utmost recently with the annual Little League luncheon.

Without the team work which involved the combined efforts of many, many persons the luncheon could not have been the overwhelming success that it was.

A special thank you must be extended to the American Legion and its Auxiliary for the use of their facilities, to Bourke's Steak & Stein and the Argonne for donating prizes, to the Charlevoix Courier and the radio stations for all their publicity and, most of all, to the families who donated the food.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Herbert Moore.

Charlevoix Area Received $4 Million In Federal Aid Grants Last Year

To what extent has Charlevoix County been sharing in the billions of dollars of Federal funds that are distributed annually by the government through grants-in-aid?

Of the $48.2 billion handed out by Washington in the past fiscal year, including $6.1 billion in revenue sharing grants, how much reached the local area?

On the basis of Treasury Department figures and a state-by-state analysis of them made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that keeps track of government taxation and spending, Charlevoix County received a relatively small share.

An estimated $4,083,000 was earmarked for local purposes during the year under a variety of aid problems.

Throughout the State of Michigan as a whole, the grants totaled $2,112,000,000, the Tax Foundation reports.

They were awarded for such needs as education, welfare, health, job training, urban renewal, Food Stamps, road construction and the like.

The amounts, it is explained, represent only grants-in-aid and revenue sharing and do not include general Federal expenditures in local areas for goods and services.

Also considered in the study is how much these benefits cost the communities that receive them. They are paid for, in whole or in part, by the portion of their income and excise taxes that goes into the aid programs.

Charlevoix County's contribution to them in the past year was approximately $4,328,000, according to a breakdown of the Tax Foundation's figures. The statewide total amount of $2,236,000,000. These costs are exclusive of matching funds.

In 20 of the states the contributions exceeded the aid that was received. Two states broke even. The others ended up ahead of the game.

The tax burden fell most heavily on residents in Florida. They paid $1.46 for each dollar of aid received. Best off were taxpayers in Alaska, who paid only 42 cents per dollar of aid.

No attempt is made to balance the grants and the costs, it is pointed out. The awards are determined by a community's needs and requirements.

Detroiter Drowns in Sailing Mishap

A Detroit man, Charles Calcaterra, 65, was drowned in Grand Traverse Bay Saturday afternoon, June 12, when the 12 foot sailboat on which he was a passenger capsized approximately 400 yards off shore one mile north of Eastport, according to Antrim County Sheriff Fred Beckstrum. Calcaterra was sailing with his son-in-law, Patrick Callahan, of Southfield at the time of the accident at approximately 2:30 p.m.

The body was recovered at 4:35 p.m. after it was sighted Sunday from a helicopter owned and operated by Thomas A. Duke who had volunteered to assist in any emergency where his services might be needed. An Antrim county sheriff's deputy was riding with him at the time. The locating of the body climaxed a search that had started immediately after the accident until called off at 8 p.m. Saturday when the water became murky as the result of high winds and started again at daylight on Sunday. Scuba divers from the Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau County Sheriffs Departments, the Michigan State Police and Bonald Cooyers of Ellsworth, an Antrim County Sheriff's Department boat and a privately owned boat assisted in the search.

Sheriff Beckstrum said he believed this was the first time the body of a drowning victim had been recovered as the result of a search by helicopter.

The body was taken to the Diton-Ebertyon Funeral Home in Central Lake prior to being returned to Detroit.

Sheriff Beckstrum said the Callahan and Calcaterra families maintained a mobile home as a summer place on East Bay north of Bay Colony off Lore Rd. in Antrim County.

Charlevoix Youth Join Fight--Against Tooth Decay!

Smile you say?

Well, 21-year-old Craig C. Spangler didn't seem to have any problems with Charlevoix youngsters this month.

The second-year University of Michigan dental student worked with some 88 Charlevoix youngsters in a fight to prevent tooth decay.

Spangler is part of the Michigan Health Department's and Charlevoix County Fluoride Committee's drive to keep young teeth healthy. The program has been going on in Michigan since 1948.

Pre-schoolers, as well as second, fifth and eighth grade students are asked to participate in the program that requires a teeth cleaning and three applications of a special solution to the teeth.

Health officials say the application reduces cavities as much as 40 percent. There's only a minimal charge for the service.

Besides a visit to the Charlevoix Public Library basement this month, Spangler will be in Bellaire, Petoskey and Boyne City the rest of the summer.

But all that technical stuff doesn't really mean much to 11-year-old Ron Way, who says the sodium fluoride tastes awful.

"I'm doing this because I had to," he said.

Ron wouldn't say if it was his father's or mother's encouragement that made him attend the four sessions.

Four-year-old Mark Wojan had nothing but good things to say about the program. That's probably because the person putting on the fluoride application volunteered to do his juggling act if Mark was good.

Substance Abuse Program Reorganized by District 3

Programs formerly known as the Tri-County Substance Abuse Center have been transferred to the District Health Department No. 3, the Health Department has announced.

The Committee for Action of Rural Indians, Inc. (CARI), which previously administered the Tri-County program will continue to provide Substance Abuse services through the development of a program emphasizing outreach and education in a 12-county region in Northern Michigan.

This program will be funded jointly by a Federal grant and with a grant from the Regional Substance Abuse Coordinating Agency. Offices will be at 205 Bridge Street, Charlevoix. Clarence Gasco of Petoskey will serve as the director of this program.

Ms. Helen Steinbrook of Charlevoix is the chairperson of the CARI organization.

The District Health Department plans to develop a comprehensive Substance Abuse Services Program in Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties but due to the shortage of funds, implementation of these services will be delayed until October 1. Limited services will be provided until them.

GOP Exec Comittee To Meet Thursday

All Charlevoix County Republicans are invited to attend a meeting of the County Executive Committee Thursday, June 24, in the Court Room of the Charlevoix County building. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m.

Business to be considered will be: a report by Oral Sutliff of Boyne City of action taken by county delegates and other state delegates at the recent State Republican Convention; and proposed action to be taken regarding candidates for County offices in the August 3 Primary election who are not registered dues-paying members of the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

Plans regarding the Annual Republican Summer Picnic, to be held at Elm Point in East Jordan, August 15, and proposals regarding establishment of permanent Republican Party Headquarters in Charlevoix County will also be discussed.

Planning Department Seeks Questionnaires

Over 25 percent of the questionnaires sent to Charlevoix County property owners by the County Planning Department had been returned last week, according to County Planner Bill Mercer.

The questionnaires were sent to an at-random selection of ten percent of the property owners in every township and city in the county, asking for the opinions about a variety of matters concerning the county, including schools, transportation, recreation facilities, garbage disposal facilities, and shopping areas.

Ideas and attitudes, reflected in the returned questionnaires will be used by the Planning Department in future plans for growth and development of the county.

Deadline for returning the questionnaires is July 1, and Mercer requests that persons still holding questionnaires send them in by that date.

Congregational Church Approves New Center

Members of the Congregational Church met Sunday to give the final go-ahead on establishing the Charles Allen Ransom Counseling Center.

Operation of the Center is being underwritten by Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Ransom of the Belvedere Club and Chicago in memory of their son.

Purposes of the Center, as described in the by-laws, are three-fold:

(1) To provide counseling services to troubled persons in need thereof, such counseling to be focused on the family unit and to include counseling of husbands and wives, family groups and children, but not to exclude single persons, without regard to race, creed, residency, ability of client to pay for such services.

(2) To provide education programs for married persons, families, and others, with the aim of strengthening marital and family relationships and of helping all clients to achieve good mental and emotional health.

(3) To seek to reflect the love of God through a Christian approach to counseling.

Editorials/Opinions

Know the Candidates

Politicians are already hitting the campaign trail for Michigan's August primary promising constituents "the world" in quest of their votes.

Fortunately for Charlevoix residents, they will be able to go to the polls knowing that in most cases they will have some choice as to who they want on the November ballot.

With all the choices that we do have to make, now is the time to begin looking at the candidates and deciding whom you want to be your voice in Charlevoix, Lansing and Washington

It's always easy to sit back in an easy chair or over a cup of coffee and complain about how the bureaucrats are running our lives. It's not as easy to spend some serious time reviewing at the least the local candidates and deciding which one seems best.

Although it is too early in the campaign to begin offering our editorial endorsements, we do think there are simple guidelines to use in evaluating those who are in the running.

At the local level, it doesn't take too much effort to actually seek out the candidates for county commission or other offices and ask them why they think they are good candidates

Remember, these people are running to serve you and you shouldn't feel hesitant about getting right down to brass tacks.

While it would be impossible for a candidate to have a commitment on every issue, you should be able to get a general feeling on what his attitude is toward many issues.

Try to come up with a list of what you consider are important local issues and see how your candidate measure up to your yardstick.

How does your candidate feel about law enforcement? Is it adequate or do we need more protection and a bigger county budget to provide that protection?

Should Charlevoix County have a county-wide zoning ordinance again? Or are we adequately being protected by local township and municipal ordinances?

What about taxes? Are they reasonable for the services provided or should the services be cut back and the tax burden reduced? Should there be a tighter lid on local government spending?

You might even ask the candidates how they expect to keep you informed once they are elected. Too often, a candidate gets into office and that's the last time we see him until his term expires and he's up for election.

If you belong to a club or organization, we suggest that you attempt to set up some public forums and invite the candidates to debate the issues and field your questions.

Although it is harder to contact state and national candidates, much the same thing can be done--especially with candidates for the state House and Congress.

Don't be fooled by candidates, especially incumbents, who tell you they would only be a lone wolf in a pack of hungry city representative trying to get every last dollar they can for the cities and forget the rural areas.

If someone gives you that line, ask them, then, how through their legislative ability, could they garner some of the things we might desire in the North Country.

And while it is harder to get hold of some of these candidates, we're sure they would make themselves available if they knew there would be a large group present to hear them.

Also, make sure that you get some of their campaign literature ahead of time to brush up on just how they stand on the issues. If the material isn't clear, ask them to be specific when they come and detail exactly what they plan on doing. If nothing else, the specific questions will give you some indication on how the candidates think on their feet.

Getting to know the candidates is almost as important as the day you go to the polling booth and vote on whom you want to see in office.

We are concerned over the lack of interest consistently reflected in local election and feel you could make a definite change in how our government is operated, if you would only take a few minutes every week until August becoming acquainted with the issues and candidates.

There have been areas that we feel have been neglected in government simply because there was not the qualified person in office to recognize the need. Much of this could be changed if more voters would realize the weight they do and should carry in the operation of our government.

The Courier will be doing its part in presenting as many candidates and issues to its readers as time permits. What will you be doing?

Paul Collins, the Negro artist from Grand Rapids who appeared regularly in years past at Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair, continues to win critical acclaim.

One of his latest commissions, according to the Detroit Free Press, is an 8 by 24-foot mural of President Ford's life which will hang at Grand Rapids' Kent County Airport.

Next year Collins plans a trip to Israel.

"I want to see the face of Israel," he says. "I want to see and feel the vitality emerging from that place. The Jewish people have overcome the most difficult of obstacles to maintain their ethnic and religious integrity, and there is a lesson to be learned from that."

Members of the Art Fair Committee and visitors who stopped to talk to Collins at his stand in East Park will remember him for the vitality of his work and his personal charisma.

There is none of the shy-artist-in-the-garret about Collins. He is big physically and enormous intellectually. He is as candid in conversation as he is on canvas.

I'll never forget the accusing eyes of his ghetto children (were Collins' own eyes ever like that?) nor the empty loneliness of his western landscapes.

With luck, Collins may be back this summer. I hope he hasn't outgrown Charlevoix.

SPEAKING of the Art Fair, wouldn't it be fun some year to have a special tribute to the late Saili Franz and a showing of her work during the Fair?

For Judy and me, a stop at Mrs. Franz' display on the bandstand was always one of the high-points of the fair. I can see her yet, seated on a lawn chair under a parasol dressed in her painting togs. Since arthritis kept her from moving about, she always brought her lunch, which consisted largely of hard-boiled eggs and chocolate chip cookies.

Her paintings were in a class of their own which I like to characterize as "whimsical primitives", with overtones of the old Flemish school in her colors and designs.

Although Franz' originals are gaining in value each year, I am convident there are enough samples of her work around Charlevoix to put on a representative exhibition of her work.

While we're on the subject of art, take a good look at LeHavre condominium on the south shore of Round Lake. Can you think of buildings more "right" for their locale? Like Rrow Marina and Johnny Knight's A-frame, Le Havre blends beautifully with the South Shore landscape. It is almost as though Mother Nature had LeHavre in mind when she scooped out Round Lake.

Letters to the editor

Danger

To the Editor:

The blanket endorsement of nuclear power issued recently by the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers which did not address in any way the serious engineering and design errors and the waste disposal problems in the nuclear program that have recently been made public, serves as a good example of why people are rightly losing trust and confidence in the so-called professionals.

Disclosures on nuclear power defects of grave importance to the public have surfaced in the investigation of the Brown's Ferry nuclear plant fire, the American Physical Society study of reactor safety, in the public statements of consultants of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NCR) itself, and from other sources.

Following the Brown's Ferry n-plant fire, for example, it was found that all the electrical circuitry for all the safety systems in the plant was routed through one area where a fire was able to knock all of the so-called redundant safety systems out at the same time. This type of design clearly was a violation of a basic fire safety code. It was then disclosed that the NRC, knowing this was a violation of fire safety, had asked a highly regarded engineering society, the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) to develop a safety code to require the separation of the electrical systems in reactors. This so-called "professional" engineering society refused to develop the code because it would cost the industry too much. The NRC did nothing to enforce a safety code of its own. This design and safety defect is prevalent in most, if not all, operating nuclear reactors.

According to the article on the engineers' n-plant endorsement, a nuclear engineer from the University of Michigan, stated unequivocally that there was no evidence that malignant cancer is more frequent among persons who live near nuclear plants. Yet he cannot point to one comprehensive study of the nation's nuclear plant sites as the basis for this statement. Dr. Gerald Drake and his associates in Petoskey, Michigan, have observed and tabulated a marked increase in cancers and leukemia deaths over the past five years in the vicinity of the Big Rock n-plant, operating since 1962 and about one tenth the size of each of the plants planned for Midland. The doctors have repeatedly asked to have a major study of this type initiated at the sites of U.S. reactors which have operated for some time, but to no avail.

Recently, Dr. Keith Miller, who is a mathematician from the University of California at Berkley and a consultant to the NRC, stated:

..."The extraordinary degree to which NRC and the nuclear industry placed reliance on counter simulation of complex phenomenae is one of the weakest links in nuclear reactor safety. This criticism is reported again and again in the APS (American Physical Society) study and... This dependence on computer simulation is unparalleled in the fields of engineering and public safety. Consider the aircraft industry--despite the much simpler, more well understood and more reproducible physical processes, the vast experimental capabilities of wind tunnels, etc., the long history of fruitful interaction between experimentation and computation, my colleagues in aerodynamical computation at Berkeley, and NASA...each assures me that he would never agree to test fly an aircraft designed solely on the basis of these calculations. Nevertheless, the nuclear industry, with its capability of vastly greater catastrophe, sometimes seems willing to design by computers and ask the general public (at least those downwind from the first 100 nuclear reactors) to 'Come fly with me.'"

Has Clair H. Aiken, engineering consultant to the Dow Chemical Company and Chairman of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers disclosed these and other equally serious matters to the management of Dow? How do the professional engineers rationalize unqualified endorsement of nuclear power in the face of facts, and others of similar grave importance to the public?

Recently, R.W. Staehe, Editor of Corrosion Magazine made a perceptive observation. He said that malpractice suits which have plagued primarily medical doctors up to now will be increasingly used against other types of professions. This is the result of society's demand for competent professional activity, and its increasing refusal to be victimized by reception negligence or ignorance among professionals.

As the Dow slogan goes – "Life is Fragile – Handle With Care." The public has the right to ask – "Who is handling life with care?"

Erma Bombeck

While Erma Bombeck takes a well-deserved one-week vacation, we welcome the opportunity to offer some of her most popular past columns.

Do you know what the odds are against polishing off every opened box of breakfast cereal in your cupboard?

Well, we've done it. The hard way. With kids.

For the last 15 years, we have had no less than a dozen or so half-eaten boxes of Fortified Blinkies, Cackly Krunchies, Captain Sugar, Dry Ryes, Toasted Wrigglies, Heap of Honey and Cavity Krispies. Regardless of what you have been told, these cereals didn't snap, crackle, or pop. They just laid there on the shelves year after year and turned stale.

About a month ago, I made an announcement at breakfast. "There will be no more cereal purchased in this house until we eat up every single box that is opened."

They were shocked momentarily. Then, "Why?"

"Because I can no longer afford to support 12 boxes of unopened cereal. Take this box of Bloated Oats (I wish someone would). Originally, I bought it for 39 cents. As you will remember, it contained a full-size nuclear submarine, complete with a crew of 120, and secret plans for occupying Connecticut. As you may also remember, I inadvertently ate the sub causing a chipped tooth that cost me $85.

"When the cereal didn't move at our breakfast table, I ran out into the snow one morning in my bedroom slippers to hustle it to some starving birds who pecked once at it, then migrated forever. The antibiotics for my cold cost me $13.

"This cereal has also been with us through three moves which, counting the packing, shipping, and crating, cost around $15.42. It also attracted ants in the new house which put me back $2.72 for traps. All tolled, this crummy box of cereal has cost us $116.53. Eat up!"

This morning, we went to the grocery store. At the cereal shelves, they scattered. "Hold it!" I said, "We are all going to agree on one box of cereal." What ensued may set retailing back 30 years.

"I hate Bran Brittles. They're for old people with irregularities."

"And I hate Chock Full of Soggles that turn your teeth purple."

"Let's get Jungle Jollies. They don't have any nutrition whatsoever."

Miraculously, they appeared with a single box. "We've all decided on Mangled Wheat Bits."

"That's great," I said. "Any particular reason?"

"Yeah, there's a magic kit inside guaranteed to make anything disappear."
